FLOUR—Holders continue firm in their pretensions and evince no disposition whatever to yield to the views of buyers, so long as the scarcity of those brands requisite to supply the local demand exists; nevertheless, there have been parties who have entered the market and purchased to a considerable extent those grades desirable for the Northern trade at the following prices: Unbranded $11, Superfine $12, Single Extra $12 50 to $13, Double do, $13 50 to $13 75, Treble do $14 to $14 75. Choice Family do $15 to $15 50 per bbl. Yesterday the market was very quiet, and the sales did not exceed 250 bbls at $10 for Flus, $12 for Superfine, and $12 50 per bbl for Single Extra.

BACON—There is a good jobbing demand, but little or no inquiry for round lots. Shoulders are held at 18c, Ribbed Sides at 19c, and Clear Sides at 21c per lb; Green Shoulders at 17½c, Bacon Hams at 21 to 22c, and Sugar-cured do at 25 to 26c per lb.

PORK—A good demand has prevailed since the date of our last review, and prices have been very firm. Retail parcels command $35 25 for Heavy and $34 50 to $35 per bbl for Prime do. Yesterday, however, we heard of a sale of 200 bbls Mess at $34 75 per bbl.

LARD—There is a large supply in tierces on hand, while that in kegs is light. The market is very dull, and 18½c is the outside figure paid for the former, and 21c per lb for the latter.

CORN—The stock on hand is confined chiefly in store, and in the absence of fresh arrivals, prices present a further improvement of 2½ to 5c per bushel on our previous quotations, which were 85c for Mixed, and 90c per bushel for White. Yesterday there was considerable enquiry, resulting in sales of over 300 sacks, from store, in lots, at 90 to 92c for Yellow Mixed, 95 for Prime Yellow and White.

OATS.—The limited character of the supply, both in store and on the levee, has induced sellers to adhere to full prices. Yesterday about 860 sacks changed hands at 53 to 54c per bushel.

BRAN— The small stock now contained in warehouse is controlled by only one or two parties, who are but little disposed to sell except at prices greatly in their favor, $1 30 per 100 lbs being an actual advance of fully 10c per 100 lbs.

HAY.—Prices since last Friday present little or no alteration. The supply in store is amply sufficient to meet the demand. Yesterday 100 bales were disposed of at $25 for Ordinary and $28 per ton for Prime St. Louis.

BALE ROPE—The market is quiet but steady and firm. We have no round sales to report, but furnish 17 to 18½c as the quotation. There is a brisk demand for the country, which is being supplied at 18½ to 19c per lb.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is very much reduced, but the demand is active at 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—There has been considerable movement, the particulars of which have been suppressed. Round lots are quoted at 35c in rolls, and 35½c per yard in bales, and retail parcels at 36c for the former, and 37c per yard for the latter.

GUNNY BAGS—There are but few in the market; we have heard of no sales of any importance for some time. We give 30c a piece as a fair quotation.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The market is overstocked with Western Butter, which is very dull at 20 to 30c per lb. Northern Butter is selling at 45 to 46c per lb. The inside figures for both are the rates for the larger lots. Cheese is in good supply and commands 17 to 18c for Western and Northern. We quote English Dairy at 20 to 25c per lb.

CORN MEAL—We noticed a sale of 50 bbls kiln-dried, White, at $5 per bbl. Retail lots commands $5 25 to $5 50 per bbl.

HOPS—There is a very good demand for the new crop, but there are none to be had. Good Western will bring 95c to $1 30 per lb.

COFFEE—Is in fair demand and the market is very firm. Dealers are supplying the demand at 27¼ to 29½c per lb currency for Fair to Prime Rio. We quote Prime at 19½c per lb gold, duty paid.

STAR CANDLES—There is a good supply on hand and the demand has been active at 20c for 12 oz, 21c for 13 oz and 25c per lb for full weight. 12 oz are in demand for the country trade. Yesterday 100 boxes 12 oz. sold at 20c per lb.

WOOL.—The supply is fair, and a good demand prevails at 16 to 18c for Louisiana Native, 18 to 22c for Texas ¼ to ⅜ Merino, 23 to 25 for do ½ to ⅝ Merino; 28 to 30c for washed and 13 to 15c per lb for burry.

HIDES—Are in small supply, but the demand is beginning to slack, tanners being unwilling to pay the present high rates. Prices are ruling at 10 to 10½c for Green, 11 to 11½c for Kip Skins, 13c per lb for Dry Hides. Mexican Dry Hides command 18 to 21c per lb., and Pelts 20 to 25c per piece.

MALT — There is but little demand, and we furnish the following quotations for reference. Canada at $1 70 to $1 72, and Western at $1 00 to $1 20 per bushel.

OILS—There is some demand for Linseed at $2 to $2 05, and also for Coal in cans at 82½ to 85c per gallon.

NAVAL STORES.—Are in request, but the market is nearly bare. Small lots of Rosin are held at $3 25 for No. 3; $4 to $4 50, for No. 2, $6 to $7 for No. 1, $8 for White, Pitch $6, for $3 00 C. $4 per bbl. Spirits Turpentine may be quoted at 90 to 92½c per gallon.

SALT — We have little or no alteration to note; prices remain about the same and we continue to quote Liverpool $2 40 to $2 60 fine, and $2 25 to $2 50 for Coarse in warehouse, and $2 15 for the former, and $2 10 for the latter in cargo.

ESCULENTS.—Potatoes are selling at $2 50 to $2 75 in sacks, and $3 25 to $3 50 per bbl. Apples at $7 to $7 50 per bbl, Onions $2 50 to $3 00, and Cabbages at 12 to 15c per crate.

POULTRY AND EGGS.—Chickens sell on the landing at $6 to $7 for the young and $9 to $10 per dozen, for the large. Geese at $12 to $14 and Turkeys at $36 to $38 per dozen. Western eggs are selling at $35 to $40 per bbl.

FISH—Are in small supply with an active demand. We quote No. 1 Mackerel at $24 to $25 50 per bbl, No. 2 at $22 to $22 50, No. 3 at $17. Codfish are selling at $1 90 to $ 2 00 per box.

BEANS—Are in good request, and meet with ready sale at $4 to $7 50 per bbl for Western, and $10 50 to $13 per bbl for Northern. There is an active demand for the latter.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. The demand for Louisiana is not active, but owing to light supplies rates remain the same. Choice new crop is held at 14c per lb. Choice old crop is selling in lots of 10 to 20 bbls at 13 to 13½c per lb. India is quoted at 12 to 12½c per lb.

Cattle Market.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	—	to —
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	—	to —
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35	to 50
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20	to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$12	to 20
Hogs per lb gross	13	to 15
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25	to $4 25
Choice Sheep, per head	—	to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$3 26	to $5 25
Cholcn Sheep, per head	—	to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$80	to $100
Milch Cows, per head	$50	to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12	to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 7	to $14
Calves per head	$8 00	to $15

H. P. ETHELL, New Orleans. NAT. H. THOMAS, Late of Alabama.

ETHELL & THOMAS,

FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.

Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.

No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.

Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sep1 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. THOS. D. MILLER

J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

No. 190 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS. sep1 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. W M Owen. E Owen

LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS

And General Commission Merchants,

37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS. aug25 6m

S. S. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.

S. S. HARPER & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 81 Carondolet street, New Orleans. aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,

GROCER,

And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,

at 5 6m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally,

53 Gravier street, New Orleans. sep15 1y

H M WRIGHT C W ALLEN (1st August, 1865) J HIDDLESTON

WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

169 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS. aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, Memphis, Tenn. JAMES M. ALLEN, PERRY NUGENT, } New Orleans

T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,

(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS. aug18 1y

F F FOLGER, L FOLGER, W H THOMAS

FOLGER & CO.,

Deniers in

Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,

37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

(Opposite the St James Hotel)

Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

27 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WM. EDWARDS, } EDWD. J. GAY. } sep15 3m

W A VIOLETT. R Y BLACK. S R SNOWDEN.

VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

s15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. R. LOTT, Madison County, Miss. C. W. WOOD, Canton, Miss.

LOTT, WOOD & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants

65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E A BANKS, W W LORING, G W VENABLE

BANKS, LORING & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

20 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS. sep22 6m

R ATKINSON & CO: New York. JAMES HEWITT & CO., Liverpool.

HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And Commission Merchants,

188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWISHER & Co., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,

(Successor to FELLOWES & Co.)

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., New York. LEWIS, NANSON & CO., St. Louis.

OBER, ATWATER & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

38 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS. sep15 1y

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,

Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

No. 130 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS. aug18 6m

T. CARROLL. JOS. HOY. CHAS. HARDENBERGH

CARROLL, HOY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans. aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans. aug18 1y

JOHN G. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.

PARHAM & BLUNT,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding and Commission Merchants, and Purchasing Agents.

No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans. aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,

General Commission Merchants and

COTTON FACTORS,

57 Poydras street.

Cotton Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4ft

STEWART, GALBREATH & FIZER

Commission Merchants & Cotton Factors,

48 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Andrew Stewart, New Orleans.
Wm. R. Galbreath, } Memphis.
Wm. Stewart, }
John C. Fizer, } sep1 3m

SAM'L. BARRETT. CHS. LE SASSIER.

BARRETT & LESASSIER,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

115 CARONDELET STREET, aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. A. H. MAY

STEVENSON & MAY,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans. aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY,

Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans. aug18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. S. S. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.

HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No. 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans. aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. H. R. ALSOBROOK.

WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. a18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

No. 32 Union Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE, W. C. H. DAMERON, G. W. HUNTINGTON, H. M. PAYNE. je23-1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.

TOM & SAM HENDERSON,

COTTON FACTORS

AND

General Commission Merchants,

190 COMMON STREET, je9 1y New Orleans

J. O. M'ALLISTER, late of Memphis, formerly of Jackson, Miss.
E. M'NAIR, late of Arkansas, formerly of Miss.
H. GARDES, late of Washington, Arkansas.

M'ALLISTER, M'NAIR & GARDES, Wholesale Grocers, 74 Common Street, New Orleans, La. sp7

CARY W. BUTT. WM. FLASH. THOS. T. A. LYON

BUTT, FLASH & LYON,

Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.

Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.

Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. np14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,

New Orleans.

J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. july7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. WATTS, CRANE & CO' New York.

W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.

GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool. je13-1y

W. A. BELL. FRED S. ODDEN. H. E. WITHERSPOON

WM. A. BELL & CO.,

General Commission Merchants,

And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,

31 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30-1y

J J WARREN T W CRAWFORD F B FLEITAS

WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS. sep22 6m

E A HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.

HAMILTON & DUNNICA,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

42 Union street, New Orleans. sep22 1y

L E WALKER, Missouri. C B FISHER, New Orleans.

WALKER & FISHER,

Commission & Forwarding Merchants

NO. 6 (GROUND FLOOR) CARONDELET ST, N O.

Solicit consignments of all kinds of Manufactured Goods, and will make liberal advances on same.

GEO. W. WALKER, JUN., late of the firm of Harper, Walker & Co., will give his personal attention to the sale of all consignments to our House. sep22 6m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,

Wholesale Dealers in

Fancy Goods,

STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,

HOSIERY,

Furnishing Goods, etc.,

55 MAGAZINE STREET,

Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La aug25 1y.

CHAS. H CHURCHILL.

HARDWARE AND GUNS.

PETER G. TAYLOR. TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.

41 Magazine Street, and 20 Bank Place.

DIRECT IMPORTERS,

We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.

COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.

Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.

GUNS, NAILS, TIN WARE, AXES, HOLLOW WARE, SAWS, TIN WARE.

Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations. Orders from the country will receive prompt attention, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832. aug25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,

Grocers and Commission Merchants,

95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of

CHAMPAGNE,

BRANDIES,

WHISKIES,

CLARET,

CORDIALS, Etc.

Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, suitable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the

Most reasonable Rates.

☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.

W H HENNING & CO, a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and

PLANTATION CLOTHING,

No. 74 Canal Street, and 91, 93 and 95 Common Street, (Slocumb Building), New Orleans a18 1y

☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices.

A. B. GRISWOLD. W. M. GOODRICH

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

Corner of Canal and Royal streets,

[Late HYDE & GOODRICH],

Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!

MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,

Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.

The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

JAMES SYME,

Wholesale Druggist,

130 Canal Street, (Tonro Buildings,) NEW ORLEANS.

Importer and Dealer in Fine DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES, Fancy Goods and Perfumery. Surgical Instruments, French, English, and American, of every variety. Also—Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags. aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF,

Wholesale Grocer,

COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,

48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st., aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,

HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD

Established, August, 1861.

Destroyed, May, 1863.

Re-established, January, 1866.

SALES ROOMS,

C. E. CATE & CO.,

18 CAMP STREET, 18

Under the City Hotel.

We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of

LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF, AND KIP BROGANS,

Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.

We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.

A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.

C. E. CATE & CO. feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W C SHEPARD. A L ABBOTT. R C HUTCHINSON.

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,

No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,

Nearly opposite Picayune Office,

CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,

PLATED WARE,

House Furnishing Goods,

AND KITCHEN WARE.

We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.

Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO., sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Established in 1837.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,

Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W COFFIN & CO.,

102 & 104 East Second street,

Cincinnati, Ohio,

Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.

Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our improved Rotery Yoke.

All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.

Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

No. 27 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS

Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.

☞ Special attention given to orders.

Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,

Corner of St. Andrew Street,

oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,

Successors to D. Geeslin,

112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,

Dealers in

CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,

Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,

PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.

Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,

77 Magazine Street,

oc16 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]

EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL

Hat Emporium,

No 62 CAMP STREET,

Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. a18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY.

DRAKE & MARKHAM,

Manufacturers of

Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Children's

BOOTS AND SHOES,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.

We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.

OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!

Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.

Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.

One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.

We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.

Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.

All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of

DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP STREET, aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE

Is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family.

Time, money, and extreme vexation by delays of your daily meals, may be saved by using the

CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.

Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.

The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top

has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.

The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.

The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove—the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from meats during the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.

The Hot Closet, in which meats and pastry are kept warm for hours when there has been a delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and deserts, and places them hot upon the table.

The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.

Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Edge Tools, etc.

RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents, 93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras, and 565 Magazine street, near Magazine Market sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN

PRICE'S

Patent Texas Tonic,

PURELY VEGETABLE.

It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for

CHILLS AND FEVERS.

For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.

For sale at 56 Camp street, New Orleans,

THOS. K. PRICE, Vendor.

Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of

PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,

Or, Vegetable Medicine.

T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:

DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate use and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefited.

Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,

We remain yours truly,
J. J. MELLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City N.O.
SAM'L. SUMNER of Home Insurance Office
T. GREENFIELD, of house of Fellowes & Co
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. H NSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER Bank of Commerce.

New Orleans, June, 1863.

TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$1 00
6 " "	1 50
8 " "	3 00
12 " "	5 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.

All orders will meet with prompt attention.

sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,

PAPER WAREHOUSE,

No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and St Charles streets, New Orleans.

Newspaper of the following sizes: 22 by 31, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 36 by 48.

Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams' Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Sons' Type. sp7-1

J. B. JENNINGS. J. W. WICKS. M. J. WICKS.

JENNINGS, WICKS & BRO.

Cotton Factors and Commission Merchants, corner Camp and Common streets, New Orleans. ap14-1y

C HORTER, Late of Magee & Knoass, N.O. T K PETERSON, Late of Goff & Peterson, Philadelphia. E C FENNER, New York

HORTER, PETERSON & FENNER

(Sign of the Black Horse,)

MANUFACTURERS OF SADDLES HARNESS, AND TRUNKS.

Importers of Saddlery & Coach Hardware

7 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS. a22 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,

17 Chartres Street,

Lately received Carpeting of all kinds and qualities; Floor Oil Cloth of all qualities, which we cut to suit rooms; Curtain Materials, Lace Curtains, Cornices and Bands in great variety; Window Shades, Hair Cloth, Crumb Cloths, Table and Piano Covers, China and Cocoa Mattings of all widths. oc13 1y A. ROUSSEAU & CO.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 41.
WHOLE NUMBER 607.

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1866.

$3 00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE
OFFICE—124 CAMP STREET.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

OUR CHURCH PROSPECTS.

The fact that our ship of Zion has been able to weather and outride a storm of unsurpassed violence and destructiveness, is no mean proof of the soundness of her hull and rig, as well as of the skill and fidelity of the officers and crew. I think it is not likely that she will in this age be more severely tested than she has been, so that we need not fear that she will founder or fail of the harbour. To continue the figure a moment longer, we think the docking and overhauling which she has recently undergone, has made her still more sea-worthy, and better adapted to realize the ideas of original construction.

Many good things (as we think) were done by the godly wisdom of the last General Conference. We propose to ventilate a thought or two in relation to two of the measures of the last General Conference; we refer to the abolition of the old revolutionary system, and the authority given the Bishops to extend the pastorate whenever in their judgment they deem it best, from two to four years.

We confidently hope from these two measures an increase of the stability, and consequently, the number of our membership. There has been in our system too much of "stony ground," and too much infested, and the seed destroyed by "the thorns." The preaching of our ministry has attracted and awakened the people, multitudes have been taken into the church on trial, the seed has sprung up, but it has endured but for a season, has "withered," or has been "choked," and brought forth "no fruit to perfection." This "falling away" we think cannot be changed to our doctrines; we have constantly warned those under our care, to "take heed lest they fall," we have insisted they must "give all diligence," and "be faithful unto death," if they would have a crown of life. Neither do we think that our ministry can be justly blamed for want of self denial and devotedness. With such doctrines and such a ministry, we think there ought to have been larger permanent results. We think one cause why we have not permanently held on to a larger proportion of those who have joined us, as probationers, has been that the act and fact of joining the church has been looked upon not as the gravest and most important act of life, but as an unimportant experiment involving no great or permanent obligation. In short, a position from which one could easily recede. Our present method of receiving members into our church, will impart to this act a much more solemn and impressive character. The act of joining now, is not a six months' experiment, a resolution dissolvable at pleasure and without reproach, but it is a life long covenant, a "presenting ourselves a living sacrifice holy, acceptable to God."

Another cause (as we think) why we have not realized more enlarged and permanent results from the faithful labors of our ministers, and the numerous gracious revivals with which our church has been blest, has been the inefficiency of our pastoral relation.

The young members, untrained and unidentified with the church, only in a slight degree, suddenly lost the pastors under whose labors they were brought into the church. The new pastors, perhaps, were months forming their acquaintance. During these months, before habit and association have firmly cemented the bonds that bind the young convert to the church, he has been to all practical purposes without a pastor, but old associations and habits have plied him, and Satan has tempted him. No wonder if under such circumstances some have only "run well for a season." We think that the power which the bishop now possesses of returning the pastor for another year, or two if deemed expedient, will save to our Zion many who, under our former system, we should have lost. We confidently expect that the ensuing four years will exhibit not only the revivals of former years, but a greater increase of permanent members.

I do not know the number of probations, the number of deaths, nor the nett gain of the last ten years, but if it is no better with us than the Methodist Church of the North, it is a sad commentary upon the defectiveness of the system. The forces are not well adjusted, something must be wrong. Let us look at their statistics as they are presented by a writer in their Quarterly Review, for April, 1866. He says, "In the year 1856, there were 800,327 souls, members and probationers, in our fold. Since that date nearly 1,000,000 of probationers have been reported. About 90,000 deaths have also been reported. Had there been no losses, except by death, we would this day have numbered 1,700,000 members and probationers, whereas the number reported, 1864, was only 928,320. In eight years, three quarters of a million of names strangely disappeared from our Church records. At the General Conference of 1864, the bishops reported a decrease of 50,951 during the previous four years, and accounted for it on the ground that the war had broken up the churches, and scattered the societies over all the area where raged the battle. Yet during those same years more than 100,000 accessions were annually reported. How shall we explain this fearful depletion? Some other denominations, the Congregationalist for instance, in publishing their statistics report in a separate column the members who have removed their residence, and yet have not formally transferred their membership. These form a considerable item in the aggregate, and so they would in our Church if we were to number them; still after due allowance this made for non-resident members, there remains a vast multitude unaccounted for, save on the ground that they are religious failures. The fact is appalling."

The writer concludes with the remark that, "the great problem to which the most accurate observers and closest thinkers of our Church should apply themselves, is to find some remedy for this mighty evil, if there be any remedy within the reach of human hands. Divine power is indeed the source of all true religious life, both in its beginning and continuance; nevertheless, we are bound so to adjust our plans of action to the divine methods that we may not "frustrate the grace of God." We think our thinkers have applied remedies which will make our system no less aggressive, but more conservative. The prospect cheers us.

W.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE,

It is a matter of interest, and of very great importance, that the cause of education and literary institutions of the church and country, be kept constantly before the public mind, that it may be awakened to a proper solicitude upon the subject. We may say of this institution, that it is in a safe and prosperous condition—deeded to the Louisiana Annual Conference—out of debt—under good repairs, and placed under the supervision of a competent board of managers.

Its present session commenced with a number almost unprecedented in the history of the institution at so early a period of the session. Many of the pupils are members of our Church, and a still larger proportion children of Methodist parents. We are glad to see our people rallying around their institutions—for in this way only can they be built up. There are now ninety-two pupils, forty of whom board in the college. The President, Rev. C. B. Stuart, has employed an able and efficient corps of teachers, all of whom are at their posts, and at work; with such a corps of laborious teachers, we may confidently expect a bright future for the young ladies committed to their care.

The President has kindly proposed to educate the daughters of all the itinerant preachers of the Louisiana Annual Conference, who may be sent to him, free of cost; three of whom he already has under his care. In view of the meagre support of the ministry, this is an item of great interest to the church, and especially to the ministers. The boarding department is under the supervision of Mrs. J. Stuart, who will spare no labors or pains to give satisfaction in this department.

We would say to the public that others can be accommodated in the college. If you have daughters to educate send them along. Under the care of President Stuart, we can promise them as many facilities for good government, good morals, religion and education as can be obtained anywhere else.

JOHN PIPES.

Mansfield, La., Oct. 13th, 1866.

Reminiscence of Dr. Chalmers.

Dr. Chalmers ascended the pulpit. There were marked peculiarities in his appearance, and his personal presence was very impressive. His face was somewhat thin, and deeply marked by the traces of thought—his forehead broad and massive—his lips thin and sharp—his eye dull and sleepy while he was silent, but when he spoke it kindled into life, and flashed like lightning. Having announced his subject, he at once plunged in medias res, soon raised his voice to the highest pitch, and delivered himself with amazing animation. His voice was destitute of melody, and by no means remarkable for its distinctness — while his utterances were, in the highest degree, characterized by the peculiarities of the Scottish brogue. His sermon was written throughout, and was closely read. As he advanced, he traced the lines of the manuscript with the forefinger of his left hand. He gesticulated only with his right hand, which incessantly and vehemently rose and fell, as though he were persistently hammering at some object which lay before him near the Bible. His whole soul seemed to be on fire, and his frame was convulsed and trembled with emotion. The subject of the sermon, as usual with him, was the Evidences of Christianity. I was not struck with any of the views which he advanced, as being peculiarly original or suggestive. There were, indeed, sound philosophical reflections on the genius of Christianity, clothed in language remarkable for its diffuseness; and there were lofty excursions of imagination—all poured forth in an impetuous stream of splendid declamation.

I have been led to inquire, what was the secret of Dr. Chalmers' power and success as a preacher? The secret, unquestionably, lay here—in his intensity. He was indeed a man of a philosophical and discriminating mind, of large and various attainments, and endowed with extraordinary powers of imagination. But he was essentially wanting in the power of condensation. His style is diffuse, even to prolixity. He runs out a few thoughts into many sentences, and expands them over many pages. He indeed presents you with gold; but it is gold beaten out into the utmost possible thinness—into the widest attainable expansion. Robert Hall remarked concerning him, "His mind seems to move on hinges, not on wheels. There is incessant motion, but no progress. When he was at Leicester, he preached a most admirable sermon on the necessity of immediate repentance; but there were only two ideas in it, and on these his mind revolved as on a pivot." The justness of this criticism must be apparent to all.

And yet Dr. Chalmers was a man of power. For a long series of years he was regarded as the great luminary of the Scottish pulpit. Crowds followed him wherever he went. And the people never failed to be moved by his ministrations. What was the secret of his power? As I have already said, it was his intensity. He threw his soul into his sermons. He believed, and therefore he spoke. The fire that burned in his own heart was communicated to the hearts of his hearers. And his sermons, although written throughout, and closely read, awakened a never-failing interest, and produced all the effect of the most impassioned extemporaneous deliverances. This gave a charm to his name, a popularity to his ministry, and an influence to his life, which have been attained by but few preachers of modern times.—Religious Intelligence.

Dates of Sacred Events.

We give the following dates of events so sacred to Christians, on the authority of the late Rev. Samuel Farmer Jarvis, D. D., LL. D., an eminent scholar and divine of the Episcopal Church, whose profound learning and diligent researches into antiquities would have distinguished him in any age:

Our Saviour was born on Wednesday, December 25, 4707, Julian period; 1931 Olympiad (second year, sixth month); A. U. C. 749 (nine month, fifth day); Julian year, 46.

He was baptized by St. John in the river Jordan on Sabbath (Saturday), January 6, 4738.

His public entry into Jerusalem was on Palm Sunday, March 21, 4731, Julian period; 20th Olympiad (sixty-fourth year, ninth month,) A. U. C. 780; Julian year, 73, A. D. 28; nineteenth year of the associate reign of the Emperor Tiberius; fifteenth year of his sole reign.

He was betrayed by Judas Iscariot on the following Wednesday evening, March 24.

He celebrated the Passover and instituted the Eucharist on Thursday evening, March 25.

On Friday morning, March 26, at the third hour, or nine o'clock, he was nailed to the cross; the hour when the lamb of the daily morning sacrifice was offered in the Temple. At the ninth hour, or 3 P. M., when the lamb of the daily evening sacrifice was offered in the Temple, he expired. At 5 P. M., his body was taken down and deposited in the tomb of Joseph of Arimathea.

On the first Easter Sunday, March 28, about the beginning of the morning watch or 3 o'clock A. M., he rose from the dead. It was the morrow after the last Jewish Sabbath, when, according to the law, the first sheaf of the earliest ripe grain waved in the temple, by which the whole harvest was sacrificed, that "the first fruits" rose from the dead, as a type and pledge of the future resurrection of his faithful followers.

On Thursday, May 6, he ascended into heaven.

On Sunday, May 16, the day of Pentecost, the Holy Ghost descended upon the apostles and disciples.—St. Louis Republican.

The Conversion of Summerfield.

Summerfield, for a few years before his conversion, caused his father great anxiety by his irregularities and dissipated habits. The temptation of a city life were too strong for his good resolutions, and frequent lapses into sin lost his self respect, and awakened serious apprehension among his Christian friends. But God had purposes of mercy towards him, and plucked him as a brand from the burning, to become a shining light in the world.

The place where he first found peace through faith in Jesus has a special interest. It was in the house of one who had been a notorious sinner, but through the grace of God had been recovered from a life of vice. Wm. Haugh on was a member of a little circle of mockers at religion, calling themselves the "Hell-fire Club." They made sport of sacred things, and in their meeting reveled in all forms of ribaldry and blasphemy.

Connected with a regiment of soldiers stationed in barracks in Dublin, was a private named Richard Mellen, one of those earnest, heroic workers for Christ of which the early annals of Methodism furnish many examples. When off duty he was incessant in labor to win souls, and among the converts won by his affectionate zeal was the wife of Wm. Haughton. She was a woman of resolute character, and with boldness which perhaps outran discretion, invited Mellen to preach at her house, in spite of the bitter opposition of her husband. He resented the liberty taken in his house, and irritated by the taunts of his associates in the club, swore a terrible oath that he would turn the preacher into the street.

One day when the house was crowded he determined to put the threat into execution. He rose with a defiant look, and with a courage stimulated by liquor, approached Mr. Mellen to thrust him out by force. The preacher suspected his purpose, but felt no fear.—With an unruffled calmness of face, and a voice that never trembled, he looked steadily at the approaching ruffian, and continued reading a hymn for singing. The poor wife trembled at the scene, and could only lift her heart to God in earnest prayer. The prayer was answered quite otherwise than she dared to hope. The preacher read the words,

"If you tarry till you're better,
You will never come at all."

And those words were carried home to William Haughton by the power of the Holy Ghost. He stopped suddenly in his forward movement, gave a loud cry, and fell senseless to the floor. When he came to himself he was humble and penitent, in great agony of mind for his sins, and at last found peace in trusting in Jesus.

He was a tool-maker by trade, and had a large basement for work under his house.—This basement was at once opened for meetings, and became a great center for effective Christian labor. It was a spiritual birthplace for many souls. Summerfield was attracted thither by reports of the great change wrought in the profane drunkard, and came to see and hear some new thing. His impressible nature was touched; his conscience, long uneasy, was agitated by bitter remorse; he felt the need of Christian prayer and sympathy; and at last an assurance of new birth brought him unutterable peace. In this humble basement, the eloquent preacher began his Christian life by shouting "Glory!" and here his first exhortations gave promise of that wonderful sweetness and pathos which clothed with power his brief ministry. A cobbler's shop was the school where John Angell James began to work for Christ, and John Summerfield received his first training for the pulpit in a tool-maker's cellar. One learns from such instances never to despise the day of small things.

Must Stick to it.

Little Fred thought his geography-lesson was dreadfully hard: he couldn't learn such a long word as hemisphere and what it meant, and about continents, oceans, and islands. He read the lesson over once or twice, and then sat down and held the book quite discouraged. The time to recite came, and Fred stammered and blundered and failed.

The schoolmaster was a kind man, and spoke very pleasantly to the little boy; but he could not let the lesson pass without being learned.

"I can't learn it, it's so hard," said Fred; and he burst out crying. "Let us see," said the good schoolmaster; and he heard the boy read the whole lesson carefully. "Now, Freddy, you know all the words, I am sure; and you must stick to it until you can."

"I can't stick to it," sobbed Fred, beginning to be angry.

"Can't never made a man," said the schoolmaster; "and can't stick to it never learned a lesson, or gained a prize: we won't have any thing to do with that hateful word. Can't stick to it! must stick to it! will stick to it! Now, then, let me see you study, and be a man!"

"I can't," began Fred in a sharp, naughty tone; but the kind master looked at his pupil, and said a little, strong, decided "must," and then left him alone.

Fred cried out his angry tears, and then began in earnest to study. He knew there was no use in sulking; for must had in it the reproof of a loving heart, the rebuke of a stern eye, or, if necessary, the sting of a keen whip. Over and over he spelled the hard words; over and over he tried to remember how islands looked on the atlas; —little spots of land, with large spaces of water all around. Sometimes he was just ready to break down again with that ugly can't on his tongue; but then the master's strong, noble must dried up the tears, and pronounced the long words once more.

The other boys had gone home, and the sunlight of a short day was going too, when Fred was ready to recite to the master. He had, in spite of himself, stuck to it, and had conquered hemispheres, continents, oceans, and islands.

Fred felt like a hero. Can't had not triumphed over him: he had found to learn what was not easy, and he felt helped for all the rest of the book.

And, in truth, he was helped all the rest of his life. Long after he left the college-walls, the man who was once little Fred told the story of the geography-lesson, and declared that that one little effort was the starting-point of all his years of study. Must stick to it proved blessed words to him through life. And they are good words for every child to adopt as a motto. We must stick to it daily in our struggle with sin, and with God's help we shall conquer. Never say, "I can't," "I'll try."

WEARY IN WELL-DOING.

I would have gone: God bade me stay:
I would have worked; God bade me rest.
He broke my will from day to day,
He read my yearnings unexpressed,
And said them nay.

Now I would stay: God bids me go:
Now I would rest; God bids me work.
He breaks my heart, tossed to and fro,
My soul is wrung with doubts that lurk
And vex it so.

I go, Lord, where Thou sendest one;
Day after day I plod and moil:
But, Christ my God, when will it be
That I may let alone my toil,
And rest with Thee?

—Rossetti.

Hard Test.

A gentleman once heard a laboring man swear dreadfully in the presence of a number of his companions. He told him it was a cowardly thing to swear so in company, when he dared not do it by himself. The man said he was not afraid to swear at any time or any place.

"I'll give you ten dollars," said the gentleman, "if you will go into the village church-yard, at twelve o'clock to night, and swear the same oaths which you have uttered here, when you are alone with your God."

"Agreed," said the man; "'tis an easy way of earning ten dollars."

"Well, you come to me to-morrow, and say you have done it, and the money is yours."

The time passed on; midnight came. The man went to the graveyard. It was a night of pitchy darkness. As he entered the grave-yard not a sound was heared; all was still as death. Then the gentleman's words, "alone with God," came over him with a wonderful power. The thought of wickedness he had committed, and what he had come there to do, darted through his mind like a flash of lightning. He trembled at his folly. Afraid to take another step, he fell on his knees, and instead of the dreadful oaths he came to utter, the earnest cry went up, "God be merciful to me a sinner."

The next day he went to the gentleman and thanked him for what he had done, and said he had resolved not to swear another oath as long as he lived.—Miss Barbor.

A Correct Eye.

Speaking from my own experience of working men, I am satisfied that could we only pay more attention to educating the eye and bringing forth the often latent faculty of comparison, a most important benefit would result, not only to the workmen, but to the perfection of the manufactures of the country. Nine-tenths of all the bad work and botches that occur in our own business of engineers and machine-makers results from the want of that mere power of comparison and "correct eye" which is so rare amongst such classes of workmen; not that the faculty is absent—it is only dormant, having never been cultivated as it ought to be; for it is of all faculties the most useful to a working man. The annoyance I meet with, and the vexation and loss I encounter from the simple matter of crooked work to be drilled into true is beyond all conception to those who are not practically conversant with the very limited power of workmen in general in this respect. When a workman has a correct eye, his work is not only executed with far greater dispatch, by reason of not having incessantly to stop working and occupy his time in looking if he is working correct or not; but when such work results from a mechanic with a correct eye brought into action, by reason of all the parts being in true and accurate relation to one another, all goes off smooth at once, and is durable in proportion; and I am satisfied that the faculty of comparison is latent in all, and in most, capable of being developed by suitable teaching in youth; and knowing as I do its vast commercial value, I would most earnestly advise in all our schools, especially in those for the education of the working classes, that much time and careful attention be devoted to the cultivation of this almost invaluable, but at present totally neglected faculty.—American Christian Review.

At the anniversary of the English Church Missionary Society, Colonel Sir H. Edwards stated that a numerous body of High caste natives of India are engaged in an effort to reform their religion; that 21,000 have petitioned for the abolition of polygamy; that among the various native races 500 Christian missionaries are laboring; and that 200,000 Christianized natives are now connected with their churches.

Bread for the Bones.

Bread and butter are the only articles of food of which we never tire, from early childhood to extreme old age. A pound of fine flour of Indian meal contains three times as much meat as one pound of butcher's roast beef; and if the whole product of the grain, bran and all, were made into bread, fifteen per cent. more of nutriment would be added. Unfortunately the bran, the coarsest part, is thrown away, the very part which gives soundness to the teeth and strength to the brain. Five hundred pounds of flour gives to the body thirty pounds of bony element, while the same quantity of bran gives more than one hundred and twenty-five pounds. This bone is lime—the phosphate of lime—the indispensable element of health to the whole human body, from the want of the natural supply of which multitudes of persons go into a general decline. But swallowing phosphates, in the shape of powders, or in syrups, to cure these declines, has little or no effect. The articles contained in these phosphates must pass through nature's laboratory, must be subject to her manipulations in alembics specially prepared by Almighty power and skill, in order to impart their peculiar virtues to the human frame. In plainer phrase, the shortest, safest and most infallible method of giving strength to the body, bone and brain, thereby arresting disease, and building up the constitution, is to eat and digest more bread made out of the whole grain, whether of wheat, corn, rye or oats.

Horse Stables.

It is a fault with most stables that they are built for men rather than for horses. We wish to point out two common errors into which not a few builders are liable to fall in constructing stables, especially those upon farms. The first in having the doors and upper floor so low as they generally are. On account of these low doors horses instinctively learn to fear them, and they shy, rear or prance whenever led towards them. They are, also, among the most frequent causes of poll evil. The horse, when passing through them, is either surprised by something it beholds outside of the building, or checked by the voice or gestures of the person leading him, when up goes the head and crash comes the pull against the beam of the doorway. A violent bruise often results therefrom, and a deep seated abcess follows. Low hay floors also produce the same trouble. The sudden elevation of the head is, in the horse, expressive of very unexpected emotion. This effect is always noticed whenever you enter the stable rapidly or at an unusual hour. A sudden noise will also cause the same upward motion of the head. With low stables, an injury to the horse is almost invariably sure to follow.

Again, the easiest position in which the horse can stand is when the hind feet are the highest portion of the body, or when the flooring of the stall slants in the opposite direction from what it does in most stables. This is the other error in constructing stables to which we alluded. Horses at liberty in a pasture invariably stand, when at ease, with their hind feet elevated somewhat, and it is almost a wonder that builders of stables have not improved upon this fact before, and adapted floors to the wants of the horse. The moisture from the horse, if the floor slanted towards the forward feet, would help to keep the forward feet moist, cool and healthy, whereas now they are generally hot, full of fever, and require washing with cool soap suds at least once a day, in order to be kept in a healthy condition. This is not all. Where the floor slants back, the horse not unfrequently attempts to ease the heavy strain upon the flexor tendons of the hind legs by hanging back upon the halter. The pressure upon the seat of the poll stops natural circulation, and in time it develops itself into a deep-seated abcess. We would like to see a stable in which the two errors of building did not occur. If the builder was not satisfied with it, we are satisfied the occupant would be, and would repay him by long years of good service, with unrestrained limbs and a healthy condition.

EXPERIMENTS IN GERMINATING CORN.—The Springfield Republican states that four boxes of earth, like in quality and exposure to light and heat, were planted at the same time with corn from a single ear, and placed recently in a physician's office. In one box dry corn was planted, in another the seed was soaked in clean warm water; in the third, the seed was soaked in a solution of lime water; in the fourth, the seed was soaked in chloride of lime and copperas water, equal parts. One week afterwards the box planted with dry corn had not germinated, the second box had not commenced to germinate, the third was just showing its green blades, and in the fourth box the blades were nearly three inches high. Copperas will keep birds and worms from eating the seed, and one pound will soak seed enough for twenty acres.

FLOCK PRIMING.—Among the many needful things which every flockmaster must not lose sight of, is this—Always keep your best ewes. This is the fundamental principle which must guide you in all your labors, if you expect to carry the excellence of your flock one degree higher each year. The reasons for this rule are almost too obvious to require mention. Will any man need to be told that if he sells his ewes, the buyer will have better sheep than he? If a man with one hundred ewes, sells the ten best, it may take him years of careful breeding to get ten more as good as those he sold. Many cannot resist a tempting offer for a good ewe, but it should be remembered that when you sell one such, you sell with her all her valuable increase for the future. When you have succeeded in bringing your flock to such a degree of excellence that you will not notice the loss of a few of the "number ones," you can sell from the first class ewes. But as you must sell off the yearly increase of the flock, let such be selected as you do not wish to keep, and the present is the best time of the year to make that selection.—N. H. Farmer.

PRESERVATION OF GRAIN.—The Scottish Farmer describes a new device for this purpose as follows: "It appears from a report recently issued by a French commission that a Dr. Louvel has successfully constructed an apparatus for the preservation of corn, meal and biscuits. It is of the simplest construction and consists of a cylinder of sheet iron, formed so that it can be filled from the top and emptied from the bottom. Into this, in the presence of the commissioners, six months ago, a quantity of the finest quality of wheat mixed with an enormous number of weevils, was put. The cylinder was then closed and the air withdrawn by means of a suction pump. On being opened the other day, the wheat was found in perfect condition, the weevils having been entirely destroyed without having touched it. The grain thus preserved was sent to Paris and sold.

ATTENDANCE ON WORSHIP.—An English clergyman gives the following interesting statistics: "There are five millions of our fellow-country-people who are living in open neglect of the means of grace. If all the people in what is called Christian England who neglect the means of grace were to be heard into a line standing shoulder to shoulder, they would stretch over 1450 miles, or it would make nearly four rows reaching from London to Edinburgh; and it would take eighteen weeks for them to pass a given spot, at sixty a minute, six days of a week, of twelve hours each. Thus millions in this country are, to all practical purposes, heathens. In Manchester there are 150,000 who habitually absent themselves from any place of worship. In Birmingham there are 100,000 persons who never darken the doors of God's house. Look also at Liverpool. There we find a public house to every 260 of the inhabitants; and the apprehensions for crime are as one to every fifteen of the population. In Manchester there is a public house for every 150 of the population, old and young, while there is but one sanctuary (including all sects, large and small, old and new) for every 2500 of the people. No fewer than fifty-four public houses have sacred music on the Sabbath, and thus souls are lured to perdition to the strains of the "Hallelujah Chorus" and "The Heavens are Telling." In that town 150,000 of the inhabitants never enter God's house, and Sabbath after Sabbath are living in the desecration of the Lord's day. Thus in "Christian England" we have a vast amount of heathenism, and, what is worse, practical atheism."

PROTECTING TREES AGAINST WORMS.—The bandage system, which we were the first to suggest some fifteen years ago, and often referred to since, is the only effectual protection we have yet seen against the operation of the worm in the fruit trees. We repeat again, that in not a single instance have we ever had a worm in our dwarf pear trees where this system was properly followed. It is simply to bandage the bottom of the tree, with any kind of muslin or cloth, and tie it, letting the bandage be about six inches above ground, and two inches below. It should be applied in February or as soon as the ground is in a fit condition to go upon. These bandages should be removed at the end of October. As long as this is continued, we defy the worm. The bug lays its eggs an inch or two above the ground, early in the spring, that is, as soon as the warm days in March will admit of its coming forth from its winter quarters; the eggs are soon hatched by the sun, being laid on the sun side of the trunk, and the young grub finds its way down to the soft bark beneath the soil, where it gradually works its way in. The bandage prevents both the laying of the eggs and the descent of the grub. Let doubters try it. One man will bandage two hundred trees in a day. We have no doubt it will also protect peach-trees in the same way.—Germantown Telegraph.

TEMPER UNDER CONTROL.—It is one of the rich rewards of self-mastery, that the very occurrences which frat the temper of an irritable person, bring relief and satisfaction to him who rules his spirit. The following anecdote of Wilberforce is in point: A friend told me that he found him once in the greatest agitation looking for a dispatch which he had mislaid—one of the royal family was waiting for it—he had delayed the search till the last moment—he seemed at last quite vexed and flurried. At this unlucky instant a disturbance in the nursery overhead occurred. My friend, who was with him, said to himself, "Now for once, Wilberforce's temper will give way." He had hardly thought this, when Wilberforce turned to him and said, "What a blessing it is to have these dear children! Only think what a relief, amidst other hurries, to hear their voices and know they are well!"

HISTORY OF A DRINKING CLUB.—Some years ago, in a large town in the west of Scotland, there existed a drinking club of upwards of twenty members, all of whom belonged to the middle classes of society. This club had a great influence in municipal affairs, and several of its members were elected to fill posts in the town council. The drinking was carried on to a fearful extent in the tavern where they met. The members were to be found often in the club at all hours of night and day. Their drinking was often connected with such a noisy mirth as to attract the attention of the passers by. The club was broken up. Two of its members were sent to a lunatic asylum. One jumped from a window and killed himself; one walked or fell into the water and was drowned; one was found dead in a public house; one died of delirium tremens; upwards of ten became bankrupt; four died ere they had lived half their days.

A LESSON IN THE WOODS.—Some sixty years ago there lived on the borders of civilization a man who had an aged, infirm, and blind father. The old man frequently broke the crockery on which his food was served. His son's wife complained of it, and the son at last determined to take a block of wood and hew out a tray or trough, on which to feed his father. Accordingly he took his ax and went to the forest, followed by his little son. He found a poplar that looked as if it would suit his purpose, and he began to cut out a block of the desired size. Having swung his ax a few moments he became weary, and his son said, "Father, what are you going to make?" The father replied, "I am going to make a trough for your grandfather to eat out of." The little boy loved his grandfather very much, and supposed it all very kind, and said: "I am so glad; won't it be nice? Father, when you get to be old and blind, I will make a trough for you." The father, conscience-stricken and fearing sorrow for himself, took up his ax, returned home, and ever after seemed to treat his aged parent kindly.

The Free Churches of France.

A correspondent of the Congregationalist gives the following hopeful account of that small band of faithful Christians who, to maintain Evangelical doctrine have separated from the Reformed Church, and constitute what is known as the "Free Churches of France:" "I have taken special pains to acquaint myself with the condition and prospects of the Free Evangelical churches in Paris, of which there are in all only some twelve distinct assemblies, five or six of which are connected with the Union, an association which embraces thirty-two of the one hundred and fifty little churches of France, which are disconnected with the State. In Paris, the free churches are ministered to by brethren whose names are widely known in the United States—De Pressence, Fisch, Bersier, Duchemin, Th. Monod, and others of like spirit and ability. At present, theirs is the day of small things; but this little band represents the great principle of spiritual independency—the separation of religion from the State, in order to its higher purity and vitality; they form a centre of spiritual life in the midst of this gay and irreligious population; they diffuse a healthy religious influence by means of tracts, Sabbath schools and prayer meetings; they carry mission labor and Sabbath worship and teaching into the destitute portions of this city, and are growing to be an agency for great good, not only in Paris but throughout France. Numerically considered, they are small; perhaps five hundred communicants in all the free churches of the city taken together, and about two thousand worshippers at any one time in the totality of their assemblies; socially, they are weak, with not many noble and mighty upon their roll. But intellectually, they are strong, with such men as Pressence, Bersier, St. Hilaire, among their leaders, and spiritually they are full of energy and faith; while as witnesses for the truth, in doctrine, worship and life, they are an ever-growing power. It is most refreshing to turn aside from the pomps of superstition and the pageantry of pleasure, into one of the quiet chapels of the free church, in an inner court of a retired street, and there find a devout, earnest, wakeful, spiritual congregation, engaged in such a worship and listening to such preaching as makes one feel at home in the brotherhood of the saints."

AN EFFICIENT CHURCH.—The Evangelical Lutheran translates from the Juedad Freund the following account of the Lutheran Church at Fort Wayne, Ind.:

"This congregation numbers 500 families and 1200 communicants, who are very attentive to the means of grace. The sunday morning service and catechization in the afternoon are both well attended,—so likewise their communion season, which they hold every two weeks, and which is always preceded by the Lutheran mode of notifying the pastor and confession (not auricular.) The liberality of this congregation is well worthy of praise and imitation. Members who are not well off in this world's goods give $10 to $20 annually to the treasurer of the congregation; others give $30, $40, $50 to $100, and some even more than $100 annually.

"Besides supporting the two pastors, the congregation employs 5 teachers in their parochial schools, at a salary of more than $5000. A Sunday collection is held every four weeks for the poor, the widows and orphans. For the support of the college, at Fort Wayne, these people contribute largely, each student is supplied by one family with washing and meals on Sunday. A ladies' sewing union, which meets every Wednesday, supplies the students with clothing and the necessary repairing of apparel; each member of this society contributes $4 monthly, for this object.

"For general church benevolence, this parent congregation contributes largely. They sent not long since $400 to the Synodical treasury of the Synod of St. Louis. Of course many devotional and other good books are likewise circulated among them. The Lutheran Almanac is not wanting in a single family."

EGYPT.—Under date of July 5th, Dr. Lansing writes us from Alexandria, where he was, with two others of the brethren, about completing the purchase in very advantageous circumstances of a Sanatarium, or health house, for the missionaries at Ramleh. He says: "Next week I hope to be able to write you the work is done. And we are beginning greatly to need it. Mrs. Pinkerton has suffered very severely from her eyes. Mrs. Strang has felt the heat very much, and my own boys are beginning to look pale and feeble. Our friends from Osiout and the Fayoum will also be on to the meeting of the Presbytery the last of the month, and they will doubtless need a change. We have just received a letter from the Prince Dhuleep Singh enclosing his yearly check, and it is again £1,000. God be praised! How good he is to us! How often he rebukes our want of faith!"—New York Christian Advocate.

VALUABLE TO FARMERS.—The leaves of the elder, if they are strewn among corn or grain when it is put in the bin, will effectually preserve it from the ravages of the weevil. The juice will also kill bedbugs and maggots.—Insects never touch elder bushes. The leaves of the elder scattered over cabbages, cucumbers and other plants subject to the ravages of insects, will effectually shield them. The plum and other fruits may be saved by placing on the branches and among them branches of elder leaves.

TWENTY THOUSAND EACH.—The names of five Rhode Island gentlemen, each of whom gave $20,000 to Brown University, are Hon. William Sprague, William S. Slater, Earl P. Mason, William H. Reynolds, Horatio N. Slater.

AVERAGE LIBERALITY.—The contributions of the United Presbyteries of Scotland, for the past year, made an average of thirty shillings for each person in a membership of 172,752.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. M. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27th, 1866.

New Orleans District—Fourth Quarterly Conference.

Carondelet street,	Nov. 12
Morcan "	" 13
German Missions	" 15
Jeff city, including Gretna and Algiers	16
Baton Rouge	Dec. 8:9

Statistical Reports and Trustee Reports in full will be called for.

J. C. Keener, P. E.

COLLECTIONS TO BE MADE.

1. The Bishops Collection:

2. The Collection for widows and orphans and superannuates of traveling preachers.

These are among the necessary expenses of the Churches. Every godly Methodist man puts them down in the estimate of his own "necessary expenses," as items that must be provided for. If we forget those whom God hath made dependent upon us, may our right hand forget its cunning. Do not so feel for the poverty of the country, O Preacher, as to forget the duty of presenting to the people, with prayer, with a plain statement, and with deliberateness, these righteous obligations of the Church.

MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE.

Mr. Editor: Please publish the following for the benefit of the members of the Montgomery Conference.

Trains from Selma to Blue Mountains, distance 135 miles, fare, $9 45.

Stage from Blue Mountains to Jacksonville, distance 10 miles, fare, $2 00.

Stage from Rome to Jacksonville, distance 50 miles, fare $8 00.

Stage from Montgomery to Talladega, tri-weekly, fare $10 00. Train from Talladega to Jacksonville, 25 miles, fare $1 80.

Presiding Elders, please give us the names of candidates for Admission: also, of Local brethren coming up for ordination.

Ministers who expect to bring their wives to Conference must let us know in due time.

Ministers who do not expect to attend Conference, will do us a favor by letting us know before Conference convenes.

Ample provision will be made for all.

L. M. Wilson,
W. R. Kirk.

P. S. Ministers of other Conferences expecting to attend will please let us know.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Messrs. W. G. Coyle, & Co., Coal Merchants, 142 Gravier street. Our friend, Mr. Coyle, will not lack customers so long as the heroes of the Washington Artillery can stand fire.

Messrs. J. Levois & Co., Importers of Parisian silks, Poplins, Merinoes, Delanes, Cloths, Blankets, etc. Wholesale and Retail, Corner of Canal & Bourbon streets. A very large establishment, and one of the oldest and best in the city.

Messrs. P. J. Christian & Co., General Mercantile Stationers, Job Printers, and Blank Book Manufacturers, No. 73 Camp street. Mr. C. in his mercantile life, is an illustration of "Self Help," and therefore deserves to be helped by others.

Dolbear's Commercial College, Corner of Camp and Common streets. The Story Building. This is the oldest institution of the kind in the United States. It has Agricultural and Mechanical Departments. We cannot do better than to quote the language of Mr. Dolbear himself—for enforcing upon the South the advantages of sustaining its own Institutions. He says,

> In an article for the Southern press, written ten years ago, I endeavored to convince the public that it we acknowledged our mental vassalage and inability to educate our own children, we were but one step from physical servitude. And that is the history of the world, and always will be. When any people have made up their minds not to educate AT HOME, they have made up their minds to be the vassals of that country to which they send their sons for education and ideas. * * *
>
> Lord Macauley, in his eminently philosophical History of England, referring to the Norman Conquest and reign in England, says: "that it was not tolerated or deemed respectable for the nobility or gentlemen to educate their sons in England, but they must be sent to France, and before the close of that reign it was deemed an insult to be called an Englishman! And had it not been for what were then deemed great calamities, resulting from the imbecility of a weak king and ending the Norman reign of one hundred and fifty years, England, to day," says Lord Macauley, "would not have had a written language, but simply the local dialects not understood twenty miles distant!" But England profited by her calamity, and what is the English language to-day? the ruling commercial language of the world!

WASTE PLACES OF ZION.

Near Hemphill Creek, not ten miles from where the devoted Nolley met his death, there is a Methodist chapel. Right in the door of a tree six inches in diameter has grown up since there was service in the house. The ladies in the neighborhood have determined, we understand, to go themselves and cut down the tree. How many such neglected places are there in Louisiana and Mississippi! Houses where the people once met, masters and servants, parents and children, to listen to the earnest appeals of the Man of God, to hear the reading of the Holy Scriptures, and to unite in the sacred songs of Zion. Here a whole neighborhood has been won to the Saviour's cause. The young, the ignorant, and the wicked, have been taught the way of life and warned to flee the wrath to come. Without architectural grace, or artistic merit, it has yielded a most precious and frequent return to those whose devotion reared and dedicated it to the uses of religion. How many deep and holy springs of the soul have had their rise in this humble spot! Here memory reverts to the hour of penitence, of continued prayer, and of wondrous love, when mighty faith first saw its Lord. All the churches and grand cathedrals in the world cannot compare with this old meeting-house, when the smoke of the glory of God filled it, and the poets of its door moved at the voice of the Holy One. The great magnolias and poplars, in all their strength and beauty, stood around, the lofty witnesses of these sequestered hours. And here too rest the forms of those dear ones venerable, their redeemed dust waiting for that trump which shall rouse the silent forest and the sleeping dead.

What heart can endure to see these spots abandoned to neglect and decay—the lintels and the door posts rotting, and the fences fallen? Will not some pious hand remove these sad memorials of war, and gathering around the place, build again the stones of the altar? While fences and levees are once more rising out of overflow, confusion, and ruin, suffer not the House of God to lie waste. If this be not repaired, and the voice of the minister resound not in its walls, then is there no recuperative force at work adequate to the restoration of the temporal prosperity of the neighborhood. Begin here: fence in, repair, rebuild the church, that the poor and the young may be taught again the Oracles of God; and the blessing of Heaven will come upon you.

The question arises who shall supply us with the Gospel even then, for we are not able to support a minister? It may be that you can do as your fathers did at an earlier day, afford a week-day service. Our circuits must be enlarged, and the preacher must take in week-day appointments, and preach every day in the week, as Methodist Traveling Preachers used to do before the country became full and wealthy.—Go back twenty-five years, and do as we then did. Where regular itinerant preachers cannot be had, let the people encourage some "Hedge Priest" to fold and shepherd the flock. Our Church has always availed herself of this most useful body of men—the Lay Ministry,—men who preach the Gospel and make their own corn. These first brought Methodism to America, and from that time to this they have supplied the word of life to a vast multitude that no man can number. A devoted Local Preacher who will give half of every Saturday and all of the Sabbath to the service of the Church, can accomplish important results in times of ordinary peace; now how much more when the people wait and long for the healing of the hurt of the daughter of Zion.

It is of the good providence of God that the Church is rich in men who have been called to minister to the people immediately around.—Now is the time to set in active motion this large and available machinery, so peculiarly our own.—Every Presiding Elder should be able to report exactly the number of Local Preachers who are ready and able to aid in supplying the gospel to the people. This item, and one showing the number of churches lying out in a waste condition, should be accurately ascertained by the Preachers, so that our Bishops may promptly reoccupy these now neglected fields, "for there the Lord commanded the blessing, even life forever more." "Why hast thou broken down her hedges, so that all they which pass by the way do pluck her? The boar out of the wood doth waste it, and the wild beast of the field devour it. Return, we beseech thee, O God of Hosts; look down from heaven, and behold and visit this vine; and the vineyard which thy right hand hath planted, and the branch that thou madest strong for thyself. It is burnt with fire, it is cut down; they perish at the rebuke of thy countenance. Let thy hand be upon the son of man whom thou madest strong for thyself. So will we not go back from thee. Quicken us, and we will call upon thy name."

FUNERAL OF DR. BALDWIN.

The Nashville Advocate contains a report of the funeral occasion of the lamented Dr. Baldwin.

Dr. McFerrin offered an able and just tribute to the memory of his noble friend:

"As a preacher he excelled. His person was comely, and his presence commanding; his voice clear, mellow, and of full compass. His store of knowledge was vast, and his learning varied. His manner was solemn and pleasing; his diction fine, his imagination lofty, and his zeal fervent. He was always interesting in the pulpit, and at times very eloquent. His congregations were often enchained and frequently transported by his power, and left the church feeling that he had but few equals in the gospel ministry. And yet he was not careful as to his reputation; he preached at all times, and under all circumstances, and often without much preparation.

"As a laborer in his Master's work he was indefatigable, untiring. Reading, study, preaching everywhere, and on all occasions, night and day, writing for the periodical press and throwing before the world several large volumes, evincing much thought and great research. He visited the sick, comforted the distressed, and was a messenger of consolation in the house of sorrow. Many a poor prisoner, federal and confederate, was visited by him in his hours of loneliness. He carried bread, and clothing, and mitigated the horrors of prison life. Yea, more—he threw himself in the breach and rescued from death those who had been condemned to die. Having been a prisoner himself, and suffered privations in close confinement, he well knew how to commiserate the condition of the bound. His philanthropy was unbounded: it was evinced not only in his public labors and private circles, but in the whole course of his life. Like his Master, he went about doing good. He expended all his surplus means in relieving the wants of the needy. He never had money that he did not consider it as a talent that had to be employed in ministering to the relief of the needy. He gave away a large portion of his slender income.

Dr. A. L. P. Green, followed in a train of remarks from which we make the following extracts:

"He was emphatically a minister of the gospel; to preach was the great central purpose of his life; and any attention that he gave to other matters was merely incidental, or of necessity. He was by nature highly endowed, a man of extensive learning, and an intense thinker, blest with a great diversity of gifts. He was naturally a fine mechanic, and a poet of a high order, while his taste and appreciation of the beautiful in literature and nature was exquisite. He was an intellectual pioneer, a bold and independent thinker; he looked not for tracks or bluzes—he made his own paths—he never stopped to inquire what other people thought of his course, or looked behind him to see who followed. The great object of his life was to instruct, interest, and bless mankind.

"He was a man of genial nature and remarkably social in his habits, and yet he spent much of his time in solitude, which afforded him an opportunity for meditation and prayer, and close communion with his heart and his God. There are feelings common to humanity with which he seemed not to be acquainted: from any thing that I was ever able to discover, he knew nothing about either hate or avarice. If he disliked any one, he never told it; and if he had any love for money, it was never developed. He was in the strictest sense a man of peace, never given to disputation, choosing rather to suffer himself than to be the cause of offense to another; and if at any time he unexpectedly became involved in any difficulty or misunderstanding with a brother, he was the easiest man to settle with that I ever knew. He was a man of cares and trouble like other men, but he always considered his troubles his own, and never seemed disposed to distribute them; while his successes, his joys, and his comforts he passed over to his friends and brethren. He had the happy faculty of accommodating himself to all classes and conditions in life. The poor African, when left to choose who should preach to him, was sure to select Dr. Baldwin, and regarded it as a privilege to be permitted to enter his sick-room and look upon him in his last illness, and would leave the house with tears streaming from his eyes. The little boys on the streets would hail him as a beloved relative; and with his mighty intellect, and goodness of heart, and manifest purpose to do good, he was almost irresistible—so that during the troubles through which our country has passed, he was enabled to win his way to the hearts and confidence of those high in authority, and was the honored instrument in a number of instances of knocking off fetters and opening prison doors to those that were bound, and securing pardon for such as were condemned to death.

"I asked him if he was suffering much bodily pain, to which he replied by saying, 'Not much at this moment.' I then asked him whether he was suffering any mentally, to which he replied by saying, 'None whatever; my mind is at rest—all well in that direction.' Our conversation was then interrupted by giving him something to soften his lips, that he might speak with more ease. I then learned that it was his desire that I should pray with him. While we were engaged in prayer, I discovered that he was very devoutly engaged in supplication, and at the close he responded with a hearty 'Amen.' Finding him greatly exhausted, his kind and devoted friend gave him a little wine—he swallowed it, and looking to me, said 'I shall drink it new in my Father's kingdom;' to which I replied by saying, 'That is a precious promise, my brother.' 'Yes, said he,' but we don't understand yet the full import of that promise.' Our conversation was then interrupted by changing his position in the bed; after which I remarked to him, that his friends and the Church were very unwilling to give him up, and if he had yet a little strength left, it might be that our Heavenly Father would permit him to remain yet longer with us, to which he made no reply, but seemed to be looking away beyond all earthly things. I said to him, 'How are your thoughts employed?' to which he replied, 'I was contemplating the expanding glories of the future state!' O how refreshing and delightful it is for us, while under this crushing affliction, to feel that our beloved Baldwin has entered upon the glory that he was thus contemplating!"

ST. LOUIS CONFERENCE.

A correspondent of the Episcopal Methodist writes an excellent letter from which we extract the following:

Emerging from the disasters of a war that swept nearly every thing from us in this State, except character and integrity, it is gratifying to see how vigorously we are rising up out of the long night of depression and gloom, and how soon we are recovering our position, prestige and power. The vitality of the Church is astonishing, and the energies of resurrective life seem to be diffused throughout the whole body, giving us the elements of strength and power, in many respects, far in advance of our position before the war. We have the confidence of the people as a non-secular Church, and the seal of our Divine Master as an Evangelical Church, and the most devoted, pious, God-fearing, self-sacrificing ministry in the world. Nothing but a base betrayal of Christ, and a cowardly surrender of His authority to the infamous demands of an infidel party, can prevent our success, and these are not the men to make such a surrender. They have suffered too much and too long, and have maintained their loyalty to Christ and fidelity to His truth and His Church under too many trials, and against too much power, to give up the field now or turn aside at the behests of all the world's Cæsars. Our martyred dead are too precious in our memories, and the "testimony of Jesus," for which they were slain, is too dear to our hearts to flinch or quail at the sight of "bonds and afflictions," or prisons or death. In these expressions I but reflect the inwrought and deep-wrought sentiments of the ministry and membership of our Church in Missouri; and, with God's blessing upon our labors, you will hear good tidings from us during the coming Conference year.

The change of our Church name is a matter of deep concern with us, and involves more vital issues than in any other Conferences in our whole connection. When the question of concurrence or non-concurrence with the action of the late General Conference came up, the preachers met it, and discussed it in the gravest and most solemn manner. There were no clap trap, ad captandum speeches. No buncombe, no dodging, no levity, no witticism, no parliamentary trickery; no struggling for mastery of parties, but a calm, dignified, prayerful, solemn consideration of the whole subject, during which the leading men of the Conference expressed their views pro and con with a dignity and gravity becoming the importance of the occasion.

The effect of the change of the name on our Church in Missouri, when so large a majority of our membership oppose it, whether the change would not disaffect and alienate a large portion of our people from us, disturb our present peace and harmony; whether it would not embarrass the suits already pending in our courts for our church property and complicate our troubles; whether we would not lose more at home than we would gain abroad by the change, and whether our people would generally acquiesce in the result if it should be changed, were all grave questions with us. The final vote stood: For concurrence 28, against 30. On Lay Representation there was no debate, and the vote was: For 40, against 18.

The Bishop's closing address was very fine, and his preaching on Sunday morning could not be excelled, according to the estimation of the Conference and people. And the best of all is, God was with us, and gave us a gracious revival of religion, which continued after the adjournment of the Conference.

The preachers seem well satisfied with their appointments, and the Bishop left us all the savor of a good name, and the Conference left behind it truly a Gospel festival.

EAST TEXAS CONFERENCE.

Dear Advocate: I have just returned from the session of the East Texas Conference, held at Marshall, the present western terminus of the S. P. Rail Road.

A free ticket was furnished me by Col. Waskom, the gentlemanly President of the road.

The track is being put in complete order and engines repaired, so that soon the company will be able to transport freight and passengers to any amount and number. Energetic measures are being taken to push on the work, to extend the road bed and penetrate the rich grain country of Western Texas, and as soon as may be to tie us on to the Pacific coast.

The country has labored under many disadvantages growing out of pecuniary embarrassment, but by energy and perseverance are gradually surmounting all obstacles, and the future is bright with hope for this great line of travel and business.

The town of Marshall is a thriving place. The sound of hammer and trowel strike the ear from every direction, and repositories for goods and cotton are rising in huge proportions, to engulf, if possible, a large portion of the cotton trade that is wont to enrich Shreveport merchants.

The place was literally crammed with people, for besides the Conference, the Circuit Court was in session, presided over by Judge Ector, once a Brig. Gen. in the C. S. A.

I saw him on crutches, one leg had been left on the field, for he was a gallant soldier. I saw many faces, once very familiar to me, in war times, now so changed by dress and good living as to be scarcely recognizable, and many a warm grasp from hands which in those days wielded trenchant blades, made me feel more than welcome to the hospitalities of Texas.

Gen. Live, now a merchant, was mine host, than whom none knows better how to extend a princely hospitality to a Methodist preacher.

The kind solicitations of his niece, who presides in household affairs, made my stay a charming recreation, and when Monday morning came, although business and family affairs called me away, I was loth to come. I have never seen a Conference more cordially received, all denominations were smiles, and administered to the wants of the preachers.

The weather was delightful, scarcely a cloud dotted the sky, all heaven seemed to smile; sunlight out of doors, and sunlight in the heart made every one buoyant and cheerful.

It was a sight not soon to be forgotten, that sea of upturned faces which filled the beautiful and capacious church, and hung with breathless attention upon the words of the minister, as he portrayed the gospel plan, and painted the love agony of the Redeemer.

By the by, that church building speaks volumes for the taste and liberality of the people of Marshall. The Conference struck me as a body of noble, pious, resolute men, who having put their hands to the gospel plough, never mean to turn back.

They were not ostentatious, but simple in their zeal and love for the cause of Christ, and in that simplicity I read the history of good deeds done for human kind that none but the Master of the harvest saw.

If I am correctly informed, about seventy members constitute this Conference, of whom about fifty were present; owing to sickness, I learned, and straightened circumstances, and distance from the point of meeting, many were absent.

You should have heard the preaching, it was plain, simple but piercing, nothing fixed up for Conference occasion, but just such a sermon as you and I used to hear from the fearless self sacrificing men of our boyhood days. This is what we need; I fear we are too much disposed to generalize and spare the feelings of the gentle sinner. The requirement of to-day, is the plain language and fearless gospel of our Master. I heard it at Marshall, many more heard it, and went from there with the proud consciousness that the spirit of primitive Methodism is not dead or asleep. These men came to Conference through severe afflictions and trials. The past year was to them one of peculiar hardships, and to many of destitution and absolute want of necessaries of life.

Money being scarcer than ever was known before, they had to take their pay, what they got, in cattle, corn and wheat. I heard many announce their reports on finances, as follows: Allowance four hundred dollars, received one hundred and twenty-five; men of families too, what a shame! Can the Church hold an unblushing face in the midst of such announcements as these? Some who had preached and labored with great acceptability, would not report anything because they desired to spare the people the mortification of having their delinquencies published.

Many a warm, noble heart, beat under a coat of course homespun, and when you got inside, you walked in a palace of beauty all garnished and adorned, consecrated to our Divine Master, and I could but think how God loved these beautiful souls.

Bishop Marvin presided, and right here many handsome things might be said if I was disposed to follow the questionable example of some correspondents to our Church papers, in eulogizing our Bishops. What is a bishop? Much every way. Any more than another preacher of the gospel who does his duty? Yes. But are they not servants of all? Precisely so, and I have to honor them for their wise counsels and self-sacrificing devotion, but cannot make idols of them. Let the church be careful. It is easy to drift to fearful results in this direction. We have good men and true now, and to them these excessive laudations are distasteful, but a day may come when some bad or weak man may sit in this high seat and then——I will not finish the picture. May God make and keep us humble.

The Bishop is a very careful presiding officer, and looks closely to the interests of the Church—finding out all about the preachers; how they do their work: how they are paid: how they discharge their pastoral duties, and whether family prayer is urged to their daily ministrations and visitations. He seems fully imbued with the spirit of an earnest and faithful overseer of the work.

On Saturday night, the missionary meeting was held, an immense crowd being in attendance. After some little speech-making, and careful avoidance of the boisterous spirit that usually marks these occasions, the audience being impressed with the duty and pleasure of giving, seven hundred dollars was raised, a large portion of which gleamed like gold. I suppose it was, for I heard the clink and found a ten dollar slug on the floor, which soon rested, by consent of all parties, on the Secretary's table. Considering the pressure in the market, this was a magnificent contribution.

Bro. John, Editor of the Galveston Advocate, became so elevated in feeling as to give the pony, saddle and bridle, that brought him all the way from the Island city to Marshall. Bro. John, I will not say any thing more, just here, about that gift, except merely to add; you sold the saddle well. I hope you and the Bishop had a pleasant trip by stage and rail to the city.

The Love Feast on Sunday morning, (I put capitals and underscore for I mean to emphasize) will never be forgotten by those who were present. The tributes to christian mothers, paid on that morning, were enough to make woman ever blessed in the eyes of man, and to arouse our sisters in the Church of God to lives of Christian devotion, that they may send out their sons so deeply impressed with their piety, as to be to them ever on the boisterous sea of life the unchanging meridian from whence their longitude may be calculated, and the undying, unhushed voice "behind them, saying: This is the way, walk ye in it." It was a feast indeed, God was there in the hearts of many, and as Jesus' love was extolled and self abased, the souls of all waxed warm for future fight on the battle fields of life. I thank God I was there.

At eleven o'clock on Sabbath the Bishop preached the funeral sermon of Father Williams, one of the pioneers of Methodism in Texas. The text was Rev. 20th ch. and 14th verse, and then followed——what? well, I shall not say much about it. I can't, but as the heroic deeds of the gallant, pious dead, passed in review before the minds of the vast weeping audience, any other life than that of a devoted pious minister of Jesus seemed too insignificant for a moment's thought.

A gentleman present, who had been a soldier, and had wreathed his name with laurels plucked from the bloody hand of war, said as he left the house: "How insignificant does my whole life appear when compared to that of a Williams."

After sermon, the deacons elect were ordained according to the solemn service of our Church. At three o'clock the house was filled again, and after a delightful sermon by Prof. Scales, the elders were ordained, and we left the church to talk of the strange things we had seen and heard that day.

The house was crowded at night, and Bro. John gave us thoughts on faith that will linger in our brains and hearts many a day to come.

Monday came, and with many an invitation and urgent request to visit them again, from the Pastor, Bro. Johnson, who is a delightful gentleman, and devoted christian, and pleasant good-byes from the people, I turned my footsteps away from Marshall, with new and firmer purposes in my heart, and great regrets that I could not remain until the end of the session.

Many of the Conference feared that even Wednesday would find them unadjourned.

A very grave question was looked for before the Conference on Monday, viz: the division of the territory. There is a little too much feeling on both sides, in some, but it is to be hoped all will go well. There are many reasons favoring division, and but few against, as far as I can see.

The Bishop is highly encouraged and full of hope for the future. He says that all the preachers of the Conferences he has held are determined, by God's grace, to suffer and endure, through storm and sunshine, want and destitution, as good soldiers of Christ, and make full proof of their ministry; in a word, that the spirit of our Itinerant system is almost up to that of the fathers. I know that some who came to Marshall, thinking it would be impossible for them to travel next year, have consecrated themselves afresh to God and His work.

May God bless these heroes, and make them more abundantly fruitful this year than ever before. I will add that the collection on Sabbath for the support of superannuated and worn out preachers, their widows and orphans, was something the rise of two hundred dollars, I think. Clouds lower, mattering thunders, foreboding disaster and ruin, make the political future gloomy indeed, but "The Lord reigneth, let the earth rejoice." "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." Let us get close under Jehovah's wing, into the secret place of the Most High.

We have a kingdom which shall never be moved. Are we not ready to suffer if need be? There is no excuse for delay, if the clouds lower, or the winds blow, we must sow the word of God.

The voice of our commission ever rings in our ears: "Go preach my gospel to every creature, and lo I am with you always even to the end."

Now dear Advocate, I have written a long letter, erase, throw under the table, or do what you will with it.

L.

Shreveport, Oct. 17th, 1866.

APPOINTMENTS.

San Augustine District—J. R Burke, P. E.
San Augustine circuit—John C. Woolam.
Jasper circuit—Daniel S Watkins.
Newton " —A. D. Parks.
Hemphill circuit—Samuel Weaver.
Melrose " —John Pattillo.
Shelbyville " —1. O. B. Richardson.
Douglas " —J. R. Middleton; I. W. Overall, supernumerary.

Marshall District—L. R. Dennis, P. E.
Marshall station—W. Witcher.
Marshall circuit—John S. Mathis.
Elysian Fields circuit—L. C. Crouse; R. A. Wootea, supernumerary.
Carthage circuit—J. R. Bellamy.
Henderson station—N. W. Burks.
Henderson circuit—G. W. Cottingham.
Mount Enterprise circuit—Nelll Brown.
Smith circuit—L. P. Lively.
Marshall colored charge to be supplied.

Jefferson District—Richard Lane, P. E.
Jefferson station—R. W. Thompson.
Linden circuit—A. W. Goodjion.
Dangerfield " —Thos. B. Norwood.
Sulphur Springs circuit—J. N. Hamill.
Coffeeville circuit—W. P. Petty; J. T. P. Irvine, supernumerary.
Gilmer circuit—H. D. Palmer, Quitman " —J. S. Terry.
Boston " —A. C. McDougal.

Kaufman District—Mat. H. Neely, P. E.
Sulphur Bluff circuit—W. R. Davis; J. H. Lowe, supernumerary.
Ladonia circuit—Calvin J. Cock.
Springville " —J. B. Rabb.
Canton " —Wm. L. Carleton.
Garden Valley circuit—J. W. Fields.
Kaufman " —W. A. Shook.

Paris District—John W. Piner, P. E.
Paris station—Thos. M. Smith.
Paris circuit—L. B. Ellis.
Honey Grove circuit—Jesse H. Walker.
Clarksville and McKinzie, to be supplied.
Savannah circuit—Milton G. McAlister.
M'Kenzie College—J W P M'Kinzie, Pres.
Paris Female Inst.—J. Graham, Principal

Sherman District—J. M. Binkley, P. E.
Sherman station—John H. McLean.
Sherman circuit—T. W. Mitchell.
Gainesville circuit—Green Boyd.
Fisk Creek circuit to be supplied.
Bonham circuit—Wm. M. Rohlfs.
Greenville circuit—Wm. P. Reed; H. W. Cumming, supernumerary.

Dallas District—Wm. H. Hughes, P. E.
Dallas circuit—Wm. C. Young.
Sevene circuit—Jas. P. Rogers.
Rockwall circuit—J. L. Angell.
McKinney circuit—John W. Chalk.
Denton circuit—Wm. E. Bates.
Grapevine circuit—J. C. Smith.

Palestine District—John Adams, P. E.
Palestine and Mound Prairie station—P. J. Pattillo.
Palestine circuit to be supplied.
Rush station—Jeff. Shook.
Rush circuit—Samuel Lunch.
Jacksonville circuit to be supplied.
Tyler station—To be supplied.
Athens circuit—M. C. Simpson.
Kickapoo circuit to be supplied.

Crockett District—Joseph Bond, P. E.
Crockett circuit—F. M. Stovall.
Sumpter circuit to be supplied.
Livingston circuit—James H. Neely.
Liberty circuit—Edward P. Rogers.
Orange circuit—Madison Thompson.
Woodville circuit—to be supplied.
Homer circuit—M. M. Sample.

J. B. Tuttle, agent for the Texas Advocate and Book Depository.

R. S. Finley, agent for M'Kenzie College.

R. M. Kirby and Robert M. Seaton transferred to the West Texas Conference.

Superannuated.—William K. Wilson, F. Wilson, John B. Tullis, A. R. Dixon, Ezek. Couch, Alexander Henkle, Andrew Cumming, A. H. Shanks, Isaac W. Overall, Acton Young, and F. G. Fossett.

NEWS FROM THE CHURCHES.

The Lord is reviving his work in this part of his vineyard. I have just closed a meeting which was protracted six days at Dallas's Mills, which community is under Baptist influence. On Sunday, I rode sixteen miles, preached four times, and baptized eight persons by immersions. I continued my meeting at the Mills until last night; and many souls were converted and added to the Church; I baptized three others by immersion the last evening of the meeting, and four by affusion, and have eleven more to immerse at my next appointment at that place. There was a Baptist minister present, and I gave him the privilege of opening the door of the church, and he only received two by immersion. The people were astonished to know that we baptized by immersion, many intelligent persons were not aware of this fact. There are many persons who would be Methodist if we would immerse them, and I think we should let them know that we are willing to immerse them. Methodism would take the world if placed before the people in its proper light. There were four Catholics converted at the meeting. To God be all the glory for his goodness to us; surely he has been merciful to us on the Eastern shore. J. J. Grace.

Eastern Shore, Ala., Oct. 19th, 1866.

Bishop Andrew, under date of 17th, writes: "In the Church we have cheering signs that God has not forgotten us. I have hardly known such glorious revivals as are now, and have been for the last month progressing in many portions of Georgia and Alabama. Surely God is with us and that is the best of all. My only hope for both Church and country is in God; for in man we cannot trust, not in princes; but in Jehovah we may safely confide."

The Rev. R. T. Williams writes from Monroe, Louisiana Conference, date Oct. 4th, 1866: I have just closed a three days meeting, held at Bethel Church, Jackson Parish. The result was five members besides four by letter. The whole Church was much revived. I was greatly assisted by Bro. A. C. C. Hurlong.

NEWS FROM OTHER CHURCHES.

METHODIST E. CHURCH, NORTH.

Rev. Dr. Durbin and family arrived at New York safe and well, by the steamer Bavaria, on Monday morning last, after an absence of over five months. During his absence Dr. Durbin has visited every mission of the M. E. Church in Europe, with the exception of those in Turkey, and brings very encouraging reports from the entire mission field which he has visited. The whole Church will rejoice at his safe return.

J. F. Hurst, D. D., Pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Staten Island, has accepted the appointment of Theological Tutor in the Missica Institute in Bremen, Germany, and will sail for his post of duty in about one month. Dr Hurst is the author of a History of Rationalism.

PRESBYTERIAN.

The Chicago Reformed Presbytery, at a late meeting, took a step toward a union of the Presbyterian churches, by the appointment of Dr. Patterson and W R Davidson as a Committee of Conference with similar committees, if appointed, of the Old School, New School, and the united Presbyteries of Chicago, to convene a joint meeting of the four Presbyteries for conference on their common interests.

Rev. Thomas Brainard, D. D., one of the most prominent men in the New School Presbyterian Church, died at Scranton, Penn., August 21st.

BAPTIST.

Coalition.—At the late meeting of the Potomac Association (old School Baptists), a series of resolutions were introduced recommending certain steps to be taken with a view of bringing about a union of the Old School and the regular Baptists. It was stated that several prominent men among the anti-mission churches had expressed a desire for a reunion. It was, however, thought by some that the proposed action was premature, and that the resolutions were withdrawn without a test vote. Rev. W F Broaddus, D. D. (who by the way, has had another title given him, viz: G W H.—Grand Worthy Harmonizer), advocated the passage of the resolutions.

MARRIED.

Married in the M. E. Church, South, at Stenko, Oct. 16, 1866, by the Rev. H. J. Hinton, the Rev. James W. Glenn, of the Montgomery Conference, to Miss Fannie Ride, of Ouachita.

Married on the 11th Oct. 1866, at the bride's residence, in Baldwin county, Ala., by the Rev. J J Grace, Capt. W B Fulton, to Miss Mary A Milstead, both of Baldwin Co., Ala.

Philip Werlein, Dealer in Pianos, Fortes, Melodeons, Guitars, Violins, Music—Repairing and tuning instruments, &c.

☞ See other new advertisements on next page.

The Maryland Troubles.

BELLIGERENT BOYS IN BLUE—THE ISSUE STATED—A CALL FROM FORNEY.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 20—Last night a large meeting of veterans, representing the boys in blue, was held in Baltimore. It was presided over by Brig. Gen. Wooley, who advised them to stand shoulder to shoulder in this contest, as they had done in the field. The following address was unanimously agreed upon:

Boys in Blue, attention! The events now transpiring in this city make it incumbent upon us to once more assemble in massed columns to resist the attempt of traitors in our midst to deprive the loyal men of this city of the control of its affairs, and leave us to the tender mercies of our deadliest enemies. You will at once report yourselves to your officers for assignment to duty, and hold yourselves ready at a moment's notice to defend our chartered rights now being menaced and endangered by the same despicable traitors whose ready sympathy was always and ever for rebels in arms, and whose curses always followed us on every bloody field of the Maryland line. We have fought and conquered the rebels who had the manliness to face us in the field; we have to regulate those heroes who, for the last four years have stood with yardsticks and crockery ware in hand ready to furnish their dear friends of the South with their valuable sympathy; the loyal Police Board of Baltimore must be sustained at all hazards, and every cost. Be ready; be prompt. Each ward will report its strength and organization on Saturday night at 8 o'clock, at the headquarters of the Constitutional Union Central Committee.

By order of the General Commanding.

(Signed,) T. C TARR,
Colonel and Chief of Staff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Threatened troubles in Maryland are exciting the deepest interest. A collision between the State and the local authorities of Baltimore looks imminent. Several organizations have already tendered their services to the latter. Gov. Swann, of Maryland, arrived this morning, and had a protracted interview with the President. It is not positively known whether United States troops will be tendered to sustain his course in removing the Commissioners or not, but the indications are that nothing of the kind will be done. The question at issue is simply this: The Police Commissioners of Baltimore appoint the judges of elections. The Conservative party claim that these officers violated the law in the municipal election last week by making false returns. Affidavits have been laid before the Governor setting forth that in one precinct forty Conservative votes were cast and only twenty-two votes were returned. The Governor therefore claims the right to remove the Police Commissioners for a violation of law. His opponents declare that he is required to do this through the courts, and threaten armed resistance to any other procedure.

The legislative ticket to be elected in Baltimore controls the Legislature to such an extent as to decide the Senatorial question either for or against a Radical. The vote also in Baltimore will settle the way the State will go.

Forney in the Chronicle to day calls on the people of the North to stand in readiness to open the way through Maryland again to the Capital.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 23.—The Police Commissioners excitement continues. The Governor has issued a proclamation warning the leaders of all illegal combinations against the peace and dignity of the State; that in the event of riot and bloodshed growing out of these revolutionary proceedings, they will be held to the strictest accountability, and the power of the State will be exhausted to bring them to prompt and merited punishment.

We give an explanation of the Maryland trouble from the N. O. Crescent.

The police commissioners have the appointment of inspectors of election in Baltimore. These commissioners appointed radicals of course, and instructed the latter to refuse the votes of all persons registered this year. Such a decision naturally excited great commotion and indignation; but the commissioners and the inspectors persisted in their project, and actually carried it out at the recent municipal election, when only 7000 votes were cast out of 35,000. Thus the radicals succeeded in maintaining possession of the Baltimore city government. But it happens that Governor Swann, a gentleman who, although he was elected by the Republicans, desires that the reign of law and justice be restored in Maryland, has taken the side of the people in this controversy. The statute confers on him the power to remove the police commissioners for violation of their duties, and he considers that they could not be guilty of a grosser violation of official duty than that involved in the violation of the registry and the disfranchisement of three-fourths of the people.

He has, consequently, avowed his determination to exercise this power by removing the commissioners. The radicals, who had prepared to carry the State election by a repetition of the expedient which was so successful two weeks ago, are stunned by this announcement. They threaten resistance to the governor's order. They declare that they will revolt and inaugurate a civil war in the streets of Baltimore, rather than let their power slip from their hands. These threats would be considered only the idle vaporing of a disappointed faction, if the Maryland radicals relied on their own strength alone. But they look abroad for assistance. They expect to receive aid from their friends in the neighboring States, to enable them to make head against the law of their own State and the overwhelming majority of their own people. It is this circumstance which invests the Maryland contest with a serious aspect.

British Honduras.

BELIZE, HONDURAS, Aug. 3, 1866.

Having returned after an absence of fifteen days spent in examining the lands of this colony, I resume my correspondence with you upon a subject which is one of interest to a large portion of my countrymen, and trust I may be excused for any ostensible prolixity, my wish being to ventilate it thoroughly, impartially, and without the least exaggeration, having no intention to persuade any person to abandon a home to come here, but simply to enlighten those who will gladly embrace the opportunity which such information will expose to them, of advancing their pecuniary condition by a change. To accomplish this will require no little labor, as I intend to copy such laws as govern society and regulate labor; laws which are predicated upon the common law of England, and are recognized and obeyed by all as implicitly by the highest officer of the colony as by the poorest citizen within its jurisdiction.

Only one-tenth of the population are white, the remainder are of different colored races; English is the language of society and the laws, (which are printed in it,) and our countrymen can comprehend all of them. There are several Protestant churches in Belize, in all of which the services are conducted in English. There is one Roman Catholic Church.

I will defer any description of the resources of the country, the habits and customs of the people, until I shall have made public the code of laws which govern this colony; the primary consideration being the enjoyment of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" in peaceful security, and every one who will read them attentively can form his own opinion as to the prospects of his doing so here.

* * * * * * *

As I am just on the eve of departure, upon another exploration, time will not permit me to copy the remainder of the laws, but I will certainly complete them on my return.

I brought some of the cane which Bob talked on the plantation of Mr. Eddy's Agency, on the Sittee river. It is seven months old and grown without any cultivation. Some of it is first year ratoon of five months' growth; also a ratoon of four months' growth from old ratoon, and two bunches of rice taken promiscuously from a small crop which had just been gathered the 19th of July—the cane and rice grown upon Monkey river, without cultivation. The stalk of cane was four joints longer when I obtained it, and was accidentaly cut by one of the boat hands, who did not know my wish to keep it. All of them will be sent to Messrs Galbraith and Putnam, 135 Gravier street, New Orleans, where the curious may see them.

Since I have been here, the weather has been warm during the day, in the sun, though in the shade always pleasant under the invigorating influence of a strong sea breeze. The nights, particularly, are very cool, and a light blanket has not been at all uncomfortable any night—indeed, I have found it quite necessary. When I left here, there were but five vessels in the harbor; on my return there were twenty-three, a number of which were square-rigged ships of heavy tonnage, and others of various sizes, giving to the place quite a business appearance.

JAMES G. PUTNAM.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—There is no truth in the report that the attorney general has expressed an opinion in favor of Governor Wells's claim of power to remove the sheriffs of Louisiana for non compliance with his convention proclamation.

No representations at all have been made to the government in relation to such removals.

I learn from cabinet officials that the administration is insisting on the completo withdrawal of every French soldier enlisted under French auspices or prestige from the soil of Mexico.

There will be no further removals—at present among treasury officers in Louisiana.

PARIS, Oct. 23.—It is rumored here today that another manifesto is about to be issued to the different diplomatic representatives of the empire.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Reports from Candia say that after four days heavy fighting the Christian forces had repulsed the Turkish army.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 25.—There are no new development regarding the Police Commissioners. Their counsel still decline participation in the examination of witnesses to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Though the danger of a serious difficulty in Baltimore, on account of the Police Commissioners, is nearly over, such arrangements will be made as will insure the preservation of peace in any event.

The president considers that requisitions from the government of any State, no matter from what cause the difficulty arises, must be responded to.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—The Herald's Paris correspondent says the insanity of the Empress Carlotta was evidenced by her insisting that she was surrounded by Mexican and other enemies, who sought to take her life. She absolutely refused to leave the Vatican. The Pope treated her with great kindness.

It is said in Paris Napoleon's health is considerably impaired. Berlin reports, however, say he is in a dangerous condition, and his death may be looked for at any moment.

Most of the French journals give up Maximilian's cause in Mexico: Paris writers say he will not abdicate, but attempt to rule in a narrow area.

HALIFAX, Oct. 25.—The steamer Victor makes the following report: Turk's Island, on the 30th of September, was visited with a terrific hurricane, destroying over eight hundred houses and their contents. Over three thousand persons are rendered homeless and penniless, and are almost naked. One hundred and twenty thousand bushels of salt were swept away. Six foreign and twelve island craft were lost, with twenty of their crew.

W. G. COYLE & CO.,

COAL MERCHANTS.

Office: 142 Gravier street.

Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.

Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.

RICHARD ANGELL,

156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles

PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,

Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.

Chill Drops, the best curative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c; Bardotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)

Has established himself at No 103 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

STAFFORD & WILSON,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 66, Magazine Street,

oc27 1y NEW ORLEANS

A. E. BLACKMAR,

MUSIC PUBLISHER,

Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nunns," "Gulld" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c

oc27 1y. 167 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lebanon, Tenn — CHAS. S. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La

STEWART & BROTHER,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,

NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS

oc27 1y

THE GUIDE TO AND BEAUTY OF HOLINESS.

We would respectfully inform the former friends and patrons of the GUIDE TO HOLINESS, formerly published in Boston, by Rev. H. V. DEREN, that it has been united with the BEAUTY OF HOLINESS, under the above title and removed to New York, where it is now published by the subscribers.

It has been much improved, and under the able Editorship of Dr. and Mrs. PALMER & Rev. E. FOSTER, pursues its unswerving advocacy of heart-purity. We would gladly welcome the return of the many old friends of our MAGAZINE and cause throughout the south. Terms, $1.25 per annum in advance. To any one sending 4 subscribers and $5,00, we will send them a copy gratis if desired. Those subscribing now and sending the money in advance will receive two NUMBERS FREE. Pastors are requested to act as Agents.

Address, FOSTER & PALMER, Jr., 14 Bible House, N. Y. 26

ANNUAL CIRCULAR.

DELBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

(Open constantly Day and Evening,)

On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.,

In the Elegant and Spacious Story Building.

Founded in 1832—Chartered by the Legislature of Louisiana, with Commercial, Agricultural and Mechanical Departments

THIS COLLEGE has, by its own merits, and thorough, practical plan of Education, outlived all the liberally endowed State Colleges of this and the South-western States. It is the oldest Commercial College in the United States. It is believed to be the first in Europe or America, chartered with Commercial, Agricultural and Mechanical Departments. Every student who gives proper attention to the instruction, is qualified, before graduating, to keep any set of Books, it matters not what the business may be, and do the Correspondence of any house. Students can attend the Commercial Course, or the English, French, Spanish, German, Latin or Greek Languages, or the higher Mathematics, &c., separately. We have ample arrangements for

ONE THOUSAND STUDENTS

during the current year. The city is healthy.

Comparative Cost and Value of the Education given here and in the Ordinary Literary Colleges:

Cost of full Commercial Course here—

Tuition	$145
Board for three months	90
Contingent expenses, about	20
Total	$255

After which, the Student is ready to go into business, and make $1000, $2,000 or $3,000 annually.

Cost of Ordinary Literary Colleges.—About $100 per annum, for four years, or $1600; Clothing for four years, $200, or $800—total $2400—and four years of time expended. Our Student will begin to work after three or four months, and make, say the first year, about $1200; and two years and nine months at probably $1800, or $6,150 he earns in the four years. Deduct $255 leaves $5,895 net gain to our Student; but to the other a net expense of $2400; or $8,295 our Student has gained over the other. We suppose the Students in both cases to have a good English education to begin with. We deem a business education that enables the Student to earn $1000, $2,000, or $3,000 annually, to be the best fortune parents can give their sons.

Circulars and Catalogues sent to all who desire them.

Young gentlemen who have neglected their studies for the past five years, can here be perfected in any branches they may desire in a few months.

Terms—Payable in Advance.

Penmanship—lessons not limited	$ 25
Book Keeping—Double and Single Entry, &c., a perfect Course	50
Arithmetic—including all Commercial Calculations	50
Lecture on Commercial Law	20
The above constitutes the Commercial Course.
Stationery for Commercial Course, including Blank Books	10
Stationery for Penmanship	2 50
Diploma, for Master of Accounts	10
English—Grammatical Course	50
English—Full Course, not limited, including History, Rhetoric, &c	100
French—Full Course, not limited	100
Spanish—Full Course, not limited	100
German—Full Course, not limited	100
Latin—Full Course, not limited	100
Greek—Full Course not limited	100
Algebra—Full Course, not limited	50
Geometry—Full Course, not limited	50
Teacher's Course in Penmanship	100
A Life Ticket in all the Departments	500
For any Language, per month	20
Drawing, per month	20

N. B—A Student having paid for a Course in any branch as above, is entitled to a Life Ticket in that Department. He can attend such branches as he may desire.

☞ A Diploma from this College is a passport in all commercial communities. There are Monthly Graduating Classes. Students can begin at any time. Clergymen's Sons and Crippled Soldiers will have a liberal deduction made.

COLLEGE OFFICE—ROOM No. 7.

FACULTY.

RUFUS DELBEAR, President,

Lecturer on Business Customs, Book-Keeping, the Science of Penmanship, &c.

Agricultural Department.—.....Principal.

Mechanical Department.—.....Principal.

Commercial Department.—Hon J J LANE, Member N. O. Bar, Lecturer on Contracts.

Mathematical Department—GEO. B BRACKETT, Prof. and Lecturer on Commercial Calculations.

Book-Keeping Department.—J B GRIFFITH, Prof. and Lecturer on Book-Keeping, &c.

English Department.—Rev. GEO. W STICKNEY, Prof. and Lecturer on English Literature, &c.

French Department.—J V SURRUREAU, Professor.

Department of Penmanship.—B B EUSTON, Prof. and Lecturer on Business and Ornamental Penmanship.

Spanish Department.—MANUEL MARINO, Professor.

German Department.—Rev. A C HOPPE, Prof.

Latin and Greek Department.—M MARINO, Rev. A F HOPPE, Professors.

NEW ORLEANS—1866.

DIRECT IMPORTATION.

J. LEVOIS & CO.,

Invite the attention of

Wholesale & Retail

Buyers to their importation of

PARIS NOUVEANTES,

For Fall and Winter,

Comprising

DRESS SILKS,

In Embroidered, Brocade, Chines, and Solids, with a large assortment of

FOULARD SILKS,

In Printed and in Plain Colors, being designs printed exclusively for themselves.

Black and White Striped Silks,
Black and White Checked Silks,
Colored Silks, checked and striped,
Irish Poplins, plain,
Lyons Poplins, plaid and fancy,
French Merinoes and Delaines,
Alpacas, colored and black,
Opera Flannels, all colors,
French Cloths, plain & plaid,
Grey and White Blankets,
Carriage Blankets,
German Knit Goods,
Nubias, Sontags, Capes, Mulls,
Black Cloth Cloaks,
Black Silk Cloaks, of the Newest shapes and designs; with every article required in Housekeeping Goods.

J. LEVOIS & CO.,

Invite the attention of merchants to their cases of

IMPORTED AND AMERICAN GOODS,

Which they offer in quantities to suit, at the

Lowest Scale of Prices & on Liberal Terms

CORNER CANAL AND BOURBON STREETS.

oc20 1m

CLOTHING CLOTHING

For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.

Now receiving and opening for inspection, at

R. PITKIN'S

FASHIONABLE

CLOTHING EMPORIUM,

Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,

The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior

READY-MADE CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS

Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:

Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,
Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.

A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,

FOR CUSTOM WORK.

He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,

MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,

as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS

To his

Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing

suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.

Also a large assortment of

YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

TRUNKS,

VALISES,

CARPET-BAGS,

UMBRELLAS, ETC.

A call from the public is respectfully solicited.

R. PITKIN,

Fashionable Clothing Emporium,

13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15

ROBERT SLARK, ISAAC H. STAUFFER, — WM. A. KENT, CHAS. MACREADY

SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,

No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsiere St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.

Importers and Dealers in

HARDWARE:

Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws

MILL STONES,

INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND,

PLANTATION SADDLERY, ETC.

Constantly on hand a large assortment of

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS

Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrett & Cottman, for Sugar and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert King, "Carey," for Cotton; Peoria Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.

Agents for the Vieille Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. o13 1y

GAINES & REILF,

Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in

EARTHENWARE,
GLASS, CHINA,
JAPAN WARE,
PLATED WARE,
SILVER WARE,
FINE TABLE CUTLERY,
WATER PURIFIERS,
HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.

All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.

No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.

L. ELKIN,

3, Carondelet Street, 3.

Has just received from England, per steamship Loxor, a large assortment of superior

WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN

CARPETS,

RUGS,
WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,

And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Commission and Forwarding Merchants,

122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row, NEW ORLEANS.

R B Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. oc13 6m

JOB PRINTING.

COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,

PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,

And everything else in the line of job printing, executed in

The Very Best Style, at Moderate Prices.

Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

BOOKS! BOOKS!

The Agent of the Southern Methodist Publishing House, at 112 Camp street, New Orleans, has just received from the steamships George Cromwell and Merrimac, and by the steamboats Mepham and Olive Branch, ample supplies of Sunday School requisites: Catechisms, Spellers, Questions, Dictionaries, Primers, Reward Tickets, etc., etc. Also, Clarke's and Benson's Commentaries, and Hymn Books in sheep and roan.

Address:

H. J. HARP, Agent,
sep1ft 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

J. H. MASSEY,

(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.,)

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 100 Common Street,

Opposite City Hotel.

I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please any and all of my old friends and patrons, and also including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.

Very respectfully,

oc13 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

Also, a large and varied supply of

HOUSEKEEPING and

PLANTATION GOODS,

Constantly on hand, at

120 Canal Street,

sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

TULANE BUILDING,

New Orleans, La.

We are now in the receipt of a full assortment of

CLOTHING,

SHIRTS,

FURNISHING GOODS,

TRUNKS AND VALISES,

UMBRELLAS, ETC.,

Which we are selling at very reduced prices, at

Wholesale and Retail.

GARTHWAITE, LEWIS & STUART,

oc20 1m 31 & 33 Camp street.

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,

Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of

TINWARE,

Also,

COOKING AND HEATING STOVES

Of all kinds, for sale.

25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,

Corner Customhouse street,

oct20 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, — JOHN W. MADDEN, Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co.

P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,

General Mercantile Stationers,

JOB PRINTERS, AND

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

No. 73 Camp Street.

We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.

We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 2m

D. H. HOLMES,

Direct Importation of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,

AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

No. 155 Canal Street,

sep1 6m NEW ORLEANS.

JAMES A. GRESHAM,

BOOKSELLER AND STATIONER

92 Camp Street, New Orleans.

School, Medical and Law Books, Church and Masonic Books.

Job Printing and Binding executed at lowest market prices. oc13 1m

PHILIP WERLEIN,

82.....Baronne Street,.....82

Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALEY,

Dealer in

PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,

GUITARS, VIOLINS,

And other musical instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper—in fact everything belonging to music trade.

The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. BURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.

Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.

Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.

Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.

Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.

Music neatly bound.

P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 1y

CENTENARY COLLEGE,

Jackson, Louisiana,

Founded by the State of Louisiana in [illegible], and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1845. It is now under the [illegible] patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.

The college exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed, after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.

Tuition $75 per annum, payable semi-annually in advance.

Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month

The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.

The best history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.

The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.

The old students, alumni, and friends of the institution, are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.

A. W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALA.

The exercises of this institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught.

TERMS:

Tuition fees per term	$40 00
Contingent fee	5 00

Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month

aug4ft W M WHITTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.

The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.

The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.

TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $10.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March.

Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.

Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.

Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D., New Orleans, La.

As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.

W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

WOODVILLE FEMALE SEMINARY.

THE SECOND SESSION

Will begin October 3rd 1866, and close July 10th, 1867. The system of instruction aims at the truest, mental, moral, and social culture. The discipline seeks to embrace whatever is helpful to this end, and to exclude what is hurtful to it. Obedience to rightful authority, is a necessary to membership in the school.

TERMS PER SESSION.

Board, with fuel, lights and washing	$300 00
Tuition in Preparatory course	60 00
" Academic "	80 00
" Collegiate "	100 00
Music	80 00

Other ornamentals as low as can be afforded.

The Collegiate course embraces Latin and French without any extra charge. These charges are made from the beginning of the half month in which the pupil is entered, to the end of the session, and must be paid, one half in advance, and the other on the 1st of March, nor will assignment of a pupil to room, seat or class, be made until this demand is met. A sum sufficient to get books, music, and medicines for slight sickness, must be deposited with the Principal. Each boarding pupil must be provided with a supply of plain, neat clothing suitable to the season, and also with towels, table napkins—all marked in the owner's name. When a pupil, not residing in the Seminary, or one not remaining in it during her illness, is sick more than twenty consecutive days, a deduction of one half the charges for the time will be made.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, Principal.

Woodville, Miss., Aug. 8th, 1866. aug25 3m.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE

FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmer; Miss Jemima Constantine.

The Fall Session of this institution will open on the 26th day of September next.

This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattresses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.

The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.

TERMS:

For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—

Tuition, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks	$67 50
Regular Tuition	25 00
Incidental Fee	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of Instrument	37 50
French or Spanish	15 00

Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.

The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.

After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the Institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.

For other information address

CHARLES B. STUART, President,
aug4ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M., President,	Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal,
Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Maxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.

Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.

Board, with English Tuition, at $85 per quarter.

The next session commences 10th September.

Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to

A. J. WRIGHT.

D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.

jy14 6m

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 163 Camp street, New Orleans.

When was it established? 1850.

Who is its General Agent, to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev. James Hamtle.

Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.

What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.

What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.

What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans: then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.

What are the terms of membership?

The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.

The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.

The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.

The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.

The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.

Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not: to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S.: by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.

Our last thought is the heart-cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a26 1y.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,

FOR YOUNG LADIES,

Is located at Brookhaven, Miss. It is under the immediate care of Rev. Geo. F. THOMPSON, and under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. The Board of Visitors consists of Rev. B. Jones, Rev. W. Millsaps, Rev. George H. Clinton, and Rev. William Price—all members of that Conference.

Its course of instruction is as complete as that of any other institution for the education of females in the State, and is sufficient to accomplish all that can be desired by the friends of our Church.

The exercises of the first term of its next session will begin on the first Monday in September 1866, and ends Jan. 31, 1867.

For farther particulars apply to the Rev. G. F. Thompson, Brookhaven, Miss. a18ft

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp Street, corner Natchez—open day and evening.

This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.

For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address

f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address

f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

OPELOUSAS LAND AGENCY.—At the solicitation of numerous friends, the undersigned has consented to become an Agent for the sale and purchase of land in this healthy and much sought after country, above any high water overflow, and where the prospects for crops are so encouraging. He will take very great pleasure in shewing the land to any persons visiting this country, and in giving any other information that may be desired concerning it.

For reference I refer to the Editors of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

JAMES H. HOUSTON,
Sept 4, 1866. Opelousas, La.

TURNER & COHEN,

Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,

NO. 57 CAMP STREET.

Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.

These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.

The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of this city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER

And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,

61 Camp street, New Orleans.

Cartes de Visite,

Hall

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Since the date of our last issue the general market has been attended with considerable animation, and Flour, Corn, Pork, Bacon and Oats have evidenced improvement; while operations in our leading staple have been on a limited scale, and prices have disclosed no quotable variation, the market closing yesterday, however, under unfavorable account from New York, with a declining tendency.

COTTON — Yesterday the market opened with quite a general inquiry, but at a later hour, in consequence of the unwillingness of holders to make the concessions demanded by buyers, the movement became less active, and the sales were restricted to 1350 bales, at previous prices, the market closing, however, with a drooping tendency.

With the remark that the market appears to be well supplied at the present time, we now quote as follows:

Low	— to —
Ordinary	31 to 32
Good Ordinary	34 to 35
Low Middling	36 to 37
Middling	38 to 39

TOBACCO—We have again to note a very quiet market. There is no demand for export, the stock on sale being too small to offer inducements to foreign buyers to operate. Factors are very firm in their views, however, and what is on sale is held very strongly. Only a few hogsheads have been sold to the city trade since our last review, at full previous prices. We continue to quote:

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to 4½	Currency.
Good do	5 to —	— to 5½
Common Leaf	6 to —	— to 7½
Fair	8 to —	— to 10
Good	11 to —	— to 12
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec'n	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—The market is bare, or nearly so, of the domestic production, while the stock on hand of that of Cuba is very small. Buyers are waiting for receipts of the new crop, and the sales on Saturday and Monday were confined to 100 hogsheads old crop Louisiana Sugar taken in several lots, by dealers, at 14½c per lb for Good Fair, and 16c for Prime to Choice. Yesterday we did not learn of a sale worthy of note. Cuba Sugar, in boxes, is retailing at 12½ to 13c per lb.

MOLASSES — There is no Louisiana in market, very little of that of Cuba and only a retail business is doing in consequence at 65 to 70c per gallon. It is held in lots at 57 to 60c per gallon. Some 275 barrels old reboiled Cuba sold at 60 to 70c per gallon. Yesterday a lot of 10 half barrels, very Choice new Louisiana, the first received this season, sold at $1 12 per gallon.

FLOUR—Prices have exhibited increased firmness since last Thursday, owing to the small supply offering. The market is at present entirely bare of Superfine, and the lower grades of Extra. The higher grades are also very scarce, and higher figures are asked. On yesterday the new arrivals met with ready sale, at further advanced prices, and Superfine sold at $12 75 to $13, and Choice do, desirable for the use of bakers, at $13 25 per barrel. The transactions include 2000 bbls chiefly at the above rates. We now quote: Fine at $10 50, to $11 50, Superfine at $12 75 to $13 Single Extra at $13 25 to $13 75, Double do at $14 to $14 50, Treble do at $14 75 to 15 per bbl.

BACON—The supply of Shoulders and Ribbed Sides is scarce, while there is a fair stock of Clear Sides on hand. There have been, besides usual local jobbing trade, some orders from the country, and holders are now supplying the demand at 18½c for Shoulders and Ribbed Sides, while Clear will not bring over 19½c per pound. Green Shoulders are quoted at 16½c, to 17c, Bacon Hams at 21 to 22c, and Sugar-cured do at 25 to 26½c per lb.

PORK—The market has been quiet, except for small parcels, which have been supplied to the trade by dealers at $34 50 to $34 75 per bbl. for Even-weight Mess. Large lots will not command over $34 00 to $34 25 per barrel. There is but little sale for Prime Mess at $29 50 per bbl.

LARD—We have no sales to report of consequence. The business has been confined on a strictly retail basis. We cannot quote over 17½c for Prime in tierces, and 20½c to 20¾c per lb for Prime in kegs.

CORN—The supply in warehouse is very much reduced. This, together with the total absence of fresh arrivals, enables holders to realize full prices. There has been an active demand since last Friday, which has been met by holders principally at $1 per bushel for Yellow and White, at which rate about 7000 sacks changed hands. Yesterday the demand was active at full prices, with sales of fully 6700 sacks at 97½c for Mixed, $1 for Yellow, and $1 to $1 02 per bushel for White.

OATS.—The stock is very small, and prices have, in consequence, further advanced fully 3c per bushel on our quotations of last Friday. The sales on Saturday and Monday were confined to 1600 sacks, chiefly at 60c per bushel. Yesterday there was no alteration to note in prices, and about 750 sacks changed hands at the above mentioned figure.

BRAN — The demand is moderate, and but few sacks have been disposed of since our last report, not over 500 sacks, for which the ruling rate received was $1 40 per 100 lbs. Yesterday prices advanced from 5 to 10c, with sales of 500 sacks at $1 45 to $1 50 per 100 lbs.

HAY—There have been only a few lots of Prime St. Louis on the market, which in small parcels brought $28 per ton. There have been sales of some 1300 bales round hoop Ohio, 1000 of which brought $25, and the balance $24 per ton.

BALE ROPE—Little or nothing is transpiring, but the market exhibits considerable falling off in prices. We have no round sales to report, but furnish 15 to 15½c as the quotation. There is a brisk demand for the country, which is being supplied at these figures.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is greatly reduced, but the demand is very active at 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—There has been considerable movement, the particulars of which have been suppressed. Round lots are quoted at 34c in rolls, and 35½c per yard in bales, and retail parcels at 35c for the former, and 36c per yard for the latter.

GUNNY BAGS—There are but few in the market; we have heard of no sales of any importance for some time. We give 30c a piece as a fair quotation.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The market is overstocked with Western Butter, which is very dull at 20 to 35c per lb according to quality. Northern Butter is selling at 42 to 45c per lb. The inside figures for both are the rates for the larger lots. Cheese is in good supply and commands 16 to 18c for Western and Northern. We quote English Dairy at 23 to 25c per lb.

CORN MEAL — We noticed sales of some 300 bbls kiln-dried, White, in lots, at $5 per bbl. Retail lots command $5 25 to $5 50 per bbl.

HOPS—There is a very good demand for the new crop at 65 to 70c. Bavarian is scarce at 80c per lb.

COFFEE—Is in fair demand and the market is very firm. Dealers are supplying the demand at 28½ to 29½c per lb currency for Good to Prime Rio, at which rates 200 sacks were sold on Monday. We quote Prime at 19½c per lb gold, duty paid.

STAR CANDLES—There is only a fair supply on hand and the demand for the last few days has fallen off considerably. We, however, report our quotations, which are firm — 12 oz., 1 lb, 13 oz 21c, and full weight 25c per lb. 12 oz are in request for the country trade. Yesterday 100 boxes 12 oz. sold at 20c per lb.

WOOL.—The supply is fair, and a good demand prevails at 16 to 18c for Louisiana Native, 18 to 22c for Texas ¼ to ¼ Merino, 23 to 25 for do ½ to ¾ Merino; 28 to 30c for washed and 13 to 15c per lb for burry.

HIDES—Are in small supply, but the demand is beginning to slack, tanners being unwilling to pay the present high rates. Prices are ruling at 10 to 10½c for Green, 10½ to 11c for Kip Skins, 13c per lb for Dry Hides. Mexican Dry Hides command 18 to 21c per lb., and Pelts 20 to 25c per piece.

MALT — There is but little demand, and we furnish the following quotations for reference. Canada at $1 75 to $2 00, and Western at $1 00 to $1 75 per bushel.

OILS—There is some demand for Linseed at $2 to $2 05, and also for Coal in cans at 52½ to 55c per gallon.

NAVAL STORES.—Are in request, but the market is nearly bare. Small lots of Rosin are held at $4 to $4 50 for No. 3; $5 to $6 for No. 2, $7 50 to $7 75 for No. 1, $6 to $8 for White, Pitch $6, Tar $3 00 to $4 per bbl. Spirits Turpentine may be quoted at 62½ to 65c per gallon. There were sales on Saturday of 700 bbls No 1 Rosin at $7 75 to $8, and 50 bbls Spirits Turpentine at 65c per gallon.

SALT — We have little or no alteration to note; prices remain about the same and we continue to quote Liverpool $2 40 to $2 75 for fine, and $2 35 to $2 60 for Coarse in warehouse, and $2 15 for the former, and $2 10 for the latter in cargo. The supply of Turks' Island is confined to a small cargo, which is held at 65c per bushel.

ESCULENTS.—Potatoes are selling at $2 40 to $2 60 in sacks, and $2 75 to $3 00 per bbl. Apples at $5 to $6 00 per bbl, Onions $2 25 to $2 80 in sacks, and $3 75 to $4 00 in barrels, and Cabbages at 14 to 18c per crate.

POULTRY AND EGGS.—Chickens sell on the landing at $5 to $6 for the young and $8 per dozen for the large, Geese at $14 to $18 and Turkeys at $34 to $38 per dozen. Western eggs are selling at $36 to $38 per bbl.

FISH—Are in small supply with an active demand. We quote No. 1 Mackerel at $24 to $24 50 per bbl, No. 2 at $22 to $22 50, No. 3 at $17 to $17½. Codfish are selling at $1 90 to $ 2 per box.

BEANS—Are in good request, and meet with ready sale at $4 to $6 00 per bbl for Western, and $10 50 to $13 per bbl for Northern. There is an active demand for the latter.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. Choice new crop is held at 13 to 14c per lb. Choice old crop is selling in lots of 10 to 20 bbls at 13 to 13¼c per lb. India is quoted at 12 to 12½c per lb.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY,
Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, 1866.

Arrived since our last: 1588 Texas Beeves, 63 calves and yearlings, 127 hogs, 1045 sheep, and 27 milch cows.

Sold, 915 Texas Beeves, 763 calves and yearlings, 46 hogs, 168 sheep, and 27 milch cows.

Stock on sale: 1701 Texas and 13 Western beeves, 787 calves and yearlings, 307 sheep, and 61 milch cows.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to —
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	— to —
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 50
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$15 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	13 to 15
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$3 25 to $5 25
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$80 to $100
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 7 to $14
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

MONETARY.

The Coin market has evidenced a fair degree of activity, and rates have been comparatively steady during the past three days. Gold opened on Saturday at 146¼ to 146¾, and continued without any material change, closing firm at the opening rates; it opened on Monday at 146 to 146¾, and after selling as high as 147, closed steady at the opening rates.

J. R. POWELL,
COTTON FACTOR,
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANT,
190 Common Street,
W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & James. } NEW ORLEANS
☞ Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Duck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. G. ELLIS. W. C. CHAMBERLIN
ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jan20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,
46 Carondelet street, New Orleans,
COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,
General Commission Merchants,
And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,
Wholesale Grocer,
Nos. 8 and 10 Tchoupitoulas Street,
And 8 and 10 New Levee,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ROBERT L. WALKER,
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
17 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
uy21 1y

R. M. DENMAN. D. M. HOLLINGSWORTH
R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,
CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,
Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,
f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. K. WALKER. THOS. M'KNIGHT. J. F. JOHNSON.
R. K. WALKER & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchant,
75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
jan20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,
Importers and Wholesale Dealers in
DRY GOODS,
Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS
E PEET—B WILLIAMSON
P SIMMS—J BOWLING } aug25 1y

LOEB, SIMON & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
86 Canal Street,
sep1 3m NEW ORLEANS.

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.
HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.
Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.
Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jan20-1y

G. & T. F. SEARING,
Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in
CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS
No. 29 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
oc13 1y NEW ORLEANS.

H. L. CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. F. M. ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile
CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,
oc13 No. 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

R. BLEAKLY & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 56, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,
Corner Poydras and Tchoupitoulas sts.,
NEW ORLEANS.
All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of MR. J. F. GIRAULT, (formerly with the house of Messrs Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

H. P. ETHELL, New Orleans. NAT. H. THOMAS, Late of Alabama.
ETHELL & THOMAS,
FACTORS
And General Commission Merchants,
For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.
Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.
No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.
Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country.
Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sep1 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. THOS. D. MILLER
J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
No. 190 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep1 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. W. M. Owen. E. Owen
LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 6m

B. A. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.
B. S. HARPER & CO.,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,
GROCER,
And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,
a15 6m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally, 53 Gravier street, New Orleans.
sep15 1y

H. M. WRIGHT. C. W. ALLEN. J. HIBBLESTON
(1st August, 1865)
WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
169 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, Memphis, Tenn. JAMES M. ALLEN } New PERRY NUGENT, } Orleans.
T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,
(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 1y

F. F. FOLGER. L. FOLGER. W. H. THOMAS
FOLGER & CO.,
Dealers in
Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,
37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
(Opposite the St James Hotel)
Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
27 Camp Street, New Orleans.
WM. EDWARDS. } sep15 3m
EDWD. J. GAY. }

W. A. VIOLETT. R. Y. BLACK. S. H. SNOWDEN.
VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
a15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. A. LOTT, Madison County, Miss. C. W. WOOD, Canton, Miss.
LOTT, WOOD & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers & Commision Merchants
65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E. A. BANKS. W. W. LORING. G. W. VENABLE
BANKS, LORING & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
26 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

H. ATKINSON & CO: New York. JAMES HEWITT & CO., Liverpool.
HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And Commission Merchants,
188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWISHER & CO., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN., (Successor to FELLOWES & CO.)
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., New York. LEWIS, NANSON & CO., St. Louis.
OBER, ATWATER & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
38 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep15 1y

S. M. SWENSON, N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. W. M. PERKINS, D. L. KERNION, Of Perkins & Co., N.O.
PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street,
NEW ORLEANS.

SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
26 Exchange Place, New York.
a29 6m

EDW'D NALLE, NALLE, DAY & CO. W. C. DAY.
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,
158 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc13 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants
186 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc13 6m

E. S. KEEP. I. CAULFIELD.
KEEP & CAULFIELD,
Western Produce,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.
oc13 1y

HENRY WARE, Of Texas. WM. H. WARE, Of Texas.
H. WARE & SON,
Cotton and Wool Factors,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
oc13

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,
Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
No. 190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. JOS. HOY. CHAS. HAUDENBERGH.
CARROLL, HOY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,
aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No. 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JOHN H. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.
PARHAM & BLUNT,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,
No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,
General Commission Merchants and
COTTON FACTORS,
57 Poydras street.
Cotton Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4 6m

STEWART, GALBREATH & FIZER
Commission Merchants & Cotton Factors,
40 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Andrew Stewart, New Orleans.
Wm. H. Galbreath, Wm. Stewart, John C. Fizer, } Memphis.
sep1 3m

SAM'L. BARRETT. CHS. LESASSIER.
BARRETT & LESASSIER,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
118 CARONDELET STREET,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. A. H. MAY.
STEVENSON & MAY,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m.

P. H. FOLEY,
Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug 18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. S. B. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.
HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. H. R. ALSOBROOK.
WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,
WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,
No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. a18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,
Cotton Factors,
No. 32 Union Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
J. U. PAYNE, W. C. H. DAMERON, G. W. HUNTINGTON, H. M. PAYNE.
je23-1y

TOM HENDERSON, late of Henderson, Terry & Co. SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.
TOM & SAM HENDERSON,
COTTON FACTORS
AND
General Commission Merchants,
190 COMMON STREET,
je9 1y New Orleans

J. C. M'ALLISTER E. M'NAIR
M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
No. 74 Common Street,
ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

CARY W. BUTT. WM. FLASH. THOS. T. A. LYON
BUTT, FLASH & LYON,
Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.
Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.
Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants.
51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,
New Orleans.
J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. july7 1y

WATTS, OIVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. WATTS, CRANE & CO. New York.
W. C. WATTS & Co., Liverpool, England.
GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool.
feb3-1y

W. A. BELL. FRED'K. ODDEN. H. E. WITHERSPOON
WM. A. BELL & CO.,
General Commission Merchants,
And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,
41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30-1y

J. J. WARREN T. W. CRAWFORD F. B. FLEITAS
WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

E. A. HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.
HAMILTON & DUNNICA,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
42 Union street, New Orleans.
sep22 1y

L. E. WALKER, Missouri. C. B. FISHER, New Orleans.
WALKER & FISHER,
Commission & Forwarding Merchants
NO 6 (GROUND FLOOR) CARONDELET ST., N. O.
Solicit consignments of all kinds of Manufactured Goods, and will make liberal advances on same.
GEO. W. WALKER, JUN., late of the firm of Harper, Walker & Co., will give his personal attention to the sale of all consignments to our House. sep22 6m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,
Wholesale Dealers in
Fancy Goods,
STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,
HOSIERY,
Furnishing Goods, etc.,
35 MAGAZINE STREET,
Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La
aug25 1y

CHAS. H. CHURCHILL. PETER G. TAYLOR.
HARDWARE AND GUNS.
TAYLOR & CHURCHILL,
41 MAGAZINE STREET, and 20 BANK PLACE, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.
IMPORTERS,
DIRECT
We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.
COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.
Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.
GUNS, NAILS, TIN WARE, AXES, HOLLOW WARE, SAWS, &c.
Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations. Orders from the country are respectfully solicited. by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, opposite St James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832. aug25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,
Grocers and Commission Merchants,
95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of CHAMPAGNE,
BRANDIES,
WHISKIES,
CLARET,
CORDIALS, Etc.
Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, suitable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the
Most reasonable Rates.
☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.
W. H. HENNING & CO,
a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and
PLANTATION CLOTHING,
No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET, (SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices. a18 1y

A. B. GRISWOLD. W. M. GOODRICH
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Corner of Canal and Royal streets,
[Late HYNE & GOODRICH].
Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!
MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,
Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.
The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

JAMES SYME,
Wholesale Druggist,
130 CANAL STREET, (Touro Buildings,)
NEW ORLEANS.
Importer and Dealer in Fine
DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS,
DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES,
Fancy Goods and Perfumery.
Surgical Instruments,
French, English, and American, of every variety
Also—
Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags.
aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF,
Wholesale Grocer,
COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,
48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st.,
aug26 6m NEW ORLEANS.

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,
HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD
Established, August, 1861.
Destroyed, May, 1863.
Re-established, January, 1866.
SALES ROOMS,
C. E. CATE & CO.,
18 CAMP STREET, 18
Under the City Hotel.
We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of
LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF, AND KIP BROGANS,
Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.
We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.
A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.
C. E. CATE & CO.
feh17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W. C. SHEPARD. A. L. ABBOTT. R. C. HUTCHINSON
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,
Nearly opposite Picayune Office,
CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,
PLATED WARE,
House Furnishing Goods,
AND KITCHEN WARE.
We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.
Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!
BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
Established in 1837.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W. COFFIN & CO.,
102 & 104 East Second street,
Cincinnati, Ohio,
Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.
Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our Improved Rotary Yoke.
All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.
Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
CLOTHING,
AND
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
No. 27 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS
Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.
☞ Special attention given to orders.
Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,
Corner of St. Andrew Street,
oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,
Successors to D. Genella,
112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,
Dealers in
CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,
Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,
PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.
Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.
J. P. WILSON,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,
77 Magazine Street,
oc16 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]
EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL
Hat Emporium,
No 62 CAMP STREET,
Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. a18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY
DRAKE & MARKHAM,
Manufacturers of
Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Children's
BOOTS AND SHOES,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.
We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best Imported stock, by skillful workmen.
We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.
OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!
Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.
Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.
One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.
We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.
Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.
All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP-STREET.
aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE
is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family.
Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delay of your daily meals, may be saved by using the
CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.
Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.
The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top
has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.
The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.
The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove, is the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, wherehy the offensive odors arising from broiling during the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.
The Hot Closet, in which meats and puddings are kept warm for hours when there has been a delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to finish the greatest variety of dishes and desserts, and place them hot upon the table.
This Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.
Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Edge Tools, etc.
RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,
93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras,
and 565 Magazine street, near Magazine Market
sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN
PRICE'S
Patent Texas Tonic,
PURELY VEGETABLE.
It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for
CHILLS AND FEVERS.
For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.
For sale at 56 Camp street, New Orleans.
THOS. K. PRICE, Vendor.
Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of
PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,
Or, Vegetable Medicine.
T. K. PRICE, ESQ., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:
DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate use and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetable Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefited.
Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,
We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City No 6.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Office.
T. GREENFIELD, of house of Fellowes & Co.
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. HENSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce.
New Orleans, June, 1863.

TERMS:
4 oz Bottles	$2 00
6 " "	3 50
8 " "	5 00
12 " "	8 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottle or more at 33½ per cent discount off retail price.
All orders will meet with prompt attention.
sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,
PAPER WAREHOUS

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 42.
WHOLE NUMBER 608.

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1866.

$4.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE
OFFICE—124 CAMP STREET.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

LAY REPRESENTATION—NO. VII.

Ms. EDITOR: The second resolution or provision of this plan, to our mind, is its most objectionable feature. It reads thus:

"The ministers and laymen shall deliberate in one body; but upon a call of one fifth of the members of the Conference, the lay and clerical members shall vote separately; and no measure shall be passed without the concurrence of a majority of both classes of representatives."

We suppose this was designed as a check of legislation; but is it not a check with a vengeance? We see that if the laity were like to run away with the car, the ministry could put this "patent break" on to the track, and not only stop the velocity, but even the entire motion, and thus bring all to a stand still; and we suppose it was intended for this very purpose; for as the framers of this bill doubtless saw, as all must see, the danger from this introduction of different classes into the same body. They anticipated trouble ahead, and this is the provision or instrument with which they can "check legislation;" but does it not give the same power to the laity?

This measure gives "veto power" to one half of the laity present. The house once divided, no measure can pass unless more than one half of the laity "concur;" and if a small number of laymen are in attendance, it may give the veto power to a very small number of them; and they too may thus stop all motion; and say, if the ministry will not legislate to suit them, the ministry shall not legislate at all. And they could thus prevent the passage of a single motion for twelve months or till doom's day. But let us look at this terrible thing a little more closely.

Suppose that many of the lay delegates fail to attend, or being present, leave before Conference ceases, to attend to their homes and secular business; both of which are very supposable cases. And then suppose that the General Conference consists of eighty ministers and twenty laymen. A measure is like to pass that these laymen do not like. They call for a division of the House. It must be granted; and then ten of these laymen refuse to "concur." There is not a "majority of both classes," and the measure does not pass. Nor can any other measure pass if these ten refuse to concur. This gives ten men the veto power over a hundred, or over eighty ministers and their own body of twenty. That is, ten men rule themselves and ninety more. That is a veto power, as we said above, "with a vengeance;" and no two-thirds majority can overrule them, nor control them, nor touch them. There they stand, legally stand. They do not "concur." Nobody has any right to compel them to "concur," and without concurrence nothing can be done.

And then the case may be far worse than this, when there are less laymen present, if a few ministers will only help to divide the house. In that case, the number of laymen being small enough, three men, one man, refusing to concur, can control the whole body. Be assured that if we adopt this measure, the ministry must legislate to please the laity, or nothing can be done. And the laity must legislate to please the ministry or nothing can be done, as each class carries this lifth wheel with a lock on it, and they will apply it when the motion does not suit them. Oh! If we must have this lay representation, do not bring with it this terrible "patent break," which may be used at pleasure, by such a small minority of the passengers, while the vast majority may be so anxious to go on. A few men might thus compel us to sit there in the cold forever, or leave the car and make our way home, alone, along the track on foot. The more we look at the thing, the more it horrifies us.

Suppose the ministry should wish to make some new regulation with reference to their support. The late General Conference merged the matter of "Quarterage" into a "competent support." Now, after an experiment of a few years, it is found that the indifference of the church to this "competent support" is such, that the preachers and their families are starving to death, or are driven from the field, and the ministers wish to go back to the old system, or to adopt some other; and suppose that a few of these indifferent laymen sent to the General Conference do not "concur;" then nothing can be done, but to go on and starve.

Again, suppose the time to come when the church members are disposed to patronize worldly amusements to the injury of spirituality and piety; and the ministry think it necessary to make our rules a little more stringent. A few laymen may refuse to concur, and again nothing can be done. All the annual conferences may have recommended a measure. Every minister in every annual conference may have recommended a measure; and every minister in the General Conference may vote for it; and yet the hall of the laymen present, no matter how few their numbers, half of them refusing to concur, nothing can be done. Worse and worse!!

Let us suppose one more case. These are all possible, probable, supposable cases.

Suppose the ministry should think it necessary to elect another Bishop, and the laity should refuse to "concur." No Bishop could be elected. Let the laity continue to refuse to concur, and we could never elect another Bishop, and the result would be that our Episcopacy would soon die out. But it might be said; the General Conference has no power to destroy the Episcopacy. But these laymen might say, "we do not destroy it. Time and death destroy it. We only do not create it." And if a majority of them would not concur, who could harm them? And then, what do democratic majorities care for "restrictive rules?"

More than two hundred years ago the laity, in the Church of Scotland, even "deposed" the Bishops in that Church; and she has had no Bishops since. "The Bishops," in that case, "protested against being tried by the Assembly, chiefly on the ground that it was "partly composed of lay elders." The Bishops farther objected that "it was an encroachment on the pastoral office, contrary to the Holy Scriptures," etc. They also opposed many other arguments; but all to no purpose. The Assembly went on with the trial, "deposing the Bishops and abolishing Episcopacy." And so it may be in our Church; and so we fear it will be, if we introduce this large lay element into our ecclesiastical economy. Our Bishops may object; the ministry may object, but it will all be to no purpose if we commit those vast interest to the laity.

LOCAL ITINERANT.

Louisiana, Oct. 20th, 1866.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

JNO. W. BURRUSS.

IN MEMORIAM.

In the city of St. Louis, on the fifth day of Oct., 1866, ended the mortal life of W. Burruss. He had reached the maximum of spiritual purity and greatness possible to the earth-abiding. The clay house was no longer a fit tenement for one so Christ-like, so Christ-full. The lord saw it, and took him to the house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens. No truer, nobler spirit, that day, entered the wonders and the glories of the higher life. The Lord who redeemed him and whom he served, had need of him. He had endured to the end, and the new name and the crown of life must be given. The coronation day had come and he must go; go to the kingship and the priesthood; to the friends that waited his coming, to the work and the worship that waited his doing. Accompanied by his daughter and other kindred he had passed three months in St. Paul, Minesota; all hoping that it would please God to give him health and strength through the ministry of the invigorating air of that latitude. But such was not God's will. It would seem that his relatives had been blessed with his presence long enough; that long enough the church and the world had beheld his excellence, and he must depart. On the homeward journey he stopped at St. Louis, and from thence the invisible and immortal went to the eternal home. The remains were accompanied to his late residence by his stricken son and daughter.

The burial service was performed with fitting solemnity by the Rev. Dr. Watkins, and many witnessed the interment of all that was mortal of this good, great man.

Mr. Burruss graduated at Middletown University, while that was the representative institution of learning of the Methodist Church in her ecclesiastical unity. Graduated with honor; it is said, a fact as connected with him which had a higher significance than as asserted of most. I have been informed that the seeing men of that Institution saw in him the man they needed and desired that he would serve and honor his Alma Mater, by occupying a professor's chair. They saw the then man and the promise of the man to come, and knew that after years would bring to them a wealth of excellence and purified manhood, which good men might lawfully covet. Twenty-eight or nine years ago he settled near Woodville, at a place which continued to be his home until his final departure. He settled not to gather money, not to receive honor of men, but to do God's will, to perform divinely appointed duties, and to bless and save men by striving to lift them to the plane on which he lived. The son of an eminent minister of Christ, and diligent worker of righteousness, he early entered the church, early united with Christ. The fragrance of his Lord's Righteousness removed the taint of his mortal corruption, and he lived among men, the pure hearted man, seeing God. Symmetrical wholeness was his peculiar distinction, physically complete, intellectually full, morally entire. His intellect was strong without ruggedness, delicate without feebleness, and widely and wisely cultivated. He met every department of science face to face, and received the revelations each would make; these he grouped and made available. The most difficult and practical and speculative problems he held with a firm grasp, and reached the full or the approximate solution as completely as any other could do. He apprehended the finest shades of thought, saw the excellent in art, beheld the wonders and the beauties of God's material works, and the harmony of nature in praise of the Maker, inaudible to many, was heard by him. He entered into the mystery of godliness; and the mystery of godliness was revealed to him. He received Christ as only those can who are strong in the faith that worketh by love. He believed, adored, loved, obeyed. World-wide sympathies dwelt in his heart; he sympathized with men in their weakness and woe, in their strength and joy. He always had guidance and help for those struggling toward manhood; and righteous indignation and stern yet charitable rebuke for the persistantly sordid and impenitently base. For ten years he superintended the Sunday School of the Methodist Church in this place, and made it such a school as is rarely seen; he blessed the children, and their blessing came to him. He inspired pupils and teachers; and his school awakened gladness and gratitude in all who had aught of sympathy with holy work. If I dared anvail the sanctity of his domestic life, I could exhibit a paternal piety, dignity and tenderness, a filial reverence and love blending in holy joy and grateful praise, an enchanted home, the controlling power being Christ in the father. Although so richly endowed, so thoroughly furnished to every good, great work; he never held any position in the State that men called public, and the occupants of which are sometimes libelled great. Superior to most and the peer of the greatest, he never sought place; but place must seek him; and place would have sought and found him if men had obeyed the truth that was in them. When inetitious helps are useless, and men in loneliness and nakedness must meet a relentless reality, then the truth will make itself heard. Such an hour there was when the Confederacy died, and many hopes died with it. When peril was left to be imminent and men doubted and trembled, then, as the needle turns to the pole, men's hearts here turned to John W. Burruss, as the needed man—the man in whom was help; whom all could trust, whom foes must respect, whose clearly eye could discern the way of escape and whose manhood could achieve the rescue. Such was the popular verdict in a true, earnest hour. Unconscious belief in him became conscious, and the acknowledgment of his worth, so long suppressed, would no longer be stilled. He was equal to any position requiring purity and power, and such he would have adorned. In wide travel through the domain of literature, he gathered much of a valuable material which became his, not only by right of the labor of acquiring, but also by recoinage in his own mental mint; from whence it came forth with increased worth and bearing his image and superscription. This wealth he liberally bestowed; and not a few were thereby enriched. His diction, oral and written, was rich, elegant and robust. The things uttered were those men needed to hear. He saw through varnish and wrappage into men's hearts, through shows into the substance of things. He was a profound thinker, a great sayer and doer. His eye was single; his whole body full of light; the light of a holy life. He walked among men in the princely humility of a child of God. Good men gladly approached him and were cordially welcomed. Bad men fled from his presence, and the cowardly and the vile, despite their envy and their falseness, bowed before the simple majesty of his spirit. In his last months there were days of pain and sleepless nights of agony, yet no murmur was uttered; patiently and submissively all was accepted and borne. The strong man, child-like, reposed upon his Saviour's love and peace; fully departed. Whoever can receive the inspiration of his life, let him receive it.

Whoever will imitate his example, let him reverently assay the holy task. His life was a psalm of praise and its music yet lingers in our hearts. The Lord gave and the Lord hath taken away, blessed be the name of the Lord.

P. LANE.

Woodville, Miss., Oct. 23rd, 1866.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

BASCOM.

BY REV. JOSEPH B. COTTRELL.

"In 1820 the Tennessee Conference was held in Hopkinsville, Ky., and he was appointed to Madison circuit, Ky., under Wm. Martin, an aged and venerable minister, but it was the first year of his itinerancy, and he was only in Deacon's orders. Portions of this circuit were very rough, indeed. Being placed under an inferior in office, in talents and experience, and on a circuit, parts of which were rude and mountainous sections of the country, it was interpreted on the parts of his friends, and so understood by himself, to be an intended oppression."

The above we copy from the Memoir of Bascom, furnished by Bishop Kavanaugh for the minutes of the Annual Conferences of the M. E. Church, South. At the time such a disposition was made of H. B. Bascom, he had been for several years a prompt, coostant and laborious itinerant preacher, and was then in Elder's orders. Bascom went to his work — performed it; during the year invited Hubbard H. Kavanaugh to visit him, which invitation was accepted—and they rode together two weeks "over some of the rougher portions of his work, and some of the best." "It was during this tour that I learned to knew and love the man," remarks Bishop K. At the close of the year, Bascom having meekly borne what his friends and he deemed "an intended oppression," returned to the Conference for another appointment. He had not been provoked either to kick in or out of the harness; and the same generous, considerate, paternal custodians of the interests of the Church and ministry send him as the third man on the work to Kingston Circuit. Animadversion is not attempted by the Bishop who mentions this, from the simple fact, we presume, that even he could not do justice to the subject. To one of sensibility to the claims of true worth—to simple, ordinary justice—the whole transaction is provocative of disgust and indignation. But the men that did it were good meaning, mistaken brethren! Out upon such an idea! All they lacked of doing what Spanish Inquisitors would do—all that prevented them from cracking young Bascom's bones, to compel compliance with their prejudices and tastes—was the mere accident that they lived under a civil government which prohibited such a mode of torture. In spirit and in substance, before God, it was of a piece with that which obtained under a more severe regime; and at the Last Analysis, the hearts of the men engaged in the infliction of each are the same. After no little observation and study, and some little experience, the above is the writer's deliberate opinion. There can be a diabolical inquisition over mind and spirit—a lasceration of sensibility all the more intolerable, and a persecution all the more gratifying to those capable of revenge, because of the impossibility of meeting them with evident exposure. And we generally hate those whom we are conscious of having wronged. Bascom deemed it an effort to drive him from the Church. Imagine the high souled, God-made man, as Tom Carlysle would say, "swallowing down his indignations and disgusts," and betaking himself to the solitary rides over Estill Mills, prosecuting the labors appointed him by such a set. He, in the ingenuousness of his young itinerant soul, with sealed lips, had placed himself in the bands of men venerable with age. Oh! how reverently, and discreetly and advisedly, and in what fear of God, they enacted that historical fact! This young Eaglet—(his Eagle nature was in him and he couldn't help it)—was too rare a bird; he must be tamed. Doubtless his Presiding Elder found him deferential to his authority—bearing himself with courtly courtesy; but, then, he couldn't be made a Presiding Elder's "man Friday." Could be nobody's pet. Unpleasant to have him in "my District." Various reasons for it. Did not take special pains to let his Elder see his name on his ticket for General Conference. Such a soul could not stoop to obtain countenance and favor on such terms. To keep from making shipwreck of the faith and of his own piety, he had to make the struggle — and oh! what a struggle it is—and bear himself towards those who had purposely and deliberately wronged him, as though they were really what they pretended to be. "The Pharisees sit in Moses's seat. Whatsoever they bid you observe, do." Something is due to office; something, also, to what others imagine to be the worth and merit of one whom you know to

"Hide the heart of Titus Oates Behind the words of Penn."

Our bearing must receive a modification therefore "by a decent respect for the opinions of mankind." Bascom had the clue to this wise and benevolent policy, and it led him out ultimately into a large and wealthy place.

"The owls and bats in full assembly find
On special search
The pure eyed Eagle blind."

Or rather, should we say, a Bussardling was deemed more tractable and better suited to their handling than an Eaglet, and so the effort was nicely and gravely made to make this one take the garb and affect the movements of the other. But he couldn't help it. It was in him, and must out. To the topmost crag of the highest mountain, with Eagle scream, the genius he could not smother bare him, and his range of vision was such as to cause him to overlook some very little things—the conditions upon which others obtained their favors and had a small importance.

There is a moral here: Power, position, authority—these devolve delicate and sacred duties. By means of them men may serve themselves and serve others who serve them, and at the same time serve some one else, but not God. Occasion presented in which, with seeming impurity, they may offend one of His little ones who has said something about a millstone, and the deepest part of the sea, it were well to stop—consider—pray; and err, if at all, on the safe side; the side of charity, generosity, magnanimity; if indeed I have not, in these last three words, inverted the order of the climax, or used synonimes. Another moral: Such injustices give occasion for the attestation of fidelity, firmness, principle. Bascom endured, and God vindicated him. What of his persecutors? May God have pardoned them and all like them,—along down the march of Methodist itinerancy; amen and amen; and let every Itinerant preacher fail to say the same at the peril of his peace, piety and Providential promotion.

Orion, Ala., Sept. 21st, 1866.

TREASURES OF THOUGHT.

If thou hast thrown a glorious thought
Upon life's common ways,
Should other men the gain have caught,
Fret not to lose the praise.

Great thinker, often shalt thou find,
While folly plunders fame,
To thy rich store the crowd is blind,
Nor knows thy very name.

What matters that, if thou enroll
The soul that God has given,
Not in the world's mean eye to toil,
But in the sight of heaven?

If thou art true, yet in thee lurks
For fame a human sigh;
To nature go, and see how works
The handmaid of the skies.

Her own deep bounty she forgets
In full of germs and seeds,
Nor glorious herself, nor sets
Her flowers above her weeds.

She hides the modest leaves between,
She loves untrodden roads;
Her richest treasurers are not seen
By any eye but God's.

Accept the lesson. Look not for Reward; from out thee close
All selfish ends, and ask no more
Than to fulfill thy place.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

MT. LEBANON.

Mr. EDITOR: We have had an interesting time here since the visit of Bishop Marvin. Quite a spirited newspaper correspondence between Eld. F. Courtney, Md., Pastor of the Baptist Church at this place, and H. A. Perryman, Esq., a layman in our Church, with regard to the Bishop's sermon on baptism. The teachings of Dr. Clarke and Mr. Wesley, the temptations presented to Methodist preachers which, the Dr. thinks, render them incapable of an impartial investigation of the subject of baptism; the electioneering of Baptist preachers for promotion, and the powers of Methodist ministers, etc., etc., has for several weeks been the order of the day. Bro. Perryman, though comparatively a young member, has done himself, and the cause which he represents, ample justice. Indeed, the Dr. has proposed a discontinuance of the subject, to which Bro. P. has agreed only upon certain conditions.

I had thought that we would have an instructive discussion of the subject of baptism here, through the columns of the Louisiana Baptist; as Ed. A. S. Worrell, Editor of the Baptist, and President of Mount Lebanon University, magnanimously tendered the columns of the Baptist to "any Methodist minister of accredited standing in his own denomination" for that purpose; but strange to say, he withdrew said proposition from the Baptist immediately, on learning that Rev. James L. Chapman would discuss the subject on the terms proposed; and positively refuses to debate said subject with Bro. Chapman.—The public would like to know his reason. Verily, Mr. Editor, this is a strange world!

The ordeal through which Methodism has passed, and is now passing, has not, as yet, left even the smell of fire on her garments; and if she is true to herself she will come out of the firs as gold tried seven times in the furnace. The mission of Methodism will not have been accomplished until the gospel shall have been preached to every creature, and every tongue shall have confessed to the glory of God the Father.

The Church meetings on the Sparta circuit are a perfect success; and give, I believe, entire satisfaction to almost if not entirely the whole membership of the Church. Yes, just the thing, that for years we have needed.

Although there has been no general revival in the bounds of this circuit; I am satisfied that there has been a steady increase of interest manifested. The spiritual condition of the Church is evidently improved. The head of almost every family of the Church has promised to erect the family altar, and offer the sacrifices thereon regularly. We are really encouraged at the present prospects.

I rejoice to know, Mr. Editor, that Bishop Marvin's call for contributions to Mt. Lebanon Church, is not entirely unheeded. A few days since I received a letter from Bro. T. K. Price, of your city, containing contributions, and soon after, yours also, containing amounts from several parties whose names you will please publish. I do hope, my Bro., that the friends of our beloved Methodism will not forget as in this, our great extremity; but forward us the amounts which they are willing to give immediately; as the time is rapidly approaching when our indebtedness must of necessity be paid.

I would be happy to have the preachers remind their congregations of our pressing necessities, and also exceedingly happy if all would respond to the Bishop's call.

THOS. J. UPTON.

Oct. 16th, 1866.

"I can't," never crossed the Alps, or raised an acre of corn.

GROWTH OF THE CHURCHES.

We find in the Cincinnati Gazette the following interesting and valuable comparative view of the population of the United States. Protestant Churches for the years 1800, 1832, 1850, and 1860:

1800.	Ministers.	Com'cants.
Baptists	1000	100,000
Congregationalists	500	75,000
Episcopalians (Pro.)	360	12,000
Methodist (Epis.)	290	65,000
Presbyterians	300	40,000
Minor sects	50	55,000
Population of the U. States		5,300,000
1832.
Baptists	2900	305,000
Congregationalists	1000	140,000
Episcopalian (Pro.)	560	35,000
Lutheran	200	44,000
Methodist (Epis.)	1780	476,000
Methodist, others	600	60,000
Pres. Gen'l Assembly	2100	217,000
Presbyterian, others	600	60,000
Minor sects	20	21,500
Population of the U. States		13,614,000
1850.
Baptists (Regular)	5140	687,000
Baptists, others	680	67,000
Disciples	850	119,000
Congregationalists	1690	197,000
Episcopalian (Pro.)	1530	72,000
Lutheran	660	163,000
Methodist (Epis.)	16,050	1,196,000
Methodist, others	1000	111,000
Pres. (O. & N. S.)	4300	337,000
Presbyterian, others	1490	232,000
Minor sects	900	107,000
Population of the U. States		23,200,000
1860.
Baptists (Regular)	8650	995,000
Baptists others	1900	126,500
Disciples	3500	347,500
Congregationalists	2530	258,000
Episcopalian (Pro.)	2070	136,000
Lutheran	1130	219,000
Methodist (Epis.)	23,150	1,767,000
Methodist, others	3600	271,500
Pres. (O. & N. S.)	4200	430,000
Presbyterian, others	2380	210,000
Minor sects	309	174,000
Population of the U. States		31,430,000

In the Methodist Church "local preachers are included in the number of ministers, as are "licentiates" in the Baptist Church for the years 1850 and 1860, and in the Presbyterian Church for 1850.

1800—One communicant for 10 5-10 inhabitants, ten years old and upward.

1832—One communicant for 7 4 10 inhabitants, ten years old and upward.

1850—One communicant for 4 3 10 inhabitants, ten years old and upward.

1860—One communicant for 3 1 2-10 inhabitants, ten years old and upward.

From 1800 to 1860 the population of the United States increased nearly six-fold, and during the same period the communicants in the Church increased more than fourteen-fold.

According to the census of 1860, the number of churches in the United States was 54,009, and the value of Church property over $171,000,000. The number of churches had increased fifty per cent. and the value had doubled in the preceding ten years. More than one-half the Church property was owned in four States, New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Ohio. Pennsylvania had more churches than any other State, and the average value of those in Rhode Island and Massachusetts was the greatest. There was an average of one church to every 544 persons. The Baptists had 11,220 churches; Free-Will Baptist, 530; Mennonite Baptist, 109; Seventh Day Baptist, 53; Six-Principles Baptist 9; Tunker Baptist, 103; Winebrenner Baptist, 65; Christian, 2068; Congregationalist, 2234; Dutch Reformed, 440; Episcopal, 2145; Friends, 726; German Reformed, 676; Jewish, 77; Lutherans, 2124; Methodist, 19,883; Moravian, 49; Presbyterian, 5061; Cumberland Presbyterian, 829; Reformed Presbyterian, 136; United Presbyterian, 389; Roman Catholics, 2550; Shaker, 12; Spiritualists, 17; Swedenborgian, 58; Union, 1366; Unitarian, 264; Universalist, 604; Adventist, 70; Sandemanian (in Connecticut,) 1; Mormon (2 in New Jersey, 1 in Pennsylvania, and 21 in Utah,) 24. The Baptists, Methodists and Catholics have churches in every State, and Presbyterians in every State but Maine.

The number of churches owned severally by the Christians, the Congregationalists, the Episcopalians, and the Lutherans, it will be seen, is very nearly the same.

The average value of the Mormon churches is over $43,000; Catholic churches $10,000; Unitarian about $17,000; Spiritualist, $450; Methodist about $2000; Presbyterian nearly $5000; Episcopal, $10,000; Dutch Reformed, $10,000; Congregationalists, $6000; Baptists, $1700.

There were no Unitarian or Congregational churches in Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas or Virginia.
—Church Intelligencer.

Agassiz and the Amazon.

Professor Agassiz, it has been known for some time, thinks that the valley of the Amazon will one day support so many millions of people that the valley of the Mississippi will be nothing to it, although the latter lies in the temperate and the former in the torrid zone. On the evening of the 9th inst. he gave some of his reasons for this view in a public lecture. The facts he presented were most striking. He set out on this journey with every advantage that wealth, science and good will could afford. His expenses, and those of six assistants, were paid by Mr. Thayer, of Boston. Other assistants volunteered, and thus sixteen persons formed this most remarkable of scientific expeditions. Of two steamship companies, one gave his expedition a free passage to Rio, and the other placed a steamer at his disposal for a whole month.

The United States government sent a circular to all our naval officers on the station to render the expedition all the service in their power; and the emperor of Brazil treated them with an imperial hospitality that arranged for the accomplishment of all their desires. A ship of war was placed at the service of the professor for several months on the Amazon. He consumed 2500 gallons of alcohol in preserving the specimens brought away, and was even able to bring home a fossil palm tree, to enable naturalists to throw light upon the former vegetation and climate of those American tropics. Humbolt, when he attempted to enter Brazil from the waters of the Orinoco, was stopped on the frontier, and forbidden to enter, as a man whose principles were pernicious to society and inimical to religion. Strange contrast!

The banks of the Amazon form a peculiar specimen of tropical nature, quite unlike similar regions in Africa or Asia. There are no hills for two hundred miles clear away across the continent to the foot of the Andes, and the river is four thousand miles long, running from west to east, the valley being eighteen hundred miles wide and of the most amazing fertility, full of vegetable matter and irrigated by rivers where ships of war can sail for hundreds of miles. The climate averages but 82 degrees, though right under the line—72 degrees being the lowest, and 95 degrees the highest ever known. The river runs just opposite to the trade winds, and thus makes this one of the most mild and healthful of all tropical regions. Yet it has a bad name, owing to the bad arrangements of the Brazilian government which sends out to these regions young officers, who misrepresent the climate to get away. All his company went and returned with comfort, and are now enjoying better health than usual. The woods are full of timber of the most valuable varieties. One hundred and seventy-eight different kinds of timber were counted in a small region.

The river is not open at present, but soon will be. There is not a saw mill on this noblest of rivers. In August and September the snows of the Andes melt, but the lower section does not feel the rise till the following March, and the river is highest from June to October. The rise is from thirty to sixty feet; sometimes the whole basin is under water, and the forests may be navigated.

The river has no delta like the Nile, the Ganges or the Mississippi—not for want of mud, for it is of a sort of half coffee, half cream color, and tinges the ocean far out to sea. Instead of forming land, the sea is constantly encroaching on the shore. The river once extended three hundred miles beyond its present mouth, and a belt of that breadth has been swept away. Whether this is owing to the sinking of the coast, or the force of the current undermining, as at Niagara Falls, is not certain; but rivers now empty into the Atlantic that used clearly to be tributary to the Amazon.

As to the prospect of this river soon being open to a profitable American commerce, it must be borne in mind that whatever may be the mildness of the climate for the tropics, yet fevers would appear certain to prevail. Fish is abundant in the river, but so are alligators; and serpents, jaguars, bears, panthers, and other wild animals are equally abundant. The tides at the full of the moon are more wonderful than in the Bay of Fandy. They do not rise so high, but much more suddenly, sweeping along like a mighty wave or tongue of water, ten or twelve feet high, uprooting trees and sweeping vessels most destructively. Still, where money is to be made difficulties will be overcome, and the interests both of the United States and the Brazilian government are too closely connected with the opening up of that vast region to leave any doubt but that under the present enlightened emperor of those vast, rich and important regions, the valley of the Amazon will be opened to prolific commerce and settlement. — Philadelphia Ledger.

A WONDERFUL DREAM, AND A NARROW ESCAPE FROM DESTRUCTION.—Mr. Robertson, Mail Agent on the Atlantic and Great Western Road between Dayton and Cleveland, related to us, yesterday, the strange item about a farmer who prevented a terrible disaster on that road near Mansfield, Ohio, at the time of the recent general freshet. We had before seen a paragraph relating to the singular affair. Mr. R. conversed with the farmer, and here is the story, in short: The farmer (a Pennsylvanian) went to bed during the heavy and protracted storm, Monday night, and dreaming that the fill across a chasm, some hundred feet deep, had given way under a passenger train and let it down into the abyss, he sprung up to render assistance to the passengers, ran to the door, and was hastening from the house, when his wife awakened him. He related his dream, and went to bed again, but slept little more during the night. The dream made such a deep impression on his mind that he hastened to the chasm next morning early, to see what condition it was in; but the road was apparently all right, though the water was pouring and surging through the large culvert beneath as though it would wash the earth away. Tuesday night the farmer could not rest for thinking about his dreaming of the previous night, and getting up, he procured his lantern and hurried off to the chasm! When he arrived there he found, to his terror, that the huge fill had been washed out, leaving nothing but the unsupported ties and track over the chasm! Hearing the train thundering toward destruction, the farmer clambered across the dreadful break, and running down the road some distance, he signalled the approaching train to stop. And so short was the time, that by the time the engineer was able to "hold up," the engine was within but a few feet of the chasm. The train was large, and filled with persons who had been to the great Union meeting at Mansfield. What a narrow escape they all made from a horrible death! For the train would have plunged down the frightful precipice, car upon car, crashing all to death in the ruins! The passengers at once evinced their gratitude to their preserver, the Pennsylvanian, by making him up a handsome sum of money.—Dayton Journal Oct. 5.

"She died," said Polly, "and never was seen again, for she was buried in the ground where the trees grow." "The cold ground," said the child, shuddering. "No, the warm ground," returned Polly, "where the ugly seeds are turned into beautiful flowers, and where good people turn into angels and fly away to Heaven."—David Copperfield.

Ten years ago there were only eight Lutheran Ministers and four Lutheran Churches in Paris. Now there are twenty-one ministers and fourteen churches and chapels of this order. Vast numbers of German laborers have been attracted to Paris of, late, and hence the rapid advance.

ABRAHAM BININGER.

The names of Abraham Bininger and Philip Embury ought to be inseparably interwoven into the history of the origin of American Methodism. The Church knows but little of Embury, far less of Bininger. His biography is one of the lost chapters recently recovered, and is full of chivalry; and if written, would as much surpass a romantic tale as truth is stranger than fiction.

He was born in Switzerland on the 18th of January, 1720, and emigrated to America in October, 1735, when only fifteen years old. He came over in the ship Simmonds, the same vessel that brought over John and Charles Wesley and the Moravians. During the voyage the young lad had a fine opportunity to acquaint himself with the founders of Methodism and the Moravians, and a favorable impression was made upon him concerning them which continued through life.

Young Bininger was only a child. Two weeks before the vessel arrived in America his father and mother died and were buried in the ocean, to sleep there till the "sea gives up its dead." When the ship arrived in America the passengers, including the Wesleys, all kneeled upon the ground and returned thanks to God for their preservation. But there was one heart sad, that of young Bininger, who was alone and a stranger in a strange land. His parents were buried in the sea, and he was without a counsellor, a friend, or guide. He looked up to heaven and exclaimed: "My father, thou art the guide of my youth."

Much sympathy was felt for the young stranger who had been so bereaved during the voyage, and as he was an orphan he was placed in the Orphan House at Savannah built by Whitefield, where he was educated. He was exceedingly partial to the Moravians, and when he had completed his education he went with them first to Philadelphia, from thence to Bethlehem and Nazareth. The Moravians purchased of Mr. Whitefield at Nazareth, Pa., five thousand acres of land and a half-finished building, which he had intended for an orphan house. The building is still standing, and it is plainly seen how far it was built by Mr. Whitefield, and where the Moravians began to complete it. In that house young Bininger studied for the ministry. Having completed the ministerial education, he was first settled as a pastor at Nazareth, where he married and sometimes preached the Word. The Moravians, in determining fields of labor for their missionaries, had a singular custom. They cast lots, as the disciples did in ancient times, and it was no matter if the lot was Greenland, Norway, or Australia, they did not shrink from its decision. They looked on their places of destination as from the Lord. Mr. Bininger drew, and his lot was St. Thomas's Island in the West Indies. It was not a desirable appointment, but he did not confer with "flesh and blood," but soon set sail for that Island, and on his arrival began his labors.

BININGER OFFERS TO BECOME A SLAVE.

Soon after he received a letter from the Governor, prohibiting him from preaching to the blacks, saying: "That none but slaves were allowed to preach to slaves." An ordinary man would have become discouraged. Not so with Bininger. He was made of very different materials. He wrote a letter to the Governor of the Island, in which he offered to sell himself for a slave if he could have the privilege of preaching to slaves. In all the annals of missions, in all the exhibitions of missionary sympathy and zeal, have we any thing that transcends this? His letter was transmitted by the Governor to the King of Denmark (the Island then as now belonging to that kingdom). Such abnegation of self, such devotion to the good of others, touched the heart of the King, and he sent word to the Moravian missionary giving him permission to preach to the blacks and to all classes on St. Thomas's Island. We can not wonder that the letter of the King of Denmark is still preserved in the family as a relic.

ASSOCIATION WITH WHITEFIELD.

An effectual door being opened, he preached for several years at St. Thomas's and St. John's with great success among the slaves. When his mission on the Island was ended, he went to New York; and meeting with his early friend, Mr. Whitefield, accompanied him as a missionary to the Connecticut Indians of the Mohegan tribe.* Their labors were followed by a great revival. Leaving the Indian mission he returned to New York, and became acquainted with and soon was the intimate friend of Philip Embury. Their friendship was almost equal to that of Jonathan and David. It continued on while they lived, and is no doubt perpetuated in heaven, where

"Perfect love and friendship reign
To all eternity."

Though a Moravian, he was very friendly to the Methodists and to the new enterprise in which they were engaged, and did all he could to encourage it. His wife joined Philip Embury's class, and her name is among the honorable women who helped to furnish the first Methodist parsonage in America. In the book containing the oldest records of Methodism in the New World, we read that Mrs. Bininger furnished "one green window curtain;" while Mrs. Jarvis, wife of James the hatter, furnished another of the same color. Mr. Bininger's name is enrolled among the contributors for the first Methodist edifice in America. He gave £1 toward the erection of Wesley Chapel.

The Moravians were a little in advance of the Methodists in New York. Count Zizendorf, the founder of the society, visited New York in 1741, but he did not organize a society. One was organized in 1748, and their first church was built in 1751 in Fair street, what is now called Fulton street. After the first Methodist edifice and parsonage had been finished, and the regular missionaries of Mr. Wesley—Richard Boardman and Joseph Pilmoor—had arrived in New York, there being no particular necessity for Mr. Embury's remaining, he and Mr. Bininger and others left New York to go to Camden, in the town of Salem, Albany (now Washington), county in the State of New York.—The Methodist.

* Uncas, the early friend of the whites, was the famous Indian chief of this tribe. Norwich is in the midst of the ancient Mohegan country. A monument is there erected to the memory of the celebrated sachem, who died in 1683.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. M. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1866.

New Orleans District Fourth Quarterly Meetings.

Carondelet street	Nov:	12
Moreau street	"	13
Felicity street	"	14
German Missions	"	15
Jeff. city, including Algiers and Gretna		16
Baton Rouge	Dec.	8:9

Reports statistical and from Trustees in full will be called for.

J. C. Keener, P. E.

Notice to the Preachers of the Mobile Conference.

As the Mobile Conference holds its next session at Enterprise, Miss., Nov. 21st, I would notify the members that they will be met at the depot, at 2 and 4 A. M.

Those coming by private conveyance will please stop at the store of "Johnson and Holden," just opposite the depot.

W. J. Powers.

The New York Times.—We are glad to see that this influential Journal is again under the immediate control of Mr. Benjamin Wood. The temper, tone, and spirit which have characterized its conduct for the past several years—at once evidence the return and presence of its former Editor and publisher.

Marriage and Obituary Notices.—These we are glad to put in for parties when they are subscribers to our paper, but we submit that persons who are not already, should become patrons before expecting favors of this kind.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

We copy the following from the "Iberville South" and endorse it ourself:

J. W. Blackman's Commercial College.—We take pleasure in calling attention to the card of this flourishing New Orleans Institution. We have been personally acquainted with Mr. Blackman during a period of ten years and can safely recommend him in every particular as a gentleman and teacher.

Adults as well as the young attend his college.

See the advertisement of this college elsewhere.

Beatly & Sawyer, Wood and Coal Business, Josephine, between Prytania and Coliseum streets. Orders can be left at 129 Gravier st—Price Current office, or at 572 Magazine. We very heartily commend these enterprising and deserving young men to our friends.

Richard Angell, Homœpathic Pharmacy, pure and fresh medicines, cases, books, etc., 156 Julia street.

Dr. G. Angell, Dentist, 109 Carondelet street. Dr. Angell, Sr., long a resident of Mississippi and this city, and successful medical practitioner. Capt. Angell, once of the Washington Artillery, now a graduate of Philadelphia Dental College.

Philip Werlein, Dealer in Piano Fortes, Melodeons, Guitars, Violins, Music, Instruction books, etc. Repairing and tuning pianos, No. 62 Barrone street. Mr. Werlein inherits the musical talents, the business, and the friends, of his father.

Messrs. Stafford & Wilson, Commission Merchants, 66 Magazine street.

Mr. James Hotel, Magazine, street between Natchez and Gravier streets. C. B. Gooden, Proprietor. We were once in this hotel, indeed twice. Once to introduce our General Conference preachers to their homes; and once at a famous dining, given by W. R. Stuart, to the Baltimore delegation. On both occasions we were favorably impressed with the obliging character of the proprietor, and the completeness of its appointments.

A. E. Blackman, Importer of musical merchandise, wholesale and retail dealer in pianos, organs and musical instruments, 167 Canal street.

Lewis W. Lyons & Co., Nn. 26, 28 and 30 St. Charles street, corner of Common street, Clothing Establishment and Manufactory. One of the largest establishments in the city.

Messrs. Stewart & Brother, Cotton and Tobacco Factors, 124 Carondelet, just above Poydras, Gen. A P Stewart was successor to Bishop Polk, in the army of Tennessee.

Messrs. McCluchon & Hubbell, Importers and dealers in Foreign and Domestic Hardware, 74 Gravier street.

☞ The preamble and resolutions in reference to the death of Burwell Holmes, of Alabama, are unavoidably crowded out this week.

THE SEPULCHRES OF OUR DEAD.

On the first day of November, All Saints Day, the stranger in New Orleans is arrested in his walks by the crowds of old people, youths, maidens, and children, that throng the streets on their way to the different burial places of the city. They bear wreaths, evergreens and winter flowers, offerings of precious memory, intended for sepulchres where sleeps the dust of dear departed ones. In sympathy with this multitude, we again visited the city of the dead. As we entered the cemetery, we could but think how unfavorable was such a scene to those emotions and reflections which we expect and seek at the grave of a friend. Children in holiday glee and attire, servants carrying baskets of funeral furniture, and numbers of strangers, brought by curiosity, thread the narrow passages between white stuccoed vaults and dispel the thought of death with a bright living panorama. Here and there only were a few who, all insensible to the gaze of curiosity, wept their tribute of love. Those rural retreats in the vicinity of the great cities of the North, which have been consecrated for burial places, spread out in wooded hills and lawns, and with an art which equals nature, offer every form of retired resting place, where the mourner may find the silence which can alone express his soul. But the lowlands upon which New Orleans stands, present no variety of surface which could be converted into a Mt. Auburn or a Green Mount; yet we hope, one day, to see some of its neighboring country seats, where moss-covered oaks, grand and venerable, offer nature's cathedral aisles for the repose of the dead, converted to this pious use.

It is wonderful to reflect upon the vast numbers which a single cemetery represents. How few graveyards suffice to hold the ashes of the myriads of the past. A single street of tombs in Pompei, and a small part of the Appian Way at Rome, are flanked with Patrician mausoleums, and tell the unvarying story of the end of all the glory of empires and of men. "Dust thou art and unto dust thou shalt return," is the inevitable sentence. The ancients were not behind the moderns in honoring the dead. To lie unburied was a misfortune only due to the wicked. But upon what belief they so cared for the bodies of deceased friends, can only be surmised: whether they supposed it agreeable to the spirits of the departed, or only the continuation of a respect which had been paid to the person while living. The Egyptians extended their consideration to the dead bodies of animals, regarding them as persons in disguise. It is only when we enter those catacombs where Christian martyrs sleep, that we read that intelligent regard for the forms of the Pious dead which springs from faith in the Resurrection.

How the light of that blessed faith shines forth from the following inscriptions:

LAURENCE, TO HIS SWEETEST SON SEVERUS, BORNE AWAY BY ANGELS, On the Seventh Ides of March.

DOMITIANUS, A SIMPLE SOUL, SLEEPS IN PEACE.

The epitaph of a priest's daughter is also given by Aringhi (lib. iv, c. 29):

ONCE THE HAPPY DAUGHTER OF THE PRESBYTER GABINUS, HERE LIES SUSANA, JOINED WITH HER FATHER IN PEACE.

These reflections find their proper termination in that sepulchre of Joseph, newly hewn from the living rock; for there He slept. All the Elegies of the Dead, and all the themes and memories which have ever been awakened, or recorded among burial places of men, are not to be mentioned with this one thought, that the form of the Son of God once lay dead in a sepulchre. Joseph of Arimathea, by the boldness of his love, obtained a right to the body of his Lord. He took it down from the cross, wound it in fine linen, and laid it in his own tomb. This tomb stood in his garden. It was fit that the Saviour should sleep in a spot secure from the intrusion of the vulgar, surrounded by the forms of opening flowers and early budding plants. He died amid sculls, but arose amid flowers. For a little while his body was in the hands of his friends—long enough for them to shroud it, and lay it gently away, and give it the respect due to the Prince of Love and to fulfil Isaiah's vision, "with the rich in his death." But directly, the government resumed its control over it, and surrounded the sepulchre with soldiers, and placed upon it the state-seal. The women were spared the pain of this new evidence of the malice which had pursued their Lord. It all transpired after they, having finished their offices of love, had seen the heavy stone placed against the mouth of the vault, and had retired for the Sabbath day, to assuage, if possible, their tears with its sacred hours of heavenly themes. As the women departed, angels came; and the body of the Saviour passed out of the hands of his friends of earth into the keeping of those from Heaven. As He slept tho two shining angels sat, the one at the head and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus lay. During that night, and the hours of the Sabbath, and the night following, they watched that precious form. Tho law of the Sabbath secured them from interruption. What a period was that in the history of the thoughts of those Holy Ones, sitting for so many hours over against death, the witnesses of the greatest triumph of the King of Terrors. But they watched in hope. They believed the promises. Meanwhile the creational energies operated in silence, and wove a raiment of celestial light: one worthy of the Monarch of the world of light. As love has often sat by, and watched the peaceful slumber, and then the waking of innocence, its gradual stirrings, and gently opening lids, thus the angels sat. * * * * Two nights and a day in the deep. * * * The hours of the great morning steadily approached.—Thank God for the wheels of time! The limit which the Father has placed to the Empire of Darkness is already visible to the undimmed, expecting gaze of the angels. They look—that Divine form stirs! He is alive! At once the all-conscious Lord of Life. They unbind from his brows the napkin with tender care, they fold it up and lay it by, as if intending to carry to Heaven a souvenir of His sepulchre. They unwrap the fine linen from his form, and to the wondering eyes of these Elect Angels there stands, now first disclosed, a Spiritual Body. The Divine and the Human blended in one Frame of radiant beauty. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, the thunderous descent of the Mighty Angel announces the result to the universe. As he touches the ground, its recoil shakes the earth, and the Roman guards fall down as dead men. Moving the stone from the sepulchre, he sits on it, looking as the lightning, in everlasting triumph over all the strongdolds of the grave. Then, as the gardener, the Saviour walked forth, in earliest morn, in that garden, whose leaves and buds were still bending under the dews of the night. The light was already streaking the East, when presently, with the first rays of the sun, the women came, bearing precious ointments and spices to embalm their bruised Lord. They were too late for that; but just in time to see the angels; and dimly, through their tears, to see the "Gardener!" There He stood, looking like and yet unlike himself; but his voice—there was no mistaking that: "Mary,"—yes, it is He. He has turned the shadow of death into light, the graveyard into a Garden of Life. "O Lord, my flesh shall rest in hope." Thou "wilt redeem my soul from the power of the grave."

"THE PERIL OF THE HOUR."

On the 18th Oct., Mr. Wendell Philips delivered a lecture at the Newark Temple, Boston. The point of it may be gathered from the subjoined extract from the N. Y. News:

He would say to the New York Tribune, the National Republican Committee and Congress itself: Go back and sit down in the House of Representatives, and govern the Republic; and for the first act in that Government, impeach the president. [Prolonged applause.] He would have the House of Representatives impeach the president, place the president of the Senate in his office, and then the people would run the machine. [Applause.] The great trouble of our Government was that the pivotal man of the Republic can have his policy unchanged for four years. A great fault in the past had been the foolish way of letting the people know the real fact. He believed the people could govern themselves. The reconstruction which he wanted to have was to begin immediately. It would begin, when it was safe for a Massachusetts man to walk the streets of New Orleans. He asked whose fault it was that there had been such bloodshed and persecution in the streets of Memphis and New Orleans. He asserted that the policy of the President had something to do with it. But that was not all. It was Gen. Grant. [Applause and hisses.] The most humiliating position occupied on this continent, he said, was by Ulysses S. Grant. If they had conquered, why were not the streets of New Orleans safe? If the president would not let Gen. Grant protect life and liberty there, then Gen. Grant should resign. Henry Wilson knew the president was false, and hid it. Gen. Grant knew the South was not safe, and allowed it to be. If, said Mr. Phillips, Gen. Grant does not mean to make the South safe for a Northern man, he is not fit to hold his office. If he has not the means to do so, then he should ask for them, and if the president will not permit him to do so, then he should immediately resign his position as general. If he does not want to do his duty, then denounce him as a traitor. What is the use of our national flag, if it means nothing except in the streets of Boston, if it does not mean protection of Northern capital in the South? His theory, Mr. Philips said, was that there is no president. He is a deserter. The legislative power is the only power left. Our James II. has abdicated, and Parliament rules the nation. He wanted Congress to commence its next session as a perpetual one. Every moment that it was not in session the South was ruling the government.

On the same day the Washington Chronicle — Republican organ — comments upon Governor Swann, of Maryland, to the following effect:

Having deserted the people who elected him, he is doubtless ready to punish and proscribe them by elevating and strengthening the rebels. Should he decide upon this outrage, the Police Commissioners, backed by Major Chapman and the Radical loyalists of the State, will refuse to surrender their trusts. At this juncture the rebels claim to have the promise of Andrew Johnson to employ force to put down the Union men and to give the State to the traitors. We do not believe that either Swann or Johnson will have the hardihood to perfect this crowning outrage, though the indications that point to it are numerous. But should this belief be disappointed by the result, there will be but one remedy left, and that is for the Maryland patriots to appeal to the people of the North to keep open the gateway to the capital of the Republic. They responded to a similar call in 1861, and will not be backward in 1866. The feeling in Baltimore yesterday was intense. The Radicals were firm, quiet and wholly resolved. They have possession of the field and intend to keep it at all hazards. They will never yield it to the rebels and traitors.

NEWS FROM THE CONFERENCES.

KENTUCKY CONFERENCE.

Rev. Geo. S. Savage, Secretary, furnishes the Nashville Advocate the following particulars in reference to this Conference:

The Report of the Committee on Education shows the organization of the Methodist College at Millersburg, as a College proper, with a full and efficient Faculty, with Dr. Charles Taylor, of the South Carolina Conference, as President. That a brighter day dawns upon our educational interests in Kentucky. "We already see the dawning of the morning—may the noon day glory come." From the financial exhibit it appears that the amount of scholarships sold, and donations, is $95,796. Amount invested, $40,084. The report warmly recommends the College to the prayerful consideration of our people, and speaks in high commendation of Science Hill at Shelbyville, of the Millersburg Female College at Millersburg, and the Male High School at Shelbyville.

A missionary meeting was held on Saturday evening of the Conference, at which $382 92 was paid in money. The total amount of missionary money collected during the year was $1,836. The Conference organized a Board of Foreign and Domestic Missions, as provided for in the Discipline.

The vote of the Conference on concurring with the General Conference in changing the name of that Church to that of Episcopal Methodist was, yeas, 45—nays, 7. On concurring in Lay Representation, yeas, 47—nays, 4.

Revs. Drs. McFerrin and Sehon were warmly received by the Conference, and did good service in pleading the cause of Missions.

Six preachers were admitted on trial, five re-admitted, and several transfers, among which were the Rev. J. W. Wightman, H. A. C. Walker, and Dr. Charles Taylor. C. W. Miller was transferred to Western Virginia Conference.

Bishop D. S. Doggett presided with ability and impartiality, and gave evidence of a very familiar knowledge of parliamentary law.

The session of the Conference was one of great harmony, and closed its labors on Tuesday night, the 9th inst., at half-past eleven o'clock.

THE ARKANSAS CONFERENCES.

From the Nashville Christian Advocate we quote the following:

Bishop Pierce called in this week on his return from the Conferences in Arkansas. He was sound in health and fine spirits. He reports that the Conference sessions passed off pleasantly, that the preachers have been at work heroically on very short rations, and that they are ready to go forth again to meet whatever may befall. There is great lack of preachers in the State. He could supply as many as twenty-five more than he had to dispose of—and he wants volunteers for that section. The crop prospects are better there than on this side, and the probability is the preachers will fare better next year. There have been great revivals throughout the whole country, and Methodism flourishes there. The Little Rock Conference does not vote for "changes of economy." The vote for change of name stood yeas 24, nays 19; on lay delegation, yeas 16, nays 29.

Bishop Pierce is very hopeful respecting the future of the Church. He find signs of good, promise of progress everywhere. He thinks the proposed changes will be adopted by the vote of Conferences — indeed, laughingly said, he had already began to call the Church "Episcopal Methodist," fully expecting the change to be made. He promises to communicate his opinions on several subjects through the Advocate, at his earliest opportunity.

NORTH-WEST TEXAS CONFERENCE.

The Rev. F. P. Ray, Secretary of the North-West Texas Conference, has forwarded to Dr. Summers, a certified statement of the vote on the proposed changes: 28 voting for the change of the name, and none against; 25 for lay representation, and none against.

HOLSTON CONFERENCE.

This body assembled in this place at the Chapel of the Female College, on Wednesday the 10th inst., Bishop H. N. McTyeire presiding. Upon the call of the Conference roll, quite a number answered to their names. We observed, however, that most of the old members of the Conference were absent, chiefly owing to the poor facilities of travel, from the Railroads to Asheville.

Many of the ministers had not attended a session of the Conference for several years past, owing to the embarrassments of the war. It is really a matter of gratulation to know that church matters have so improved within the Tennessee portion of the Conference as to enable the ministers of the Conference to re-occupy their old territory.

The reports from the various circuits, districts, etc., seemed to indicate a very encouraging improvement, and a decided advance in the leading and more important enterprise of the church.

Changes in the Economy of M. E. Church, South.—The Holston Conference in session here since the 10th inst., concluded its labors yesterday and adjourned to meet next year at Cleveland, Tennessee. The vote on concurring with the General Conference in the name of the church was for the change 51, against 2.

For Lay Delegation 47, against 7.—Asheville (N. C) News.

LOUISVILLE CONFERENCE.

Rev. Dr. J. H. Linn, of Louisville, Ky., in a private letter to the Episcopal Methodist, says, Bishop Doggett presided over the Louisville Conference to the admiration of all, and has won the esteem and love of all its members. He sends the name of six of the ministers as annual subscribers to the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist, and assures us our subscription list will be increased in the Louisville Conference. The result of the vote on the change of name stands: For the change 35; against it, 31; for Lay Delegation, 57; against it, 11.

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

The fifty-third session of the Tennessee Annual Conference convened in this city, Oct. 24th. Bishop H. N. McTyeire is presiding with ability and acceptability. Yesterday, by a unanimous rising vote, resolutions were passed requesting the Bishop to make his future home in our midst, a prominent reason assigned in the preamble was that it is necessary that one of our efficient Bishops should be near our Publishing House. The Bishop will not decide the piace of his future residence until his return from the present tour of Episcopal visitation, and consults his wife, or as he styles it, holds a "council of war" with his family and Montgomery friends. His former stay at Nashville he stated was very pleasant to himself and family. The missionary and publishing interests of our Church, having located at Nashville, renders the presence of one of our bishops important at Nashville, and none other but our presiding bishop could change his home with the same convenience. The application for Deacon's Orders being called, the first day of our session, a petition was read from a colored preacher who came up with a fine recommendation of gifts, graces, usefulness, and other qualifications, for the office and work of a deacon in the Church of God. Quite an animated discussion arose with regard to the legality, right and propriety of his ordination. According to the laws of Alabama, it was stated that no colored man could be legally authorized to preach—but they had been licensed exhorters for many years, and recognized however as preachers, by many in the Church. The clause in the new Discipline was read, authorizing the Annual Conferences to use their own discretion with regard to the time and literary qualifications. Dr. F. E. Pitts and Rev. Jno. F. Hughes strongly opposed the ordination. While Drs. A. L. P. Green, R. H. Young, and Rev. W. H. Browning, W. Burr, and S. M. Cherry, earnestly urged the claims of the colored preachers for orders. The final vote showed four fifths of the conference in favor of ordaining worthily accredited colored preachers who had not even been licensed to preach for four years, believing it for the spiritual good of our colored population, and expedient to hold them to our church. All who had applied for deacons orders were elected, four in number.

The name of A. A. Barbee was called, and it was stated that after traveling his circuit for six months, and the stewards failing to provide for the support of his family, that he left his work. A long discussion ensued, and the question of debate was whether a preacher is justifiable in leaving his field of labor, if the stewards will make no arrangements for the support of his family. Several of the fathers of long experience in the itinerancy, made forcible speeches upon the subject, arguing, if the preacher does his duty fully and faithfully in the fear of God, his bread is sure, he shall not want, or at least not suffer or starve. Others declared if the people who are able to support their preachers fail to arrange for their families' subsistence, that they are not worthy of the gospel.

The Bishop decided "that the action of the recent General Conference referred to, does not give the minister any right to decline serving the work to which he is appointed, on the ground of estimate of his support, which he had not before said action." The character of Bro. Barbee passed, and he was elected to elder's orders.

Drs. McFerrin, Summers and A. H. Redford, presented the interests of our Publishing House and Missionary Board— in very excellent appropriate remarks, and exhibits. The publication of books and papers for the Southern churches, by ourselves, was urged because it can and has been done cheaper and better this year in Nashville, than it could possibly have been done by contract in the North. Missionary anniversary to-night. The attendance of ministers and lay stewards is large, near two hundred being present. The preachers report very extensive revivals all over the Conference, and are preaching with great power to the people here. A revival has begun in our Church. S. M. C.

Huntsville Ala., Oct. 27th, 1866.

The largest organ ever built in this country has recently been put into Henry Ward Beecher's church, Brooklyn, at a cost of $25,000.

NEWS FROM THE CHURCHES.

On the Eastern Shore Mission, of which the Rev. J. J. Grace is missionary, five churches have been repaired during the year, and one is now being built. He has been fully paid his allowance, "without stewards and without asking for it." Ah, that is the secret our preachers are after! The Bro. says "men outside of the church have gone round and collected it without consulting me." Whenever and wherever the outside members of a church are better than the inside, there is a great room for, and hope of, church development.

Rev. W. E. Ballard of the St. Helena Circuit, Mississippi Conference, writes: "The Lord met with us at old Ebenezer Church in August last. There were ten accessions. We have just closed a meeting at Centre Church, which continued five days. There were twenty-nine accessions, many of them middle-aged men and heads of families. The meeting was one of the best I ever attended; the power of God was present from the first, and the interest increased to its close. Brothers Jagers, Tarver, and Venables, remained during the whole time, and did effective work.

Rev. T B Reneau writes from Carroll Circuit, La. Conference. He rejoices in the "spiritual fire burning in others." * * * We have no churches on the circuit—only school houses and arbors. Can't build churches yet; too poor to buy bread and clothes; hope to be better, and we will try and do better. Have just heard from North West Texas, by letter; fine crops, big meetings, every body joining the church—such shouting, etc.!

The Rev. Dr. Rosser, in a report published in the Christian Advocate the present week, states that since the last Conference of the M. E. Church, there has been at least 1,000 conversions in the Richmond district.

NEWS FROM OTHER CHURCHES.

METHODIST E. CHURCH, NORTH.

The veteran missionary Dr. Duff, having been obliged to leave India, on account of ill health, has improved the opportunity—afforded here at home, by raising $50,000 to endow a chair af Evangelistic Theology, in the new college, Edinburg. The object of the chair is to afford a course of special instruction to young men preparing for the missionary work.—Western Advocate.

Monument to Robert Strawbridge.—We learn that a handsome monument in memory of this early pioneer and founder of Methodism in Maryland, will be dedicated on Monday, Oct. 22, with appropriate religious exercises. The monument will be erected near the "Bishops' Monument in Mount Olivet Cemetery," under the charge of the "Local Preacher's Association" of this city, to whom it has been generously donated. The preachers' lot in that beautiful cemetery is visited by hundreds of persons from distant places.

October 14th was Centenary day at Trinity Church, Cincinnati. The collection will amount to thirty thousand dollars.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Infant Baptism.—The baptism of infants in the Northern Old School Presbyterian church were 1,006 last year—about one for every 24 communicants.

The General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church will meet in the First Presbyterian Church in the city of Memphis, Tennessee, on Thursday, the 15th of November, 1866, at 11 o'clock, A. M. The opening sermon will be preached by the Rev. George Howe, D.D., the last Moderator.

The Movement Gains Strength.—The Old School Church in Lexington, Mo., have adopted a series of resolutions approving the Convention to be held on the 15th. They say: "We cannot consent that any political tests shall be introduced into Christ's Kingdom, and therefore can not conscientiously carry out any order of this character"; i. e., like the order adopted by the Old School Assembly.—Christian Observer.

EPISCOPAL.

The special meeting of the House of Bishops opened on the 3rd of October, in the Bishops' room at St. John's chapel in New York, and closed its session on Friday the 5th. There were twenty-three Bishops present. The question of the vacant jurisdiction of "Nevada and parts adjacent" was first considered. A private letter from the Rev. Dr. Howe was read, stating in full his reason for declining the Episcopate of Nevada; which was, the great diminution of population and wealth which would authorize no such outlay, as the expensive living would compel him to incur; the expense of living was also so great that Dr. Howe could not have done with less than from $5000 to $10,000 a year—a sum which he thought the Board could not afford to pay, and which he could not supply from his own private resources. The House then nominated for Missionary Bishop of Montana the Rev. Daniel S. Tuttle, rector of Zion church, Morris, Otsego county, in this Diocese.

We notice, says the Church Visitor, that the parish of Trinity church, New Orleans, is undergoing additional improvements in the rear extension; at an outlay of about $35,000, with the advantages of 70 new pews, two side entrances and an enlargement of vestry and chancel. The expiration of the contract will be on the first of November, though, perhaps, not completed before December first. — The basement will thus be enlarged to the same extent for Sunday school purposes, with an accommodation for six hundred pupils, while the entrance will also undergo alteration with a view to the convenience of entering from either end of the porch stairway. A rectory has also been purchased at a cost of $15,000, located on Phillip street, between Camp and Chestnut, awaiting the return of its very popular and acceptable rector.

BAPTIST.

The North Carolina Christian Conference assembled at O'Kelley's Chapel, Chatham county, on Wednesday the tenth instant, continued in session four days. The plan of an improved form of government, a fuller declaration of principles and directions for worship, adopted by the General Convention held last May, was presented by Rev. W. B. Wollons, President of the convention, and unanimously adopted. The reports from the churches were very encouraging. Interesting reports on Sabbath schools, Temperance, and other subjects, were presented and discussed. The Conference was divided, the body with its present ratio of representation being too large to meet with most of the country churches.

The National Baptist states that the female superintendent of the First Baptist Church Sunday School, Baltimore, has held that office over fifty years, and is as much esteemed and as punctual as ever.

LUTHERAN.

The Evangelical Lutheran Synod of South Carolina had just closed a most interesting session at St. Marks Church, in Edgefield District, commencing on the 18th and ending on the 22d day of the present month.

The reports on the state of religion present the Church in a more prosperous condition, spiritually, than at any previous time for the last six or eight years. Extensive revivals of religion and numerous confirmations were reported. Two brethren were ordained to the Gospel ministry. One was licensed to preach for one year. Eight students were received under the care of the Ministerium, who are to prosecute their studies, with a view to the ministry, at Newberry College and the Theological Seminary.

CONGREGATIONAL.

A Layman in a Revival.—The congregationalists are trying the experiment of lay preaching with considerable success. Messrs. Durant, Smith, Stendman, and others supply the desk in Boston. At Natick, Mass, a remarkable revival of religion has been in progress for four or five weeks. H. F. Durant, Esq., has been addressing the union meetings there on the Sabbath and one week-day evening, and sometimes speaking Sabbath morning in the different evangelical churches. From one to two hundred persons are inquirers, and many cases of conversions are reported, some of them from the ranks of men not often reached.

Six congregational churches have recently been built in Oregon.

CATHOLIC.

Bishop Verot, of Savannah, in a recent pastoral letter gives the information that the Pope has directed the spiritual condition of the Freedmen to be considered by the plenary council at Baltimore. The Bishop enters earnestly into the case, and insists that a sense of justice ought to lead the South to efforts for educating the freedmen as a virtually implied condition of the peace, which ought to be carried out in good faith and honor, even aside from Christian considerations.

FOREIGN.

Missions.—The first foreign mission opened by the Lutheran Church of Sweden has been established in the country of the Galias, a dominnly Christian tribe of Eastern Africa, in a state of savage degradation.

Bloody Persecution in Asia.—Accounts have been received in Paris of the martyrdom of nine French Catholic missionaries in the Coren in Asia. One other escaped over the frontier in that country, and two more were still wandering in the mountains. We have not the particulars of the persecution, but it appears that the effort was made to extinguish the name of Christian in the region.

Missionaries are no longer regarded with disfavor in Japan. The Government are arranging to establish a school at Jeddo the capital—and have invited the missionaries to take it in charge. Many intelligent adults despise the Buddhist creed and priesthood and visit the houses of the missionaries to study the Scriptures. The former edicts against Christians have not been revoked, but are in abeyance.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

London, Oct. 27.—It is said that the relations between Austria and Russia are assuming a menacing character.

The Times says that the Russian government is intriguing for further disintegration of Austria.

Paris, Oct. 27.—The project submitted by France and England to the Spanish government for the settlement of the Chilian difficulty, has been approved by the queen and her ministers.

Florence, Oct. 27.—An arrival from Candia states that another great battle took place on the 17th instant. The Greeks report that the Turkish army was repulsed.

London, Sunday, Oct. 28.—The advices from Japan are conflicting. The latest report says the Tycoon's army has suffered a heavy defeat at the hands of the insurgents and the Tycoon has in consequence abdicated.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Col. Lewis D. Campbell, the United States Minister to Mexico, left this city last evening, with credentials addressed to the Juarez Government, and with full instructions, conforming in every respect with the tripartite arrangement, previously communicated to the Times, between the United States, France, and the Republic of Mexico. Mr. Campbell will probably visit his home in Ohio, en route to Mexico.

Under the arrangement now perfected, Napoleon is to commence the withdrawal of the French army from Mexico next month, and although he has a year from that time to complete the evacuation of Mexico, it is more than probable that the whole army will be withdrawn by or before the 1st January next.

Of course, with the withdrawal of the French army Maximilian takes his departure, and the farce of an Empire on the North American continent is ended.

It is proper to state that this determination of the political government of Mexico has been attained through amicable negotiations with all parties interested.

In order to an intelligent exercise of a possible armed intervention, the Administration has determined to send with Minister Campbell a military officer of high rank, eminent abilities and sound judgment, clothed with power to act in the emergency referred to.

Lieut. Gen. W. T. Sherman is now spoken of in this connection, and Maj. Gen. W. S. Hancock.

Baltimore, Oct. 29.—The examination charges against the police commissioners was resumed to-day at Annapolis. Some twenty witnesses were examined, when the prosecution announced they were through, but would have some rebutting evidence. The examination of witnesses for the defense will commence to-morrow. The evidence to-day elicited nothing important.

Baltimore, Nov. 1.—It is not yet ascertained who are the new commissioners. It is rumored that a new force has already been organized, and will make their appearance in the course of the day. The old commissioners have their full force out, and will resist the demand of the new force for the surrender of the station houses, marshal's office, etc. A body of four hundred dismounted cavalry, who arrived here yesterday to embark for Texas, are now at Fort Mellenry, and rumors say they will be retained here in case of emergency.

There is considerable feeling manifested, some approving and others bitterly denouncing the action of the governor.

Baltimore, Nov. 1.—Gen Grant and Gen. Comstock have arrived in town.

Milledgeville, November 1.—The Legislature met to-day.

The Governor's message strongly opposes the adoption of the constitutional amendment. He says the amendment is unjust.

He computes the funded debt of the State at $5,840,000, and says the planting interest in Georgia can never be what it once was, and deprecates the oppression of the debtor class by creditors.

The message is very long and mostly devoted to State topics.

The Speaker of the House opened the session with a speech opposing the constitutional amendment.

OBITUARIES.

Within the past two month death has twice claimed its victims from our New Iberia Sunday School. CLARA L STEIN, eldest daughter of Edward Stein and Mary Reynolds, died on the 5th of September, aged seven years and two months. She was an ob edient, loving child, and a good scholar, her place is vacant in her class, her feet fall heard no more in her home; but she lives not only in the hearts of parents, friends, but also in that bright world where death cannot enter. Saved by grace.

LULA RIGGS, eldest child of Mr. Samuel Riggs and Sarah French, died on the 2nd of Oct., aged nine years. She attended Sunday School, as was her wont, on Sabbath by Tuesday's dawn her gentle spirit had left earth and its sufferings for a home with the blest.

Our Saviour assures us, "of such is the kingdom of heaven." Sad as was the parting here, we rejoice in the thought, that "her welcome was heard in the far off world, ere the farewell was hushed in this." Lovely, gentle, meek-eyed Lula, how fondly then were loved; how sadly, constantly missed by all, even the little baby on a still le look for thy smiling cuess. Sabbath school companions, teachers, all miss thy sweet face. Our Father help and comfort those who loved Thee best.

"Weep not for those whom the veil of the tomb
In life's early morning hath hid from our eyes,
Ere sin threw a blight o'er the spirits yeung bloom,
Or earth had profaned what was born for the skies" M. H.

ST JAMES HOTEL,
MAGAZINE STREET,
Betwsen Gravier and Natchez Streats,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.

This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.

It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof. Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquers equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, as far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.

The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expense to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.

n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

SOUTHERN CLOTHING MANUFACTORY,
OVER STORES
Nos. 26, 28 and 30 St. Charles street, cor. Common, New Orleans, La.
CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER
with dispatch, in the most durable manner and approved styles, at reasonable prices. A large and magnificent assortment of French, English, Scotch, German and American PIECE GOODS,
latest styles, suitable to the season, always on hand. L. W. LYONS & CO.

SOUTHERN CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.
Just received, one of the Largest and most Fashionable Stocks of CLOTHING and FURNISHING GOODS in the Southern country.
WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT UP STAIRS.
Buyers are respectfully invited to call and examine the stock.
CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
FURNISHING GOODS.....at Wholesale.
SHIRTS.....at Wholesale.
TRUNKS, VALISES, etc.....at Wholesale.
UMBRELLAS.....at Wholesale.
BOYS' CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
PLANTATION CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
L. W. LYONS & CO.,
Nos. 26, 28 and 30 St. Charles street, and 131 and 133 Common street.

IMPORTANT TO SHOW PEOPLE.
BOYS' CLOTHING EMPORIUM,
No. 26 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Parents, Guardians and others will always find a large and well selected stock of Youths', Boys', and Children's
DRESS AND SCHOOL CLOTHING.
Shirts and Furnishing Goods, latest fashions.
For sale, at low prices, by
L. W. LYONS & CO.,
corner St. Charles and Common streets.
oct 3 1m

COAL! COAL!! COAL!!!
BEATTY & SAWYER,
Offer COAL and WOOD at the lowest prices.—Coal, $1 per barrel. Leave orders at Yard on Josephine, between Prytania and Coliseum sts., or at Price Current Office; at Ducatel's, 24 Carondelet; or at M E Stack's, opposite Magazine Market. Send in your orders promptly. n1m.

McCUTCHON & HUBBELL,
Importers and Dealers in
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE,
Hoes, Axes, Nails, etc.
NO. 74 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
n1 6m

W. G. COYLE & CO.,
COAL MERCHANTS,
Office: 142 Gravier street.
Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.
Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats.
oc27 6m

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.
RICHARD ANGELL,
166 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles
PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,
Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.
Chill Drops, the best curative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c.; Bardotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice.

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)
Has established himself at No 109 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

STAFFORD & WILSON,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 66, Magazine Street,
oc21 1y NEW ORLEANS

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lebanon, Tenn
CHAS. S. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La
STEWART & BROTHER,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,
NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS
oc27 1y

ROBERT L. WALKER,
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

ANNUAL CIRCULAR.
DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.
(Open constantly Day and Evening.)
On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.,
In the Elegant and Spacious Story Building.

Founded in 1852—Chartered by the Legislature of Louisiana, with Commercial, Agricultural and Mechanical Departments

THIS COLLEGE has, by its own merits, and thorough, practical plan of Education, outlived all the liberally endowed State Colleges of this and the South-western States. It is the oldest Commercial College in the United States. It is believed to be the first in Europe or America, chartered with Commercial, Agricultural and Mechanical Departments. Every student who gives proper attention to the instruction is qualified, before graduating, to keep any set of Books, it matters not what the business may be, and do the Correspondence of any house. Students can attend the Commercial Course, or the English, French, Spanish, German, Latin or Greek Languages, or the higher Mathematics, &c., separately. We have ample arrangements for

ONE THOUSAND STUDENTS
during the current year. The city is healthy.

Comparative Cost and Value of the Education given here and in the Ordinary Literary Colleges:

Cost of full Commercial Course here—
Tuition..... $145
Board for three months..... 90
Contingent expenses, about..... 20
Total..... $235

After which, the Student is ready to go into business, and make $1000, $2,000 or $3,000 annually.

Cost of Ordinary Literary Colleges.—About $400 per annum, for four years, or $1600; Clothing for four years, $200, or $800—total $2400—and four years of time expended. Our Student will begin to work after three or four months, and make, say the first year, about $1200; and two years and nine months at probably $1800, or 6,150 he earns in the four years. Deduct $255 leaves $5,895 net gain to our Student; but to the other a net expense of $2400; or $8,295 our Student has gained over the other. We suppose the Students in both cases to have a good English education to begin with. We deem a business education that enables the Student to earn $1000, $2,000; or $3,000 annually, to be the best fortune parents can give their sons.

Circulars and Catalogues sent to all who desire them.

Young gentlemen who have neglected their studies for the past five years, can here be perfected in any branches they may desire in a few months.

Terms—Payable in Advance.

Penmanship—lessons not limited	$ 25
Book Keeping—Double and Single Entry, &c., a perfect Course	50
Arithmetic—Including all Commercial Calculations	50
Lecture on Commercial Law	20
The above constitutes the Commercial Course.
Stationery for Commercial Course, including Blank Books	10
Stationery for Penmanship	2 50
Diploma, for Master of Accounts	10
English—Grammatical Course	50
English—Full Course, not limited, including History, Rhetoric, &c.	100
French—Full Course, not limited	100
Spanish—Full Course, not limited	100
German—Full Course, not limited	100
Latin—Full Course, not limited	100
Greek—Full Course not limited	100
Algebra—Full Course, not limited	50
Geometry—Full Course, not limited	50
Teacher's Course in Penmanship	100
A Life Ticket in all the Departments	500
For any Language, per month	20
Drawing, per month	20

N. B.—A Student having paid for a Course in any branch as above, is entitled to a Life Ticket in that Department. He can attend such branches as he may desire.

☞ A Diploma from this College is a passport in all commercial communities. There are Monthly Graduating Classes. Students can begin at any time. Clergymen's Sons and Crippled Soldiers will have a liberal deduction made.

COLLEGE OFFICE—ROOM No. 7.

FACULTY.
RUFUS DOLBEAR, President,
Lecturer on Business Customs, Book-Keeping, the Science of Penmanship, &c.
Agricultural Department.—.....Principal.
Mechanical Department.—.....Principal.
Commercial Department.—Hon J. J LANE, Member N. O. Bar, Lecturer on Contracts.
Mathematical Department—GEO. B BRACKETT, Prof. and Lecturer on Commercial Calculations.
Book-Keeping Department.—J B GRIFFITH, Prof. and Lecturer on Book-Keeping, &c.
English Department.—Rev. GEO. W STICKNEY, Prof. and Lecturer on English Literature, &c.
French Department.—J V SURRUREAU, Professor.
Department of Penmanship.—B B EUSTON, Prof. and Lecturer on Business and Ornamental Penmanship.
Spanish Department.—MANUEL MARINO, Professor.
German Department—Rev. A C HOPPE, Prof.
Latin and Greek Department.—M MARINO, Rev. A F HOPPE, Professors.

NEW ORLEANS—1866.
DIRECT IMPORTATION.
J. LEVOIS & CO.,
Invite the attention of
Wholesale & Retail
Buyers to their importation of
PARIS NOUVEANTES,
For Fall and Winter,
Comprising
DRESS SILKS,
In Embroidered, Brocade, Chinea, and Solids, with a large assortment of FOULARD SILKS,
In Printed and in Plain Colors, being designs printed exclusively for themselves.
Black and White Striped Silks,
Black and White Checked Silks,
Colored Silks, checked and striped,
Irish Poplins, plain,
Lyons Poplins, plain and fancy.
French Merinoes and Delaines,
Alpacas, colored and black,
Opera Flannels, all colors,
French Cloths, plain & plaid,
Grey and White Blankets,
Carriage Blankets,
German Knit Goods,
Nublas, Scntags, Capes, Muffs,
Black Cloth Cloaks,
Black Silk Cloaks, of the Newest shapes and designs; with every article required in Housekeeping Goods.
J. LEVOIS & CO.,
Invite the attention of merchants to their cases of
IMPORTED AND AMERICAN GOODS,
Which they offer in quantities to suit, at the Lowest Scale of Prices & on Liberal Terms
CORNER CANAL AND BOURBON STREETS.
oc20 1m

CLOTHING. CLOTHING.
For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.
Now receiving and opening for inspection, at
R. PITKIN'S
FASHIONABLE
CLOTHING EMPORIUM,
Nos. 13 And 15 Camp Street,
The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior
READY-MADE CLOTHING,
AND
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS
Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:
Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,
Linen and Linen Besom Shirts of every description.
CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.
A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,
FOR CUSTOM WORK.
He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,
MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,
as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.
WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.
Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of
MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS
To his
Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing
suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.
Also a large assortment of
YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,
TRUNKS,
VALISES,
CARPET-BAGS,
UMBRELLAS, ETC.
A call from the public is respectfully solicited.
R. PITKIN,
Fashionable Clothing Emporium,
13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15
oc13 3m

H. F. ETHELL, New Orleans. NAT. H. THOMAS, Late of Alabama.
ETHELL & THOMAS,
FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.
Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.
No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.
Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sept 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. THOS. D. MILLER
J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
No. 190 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sept 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. W M Owen. E Owen
LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 6m

B. S. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.
B. S. HARPER & CO.,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,
GROCER,
And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,
e15 6m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally, 53 Gravier street, New Orleans.
sep15 1y

H M WRIGHT. C W ALLEN (1st August, 1866) J MIDDLETON
WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
160 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, Memphis, Tenn. JAMES M. ALLEN, PERRY NUGENT, } New Orleans
T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,
(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 1y

F F FOLGER, L FOLGER, W H THOMAS
FOLGER & CO.,
Dealers in
Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,
37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
(Opposite the St James Hotel)
Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Midland Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
27 Camp Street, New Orleans.
WM. EDWARDS, } EDWD. J. GAY, } sep15 3m

W A VIOLETT. R Y BLACK. S H SNOWDEN.
VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
s15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. H. LOTT, Madison County, Miss. O. W. WOOD, Canton, Miss.
LOTT, WOOD & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants
65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E A BANKS, W W LORING, G W VENABLE
BANKS, LORING & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
26 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

R ATKINSON & CO: New York. JAMES HEWITT & CO., Liverpool.
HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And Commission Merchants,
168 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWISHER & Co., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,
(Successor to FELLOWES & Co.)
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., New York. LEWIS, NANSON, & CO., St. Louis.
OBER, ATWATER & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
38 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep15 1y

S. M. SWENSON, N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. W. M. PERKINS, D. L. KERNION, Of Perkins & Co., N.O.
PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street, NEW ORLEANS.
SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
26 Exchange Place, New York.
s20 6m

EDW'D NALLE, W. C. DAY.
NALLE, DAY & CO.
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,
158 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
o13 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants
186 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc13 6m

E S KEEP. L. CAULFIELD.
KEEP & CAULFIELD,
Western Produce,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.
oc13 1y

HENRY WARE, Of Texas. WM. H. WARE, Of Texas.
H. WARE & SON,
Cotton and Wool Factors,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
oc13

ROBERT SLARK, ISAAC H. STAUFFER, WM. A. KENT, CHAS. MACREADY
SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,
No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsiare St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.
Importers and Dealers in
HARDWARE:
Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws
MILL STONES,
INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND,
PLANTATION SADDLERY, ETC.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS
Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrett & Cottman, for Sugar and Cotton; Gibbons and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; S. E. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert King, "Chrey," for Cotton; Peorin Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.
Agents for the Vieille Montagna Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. o13 1y

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES.
Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in EARTHENWARE,
GLASS, CHINA,
JAPAN WARE,
PLATED WARE,
SILVER WARE,
FINE TABLE CUTLERY,
WATER PURIFIERS,
HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.
All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.
No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.
L. ELKIN,
3, Carondelet Street, 3.
Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior
WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN
CARPETS,
RUGS,
WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Commission and Forwarding Merchants,
122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row,
NEW ORLEANS.
R B Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. oc13 6m

JOB PRINTING.
COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,
SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,
PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,
And everything else in the line of job printing, executed in
The Very Best Style, at Moderate Prices.
Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

BOOKS! BOOKS!
The Agent of the Southern Methodist Publishing House, at 112 Camp street, New Orleans, has just received, from the steamships George Cromwell and Merrimac, and by the steamboats Mepham and Olive Branch, ample supplies of Sunday School requisites: Catechisms, Spellers Questions, Dictionaries, Primers, Reward Tickets, etc., etc., etc. Also, Clarke's and Benson's Commentaries, and Hymn Books in sheep and roan.
Address:
R. J. HARP, Agent,
sep1ft 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

J. H. MASSEY,
(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.,)
WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,
No. 100 Common Street,
Opposite City Hotel.
I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination, on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please any and all of my old friends and patrons, and else including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.
Very respectfully,
oct3 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE
DRY GOODS.
Also, a large and varied supply of
HOUSEKEEPING and
PLANTATION GOODS,
Constantly on hand, at
126 Canal Street,
sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

TULANE BUILDING,
New Orleans, La.
We are now in the receipt of a full assortment of
CLOTHING.
SHIRTS,
FURNISHING GOODS,
TRUNKS AND VALISES,
UMBRELLAS, ETC.,
Which we are selling at very reduced prices, at
Wholesale and Retail.
GARTHWAITE, LEWIS & STUART,
oc20 1m 31 & 33 Camp street.

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,
Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of
TINWARE.
Also,
COOKING AND HEATING STOVES
Of all kinds, for sale.
25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,
Corner Customhouse street,
oct20 1y NEW ORLEANS

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co. JOHN W. MADDEN,
P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,
General Mercantile Stationers,
JOB PRINTERS, AND
BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
No. 73 Camp Street.
We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.
We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 3m

D. H. HOLMES,
Direct Importation of
FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,
AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
No. 155 Canal Street,
sep1 0m NEW ORLEANS.

JAMES A. GRESHAM,
BOOKSELLER AND STATIONER
92 Camp Street, New Orleans.
School, Medical and Law Books, Church and Masonic Books.
Job Printing and Binding executed at lowest market prices. oc13 1m

PHILIP WERLEIN,
82..... Baronne Street, 82
Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALEY,
Dealer in
PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,
GUITARS, VIOLINS,
And other musical instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper—in fact everything belonging to music trade.
The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. BURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.
Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, hoxad, or shipped to order.
Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.
Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.
Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.
Music neatly bound.
P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 6m

CENTENARY COLLEGE,
Jackson, Louisiana,
was established, by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845. It is now under the joint patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.
The College exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.
Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.
Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month
The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.
The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.
The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.
The old students, alumni, and friends of the Institution; are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.
W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,
GREENSBORO, ALA.
The exercises of this institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught
TERMS:

Tuition fees per term	$40 00
Contingent fee	5 00

Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month
aug4t W M WHITTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.
The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.
The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.
TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $40.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March,
Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.
Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.
Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D., New Orleans, La.
As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.
W. H. N. MAGRUDER.
Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

WOODVILLE FEMALE SEMINARY.
THE SECOND SESSION
Will begin October 3rd 1866, and close July 10th, 1867. The system of instruction aims at the truest, mental, moral, and social culture. The discipline seeks to embrace whatever is helpful to this end, and to exclude what is hurtful to it. Obedience to rightful authority, is a necessary to membership in the school.
TERMS PER SESSION.

Board, with fuel, lights and washing,	$100 00
Tuition in Preparatory course,	60 00
" Academic "	80 00
" Collegiate "	100 00
Music,	80 00

Other ornamentals as low as can be afforded.
The Collegiate course embraces Latin and French without any extra charge. These charges are made from the beginning of the half month in which the pupil is entered, to the end of the session, and must be paid, one half in advance, and the other on the 1st of March, nor will assignment of a pupil to room, seat or class, be made until this demand is met. A sum sufficient to get books, music, and medicines for slight sickness, must be deposited with the Principal. Each boarding pupil must be provided with a supply of plain, neat clothing suitable to the season, and also with towels, table napkins—all marked in the owner's name. When a pupil, not residing in the Seminary, or una not remaining in it during her illness, is sick more than twenty consecutive days, a deduction of one half the charges for the time will be made.
W. T. J. SULLIVAN, Principal.
Woodville, Miss., Aug. 8th, 1866. aug25 3m.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE
FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, Jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmer; Miss Jemima Constantine.
The Fall Session of this institution will open on the 26th day of September next.
This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattrasses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.
The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.
TERMS:
For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—

Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00
Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.
The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.
After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.
For other information address
CHARLES B. STUART, President,
aug1ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M.,	President, Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal.
Rev. J. A. H. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Maxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.
Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.
Board, with English Tuition, at $85 per quarter.
The next session commences 10th September.
Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to
A. J. WRIGHT.
D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.
jy14 6m

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.
Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 162 Camp street, New Orleans.
When was it established? 1850.
Who is its General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev. James Beattie.
Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.
What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.
What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.
What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans: then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.
What are the terms of membership?
The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.
The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.
The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.
The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.
The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.
Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not: to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S.: by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church: the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.
Our last thought is the heart-cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a25 1y.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
is located at Brookhaven, Miss. It is under the immediate care of Rev. GEO. F. THOMPSON, and under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. The Board of Visitors consists of Rev. B. Jones, Rev. W. Milsaps, Rev. George H. Clinton, and Rev. William Price—all members of that Conference.
Its course of instruction is as complete as that of any other institution for the education of females in the State, and is sufficient to accomplish all that can be desired by the friends of our Church.
The exercises of the first term of its next session will begin on the first Monday in September 1866, and ends Jan. 31, 1867.
For further particulars apply to the Rev. G. F Thompson, Brookhaven, Miss. a18ft

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp Street, corner Natchez—open day and evening.
This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.
For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address
f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This Institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address
f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

OPELOUSAS LAND AGENCY.—At the solicitation of numerous friends, the undersigned has consented to become an Agent for the sale and purchase of land in this healthy and much sought after country, above any high water overflow, and where the prospects for crops are so encouraging. He will take very great pleasure in shewing the land to any persons visiting this country, and in giving any other information that may be desired concerning it.
For reference I refer to the Editors of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.
JAMES H. HOUSTON,
Sept 4, 1866. Opelousas, La.

TURNER & COHEN,
Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,
NO. 57 CAMP STREET.
Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.
These gentleman, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.
The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of this city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER
And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,
61 Camp street, New Orleans.
Cartes de

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

Our young readers will find elsewhere the notice of the death of two Sabbath-school scholars. Many children are surprised by death. It is quite possible for a very young person to be thoroughly prepared for death—not by the holy oil of the Priest, but by the blessing of the Holy Spirit.—Parents urge their boys to study Latin, and their girls to "practice" music, but take no pains to teach them how to live so that they cannot die—the science of life. Yet by far the greater proportion of those dying every day are young persons. The Latin and the music may never come into play; but the knowledge of Christ is now and forever a most precious good.

The Old Mill.

There was a little stream which ran through the forest year after year, for I can not tell how long, with nothing to do but bubble and gurgle, and splash and dash, and run along just as it had a mind to.

By and by a miller stopped it, and put it to work in his mill. Who can tell how many bushels of corn and sacks of wheat it ground to make bread for the families far and near? Sometimes it could hardly work fast enough; but it worked steadily, so steadily that wise men began to say, "Here is water enough to turn a cotton mill too."

The boys liked to go to mill with their grists. It was fun to see the big water-wheel splash and dash, round and round, and watch the corn drop into the hopper and hear the clapper, clapper of the grinding, and see the meal pouring. Besides, the old miller was a favorite. He did not talk much, to be sure; but he was a good listener, and almost always had the last word if no other.

A new boy came one day with George Kent, when he brought his grist. They called him Jake. Jesse Stearns was sitting on a bag of meal with a book in his hand. The school house was not far off, and the boys often visited the mill with their books as well as their bags.

"Studying, are ye?" cried Jake. "Well, I never liked schooling. My father wanted me to go to the academy. He wanted to make a scholar of me, but I had no notion of that, not I. I'd rather go to sea."

"Water which runs at its own will
Is never known to turn a mill,"

said the old miller, who was busy tying up a bag of grists.

The boys looked round, but the words "sea" caught their attention. "Then you've been to sea?" cried Abe Winslow coming in from the door; "just where I wanted to go."

"Yes, I went to sea," said Jake, "but I got sick of it after two voyages, and so I quit."

"Water which runs at its own will
Is never known to turn a mill,"

said the old miller, from behind his hopper.

"The old fellow is forever telling about his mill," said George in a laughing whisper. "Well, Jake, what next?" asked Jesse.

"Then father put me into a machine shop; but they pretty soon found that I was no mechanic. I didn't like it, and so ran away." "And turned up here to try your hand at farming," said Jesse. "You must stick to it, and work like a Trojan, to have it turn to much account, father says."

"I don't know about that," said Jake.

"Water which runs at its own will,"
Is never known to turn a mill,"

said the old miller, who had kept his ears open.

"Do you know what that means, youngsters?"

"Why, it means that water left to itself is not likely to grind corn or turn spindles," said Jesse.

"It means you must dam up your power to make it tell," said George.

"It means that to accomplish any thing you must stop and work," said Winslow.

"To my mind, it means we must have a purpose and stick to it," said the other man.

Jake saw in a moment that the old miller was hitting him, and pretty soon he backed off the premises. The rest of the boys went back to school, while he took his way up stream, where he sat down on a mossy bank. The water flowed smoothly here, but all the while it seemed to sing in his ear,

"Water which runs at its own will
Is never known to turn a mill."

What a Spider can Do.

Although spiders are so ugly, and so much disliked, there is much about them to admire, and something, children, we may well imitate too. When we examine a spider through a microscope, we find there are some rare things for us to see. We find, for instance, the greater part of him covered with rich soft hair. He has eight eyes, brilliant and shining as diamonds. Like all other insects, his eyes are immovable, and for this reason they are in different portions of his body, that he may see the better. He has eight legs in all, joined like those of a lobster. At the end of each leg there are three crooked, movable claws, forming a sort of hand, with two fingers and a thumb. For this reason, Solomon speaks of the spider as taking hold with his "hands." About the middle of his body is a very curious, shining machine. No human mechanic ever invented any thing to compare with it. Connected with this machine there are four little bags of thread—such little bags! In every bag there are over one thousand holes—such tiny holes! From each hole runs one thread; and there being in the four bags four thousand holes, we have in all the same number of threads from this curious spinning-machine. All these threads the spider spins together in one thread, which, after all, is so small, that the finest silk thread that man ever made is five hundred times larger than it. Wonderful things, then, are these spiders. There is more skill displayed, children, in making them, than in the finest watch or sewing-machine you ever saw.

So you see there is much about the spider to admire. But there is also something about the spider we may well imitate.

The spider is a hard-working little creature. He is very industrious. The spider, as soon as he begins to live, begins to work. Every spider is a weaver and rigger, and the young and old spiders are hard workers. Children, you never saw a spider that was reared in idleness. Then, again, he never does his work hurriedly or carelessly, as many children do. Look at his web. See how regularly the threads are drawn; how neatly the cross-pieces are fastened to them, and how securely it is held to the wall or the brush. The strongest wind may sweep by it, but it stands there still.

As an example of industry, then, the spider is worthy of imitation. Industry is a most honorable quality. It is becoming in all—those who occupy the lowest, as well as those who occupy the highest station in life. When God made Adam and Eve, he put them in the garden of Eden, that they might have an opportunity of dressing and keeping it. He never intended that they should lead an idle life. For the same reason the angels have constant employment in heaven.

A missionary, addressing a pious negro woman, said: "Mary, is not the love of God wonderful?" Then enlarging on its manifestation in the atonement of Christ, he made the appeal, "Is it not wonderful?" Mary simply, but we may add sublimely, replied: "Massa, me no think it wonderful, cause it is just like him."

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The general market has evidenced little variation since the date of our last issue. Sugar and Molasses have been extremely dull, and Western Produce has exhibited about the usual movement, attended with a slight decline in Pork; while operations have disclosed considerable animation, and although prices have been somewhat unsettled, still the market closed steady, yesterday, at previous quotations.

COTTON—On Saturday there was a liberal enquiry at the opening and notwithstanding the limited and poorly assorted supplies on sale, as well as the increased claims of holders, the movement was attended with considerable activity. On Monday there was a continuance of the previous demand and although the heavy business of Saturday induced factors to enhance their pretensions; yet buyers came forward with unabated spirit and took 4200 bales at prices disclosing a strong tendency to outside rates. Yesterday the market opened quite active but after the receipt of the noon telegraphs, announcing a decline at New York, the demand almost entirely subsided, the market, however, closing steady at our previous quotations, which we retain.

Low	— to —
Ordinary	33 to 34
Good Ordinary	35 to 36
Low Middling	37 to 38
Middling	— to —

TOBACCO—The market has been very dull since our last review. The stock on sale is too small for extended operations and there is consequently no demand on foreign account. Factors, however, are very firm in their views and have refused to make any concessions in prices. Only a few hogsheads have been sold for baling and for the city trade, and we continue to quote:

	Light.	Heavy.	Currency.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to 4½
Good do	5 to —	— to 5½
Common Leaf	6 to —	— to 7½
Fair	8 to —	— to 10
Good	11 to —	— to 12
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec'a	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—On Saturday 10 hogsheads new were received, the first this season, which sold at 16½c per lb, and on Monday 3 hogsheads Good Fair were received and sold at 16c per lb. Buyers are waiting for freer receipts of the new crop. They appear anxious to operate. Yesterday the receipts were 8 hogsheads new, comprising all in first hands on sale.

MOLASSES—The sales on Saturday and Monday comprised 30 barrels, new Syrup, at $1, 3 barrels and 30 half barrels new Choice Molasses at $1 05 per gallon.

FLOUR—The absence of brands desirable for our trade, such as Superfine, and the lower grades of Extra, have not deterred buyers from entering the market and operating to a considerable extent, as will be shown by the unusual quantity of the higher grades that have changed hands since last Friday. The transactions on Saturday and Monday sum up fully 7000 bbls, at the following rates: Fine at $12 25, Superfine at $13 to $13 50, Single Extra $13 25 to $13 50, Double do $14 to $14 50, Treble do at $14 75 to $15, Choice Family do $12 25 to $16 50 per bbl. Of the above not over 1000 barrels Superfine and Single Extra were disposed. Yesterday the sales comprised about 2200 barrels.

BACON—There have been receipts of about 90 casks Shoulders, which has caused a reduction of about ½c per lb, and the demand is now met in a small way at 18½c; the same price is being paid for Ribbed Sides, while Clear are readily disposed of as previously at 19½c per lb. Green Shoulders command 16½c, Plain Hams at 21 to 22c, and Sugar-cured do at 25½ to 26c per lb, at which rates about 175 casks of the last mentioned were sold.

PORK—Under the effect of liberal receipts from the West, we are again called upon to notice a leaning of rates in favor of buyers, and we now quote Even-weight Mess, in round lots, at $34, while dealers are supplying the demand at $34 25 to $34 50 per bbl. The last sales of Prime Mess were to the Government at $30 per bbl.

LARD—The supply of Prime, both in tierce and kegs, is fair, and is freely offered at 10 to 16½c per lb for the former, and 20c per lb for the latter.

CORN—The sales on Saturday and Monday were restricted to 7500 sacks, the majority of which were taken at $1 12½ to $1 15 per bushel, and $1 10 for White Mixed. Yesterday prices exhibited increased firmness, and, with a moderate demand, some 3300 sacks were sold at $1 15 to $1 17½ per bushel for White.

OATS—There is only a moderate supply, both in store and on the levee, and prices in consequence rule firmly at 64 to 65c per bushel, at which rates some 300 sacks were disposed of. Yesterday some 1350 sacks changed hands at the outside figure.

BRAN—We have noticed a very quiet market, and with only a light stock, the transactions did not exceed 1500 sacks principally at $1 35 to $1 40 per 100 lbs. Yesterday the market presented a little more activity and about 1500 sacks were sold at $1 35, $1 37½, and $1 40 per 100 lbs.

HAY—The stock on hand is very small, but amply sufficient to meet the present demand, which is being supplied at $24 to $25 for round hoop St. Louis, and $28 per ton for Prime do. Yesterday New Prime Ohio River was selling at $29 per ton.

BALE ROPE—There has been some little movement, the particulars of which we have been unable to ascertain, though we are aware of offerings being made freely at 13c per lb.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is greatly reduced, but the demand is very active at 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—A good demand prevails, and several sales have been made, the particulars of which have been suppressed. Round lots are quoted at 34c in rolls, and 34½c per yard in bales, while parcels are being disposed of at 35c for the former, and 36c per yard for the latter.

GUNNY BAGS—We have not heard of any sales for some time past, but give 30c a piece as a fair quotation.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The market is overstocked with Western Butter, which is very dull at 20 to 35c per lb according to quality. Northern Butter is selling at 42 to 45c per lb. The inside figures for both are the rates for the larger lots. Cheese is in good supply and commands 10 to 18c for Western and Northern. We quote English Dairy at 23 to 25c per lb.

CORN MEAL—We noticed sales of some 300 bbls kiln-dried, White, in lots, at $5 per bbl. Retail lots command $5 25 to $5 50 per bbl.

HOPS—There is a very good demand for the new crop at 65 to 70c. Bavarian is scarce at 80c per lb.

COFFEE—Is in fair demand and the market is very firm. Dealers are supplying the demand at 28½ to 29½c per lb currency for Good to Prime Rio, at which rates 200 sacks were sold on Monday. We quote Prime at 19½c per lb gold, duty paid.

STAR CANDLES—The supply is light, but the demand is active at 20c for 12 oz, 21c for 13 oz, and 25c per lb for full weight.

WOOL—There is only a fair stock on hand, but with a good demand holders readily receive 16 to 18c for Louisiana Native, 18 to 22c for Texas ¼ to ½ Merino, 23 to 25c for do ½ to ¾ Merino; 28 to 30c for washed and 13 to 15c per lb for burry.

HIDES—Are in small supply, but the demand is beginning to slack, tanners being unwilling to pay the present high rates. Prices are ruling at 10 to 10½c for Green, 10½ to 11c for Kip Skins, 13c per lb for Dry Hides. Mexican Dry Hides command 18 to 21c per lb., and Pelts 20 to 25c per piece.

MALT—There is but little demand, and we furnish the following quotations for reference. Canada at $1 75 to $2 00, and Western at $1 00 to $1 75 per bushel.

OILS—There is some demand for Linseed at $2 to $2 05, and also for Coal in cans at 82½ to 85c per gallon.

NAVAL STORES—The market is quite bare and prices in consequence exhibit a still further improvement, and we now quote common Rosin at $4 50, No. 2, do at $6 50, and No. 1 do at $8 75 to $9 per bbl. Spirits Turpentine would bring 80c per gallon.

SALT—We have little or no alternation to note; prices remain about the same and we continue to quote Liverpool $2 40 to $2 75 for fine, and $2 35 to $2 60 for Coarse in warehouse, and $2 15 for the former, and $2 10 for the latter in cargo.

ESCULENTS—Potatoes are selling at $2 75 to $2 90 in sacks, and $2 00 to $3 25 per bbl, Apples at $5 50 to $6 50 per bbl, Onions $2 75 to $3 00 in sacks, and $3 25 to $3 50 in barrels, and Cabbages at 18 to 20c per crate.

POULTRY AND EGGS—Chickens sell on the landing at $6 to $7 for the young and $8 50 to $9 50 per dozen for the large. Geese at $11 to $18 and Turkeys at $37 to $38 per dozen. Western eggs are selling at $35 to $40 per bbl.

FISH—Are in small supply with an active demand. We quote No. 1 Mackerel at $24 to $24 50 per bbl, No. 2 at $22 to $22 50, No. 3 at $17 to $17½. Codfish are selling at $1 90 to $2 per box.

BEANS—Are in good request, and meet with ready sale at $4 to $6 00 per bbl for Western, and $10 50 to $13 per bbl for Northern. There is an active demand for the latter.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. Louisiana is in small supply, and the receipts being light, it sells readily at 12 to 14c, according to quality.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY,
Wednesday evening, Oct. 30, 1866.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to —
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	— to —
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 50
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$12 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	13 to 15
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50 to $3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100 to $150
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 7 to $14
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

MONETARY.

The Colu market has exhibited a fair degree of activity during the past three days. Gold opened on Saturday at 148¼ to 148¾, but at a later hour, in consequence of unfavorable accounts from New York, it declined and closed weak at 146½ to 147; it opened on Monday at 147 to 147¼, but subsequently improved, and closed firm at 147½ to 147¾; and opened yesterday 147 to 148, and without having shown much irregularity, closed at the same.

THE GUIDE TO AND BEAUTY OF HOLINESS.

We would respectfully inform the former friends and patrons of the GUIDE TO HOLINESS, formerly published in Boston, by Rev. H. V. DEGEN, that it has been united with the BEAUTY OF HOLINESS, under the above title and removed to New York, where it is now published by the subscribers.

It has been much improved, and under the able Editorship of Dr. and Mrs. PALMER & Rev. E. FOSTER, pursues its unswerving advocacy of heart-purity. We would gladly welcome the return of the many old friends of our MAGAZINE and cause throughout the SOUTH. Terms, $1,25 per annum in advance. To any one sending 4 subscribers and $5,00, we will send them a copy gratis if desired. Those subscribing now and sending the money in advance will receive TWO NUMBERS FREE. Pastors are requested to act as Agents.

Address, FOSTER & PALMER, JR., 14 Bible House, N. Y. 2t

J. R. POWELL,
COTTON FACTOR,
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANT,
190 Common Street,
W. R. STUART, } NEW ORLEANS
Late Stuart & James.
☞ Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Duck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. O. ELLIS. W. O. CHAMBERLIN
ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jan20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,
40 Carondelet street, New Orleans,
COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,
General Commission Merchants,
And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,
Wholesale Grocer,
Nos. 8 and 10 Tchoupitoulas Street,
And 8 and 10 New Levee,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,
MUSIC PUBLISHER,
Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nunns," "Gulld" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c
oc27 6m 167 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. H. M. HOLLINGSWORTH
R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,
CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,
Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,
f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. K. WALKER. THOS. M'KNIGHT. J. F JOHNSON.
R. K. WALKER & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
an20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,
Importers and Wholesale Dealers in
DRY GOODS,
Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS
E PEET—N WILLIAMSON
P SIMMS—J BOWLING
aug25 1y

LOEB, SIMON & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
86 Canal Street,
sep1 3m NEW ORLEANS.

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.
HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.
Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.
Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jan20-1y

G. & T. F. SEARING,
Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in
CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS
No. 29 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gruvier street,
oc13 1y NEW ORLEANS.

D. L. CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. F. M. ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile
CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,
o13 No. 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

R. BLEAKLY & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 50, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,
Corner Poydras and Tchoupitoulas sts.,
NEW ORLEANS.
All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of MR. J. F. GIRAULT, (formerly with the house of Messrs Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,
Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
No. 190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 0m

J. W. CARROLL. JOS. HOY. CHAS. HARDENBERGH
CARROLL, HOY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,
aug18 1y

C. E. WALMSLEY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JOHN G. PARHAM, of New Orleans. DEVARLY BLUNT, of Hinds Co., Miss.
PARHAM & BLUNT,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,
No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,
General Commission Merchants and
COTTON FACTORS,
57 Poydras street.
Cotton Office—D2 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4ft

STEWART, GALBREATH & FIZER
Commission Merchants & Cotton Factors,
46 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Andrew Stewart, New Orleans.
Wm. R. Galbreath, } Memphis.
Wm. Stewart, }
John C. Fizer, }
sep1 3m

SAM'L. BARRETT. CHS. LESASSIER.
BARRETT & LESASSIER,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
118 CARONDELET STREET,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. A. H. MAY
STEVENSON & MAY,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY,
Of the firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug 18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. S. B. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.
HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. H. R. ALSOBROOK.
WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,
WHOLESALE GROCERY GOODS,
No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. a18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,
Cotton Factors,
No. 32 Union Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
J. U. PAYNE, G. W. HUNTINGTON,
W. C. H. DAMERON, H. M. PAYNE.
je23 1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.
TOM & SAM HENDERSON,
COTTON FACTORS
AND
General Commission Merchants,
190 COMMON STREET,
je9 1y New Orleans

J. C. M'ALLISTER E. M'NAIR
M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
No. 74 Common Street,
ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

GASY W. BUTT. WM. FLASH. THOS. T. A. LYON
BUTT, FLASH & LYON,
Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.
Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.
Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,
New Orleans.
J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. july7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. WATTS, CRANE & CO. New York.
W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.
GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool.
feb3-1y

W. A. BELL, FRED N. OODEN, H. E. WITHERSPOON
WM. A. BELL & CO.,
General Commission Merchants,
And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,
41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. jc30-1y

J. J. WARREN. T. W. CRAWFORD F. D. PLEITAS
WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

THOS. A. HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.
HAMILTON & DUNNICA,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
42 Union street, New Orleans.
sep22 1y

L. E. WALKER, Missouri. C. H. FISHER, New Orleans.
WALKER & FISHER,
Commission & Forwarding Merchants
NO. 6 (GROUND FLOOR) CARONDELET ST., N. O.
Solicit consignments of all kinds of Manufactured Goods, and will make liberal advances on same.
GEO. W. WALKER, JUN., late of the firm of Harper, Walker & Co., will give his personal attention to the sale of all consignments to our House. sep22 2m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,
Wholesale Dealers in
Fancy Goods,
STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,
HOSIERY,
Furnishing Goods, etc.,
35 MAGAZINE STREET,
Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La
aug25 1y

PETER G. TAYLOR. CHAS. H. CHURCHILL.
HARDWARE AND GUNS.
TAYLOR & CHURCHILL,
DIRECT IMPORTERS,
41 MAGAZINE STREET, and 20 BANK PLACE, (Opposite St James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.
We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.
COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.
Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.
NAILS, SAWS, TIN WARE, AXES.
HOLLOW WARE, SAWS.
Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations.
Orders from the country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832. aug25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,
Grocers and Commission Merchants,
95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of CHAMPAGNE,
BRANDIES,
WHISKIES,
CLARET,
CORDIALS, ETC.
Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, suitable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the
Most reasonable Rates.
☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.
W. H. HENNING & CO,
a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and
PLANTATION CLOTHING,
No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET, (SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS
☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices. a18 1y

JAMES SYME,
Wholesale Druggist,
139 CANAL STREET, (Tonro Buildings,)
NEW ORLEANS.
Importer and Dealer in Fine DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES, Fancy Goods and Perfumery.
Surgical Instruments,
French, English, and American, of every variety
Also—
Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags.
aug25 1y

A. B. GAISWOLD. W. M. OCONNOR
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Corner of Canal and Royal streets,
[Late Hyna & Goonaich],
Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!
MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,
Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.
The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 0m

A. D. GRIEFF, Wholesale Grocer,
COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,
48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st.,
aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

GATE'S SHOE FACTORY,
HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD
Established, August, 1861
Destroyed, May, 1863.
Re-established, January, 1860.
SALES ROOMS,
C. E. GATE & CO.,
18 CAMP STREET, 18
Under the City Hotel.
We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of
LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF, AND KIP BROGANS,
Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.
We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.
A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.
C. E. CATE & CO.
feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W. C. SHEPARD. A. L. ABBOTT. ROBT. C. HUTCHINSON
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,
Nearly opposite Picayune Office,
CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,
PLATED WARE,
House Furnishing Goods,
AND KITCHEN WARE.
We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.
Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!
BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
Established in 1837.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W. COFFIN & CO.,
102 & 104 East Second street,
Cincinnati, Ohio,
Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.
Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our Improved Rotary Yoke.
All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.
Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
CLOTHING,
AND
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
No. 27 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS
Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.
☞ Special attention given to orders.
Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,
Corner of St. Andrew Street,
oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,
Successors to D. Genella,
112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,
Dealers in
CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,
Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,
PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.
Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc0 3m

MAGIC PRESS.
J. P. WILSON,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,
77 Magazine Street,
oct6 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]
EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL
Hat Emporium,
No 62 CAMP STREET,
Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. a18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY,
DRAKE & MARKHAM,
Manufacturers of
Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Childrens'
BOOTS AND SHOES,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.
We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children; made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.
We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.
OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!
Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.
Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.
One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.
We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.
Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.
All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP STREET.
aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE
is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family. Time, money, and extreme vexation, by using of your daily meals, may be saved by using the
CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.
Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.
The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top
has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.
The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.
The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove, is the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from cooking the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.
The Hot Closet, in which meats and vegetables are kept warm for hours when there has been a delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and dessert, and place them hot upon the table.
The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.
Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Edge Tools, etc.
RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,
93 and 95 Camp street, near Perdido, and 505 Magazine street, near Magazine Market.
sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN.
PRICE'S
Patent Texas Tonic
PURELY VEGETABLE.
It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for
CHILLS AND FEVERS.
For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.
For sale at 56 Camp street, New Orleans.
THOS. K. PRICE, Vender.
Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of
PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,
Or, Vegetable Medicine.
T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:
DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate use and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therefore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefited.
Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,
We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City Hall.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Office.
T. GREENEBLO, of house of Fellowes & Co.
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. HUNSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce.
New Orleans, June, 1863.
TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$1 00
8 " "	1 50
12 " "	1 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.
All orders will meet with prompt attention.
sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,
PAPER WAREHOUSE,
No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and St. Charles streets, New Orleans.
Newspaper of the following sizes: 22 by 31, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 36 by 48.
Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams' Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Son's Type.
sep1

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH, FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 43. WHOLE NUMBER 602.

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1866.

$3.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE. OFFICE—113 CARR STREET.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

JNO. W. BURRUSS,

IN MEMORIAM.

Died in St. Louis, Mo., on the evening of the 5th of Oct. 1866, John W. Burrus, of Wilkinson county, Miss.

In the summer of 1837, deep in a retired district embraced in the Mississippi Conference, I met a young man just home again, with the first honors of the Wesleyan University, still fresh upon him. He had gone through his college course—winning the admiration of his class and the esteem of the faculty. At the time we met he was diffident and tall to awkwardness. He had been little in society—was fond of books and had matured no plans for after life. He was a member of the Church and was consistently religious. His friends said he ought to preach, and sometimes he ventured out far enough to entertain the purpose, but he was slow of speech, and besides, he had no confidence in himself—and he quickly sought seclusion again. We grew to be friends; that is, we were drawn together, and there was nothing to cause special repulsions.

During the eight or ten years I spent in New Orleans, we seldom met. In 1846 I was stationed in Woodville. I had long known Bro. McGehee, and the hospitalities of Bowling Green were proverbial. Here I again met John W. Burruss and his sister, Mrs. Mary B. McGehee. They even the children of Rev. John C. Burruss, one of the most distinguished and useful men of his age. Here our friendship was renewed, and I learned to admire and love the friend now wept as dead.

His was the highest style of Christian character. His father—of the old Virginia school—was a polished gentleman, of high order of intellect and of captivating manners. He had been converted in early life, and with the freshness of his ardent nature had volunteered his service as a missionary—to the far off Mississippi. The mother was only less than an angel, so intellectual, so laborious, so self-sacrificing, so gentle, so heavenly minded—to be near her was to breathe an atmosphere refreshing as the zephyrs of Eden. To these parents, on the 7th of October 1814, John was born, and under their joint guidance, while the mother lived, he was trained. A profound sense of religious duty pervaded the whole being of the boy, and although the self-consecration came many years later—the mind took in the great leading doctrines of a revealed religion, and the heart often responded to the touching appeals of the gospel.

Grace superadded, and sanctifying the elements of his character, fashioned a man of God. He read D. Quinn and Coldridge, and Carlyle, and Lamb and Channing—he studied Robertson and Arnold, and French and Fletcher, and Watson and Wesley, and bringing all these to the Bible, as helps to a knowledge of divine things, he had grown wise in the science of salvation, and had learned to subdue himself into the obedience of Jesus Christ. The full manhood found him in his place, a layman it is true, but with a mission as ample as an apostle's.

The church, the Sabbath school, the college, the great benevolent agencies of Christianity, demanded a service he was fitted to perform, and these found his counsels wise, his heart warm, and his hand liberal.

Too self-suspecting — with an aversion to the conflict incident to public life, he shrank away from place and sought an ancestolations usefulness. And yet no man was more ready to announce his opinions, and no man was more ready to stand responsible for them. He did not court an encounter, nor did he tamely acquiesce. He thought independently and vigorously; he matured his opinions with studied, patient care, and when called upon to avow them, acted with a martyr's courage.

He had been educated an Arminian, and in the years of his ripe scholarship and religious growth, he felt and owned its power to lift, along with the Holy Spirit, the humble, trusting, hungering heart to fullest fellowship with man and highest communion with God.

Never have we witnessed more of that yearning after the life of God in the heart, that child like, confiding, anxious, submissive pleading for the Spirit's power.

A philosopher, a student, a man hungry for knowledge, and filling his capacious mind from every source of supply, he came away from the conflict of thought, the din of controversy, or the essay, breathing a life so vigorous and a heart so hopeful and so strong, and sat at the feet of a child or an old family servant, and listened and prayed as these talked of faith in Christ, and the witness of the Spirit. He knew how to fellowship these, while statesmen, jurists and divines, listened eagerly to his opinions. He combined the strength of the lion and the gentleness of the lamb.

In the perfect sense of the word charity, he was charitable. He watched with earnest interest the great religious movements of the age, and he looked with an approving eye upon them all. He was a Methodist in doctrine, in polity and sympathy, but his strong yearning towards all signs of good and all appliances for uplifting humanity, tore down the barriers which bigotry and intolerance interpose against a liberal christianity. His benevolence grew out of a settled conviction of duty, and he gave or withheld with a steady hand. The impulses of the occasion met a stern resistance and the grudging gift of another for some of the large benevolences of the church, operated no discouragement to his purposes, and no abatement of his liberality. His connection with the efforts of the church to build and establish Centenary College, brought out the elements of his character with great distinctness. He loved learning, and he loved especially learning as it knelt for baptism at the altar of religion. He came at once to the support of the college. He comprehended its wants and its mission, to it he gave his counsels and his prayers, his time and his means.

For years, as one of the chief and active members of its Board of Trustees, he earnestly, steadily, patiently, thoughtfully toiled and suffered that he might see that institution put in a position, its building, its apparatus and its endowment, to deserve public confidence, and justify the outlay of the church. No obstruction turned him aside, no embarrassment abated his energy, the work was to be done, and assuming his just share in the enterprise, he faltered not until he saw success crowning his efforts.

Notwithstanding his acknowledged ability to fill any station in life, for he brought into political investigations the same manly vigor and independence evinced elsewhere, he was not popular. He could not play the demagogue, he had not learned how to use the duplicity or the sycophancy of the politician.

His essays and his reviews, as well as his occasional papers for the weekly press, are full of profound thought, and of sage suggestion. A whig in politics; he opposed secession; a patriot, he resisted coercion; and when the fortunes of war dissolved the government and armies of the Confederated States of America, he accepted the situation and adjusted himself to the logic of events. High political position was several times offered him, and several times he consented to become a candidate for office, but his aversion to a conflict for popularity overcame the remonstrance of his friends, and he retired from the field. However great our admiration of the man, we could only tolerate this idiosyncrasy on the ground of constitutional defect. There was a slight hesitancy in his speech, which in early life made the timidity which produced it more apparent. Besides, his taste was offended by the vulgar swagger, the low buffoonery, the drunken revelry, the coarse jest and the cant of the political toady, or the blustering demagogue. To use the arts which these practiced, was repugnant to his nature; to rely upon the supremacy of intelligence, virtue and integrity was to ensure defeat. He chose retirement, gathered about him friends of kindred sympathies, and threw a charm about the unrestrained freedom of social life which made Elleray an elysium. To the stranger he seemed austere; and his political opponents—ready to become vendors of falsehood, when falsehood promised success—strove to excite against him the prejudice of the poor and the illiterate. And yet the leading men of all parties deferred to his judgment, and not unfrequently fell in with the views he had long before advanced, and for which he had been condemned.

He possessed this decided advantage. He could affiliate with a political party or a religious sect without blindly adopting the platform or the creed of either, and he was so fully up with the large and comprehensive views of the age that the incidental was never confounded with the essential.

He was thoroughly conversant with the sectional questions which for thirty years agitated the country, and finally ripened into disunion. Towards his slaves he was eminently just and humane. Strict in his discipline, liberal in his supplies—the visit of the master was welcomed with joy. The missionary to his negroes was as regularly supplied as the pastor for his more immediate household, and an essential part of the business of the missionary, was the education of the children. He knew that slaveholding was not incompatible with the theory or practice of christianity. He saw and understood slavery, as one familiar with it, and though educated at the "North," and accustomed to spend his summers in those higher latitudes, he loathed the cant and the fanaticism of the negro worshiper.

The touching devotion of his hundreds of negroes during the war, and the fidelity with which they clung to him after the struggle was over, showed plainly that they had learned his character, and confided in his kindness and integrity.

In 1849 the Legislature authorized the establishment of a public school system, intended to give full force to the provisions already existing for the purposes of education. No plans, or worse than none, existed in Wilkinson county, and without dissent he was chosen to give shape and life to an organization which should meet the public want. He accepted the office of General Superintendent, and promptly entered upon the duties. He visited the schools, went into the remote and destitute districts, brought order out of confusion, created an interest, and gave direction to popular impulse, and in the course of a single year put in operation a system which has been for almost twenty years working the most beneficient results to the masses.

In this connection I may allude his pre-eminent ability and success as a Sabbath school superintendent. Ever at his place, ready to exercise authority, to excite emulation, to relieve a tedious moment with some rich selection from the "old authors," or to make lucid by his own exposition some hidden truth, he won the children to himself, to the school, to Christ, and saw, as the years passed by, the church receiving to its fold many thoroughly trained in the knowledge which maketh wise unto salvation.

His home life should not be overlooked. To him the rights of hospitality were sacred. Cordial to his friends, courteous to the stranger, his doors stood open, and his table was spread to the needy. His residence was upon one of the highways connecting the Eastern and Western departments of the Confederate army, and while his own hand, salt as a woman's, gently ministered to the wounded, it is not too much to say that his generous hospitality gave welcome, shelter and food to thousands of soldiers.

Towards his immediate family the combinations of character were striking. The proprieties of life were rigidly enforced; dignified and tender, stern and considerate, his household shrunk from his displeasure, and leant confidently upon his affection. The early love of the timid boy had matured into his marriage with Sarah H., daughter of Hon. Ed. McGehee, of Woodville, on the 4th of January, 1838. She, too, was of retiring nature, and the death of an idolized sister had cast a shadow, lengthened with life, over her path. She was a noble woman, of intelligence and culture, of strength and tenderness, of dignity and piety.

It was no wonder he loved his home, and no wonder that his friends were select. God took from the devoted husband his Sarah, in March 1855. In Oct. 1859 he married Miss Louisa Leaden. She was a woman of eminent worth. She was a mother to his children, and the friend of his friends. For depth of character, brilliancy of intellect, ardor of piety, grace of manners, and cheerfulness of disposition, she had few equals. And she too died in the winter of 1863, tearing loose again the half-healed wounds of grief, and leaving the forlorn husband to feel the solitude and sadness of bereavement.

In person John W. Burruss was tall and lean, his features were strong, his eyes blue, and his lips compressed. His constitution was never vigorous, and much of life was spent in resisting the fell coming of an early death. For a year past, without any symptom of organic disease, there seemed to be a giving way of the functions of life. He struggled to prolong his days, went out from his home, and sought health abroad. But its fountains were fast drying up, and languid, panting, almost hopeless, he turned back, that in the bosom of his family, and among the treasured friends who knew and loved him, he might gather up his feet and die. But the bow was bent, the arrow was already upon the string—mid way he fell. A son and a daughter hung over the dying father, while the angels came and bore the spirit of the good man to his rest in Abraham's bosom.

W.

Sunnyside, Oct. 27th, 1866.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

CHRISTIAN STEADFASTNESS.

"Continue in the faith grounded and settled and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel."

One of the sad infirmities of our nature is a proneness to grow "weary in well doing." Many "run well" for a season, many endure a brief term, but not unto the end. Many are faithful a little while, but not "unto death." This is no doubt the grand solution of the slowness of the gospel's march to universal conquest. If the multitudes who join the various "branches" of the Church of God, would "endure to the end," how it would swell the ranks of God's spiritual army, and how rapidly carry its triumphant arms to the ends of the earth. This weariness in well doing works incalculable evils. It is an unutterable evil to the unhappy souls, endure but for a season, they "perish." It discourages the faith of the Church, it damps the zeal of the ministry, it brings shame and reproach upon the gospel, and hinders unnumbered thousands from seeking after God, and laying up treasure in heaven.

We are inclined to think that one of the various causes that may be assigned as explanatory of this sad tendency, is that men mistake the proper character of Christian life. They do not look upon it as a continuous, daily, lifelong thing, but rather as an occasional and periodic affair, and hence their piety is spasmodic and sporadic. They seem to feel that there is a summer season of life and fruitfulness, then properly a winter of suspended life and unfruitfulness. That the church and the individual may have a season of aggression and victory over opposing influences, then they may go into the repose and inactivity of winter quarters. This fasting and famishing is false in theory, and fatal in practice.

The Christian's peace, and his spiritual life is a "river"—a river that never freezes, never runs dry, but flows with a steady current from the sources to its terminus in the ocean. The Christian life is not deciduous, but perennial, a tree planted by the rivers of water that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither. The tree of life margining the unwon banks of the eternal river, with everlasting greenness crowned, and beautified and enriched with ever ripening fruit, is the lofty and the lovely type of life in Christ. Alas! how different is the low conception of thousands. A few "feasts of fat things," then a long season of leanness to famishing nigh, then awaking up and attempting to feast again, when spiritual health and appetite, may be, are almost gone. A little plowing, a little earnest toil in the spring, then a long season of idleness until weeds and grass have overgrown, and ruined the precious wheat, that never waves a yellow harvest nor fills a barn with plenty.

May not this false theory, this bad practice spring from a low conception of the service of God, that it must be subordinate and secondary, while the earthly life is to be paramount and always first. That the spiritual life shall only have occasional and incidental consideration and attention, while the earthly life shall have our earnest thought and daily care. Such men have never deeply asked or pondered the tremendous question: "What shall it profit me if I gain the whole world and lose my own soul, or what shall I give in exchange for my soul?" Life viewed merely in its temporal aspects is but "a chase for flowers, a smile to win them, and a tear to see them fade." Watts, the immortal hymnologist, has well conceived and beautifully expressed the idea of Christian life:

"What empty things are all the skies,
And this inferior clod!
There's nothing here deserves my joys,
There's nothing like my God."

Was this our exalted beau ideal of life in Christ, we should not be compromising and compounding between Christ and the world, but whenever their seemed a collision between the things temporal and the things eternal, we should say to the world as Abraham said to his servant: "Abide ye here," while looking to a higher level he said, "and I will go yonder and worship." And when worldly prudence would say to us: "If you thus continually attend to spiritual things, and thus subordinate the world to them, you must suffer serious loss"—reply like the holy and consecrated Paul, "yea doubtless, I count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord."

W.

Facts Concerning Human Life.

The total number of human beings on the earth is computed at 3,000,000,000 (three thousand millions), and they speak 3064 known tongues.

The average duration of human life is 33 1-3 years.

One fourth of those born die before they are 7 years old, and one half before the age of 17.

Out of 100 persons only six reach the age of 60 years.

Out of 500 persons only one attains the age of 80 years.

Sixty persons die every minute.

Tall men live longer than short ones.

Married men are longer lived than the single.

Rich men live, on the average, 42 years, but the poor only 30 years.

There is a drunkard to every 74.

From the "Methodist."

TOMB OF PHILIP EMBURY.

For fifty-seven years Mr. Embury had lain in the grave without a stone or monument to tell where the apostle of Methodism was buried. Many thought he should be removed to the Methodist classic ground at Ashgrove. The Rev. John N. Maffit, then in the height of his fame, being an Irishman, felt deeply in regard to the first Methodist minister in America; he could not bear the idea that Philip Embury should remain any longer without a tombstone. He corresponded with Gen. A. M. Bininger and others concerning the removal of Embury's remains. A time was fixed for the re-interment, June, 1832. The Rev. Thomas Mason was the presiding elder, and Rev. Theodosius Clark the preacher in charge of the circuit. Mr. Maffit spent about a fortnight viewing localities before the re-interment. He was the guest of the widow of Isaac Bininger, mother of General Bininger, and put up in the old mansion where the old patriarch of the family and friend of Embury lived and died. The night before the remains of Embury were to be removed, Mr. Maffit was heard to arise and go out about midnight. He remained for a long time, and the family became alarmed and went in quest of him. After searching for a time, they went into the burial ground, and on the grave of Embury, prostrate in prayer, found John N. Maffit.

The next day at two o'clock hundreds were gathered to witness the ceremonies. They opened the grave of Embury, and found a small piece of his coffin and but little of his remains. The skull was perfect, also the thigh bones. Mr. Maffit handled the skull, which was quite a massive one, and commented on its extraordinary size, and said it could have contained no ordinary brain. He also handled the thigh bones, and said they indicated a man of large size.

They gathered up the bones, skull and dust, and placed them in a coffin, and then they held religious services. They sung a hymn appropriate to the occasion, and prayed. Then Mr. Maffit, standing on the stump of the old oak tree under which they buried Embury, delivered a most pathetic address. The procession then started for Ashgrove, about nine miles distant. Mr. Maffit rode with his friend, Gen. Bininger, who took me over the same ground in 1859, pointing out localities, and describing the minuteness and scenes of that wonderful day. The ride is over hills and down valleys. The scenery is remarkably beautiful. On the arrival they had service in the old Methodist church in Ashgrove. Mr. Maffit, who was a sweet singer, sang a hymn remarkably appropriate and touching. He then delivered an address which greatly affected his auditors.

This was on Saturday. Mr. Maffit and General Bininger were the guests of John Fisher. The re-interment took place on Sunday; it was one of the greatest gatherings ever known in that region before or since. The wagons extended for over a mile, and the people came from twenty miles distant. Several thousands were present. Mr. Maffit stood on the tomb of a Methodist minister, and delivered one of his most thrilling addresses. He had carefully prepared it beforehand, and it was printed, but he did not read it. Of all his efforts, this far transcended the rest for beauty and pathos. Never did he have a nobler theme—never did he acquit himself more nobly. They sung a hymn, and then deposited the remains of Embury to rest among his countrymen.

The reader no doubt would like to see a sketch of the funeral sermon. It has long been out of print. I have space only for a few extracts.

"In this sequestered spot, where the quiet herds have grazed in peace, where the robin has sung his early song and the snow-bird played with the descending flakes of winter, even here moulders the frame of a man. Bone after bone hath here returned to the dust from which man was originally taken. Dig down now, and see if here we can find Embury. Here the gray-haired men of other days laid him, the cold remains of a minister of Jesus, when his day of labor was over. Here one day, when the hearse would slowly along this path, they gathered, not to see the man of God in his mightiest strength when the oil of eloquence is on his lips and the anointing of the Most High shines in his face, but to see a minister of the New Testament cold and lifeless. * * * *

"Summer and winter came and went again. The grass grew tall and rank over this mound. It became level with the surrounding earth. The place was fading from the memory of man, for many who dug and covered this grave went themselves to their last resting place, and laid their time-wearied heads on the coarse pillow of gravel.

"I have made these preliminary remarks, suggested as they have been by the strange circumstances which have called us together. Not to bury the dead, not to disinter his mouldering remains have we come together, not to shed a tear over Embury dead! but to thank God so good a man ever lived, and to rear a frail stone over his dust which may tell his name and our reverence for his virtues for four or five generations yet to come. Then this very marble we rear to-day shall gather the rust of years; the gnawing tooth of time shall eat away our inscription, and men shall wonder at the ragged fragment of a monument that shall cumber this ground, and guess by what wild chance it strayed away from its native quarry. We come here to-day after a lapse of years to rear a monument over one of the nursing fathers of Methodism in America. * * *

"No common dust mouldered beneath our feet. Here fell a harnessed warrior of the cross. Embury was the founder of Methodism in the city of New York. We knew not his path in another land beyond the blue waves of the Atlantic. He was my countryman, but whether his path was one of light or darkness, of gloom or glory, in his native isle I know not. But this I know, and record it to his eternal honor, that he was deemed worthy by the Holy Spirit to institute the classes of Wesleyanism in the city of New York."

The orator then took his audience onward to the great resurrection day, when Embury should come forth from his grave in the image of his God! "But, see! a heavenly form creeps from the dust beneath our feet, scattering the soil of centuries from his radiant brow, and fresh in the glow of a young immortality, Embury rises to the resurrection of the just." This is the day he looked for, and thought of, and warned sinners of when he was in life. It has come. He no longer needs a frail slab to mark the spot of his grave, for now he is known as far as immortal souls can glance their untiring eyes, as far as the accents of Jesus' voice can echo his welcome. No more he needs the eulogy of a man he never saw. No more he labors at his trade, for he has, through the strength of the Lord Jesus, wrought out a crown of eternal life, and he now takes it from the hands of celestial ones who kiss his death-cold brow into the warmth of a beautiful immortality. Let me die the death, that I may wear the crown of Embury. Let me live the life, that I may win the spirit-watched grave of my departed countryman."

His remains were then re-interred in the Methodist burying ground at Ashgrove. Over them was erected a plain, neat, beautiful marble slab. As I wandered among the tombs in that old ground the grave of Embury had the strongest attractions for me, and with deep emotion I copied the following inscription from his tombstone:

PHILIP EMBURY,
The earliest American minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, here found his last resting place.
"Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his Saints."
Born in Ireland; an emigrant to New York, Mr. Embury was the first to gather in that city and toset in motion a train of measures which resulted in the founding of John street Church—the cradle of American Methodism — and the introduction of a system which has beautified the earth with salvation, and increased the joys of heaven.

The Minimum Christian.

And who is he? The Christian who is going to heaven at the cheapest rate possible. The Christian who intends to get all of the world he can, and not meet the worldling's doom. The Christian who aims to have as little religion as he can without lacking it altogether.

The minimum goes to church in the morning, and in the afternoon also, unless it rains, or is too warm, or too cold, or he is sleepy, or has headache from eating too much dinner. He listens most respectfully to the preacher, and joins in prayer and praise. He applies the truth very sensibly sometimes to himself, oftener to his neighbor.

The minimum Christian is very friendly to all good works. He wishes them well; but it is not in his power to do much for them. The Sabbath school he looks upon as very good for the neglected and ignorant. It is not convenient, however, for him to take a class. His business arrangements are so pressing during the week, that he needs Sabbath as a day of rest—nor does he think himself qualified to act as teacher. There are so many persons better prepared for this important duty, that he must beg to be excused; still, he will do it if he must. He is in favor of visiting the poor; but he has no time to take part in those labors of love. He is very friendly to home and foreign missions, and gives his "mite." He thinks there are too many "appeals," but he gives, if not enough to save his reputation, pretty near it—at all events he aims at it.

The minimum Christian is not clear on a number of points. The opera and dancing, perhaps the theatre and card playing, large fashionable parties, give him much trouble. He can't see the harm in this, or that or the other popular amusement. There is nothing in the Bible against it. He does not see but a man may be a Christian, and dance or go to the opera. He knows several excellent people who do. Why should not he?

In short, the minimum Christian knows that he cannot serve God and Mammon—he would if he could—but he will come as near so doing as he can. He will give to himself and the world all that he may, and to God as little as he can, and yet not lose his soul. He stands so close to the dividing line between the people of God and the people of the world, that it is hard to say on which side of it he actually is found.

Ah, my brother, are you making this attempt? Beware lest you find at last that in trying to get to heaven with as little religion as possible, you have missed it altogether—lest, without gaining the whole world you lose your own soul. The true child of God does not say, "How little," but, "How much may I do for my God?" They thus judge that if one died for all, he died that they which lived, should no more live for themselves, but for Him who died for them. Leaving the things which are behind, they reach forth towards those that are before, ever exclaiming, "What shall I render unto the Lord for all his benefits?"

Reader, are you minimum Christian? There is reason to fear that such are no Christians at all. "Not every one that saith Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven."

Douglas Jerrold's Kind Spirit.

Charles Dickens relates the following of Douglas Jerrold: Of his generosity I had a proof within these two or three years which it saddens me to think of now. There had been estrangement between us—not on any personal subject, and not involving angry words—and a good many months had passed without my ever seeing him in the streets, when it fell out that we dined, each with his own separate party, in the Stranger's Room of the Club. Our chairs were almost back to back, and I took mine after he was seated and at dinner (I am sorry to remember), and did not look that way. Before we had sat long he openly wheeled his chair around, stretched out both hands in an engaging manner, and said aloud, with a bright and loving face, that I can see as I write to you: "Let us be friends again. A life is not long enough for this." Jerrold was not a Christian, but his conduct in this case was worthy of a Christian character. On a dying bed how insignificant will appear many things about which we contend in bitterness and wrath! Life is too short, its inevitable sorrows so many, its responsibilities so vast and solemn, that there is, indeed, no time to spare in abusing and maligning one another. Let not the sun go down on your wrath. Never close your eyes to sleep with a heart angry towards your brother and fellow-sufferer. See him and be reconciled to him if you can. If he is a true man and a Christian, he will listen. If he is not, you will have done right, and your soul will be bright with the sunshine of Heaven.

From the Watchman.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

There seems to exist in the minds of many of the friends of the South some doubts as to the course those States should adopt in reference to the Constitutional Amendment proposed by Congress at its last session. To me there appears to be but one side to this question so far as either the Southern States or the friends of liberty at the North are concerned. The human mind could scarcely conceive of a more cunningly devised scheme to degrade the people of the South, and to bind not only them but the rest of the States hopelessly to the car of Radical power; or one which, if it could be carried out, would more effectually accomplish those objects. And for that purpose and that only it was concocted. But of this hereafter.

Are the Southern States in the Union or out of it? If they are out, they have no voice in the matter; any action of theirs one way or the other would have no validity any more than the action of Canada, or Cuba. If they are out, and it shall be adopted by three fourths of the States now claiming to be represented in Congress, it will be a part of their Constitution; and mark my words, if it shall be adopted by three fourths of those States, the Radicals will claim it as a part of the Constitution.

If those States are in the Union, they have nothing to gain, but every thing to lose by its adoption. What new right or benefit does it propose to confer upon them? from what burden to relieve them? Let us see.

It provides that "No person shall be a senator or representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof." And it further provides that "the Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article."

It would, perhaps, not pass the bounds of truth to say that nine tenths of the best and most intelligent men of those States have, either as members of Congress, or as officers of the United States, or as governors, judges, justices of the inferior courts, members of the State legislatures, justices of the peace, sheriffs, or constables, taken an oath to support the Constitution of the United States, and engaged in what this article calls "insurrection or rebellion" against the United States or "given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof."

I shall leave out of the question the loathsome state of degradation to which a people would sink themselves who could give their consent to such a thing, and discuss the subject merely as a matter of material interest.

It is urged by such papers as the Herald and the Times, which profess to be friendly to the South, that these States ought to adopt the amendment without hesitation, because it would give them a representation in Congress. It will require the talents of a keener casuist than the writer, to determine whether an assertion so utterly at variance with the very words of the article is due to mental or moral obliquity of vision, or both. So far from giving any promise of representation, it specially by its very terms excludes all the representatives who have been elected, and will exclude every man who is worthy to be elected, or could be under the present state of things. But I will tell you how these State could and would be represented if this amendment should be adopted. Under the pretext of enforcing "by appropriate legislation the provisions of this article," they would pass a law to disfranchise as voters all who aided the South in her struggle.

Let us see what the South would lose by the adoption of this amendment. First, she would lose the services of all her best men, not only in the State Government, but elsewhere. Her State offices would be filled by tools of the Radicals, and her representatives and senators in Congress would be of the same stamp.

She would destroy all hope of relief from the Conservative men of the North. The Radicals are already in a large majority in the next Congress, and their strength would be greatly increased by the representatives from the South; for if this amendment were adopted by the South they would take special care, during the coming session, to make such laws as would render it impossible for the South to elect men other than such as suited them. They would not be content with negro suffrage, they would disfranchise every body else; they would so arrange it that the vote of every Southern elector should be cast for Sumner, Butler, or some other such man whom they will nominate, who, of course, would be elected, and then the whole power and patronage of the Government being in their hands, it would be useless for the good men of the North to struggle any longer against their power except by revolution.

What, then, is the policy of the South? To reject the amendment and wait; she can make her condition no worse by it. She has now her State governments in operation, she is no longer under military law, and will not be. The President and Gen. Grant are both disposed to protect her. The judiciary tax ie in operation, she can find some protection in that. The people of the North can not and will not long stand the present state of things. The Radicals are growing weaker every day. Many of them now who will not, perhaps, have the Congress to vote against their party, would be glad to see it defeated. They are trembling for the consequences of its success. They may not be defeated in the coming elections; I do not believe they will, except perhaps in the State of New York; but very many who have heretofore supported them will vote against them, and when another election comes round they will be routed horse, foot and dragoons. Anger and passion can not last always; the people of the North are beginning to feel that peace is as necessary to them as to the South; they find themselves burdened with heavy and oppressive taxation; the prosperity of the South is necessary to relieve them. They are becoming wearied with anxiety and excitement, they do not see what good can come of continued war amongst themselves and against the south, and they fear the evils which may come of it, the extent of which they dread, the end of which they can not see. They begin to want peace and quiet at home.

Then let the South go on quietly to improve her material and social condition. She has no power, no voice in the Government; and when the Radicals find that have too much to do in trying to preserve their power at home, to be able or willing to pay much attention to the South.

JUSTICE.

A LADY'S THIMBLE SENDS LIGHTNING ACROSS THE ATLANTIC. — A curious incident of ocean telegraphy is thus related by the London Times of Oct. 1:

The contents of a lady's thimble would hardly be expected to constitute a very powerful instrument. It would scarcely have been thought capable of one of the most astonishing feats ever performed by science. The Chairman, however, of the Atlantic Telegraph informs us that that this little instrument has actually achieved such a feat. By way of experiment, the engineer of the company joined the extremities of the two cables which now stretch across the Atlantic, thus forming an immense loop line of three thousand seven hundred miles. He then put some acid in a lady's silver thimble, with bits of zinc and copper, and by this simple agency he succeeded in passing signals through the whole length in little more than a second of time. A few years ago, how incredible such a statement would have sounded! It seems, indeed, that the simplicity of the fact has taken even electricians by surprise. When a cable was first laid across the whole breadth of the Atlantic, it was anticipated that an unusually high power would be required to drive the current in sufficient force through such a length. In the first instance, therefore, they used a battery of fifty cells, and afterward employed five hundred cells. But this extraordinary power only injured the cable, and the company are now working between Valentia and Heart's Content with a battery of only twenty cells. It is, in fact, remarkable how greatly the success of the present year has dissipated the supposed difficulties of distant or deep sea telegraphy.

THE RELIGIOUS IDEAS OF THE ABORIGINAL AFRICAN.—Although some Africans cherish ideas which seem as the faint echoes of old traditions and the faintest shadows of old presences; although they reverse the Druidical tenet that man began as a flea to end as an angel, and accept humiliation by believing that man must pass through the ape before he reaches the pastures which are the camping ground of the immortals; there is an admirably ready perception in some of the very poorest natives as to the messages which are sent them by the God of Nature. A Bechuana, for instance, was asked to explain what he understood by the term "holiness." He answered:—"When copious showers have descended during the night, and all the earth, and leaves, and cattle are washed clean, and the sun rising shows a drop of dew on every blade grass, and the air breathes fresh, that is holiness." This reply shows that the head and the heart, the intellect and the feelings, were sensitively alive to recognize and to enjoy the works and gifts of God; the spirit of thankfulness is there too, unmistakably.— Dr. Livingstone remarks that African peasants give as pertinent answers as men of their quality in England. Few of our shepherds, either rural or ecclesiastical, could excel the Bechuana in giving a better definition of holiness—earth as pure that it is next to heaven, and men so right-hearted as to feel the beauty, and know that "to enjoy is to obey."—London Athenæum.

NEARNESS OF DEATH.—When we walk near powerful machinery, we know that one single misstep and those mighty engines will tear us to ribbons with their flying wheels, or grind us to powder in their ponderous jaws. So when we are thundering across the land in a rail car, and there is nothing but an inch of iron flange to hold us on the track. So when we are in a ship, and there is nothing between us and eternity. We imagine, then, that we see how close we are to the edge of the precipice. But we do not see it. Whether on the sea or on the land, the partition that divides us from eternity is something less than the oak plank, or half an inch of iron flange. The machinery of life and death is within us. The tissues that hold the beating powers in their place are often no thicker than a sheet of paper, and if that thin partition rupture, it would be the same with us as if a cannon ball struck us. Death is inseparably bound up with life in every structure of our bodies. Struggle as he would to widen the space, no man can, at any time, go farther from death than the thickness of a sheet of paper.

A SCHOOLMASTER'S DIGNITY.—Dr. Busby, when his school was visited by the King, marched into the room before his Majesty with his hat on. When rebuked for disrespect to royalty, he apologized by saying: "I could never govern this herd of boys if I allowed them to think that there was any man of greater authority than Dr. Busby."

TURKEY.—The Turkish government has given permission for the sale and free distribution in all parts of the empire of all publications of the American missionaries designed for the Mahommedan population. The permission was granted after a full examination of the books by the government.

To teach early is to engrave on marble; to teach late is to write on sand.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. M. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1866

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE PRESIDING ELDERS OF THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

BISHOPS' APPORTIONMENT.

New Orleans District	$300 00
Opelousas District	100 00
Alexandria District	100 00
Homer District	150 00
Minden District	150 00
Shreveport District	200 00
Bastrop District	100 00
Texas District	50 00
	$1150 00

We publish the above again, to impress it upon the attention of our preachers and our people.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

We copy the annexed paragraph from the Jackson Methodist—having received no official notice of the matter, we give it as an item of news:

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE CHANGED, TO MEET AT BROOKHAVEN, NOV. 28, 1866.

Owing to peculiar circumstances, necessary to mention in this notice, the Mississippi Conference, M. E. Church, South, will meet at Brookhaven, instead of Natchez. The preachers will act accordingly.

The good people of Brookhaven have every necessary arrangement made for the preachers and their horses, and are looking with anxiety for the meeting of the Conference.

George F. Thompson,
Levi Pearce,
H. F. Johnson,
H. H. Montgomery,
T. M. Ward.

Papers throughout the boundaries of the Conference will confer a great favor for copying this notice two or three times.

New Orleans District—Fourth Quarterly Meetings.

Carondelet street	Nov. 12
Moreau street	" 13
Felicity street	" 14
German Missions	" 15
Jeff. city, including Algiers and Gretna	16
Baton Rouge	Dec. 8-9

Notice.—The Quarterly Conference for Jefferson city, Algiers and Gretna will meet at the Christian Advocate office, 112 Camp street, at 5½ P. M., on the 16th instant.

Reports statistical and from Trustees in full will be called for.

J. C. Keener, P. E.

Notice to the Preachers of the Mobile Conference.

As the Mobile Conference holds its next session at Enterprise, Miss., Nov. 21st, I would notify the members that they will be met at the depot, at 2 and 4 A. M.

Those coming by private conveyance will please stop at the store of "Johnson and Holden," just opposite the depot.

W. J. Powers.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Messrs. Campman & Co., Stoves, grates and tin ware, No. 115 Poydras. What Mr. Campman recommends may be relied on.

Three Southern Ladies advertised for situations as Teachers, address Rev. R. H. Herbert, Meridian, Miss.

The Lord's Prayer Picture, of which we will speak hereafter.—Holmes & Co., 26 Camp street.

Death of Dr. T. H. Capers. — A note from Rev. Samuel Woodber, dated Monticello, Florida, Oct. 17, informs us of the death of Dr. Thomas H. Capers, Presiding Elder of the Tallahassee District. He died on Monday, 15th of October, from the effects of carbuncle on the back of the neck. Bro. W. says that his sufferings were intense, but he bore them with Christian patience and fortitude. Dr. Capers was a nephew of Bishop Capers, and traveled till recently in Alabama or Mississippi. He came to Florida during the war, and had taken a prominent position, as a good preacher and highly useful minister.

MARRIED.

By the Rev Thomas Green, at the residence of Mr. J. W. Walmsley, Franklin Parish, La., Miss Sue E. Duckworth to Mr. Stephen B. Swayze, of Catahoula Parish.

Married by Rev. R J Harp, November the 3rd, Mr. Otto Dreurez, to Miss Emma Tharp, both of this city.

November 7th, by the same, Mr. Lucas Hilz to Miss J Wilhelmina Potthof, all of this city.

November 7th, by the same, Mr. John Reagan to Mrs. Rosanna ClusKey, all of this city.

CHANGE IN CHURCH GOVERNMENT.

The vote of the Tennessee Conference was against lay-representation. Our correspondent says it turned upon the very imperfect and doubtful method devised by the General Conference for its introduction and regulation. While the Ministry might be willing to divide legislative power with the Laity, it is hardly prepared, we think, to divest itself entirely of that power. By the proposed bill, at a call of one-fifth of its members, the General Conference must order any question to be taken by the Clergy and the Laity separately; a concurrent majority of each class being then requisite to carry it. By this clause a very small number of men can check or defeat the whole body. If we suppose that, during the last week of its session, when a General Conference votes decisively on its main questions, there should be present twenty-five laymen, then but thirteen members would be sufficient to carry or to defeat any measure. It may be thought that no one would resort to such parliamentary tactics. Our observation is, when men become heated in the conflict of debate, they will resort to any policy the law allows, which may promise victory. There cannot be a more tyrannous expedient than that of the "Previous Question," if a mere majority has the right to call for it. Yet this was repeatedly used in our last General Conference, and that too when the question proposed involved great constitutional changes. Indeed this very matter of lay representation was introduced, and immediately the previous question was moved. This cut off all debate. The minority, who may have had the stronger reason on their side, were unable to utter a word, and without explanation were driven to the vote. If on so momentous a matter, men will take advantage of parliamentary right, to carry their point, the only safety of a Legislative body is to be found in the law of its organization and in the rules governing its action.

The Episcopal Convention, which met in this city immediately after the adjournment of our General Conference, strikingly illustrated how a few persistent men may take advantage of organic and parliamentary laws, to defeat the will of a large majority. The clergy composing that body voted, by a two-thirds vote, for their Episcopal candidate. In forty-two ballots they were sustained by a majority of the laity. But a few lay-members determined that another should fill the diocese. The law required a concurrent majority of two-thirds of each class of voters. Notwithstanding the manifest wish of an overwhelming proportion of the Convention, the body had to yield to a mere handful of men, or have no Bishop: which it did with the best grace possible. We therefore put no confidence in the generosity of men who determine to carry a measure. They will resort to anything the law allows.

Nearly everything that is now left to a Methodist Itinerant Preacher is the power of regulating his own work. He has given up every thing else. He cannot legislate on Church doctrines. All the secular interests of the Church are entirely in the hands and control of various Trustees of Education, of Finance, and of Church Property. His Pastorate is divided with the Class-Leader; his ministerial calling with the Lay Preacher; his right of support is ceded to the Church Steward; the choice of his field of labor he entirely foregoes: so that there is scarcely enough reserved by him to constitute a free agent. Yet it is now proposed to divide his morsel again; that he shall divest himself of the remnant of ministerial authority which alone distinguishes him from the membership. God has decided that, in His Church, men shall take precedence in the degree of their consecration to His service. This is a wholesome and a beautiful law for regulating who shall be the greatest.

We have yet to be convinced that our people, or the official membership of our Church, are dissatisfied with any dignity or power now held by Methodist Itinerant Ministers.—Without these attributes, the office of a Minister would be one of neutral helplessness. There must be head and dignity somewhere in the Church of God, or it is a kingdom without government. In what form does this authority and dignity appear less objectionable and less likely to abuse, than in that of the General Conference of the Methodist E. Church, South, as at present constituted? One hundred years have passed. She has gone through a great schism, and now, directly after eight years of revolutionary, political distraction, she emerges, in the compact dignity, authority, and Christian purity of that General Conference which met in New Orleans. The Constitution of the country gave way in less than eighty years—so much for representative wisdom. The Constitution of our Church is apparently as strong and as youthful as at the Christmas Conference which gave it form.

To deliberately invent and propose a change of the Constitution of a Country, without pressure, without petition, without necessity, while its action is obeyed and respected, while its history is noble and cherished, while its vitality is vigorous and unwasting, would be accounted poor statesmanship. But if all this was proposed and attempted when that Country was beleaguered and threatened by a powerful foe, it could only be by those "whom the gods wish to destroy." If government were not something so difficult to create, so intangible in its essence, so slow in its growth, so indefinable in its spirit, depending so much upon time, usage, prestige and habitual assent, it might be disturbed or changed with impunity. But from its very nature, and by the order of God, and by the hidden qualities of that part of the human mind which constitutes and makes possible both political and ecclesiastical existence, changes, to be healthy, must not be sought for, nor be adventurously introduced as an experiment, but be of the nature of an irrepressible outgrowth. We are not in the region of natural science and discovery, and consequently of improvement. It is doubtful if anything has been discovered in the art of government since the days of Moses or Solon. The principles of mere government have always been equally necessary to the human family, and therefore have been largely the result of inspiration.

The philosophy and origin of our Church government is to be found in the Doctrines of the New Birth; which Mr. Wesley magnified and made a speciality in his preaching. He created a church; by the Holy Spirit. He governed it as a father. He represented it in his first Conferences. After he passed away those who took his place took control of its interests, in the same patriarchal method. At first he controled all the property, all the preachers, and all the membership. But since then, one thing after another has very properly been passed over to those who have come to their majority, until all that now remains to the minister is, as we have said, the power of controling his own labors, and cultivating his own field. This power was then, not from the people, but from the call and accompanying presence of the Holy Spirit. But if it had been a gift of the people it could have been attended with little risk, for there is little danger from power if it stands without money—alone in poverty—dependent for daily bread upon those over whom it exercised. But when a ministry has both position, "fullness of bread," power, and large foundations, it will be apt to imitate the lordly pride and political prostitution of Rome.—We see no immediate danger of such a result in the case of our own ministry.

Those who seek something new, who wish "new bottles" for "new wine," should reflect that this is the Wesleyan bottle for Wesleyan wine. That Mr. Wesley left that old and effete system of lay and clerical combinations, with its drags, its courts, its management, and its chronic, secular and ghostly ailments, unwieldy and bulky, for the simple constitution and direct movement of a "Conference" made up alone of himself and his preachers. Mr. Wesley left a "rut:" we do not now propose to fall back into it, by way of "progress."

The influence which our experienced and tried laymen have at present in the counsels of Methodism, though indirect, is very great. It may be a defect that Mr. Wesley did not introduce this element formally into his system. But this we cannot certainly know. His system of government has succeeded. Departures from it, with the same doctrines, have in many instances failed. Any system will be defective in some of its parts. It is certain that the large proportion of our laymen are Wesleyan to the core. They ask for no change. While they can but admire the magnanimity which parts with power of its own will, they fear the effect of the proposed changes upon the minds of the Itinerant Ministry at large. The whole church is deeply concerned in maintaining the spirit of that body. So long as it continues intact, devoted, and self-sacrificing, it may go forth in the strength of Elijah and repair the altar of "the Lord which was broken down;" or it can create a new Church even where none now is: but if the ministry be chilled from the loss of privilege, or the addition of burden, from weariness, or worldliness, or from any cause; if it loses its present apostolic impulse, and wails in the market for some "call" from Macedonia; then will that system, so marvelously adjusted by providence, be seriously disturbed, and the elements of its life, vigor, unity, and growth, become those of rapid dissolution.

SPEECH OF WADE HAMPTON.

On September 22nd, at Walhalla, South Carolina, Gen. Hampton delivered a speech on the crisis which we wish could be read by every man in the South. And sorry are we that our contracted columns will admit of but only a few extracts, copied from the New York News:

It is full time that some voice from the South should be raised to declare that, though conquered, she is not humiliated; though she submits, she is not degraded; that she has not lost her self-respect; that she laid down her arms on honorable terms; that she has observed those terms with the most perfect faith, and that she has a right to demand a like observance on the part of the North. Would to God that some voice more potent than mine would utter these truths!

These were the terms upon which the South capitulated. On her part she was to cease war—to renew her allegiance to the National Government, and to express her loyalty to the Constitution of the United States. On the part of the North there was to be amnesty for the past—a recognition of the Southern States as equal members of the Union, and a solemn pledge that all their rights should be held sacred. This was the construction placed by the South upon the covenant entered into, and it is the only fair and honest construction it will admit of. How have the parties to this covenant fulfilled their obligation? I have said that the South has performed her's with the most perfect faith. Let me prove the assertion. She was to cease war. When our commanding officers signed the conventions which put a stop to the war, every soldier of the Confederacy, from the Potomac to the Rio Grande, laid down his arms and returned to his home, or to the spot where his home had been.

The next conditions of the terms required from the South, a renewal of her allegiance to the General Government. In every Southern State the people, by their conventions, their Legislatures and individually, conformed promptly to this condition. Loyalty to the Constitution of the United States was exacted as the only other article of the terms required of the South. I assert that she has fulfilled this part of the compact, as well as the others, to the letter, and that in the true acceptation of the word, she is loyal. What is "loyalty?" It is nothing more or less than faithfulness—obedience to the laws of that Government under which you live. Have any people on earth manifested a higher faith or been more obedient to the laws of the land than we have been since our allegiance to the Government has been renewed? Many of these laws we regard as illegal and unconstitutional, but to not one of them has the shadow of resistance been made. We have yielded our implicit it not a cheerful obedience to all, trusting that time would rectify the evils under which we labor. What higher proof of loyalty could be given than this?

* * * * * * *

I have given you the record of the South I have shown how well she has kept her faith unfurnished, how closely she has observed her obligations. Let me turn now to the record of the North. Bear in mind, that in giving this, I shall simply state facts, leaving you to draw your own inferences. I propose to say what the North has done. I do not intend to discuss the morality, the honesty, or the justice of her actions. When the tyrant disputed the assertions of the philosopher, and endeavored to draw him into an argument, the reply of the latter was: "I do not choose to argue with the commander of thirty legions." Without being a philosopher, I can recognize the force of this answer, and I waive argument, as totally inappropriate in a discussion of this sort. Facts, which are said to be stubborn thing, will be amply sufficient for my purpose at present.

For four years the North waged war upon us, only, as she solemnly declared, to bring us back into the Union. More than a year ago the South expressed her willingness to return, and yet she is now as effectually out of the Union as if she had never formed a part of it. The North protessed to fight for the Constitution. As soon as she had the power to do so she changed that Constitution, and she violated its sacred provisions. The North protested that she did not fight for conquest, or for plunder. The Southern States are at this moment practically conquered provinces, and more of their moveable property is now in the hands of Northern soldiers, who stole it, than in those of its rightful possessors. The parole which Southern soldiers received promised, as I have already said, that they should not be interfered with, so long as they obeyed the laws of their own States. And yet on their return to their States they were not allowed to exercise any right pertaining to free citizens, until they had, under oath, indorsed all the acts of Congress, and declared the abolition of slavery fixed, irrevocable and constitutional.

* * * * * * *

In the anomalous condition in which we are placed, it is a matter of great difficulty to make out the proper course for us to pursue; but there are certain cardinal principles of which we should never lose sight. The first of these is, that as we accepted the terms offered to us by the North in good faith, we are bound by every dictate of honor to abide by them fully and honestly. They are none the less binding on us, because the dominant and unscrupulous party at the North refuse to accord to us our just rights. Let us, at least, prove ourselves worthy of the rights we claim; let us set an example of good faith, and we can then appeal with double effect to that justice and magnanimity of the North.

These virtues, I would fain hope, are not totally extinct among that people, and there are brave men there, who are battling for justice, for constitutional liberty, for the equality of all the States, and for the rights of the South. The only hope, not alone for the South, but for freedom itself on this continent, lies in the success of this party. We are their natural allies, and I would sacrifice much where honor and principle are not invaded, and then I would not yield one jot or tittle—to strengthen their hands in the great contest, which is soon to decide the fate of constitutional liberty and Republican institutions in the United States. The president of the United States has lent the great influence which his high position, his strong intellect, his firm purpose and his indomitable will give to this new Conservative party, and to his support every Southern man should rally cordially.

* * * * * * *

Of all the inconsistencies of which the North has been guilty—and their name is legion—none is greater than that by which she forced the Southern States, while rightly excluding them from the Union, to ratify the Constitutional Amendment abolishing slavery, which they could do legally only as States of that Union. But the deed has been done, and I for one, do honestly declare that I never wish to see it revoked. Nor do I believe that the people of the South would now remand the negro to slavery if they had the power to do so unquestioned. Under our paternal care, from a mere handful he grew to be a mighty host. He came to us a heathen, we made him a Christian. Idle, vicious, savage in his own country; in ours he became industrious, gentle, civilized. Let his history as a slave be compared hereafter with that which he will make for himself as a freeman, and by the result of that comparison we are willing to be judged. A great responsibility is lifted from our shoulders by this emancipation, and we willingly commit his destiny to his own hands, hoping that he may prove himself worthy of the new position in which he has been placed. As a slave, he was faithful to us; as a freeman, let us treat him as a friend. Deal with him frankly, justly, kindly, and my word for it he will reciprocate your kindness, clinging to his old home, his own country, and his former masters. If you wish to see him contented, industrious, useful, aid him in his effort to elevate himself in the scale of civilization, and thus fit him not only to enjoy the blessings of freedom, but to appreciate its duties.

The essential points, then, in the policy we should pursue, are, appears to me, these: That we should fulfill all the obligations we have entered into to the letter, keeping our faith so clear that no shadow of dishonor can fall on us; that we should sustain Mr. Johnson cordially in his policy, giving our support to that party which rallies around him; that we should give full obedience to the laws of the land, reserving to ourselves at the same time the inalienable right of freedom of speech and of opinion; and that as to the great question which so materially affected our interests, the abolition of slavery, we should declare it settled forever.—Pursue this course steadily, bear with patience and dignity those evils which are pressing heavily on you, commit yourselves to the guidance of God, and whatever may be your fate, you will be able to face the future without self reproach.

TEXAS CONFERENCE.

We find nothing in the last Texas Christian Advocate (Nov. 2) of the doings of the Texas Conference.—The following scraps are from the Galveston News:

FIRST DAY.

The 28th Session of the Texas Annual Conference convened in the Methodist Church on yesterday the 24th inst. The Rev. E. M. Marvin, Bishop, was present and a goodly number of the members of the Conference. The Bishop, after opening the Conference with reading the scriptures, singing and prayer, gave a very interesting account of the condition of the work in the other Texas Conferences where he had recently presided.

The presiding Bishop, Rev. E. M. Marvin, is one of the youngest members of the college of bishops in this large and influential denomination. He is, we believe, a native of Kentucky, but long a resident of Missouri, from which State he was driven during the war, and immediately entered upon the duties of Chaplain-General for the Trans-Mississippi Army. He served with fidelity in camp and field, and by his consistent course in his holy work gained the affections and esteem of every one. When elected to the bishoprick, he was the stationed pastor of the Methodist church at Marshall, in this State; he resigned his charge, however, and immediately entered upon his present duties. Bishop Marvin is a man of deep and fervent piety, and ranks high as a "preacher of the word." It is thought that few, if any, excel him as a pulpit orator. We welcome this distinguished stranger to our city, and hope his feeble health may be considerably improved in our delightful climate.

FOURTH DAY.

Conference met at 9 A. M. Religious services conducted by Rev. J. M. Wesson.

The Bishop reported the names of the ministers who were ordained Deacons and Elders on Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Wilkes, J. M. Wesson and U. C. Spencer, were appointed a special committee to memorialize the agent and managers of the publishing house at Nashville, to furnish suitable literature for our German mission.

The report of the committee on the subject of a mission to the Brazilian Empire was presented and read. Rev. Dr. Alexander, Kavanaugh, Thrall, Shipman, Wilkes, Mathews, Spencer and Cox engaged in a spirited discussion, each giving their own views for and against the enterprise. Dr. Alexander then offered the following substitute, to wit:

Resolved, That the Texas Annual Conference recommend the Board of Managers of "Foreign Missions" in the M. E. Church, South, to take into consideration the importance of immediately establishing a mission in the Empire of Brazil, and we, as a Conference, pledge ourselves to sustain them in that work.

This substitute was lost, and the report of the committee was adopted.

Rev. C. C. Preston, agent of the Board of Trustees of the Orphans' Home at Buyland, was introduced, and addressed the Conference in behalf of the enterprise, which he represented for the support and education of the orphans of our dead soldiers. After his address, the following resolution was adopted by a rising vote:

Resolved, That we have heard with pleasure the address of Rev. C. C. Preston, in relation to his grand and glorious enterprise of educating the sons and daughters of our dead soldiers, and hereby promise our full moral support, and that we will forward the interests of said enterprise.

Rev. I. G. Johns, Editor Texas Christian Advocate, offered its columns to Rev. C. C. Preston, in the advocacy of this philantropic cause.

Question 15th was resumed, and the name of J. Mathews was called and their characters passed; also, R. W. Kennon, H. M. Glass, J. M. Wesson, J. M. Follansbee, R. R. Smith, and J. T. Davis. The name of G. W. Carter was called and certain letters were read from him, addressed to Dr. Alexander, which contained his withdrawal from the membership and ministry of the Methodist Church. It was resolved that the Conference recognises the withdrawal of G. W. Carter, and that Dr. Alexander be requested to receive from him his credentials. The Bishop announced that Rev. O. M. Addison was transferred to the North West Texas Conference.

On motion the Conference adjourned with the benediction by the Bishop.

APPOINTMENTS.

Galveston District—R. Alexander, P. E.
Galveston Station—To be supplied.
Galveston City Mission—To be supplied.
Galveston Sailor Charge—H. V. Philpot.
Cedar Bayou Circuit—To be supplied.
Houston—William Rees.
Houston Circuit—To be supplied by H. McGuire.
Galveston Male Academy—L. H Baldwin.
Editor Christian Advocate—I. G. Johns.
Traveling Agent—Benj. D. Dashiel.

Columbus District—J. W. B. Allen, P. E.
Columbus and Osage—Wesley Smith.
Navidad Circuit—C. W. Thomas, and C. J. Lane, Sup.
Alleyton and Eagle Lake—W. G. Foote.
Egypt Circuit—Thos. W. Glass.
Matagorda—To be supplied.
Columbia and Brazoria—James K. Tanley.
Oyster Creek to be supplied.
Richmond and Harrisburg—G. V. Ridley.
San Felipe and Hartsville—A McKinney.
Union Chapel Circuit—Jas. A. Light.

Chapell Hill District—Ivy H. Cox, P. E.
Chapell Hill—B. T. Kavenaugh.
Bellville Circuit—R W Keanon, J Matthews, Sup.
Brenham—F C Wilkes.
Washington & Rock Island—U C Spencer.
Anderson and Plantersville—J M Turner.
Navasota and Courtney—Hiram M Glass.
Hempstead—To be supplied.
Stone's Chapel—To be supplied.
Agent Soule University and Female College—W H Seat.

Huntsville District—J M Wesson, P. E.
Huntsville—R T Heflin.
Waverly and Danville—T B Buckingham
Cold Springs—A W Smith.
Montgomery—G S Sundal.
Madisonville—To be Supplied.
Prairie Plain—C H Brooks.
Spring Creek—To be supplied by W. Wilson.
Andrew Female College—R T Heflin, President.

Caldwell District—Daniel Morse, P. E.
Caldwell Circuit—George W Fleming.
Millican—Milton H Porter.
Lexington—To be supplied.
Post Oak Island—To be supplied.
Union Hill—Wm. G Nelms.
Rutersville—To be supplied. V H Hey, Sup.
Brazos—To be supplied.

Austin District—J W Whipple, P. E.
Austin—John W Philips.
Austin Circuit—To be supplied.
Bastrop—John M. Whipple.
Cedar Creek—To be supplied.
Winchester—F L Allen.
La Grange—Quin M Meaifee.

German Dist.—Fred. Vonkennaemen, P. E.
Houston Mission—John Pruenzlug.
Bellville Mission—To be supplied.
Industry—Julius Gielse.
Bastrop Mission—C A Grote.
Victoria—To be supplied.
New Braunfels Circuit—J. A Shashaper.
New Fountain Mission—To be supplied.
Yorktown and Goliad—Auguste Tompke.
Fredericksburg—Frederick Mumme.
Llano Circuit—Conrad Plunueke.

W A Smith, W C Lawis, J H De Moore, Thomas Wolldridge, A B F Kerr, T A McShan, T W Blake, Joh M Baker, Benj. A Kemp, Superannuated.

Henry W South, Jas. Rice, J R Wright, G M Addison, Transferred to the North West Texas Conference.

W B Wright, Transferred to the Pacific Conference.

J S Daves, Transferred to Louisiana Conference.

H S Thrall, Transferred to West Texas Conference.

J A B Ahrons, Transferred to Baltimore Conference.

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

After a very animated discussion of the General Conference resolutions to change the name of the Church, and introduce lay representation, the final vote for the latter was 53 for and 41 against the bill for Lay Representation. Many members declaring in favor of the principle of lay representation, and yet voting against the measure because they did not approve the provisions of the bill. Drs. Green and McFerrin advocated the passage of both resolutions, while Drs. Young and Kelly, and J. F. Hughes, strenuously opposed it. The vote for the change of the name of the Church, was 55 favoring, and 48 opposing.

On Sabbath morning, Bishop McTyeire preached an appropriate practical sermon, upon the improvement of talents. About thirty deacons, local and traveling, were ordained, and eight elders in the afternoon, and three colored deacons at the African Church at night.

The ordination services in the morning and afternoon, were at the Presbyterian Church, as our hired houses of worship were too small to accommodate the audience in attendance. Both our church houses were destroyed by the federal soldiers during the war.

During the ordination services at the colored charge, the question, "will you diligently read or expound the Scriptures unto the people whom you shall be appointed to serve?" elicited the response from one of the sable candidates for orders, "I can't read much, but I will do the best I can." A candid concession Two of the members of our Conference have joined the M. E. Church, not South. They left our Church informally without endorsement, and a resolution was passed to drop their names from the Conference roll; neither are missed or mourned.

The missionary anniversary was held on Saturday night, at the Presbytorian and West Huntsville Methodist churches. Drs. Young and Green, the speakers at the latter, and Drs. McFerrin and A. H. Redford, for the former. The collection at the Presbyterian Church $140, and $190 at the West Huntsville charge.

The characters of the ministers were examined and passed with more dispatch than usual.

The Bishop and Cabinet were in advance of the Conference in the work of arranging the work and assigning the appointments. A new missionary district was formed in the mountains, in territory but little occupied before, and the appointments are chiefly to be supplied.

All of our circuits, stations and missions are filled or supplied.

Great ability was displayed by the Cabinet in adapting the man to the work, and filling all the appointments. Not for years have the appointments been so nearly filled up at Conference, and so few left to be supplied by the Presiding Elders of the Conference. One of our oldest and wisest presiding elders exclaimed while the Bishop was presiding in the Cabinet, What wisdom! On Tuesday night Oct. 30th, after a very impressive address, the appointments were read by Bishop McTyeire, and I never saw more general satisfaction expressed by the preachers.

An interesting revival is in progress at the West Huntsville charge, three happy conversions last night. The next session of our Conference will be in Clarksville, Tennessee.

S. M. C.

Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 1st, 1866.

NEWS FROM OTHER CHURCHES

PRESBYTERIAN.

Cumberland Presbyterian.—Rev. J. W. Morrow writes to the Trenton Gazette, that since the fifth Sabbath in April last in the counties of Gibson, Dyer, and Obion, Tenn., there have been six hundred professions of religion at meetings held by ministers of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

The rapture in the Old School Presbyterian Church in the border States has made another important step in advance by a division of the Synod of Kentucky. This body met at Henderson, Kentucky, on the tenth of October. Rev. Mr. Rice (an opponent of the General Assembly), as Moderator, called the body to order, and directed the Clerk, Mr. McRoberts (an adherent of the Assembly), to read the roll. He did so, but omitted the names of Stuart Robinson, S. S. Wilson, and others, who had by the General Assembly been declared not entitled to seats.

The Moderator objected, and directed him to call the roll of the previous year.

The Clerk refused, and amid some opposition the Moderator himself called the roll of last year. Those adhering to the General Assembly refused to answer, while the secession members answered to their names, and organized by electing a clerk; they then adjourned till nine o'clock the next morning. The other members remained till after the adjournment, and then organized and adjourned till eight o'clock next morning. On meeting next day, this body found the church locked, but they afterward found another place to hold a session.—N. Y. Watchman.

CONGREGATIONAL.

The first Congregational church in San Francisco has under discussion a resolution declaring that frequent substitution of Sunday concerts, addresses etc., for the regular exercises of the school, is not calculated to advance the best interests of the Sunday school organization.

EPISCOPAL.

A heavy domestic affliction has befallen Bishop Gregg, of the Episcopal diocese of Texas. The cholera has broken out suddenly at San Antonio, his residence, and among the victims are the bishop's eldest daughter and her husband. They had but lately been married. By the vicissitudes of the war the bishop lost his eldest son. The two melancholy bereavements, it is stated, have nearly prostrated him.

Ritualism.—An English clergyman of the higher type of Ritualists, recently admitted, to a correspondent of the Presbyterian, that the people of Britain, i.e., the middle humbler classes, are opposed to ritualism, and the aristocratic party, a few in number, are all Ritualists.

The Rev. Mr. Tuttle has been unanimously appointed by the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church Bishop of the new Diocese of Montana and Nevada. The new bishop is not yet thirty six years of age.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Full election returns show that the fortieth Congress will be about the same in party strength as at present. In Maryland the Radicals lose two members, and gain two in New Jersey. In New York and Delaware delegations are unchanged. In Missouri the Radicals gain one, with elections yet to be held. It is pretty certain that the Radicals will retain the two-third majority.

St. Louis, Nov. 8.—The election returns are more favorable. The Conservatives have carried the Third and Ninth Districts sure, and probably the Sixth. This will be a gain for the Conservatives, after deducting the loss in the First District. Benjamin, Radical, in the Seventh District, has large majorities in the northeast counties, while the Conservative counties cannot overcome. The Radicals claim 20,000 majority in the State, and both branches of the Legislature, but the Senate is doubtful.

New York, Nov. 7.—Fenton's majority will probably reach 13,000. The Congressional representation will stand the same in the present Congress. The returns from Illinois indicate the State has certainly gone Republican by upward of 40,000 majority. The Republicans have carried every State that held elections yesterday, with increased majorities—with the exception of Maryland and Delaware, which will show considerable Conservative gains.

In Illinois only three Democrats out of thirteen members are elected. In New York thirteen or fourteen Democrats are elected out of a Congressional representation of thirty-one. One Democrat out of nine is elected in Missouri. All the members from Michigan are Republicans. One Democrat out of five Representatives is elected in New Jersey. One Democrat out of six Representatives is elected in Wisconsin. Maryland four Conservatives and one Radical are elected to Congress.

Gen. Frank Blair is elected to the Legislature in Missouri. On the whole vote, Republicans have probably gained two members of Congress. Connecticut, California, Kentucky, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Tennessee—chosing twenty-two members—are yet to elect. Of these, Republicans will probably carry the Districts in Connecticut, the three in California, the three in New Hampshire, the one in Rhode Island, and two of the nine in Kentucky; while of the eight in Tennessee no proper estimate can be given.

Baltimore, Nov. 7.—The Station-house crowded with Conservative citizens, who are arrested and most brutally treated on the slightest provocation. All the respectable element of the city is enlisted as special policemen, armed with clubs and revolvers. There is an immense meeting of the Conservatives in Monument Square to-night, exulting over the triumph procured. A band of music marched to the residence of Gov. Swann, who addressed them at length.

He said the people were indebted to President Johnson for their successes. He had carte blanche from the President to use the forces of the United States at any time they should be required during the election; but he had promised to avoid bringing on a collision, which would have drenched the streets with blood. This result has shown the correctness of his judgment. He promised the citizens to convene the Legislature at an early day, when all the wrongs would be righted.

OBITUARIES

THOS. C. MORRISON.

An Israelite in whom there was no guile, may truly be said of Thos. C. Morrison, who died in Rancho, Gonzales county, Texas, on the 16th September, 1866, aged 48 years. He was born in Glasgow, Scotland, but emigrated to this city while yet a youth, where he resided up to the time of his death, save the few years of soldier life he spent in the late Confederacy as a member of Fenner's Louisiana Battery. For many years he was a working and most exemplary member of the Fourth Presbyterian Church of this city; and in all Christian enterprizes it was ever his chiefest earthly pleasure to bear an ne fire part. In Sabbath School and in Church Session none took more lively interest than he. The children loved him for his amiable disposition and hearty kindness of manner; the members esteemed him for his spotless integrity, his untiring zeal, his godly walk and conversation. In domestic life, where the writer had most acquaintance with him, his piety was as a shining light in the household: possessed of a truly religious spirit, he was always disposed to converse on the things of God, and was much given to private devotions.

Last summer, business called him to Texas for a few weeks; and while there, himself and a friend, after some days of exhausting travel across the prairies, returned to Rancho, both smitten with fever. The friend quickly grew worse, and his end drew nigh. Mr. Morrison, who lay in an adjoining room, was told of it; and remembering that his dying friend had not yet experienced that fullness of faith which makes meet for Heaven, he lifted up his eyes and voice to "the throne of the heavenly grace," burning with violent fever though he was himself at the time, and besought God earnestly to bless his friend with the comforting assurance of pardon before he died. What a touching exhibition was this of the unselfishness of Christian love! In a few hours the friend passed away, and in a few days followed him of whom we write. His last moments were soothed by the tender and sleepless watchings of the wife whom he loved so fondly. As hert time before death, he repeated

"The hour of my departure's come,
I hear the voice that calls me home;
At last, O Lord, let trouble cease,
And let thy servant die in peace."

At his request his wife assisted him in repeating Psalm xxii, and other passages of Scripture.—These gave him comfort, and he expressed his readiness to depart, saying: "The Lord's will be done." For another day and night, his spirit lingered in the body, oscillating between life and death; then three slight shudders, and the house of clay was left tenantless till the morning of the Resurrection. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord,"—be that the balm with which to bind up the widow's torn heart.

J. W.

New Orleans, Nov. 7, 1866.

BURWELL HOLMES.

At the third quarterly meeting, DeKalb circuit, Mobile Conference, held in Bethel church, Saturday, August 17th, 1866, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, This quarterly conference has learned with pain and regret that it has pleased Almighty God to remove from us by death, since our last quarterly conference, our highly esteemed Brother BURWELL HOLMES, who had been for many years an efficient member of our quarterly conference, therefore

Resolved, That we deeply deplore the loss we have sustained in the death of Brother Holmes, to which, however, we bow with humble submission, knowing that God doeth all things well.

Resolved, That we tender to the bereaved family of our deceased brother our deepest sympathies and our prayers in their behalf.

L. M. McLENDON.

MRS SARAH M JAMES, consort of Thomas James, and daughter of Rev James Bowman, died in Tensas Parish, La., September 4, 1866. Sister James was raised a Methodist, married a Methodist, lived the life of a Methodist in word and deed, and died the most triumphant death ever witnessed in this Parish. Her illness was long, but her patience was equal to her sufferings, never murmuring. On the morning of her departure she called her children around her, gave each a last parting blessing, then quietly folded her arms and moved off for Heaven in a most triumphant manner. Sister James leaves a large connection to mourn her loss, but thank God they "sorrow not even as others which have no hope."

W G McGAVOREY.

Tensas District, Oct 25, 1866

STOVES, GRATES, TIN WARE, AND
Housefurnishing Goods.

The undersigned offer for sale an assortment of COOKING STOVES, embracing among the lot the well known Charter Oak, the Brilliant, the Peerless, the American Home, and others of the latest improvement.

Also, a large lot of HEATING and PARLOR STOVES, a large variety of GRATES, and of COUNTRY HOLLOW WARE, etc.

We manufacture all our own Tin Ware, and sell cheap.

CAMPMAN & CO.,
nl0 6m 115 Poydras st, bet. Camp & Magazine

THE LORD'S PRAYER PICTURE.

Good Agents wanted all over the South to Sell by Subscription this Great and Beautiful Picture.

This is one of the most exquisite works of art ever offered to the public, being the result of six years' close labor of the Artist. It has received the highest commendations from every source, and never fails to elicit the greatest admiration from all connoisseurs of the fine arts. A liberal paying commission is allowed, and it is believed there is no work before the public so universally popular, and offering so good inducements to canvassers as this. It is new—will never get out of date; exclusive territory given.

To avoid delay and insure reply, testimonials as to character and ability should accompany applications. Dealers need not apply. Here is offered congenial and lucrative employment for ministers, or competent and worthy persons of all classes. For full particulars apply to

HOLMES & CO.,
26 Camp street, Room No 5, or address Lock Box 424, New Orleans

N B—Please do your friends a favor by showing this advertisement to such as may be adapted or benefited by such an agency n10 1m

F O BARRIERE G W BABCOCK
F. G. BARIERE & CO.,
Importers and Dealers in
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
No. 135 Canal Street, New Orleans.
nl0 6m

WANTED — SITUATIONS FOR three well educated Southern young ladies, in private families, or in Seminaries of wide reputation: one, as Music Teacher only; the other two, as Teachers of the ordinary branches of an English Education, with Music. Address Rev R H Herbert, Meridian, Miss., stating compensation, health, society, etc, of the location. n10 1m

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.
RICHARD ANGELL,
156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles
PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,
Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.
Chill Drops, the best curative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c; Hardotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)
Has established himself at No 109 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

ALEX. P. STEWART, CHAS. S. STEWART,
Of Lebanon, Tenn Of New Orleans, La
STEWART & BROTHER,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,
NO. 121 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS
oc27 1y

NEW ORLEANS—1866.
DIRECT IMPORTATION.
J. LEVOIS & CO.,
Invite the attention of
Wholesale & Retail
Buyers to their importation of
PARIS NOUVEANTES,
For Fall and Winter,
Comprising
DRESS SILKS,
In Embroidered, Brocade, Chines, and Solids, with a large assortment of
FOULARD SILKS,
In Printed and in Plain Colors, being designs printed exclusively for themselves.
Black and White Striped Silks,
Black and White Checked Silks,
Colored Silks, checked and striped,
Irish Poplins, plain,
Lyons Poplins, plain and fancy.
French Merinoes and Delaines,
Alpacas, colored and black,
Opera Flanels, all colors,
French Cloths, plain & plaid,
Grey and White Blankets,
Carriage Blankets,
German Knit Goods,
Nubias, Sontags, Capes, Muffs,
Black Cloth Cloaks,
Black Silk Cloaks, of the Newest shapes and designs; with every article required in Housekeeping Goods.

J. LEVOIS & CO.,
Invite the attention of merchants to their cases of
IMPORTED AND AMERICAN GOODS,
Which they offer in quantities to suit, at the Lowest Scale of Prices & on Liberal Terms
CORNER CANAL AND BOURBON STREETS.
oc20 1m

SOUTHERN CLOTHING MANUFACTORY,
OVER STORES
Nos. 26, 28 and 30 St. Charles street, cor. Common, New Orleans, La.
CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER
with dispatch, in the most durable manner and approved styles, at reasonable prices. A large and magnificent assortment of French, English, Scotch, German and American PIECE GOODS,
latest styles, suitable to the season, always on hand. L. W. LYONS & CO.

SOUTHERN CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.
Just received, one of the Largest and most Fashionable Stocks of CLOTHING and FURNISHING GOODS in the Southern country.
WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT UP STAIRS.
Buyers are respectfully invited to call and examine the stock.
CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
FURNISHING GOODS.....at Wholesale.
SHIRTS.....at Wholesale.
TRUNKS, VALISES, etc.....at Wholesale.
UMBRELLAS.....at Wholesale.
BOYS' CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
PLANTATION CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
L. W. LYONS & CO.,
Nos. 26, 28 and 30 St. Charles street, and 131 and 133 Common street.

IMPORTANT TO SHOW PEOPLE.
BOYS' CLOTHING EMPORIUM.
No. 26 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Parents, Guardians and others will always find a large and well selected stock of Youths', Boys', and Children's
DRESS AND SCHOOL CLOTHING,
Shirts and Furnishing Goods, latest fashions.
For sale, at low prices, by
L. W. LYONS & CO.,
corner St. Charles and Common streets.
oct 3 1m

ST JAMES HOTEL,
MAGAZINE STREET,
Between Gravier and Natchez Streets.
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.
This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.
It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof. Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquors equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, as far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.
The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expense to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.
n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

COAL! COAL!! COAL!!!
BEATTY & SAWYER,
Offer COAL and WOOD at the lowest prices.—Coal, $1 per barrel. Leave orders at Yard on Josephine, between Prytania and Coliseum sts., or at Price Current Office; at Ducatel's, 24 Carondelet; or at M E Stack's, opposite Magazine Market. Send in your orders promptly. n1m

M'CUTCHON & HUBBELL,
Importers and Dealers in
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE,
Hoes, Axes, Nails, etc.
NO. 74 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
n3 6m

W. G. COYLE & CO.,
COAL MERCHANTS,
Office: 142 Gravier street.
Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.
Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

ROBERT L. WALKER,
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
100 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

STAFFORD & WILSON,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 66, Magazine Street,
oc27 1y NEW ORLEANS.

CLOTHING, CLOTHING.
For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.
Now receiving and opening for inspection, at
R. PITKIN'S
FASHIONABLE
CLOTHING EMPORIUM,
Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,
The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior
READY-MADE CLOTHING,
ALSO
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS
Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:
Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,
Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.
CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.
A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,
FOR CUSTOM WORK.
He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,
MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,
as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.
WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.
Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of
MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS
To his
Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing
suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.
Also a large assortment of
YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,
TRUNKS,
VALISES,
CARPET-BAGS,
UMBRELLAS, ETC.
A call from the public is respectfully solicited.
R. PITKIN,
Fashionable Clothing Emporium,
13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15
oct13 3m

ROBERT SLARK, WM. A. KENT,
ISAAC H. STAUFFER, CHAS. MACKEADY
SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,
No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsiere St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.
Importers and Dealers in
HARDWARE:
Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws
MILL STONES,
INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND,
PLANTATION SADDLERY, ETC.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS
Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hill & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrett & Cottman, for Sugar and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hill and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert Klog, "Carey," for Cotton; Peoria Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.
Agents for the Vieille Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. o13 1y

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES.
Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in
EARTHENWARE,
GLASS, CHINA,
JAPAN WARE,
PLATED WARE,
SILVER WARE,
FINE TABLE CUTLERY,
WATER PURIFIERS,
HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.
All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.
No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.
L. ELKIN,
3, Carondelet Street, 3.
Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior
WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN
CARPETS,
RUGS,
WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Leines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Commission and Forwarding Merchants,
122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row,
NEW ORLEANS.
R B Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. oc13 6m

H. S. ETHELL, NAT. H. THOMAS,
New Orleans. Late of Alabama.
ETHELL & THOMAS,
FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.
Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.
No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.
Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sept 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. THOS. D. MILLER
J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
No. 190 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sept 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. W M Owen. E Oweh
LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 6m

B. S. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.
B. S. HARPER & CO.,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,
GROCER,
And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,
s15 0m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally, 53 Gravier street, New Orleans.
sep15 1y

H. M. WRIGHT C. W. ALLEN J. HIDDLESTON
(1st August, 1865)
WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
169 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, JAMES M. ALLEN } New
Memphis, Tenn. PERRY SUGENT, } Orleans
T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,
(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 1y

F. F. FOLGER, L. FOLGER, W. H. THOMAS
FOLGER & CO.,
Dealers in
Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,
37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
(Opposite the St. James Hotel)
Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mulland Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
27 Camp Street, New Orleans.
WM. EDWARDS }
EDWD. J. GAY. } sep15 3m

W. A. VIOLETT. R. Y. BLACK. S. H. SNOWDEN.
VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
s15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. H. LOTT, C. W. WHON,
Madison County, Miss. Canton, Miss.
LOTT, WOOD & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants
25 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E. A. BANKS, W. W. LORING, G. W. VENABLE
BANKS, LORING & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
26 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

H. ATKINSON & CO: JAMES HEWITT & CO.,
New York. Liverpool.
HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And Commission Merchants,
188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWISHER & CO., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,
(Successor to FELLOWES & CO.)
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., LEWIS, NANSON & CO.,
New York. St. Louis.
OBER, ATWATER & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
38 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep15 1y

S. M. SWENSON, W. M. PERKINS,
N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. D. L. KERNION,
Of Perkins & Co., N.O.
PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street.
NEW ORLEANS.
SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
26 Exchange Place, New York.
s29 6m

EDW'D NALLE, W. C. DAY.
NALLE, DAY & CO.
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,
168 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
o13 1y

S. M. ABY & CO.,
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants
186 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc13 6m

E. S. KEEP. L. CAULFIELD.
KEEP & CAULFIELD,
Western Produce,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.
oc13 1y

HENRY WARE, WM. H. WARE,
Of Texas. Of Texas.
H. WARE & SON,
Cotton and Wool Factors,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
oc13

JOB PRINTING.
COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,
SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,
PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,
And everything else in the line of job printing executed in
The Very Best Style, at Moderate Prices.
Send your orders to R. J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

BOOKS! BOOKS!
The Agent of the Southern Methodist Publishing House, at 112 Camp street, New Orleans, has just received from the steamships George Cromwell and Merrimac, and by the steamboats Mepham and Olive Branch, ample supplies of Sunday School requisites: Catechisms, Spellers, Questions, Dictionaries, Primers, Reward Tickets, etc., etc. Also, Clarke's and Benson's Commentaries, and Hymn Books in sheep and roan.
Address:
R. J. HART, Agent,
sept1t 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

J. H. MASSEY,
(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.)
WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,
No. 180 Common Street,
Opposite City Hotel.
I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination, on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please any and all of my old friends and patrons, and also including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.
Very respectfully,
oc13 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE
DRY GOODS.
Also, a large and varied supply of
HOUSEKEEPING and
PLANTATION GOODS,
Constantly on hand, at
126 Canal Street,
sep1 1y. NEW ORLEANS.

TULANE BUILDING,
New Orleans, La.
We are now in the receipt of a full assortment of
CLOTHING,
SHIRTS,
FURNISHING GOODS,
TRUNKS AND VALISES,
UMBRELLAS, ETC.,
Which we are selling at very reduced prices, at
Wholesale and Retail.
GARTHWAITE, LEWIS & STUART,
oc20 1m 31 & 33 Camp street.

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,
Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of
TINWARE,
Also,
COOKING AND HEATING STOVES
Of all kinds, for sale.
25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,
Corner Customhouse street,
oct26 1y NEW ORLEANS

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, JOHN W. MADDEN,
Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co.
P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,
General Mercantile Stationers,
JOB PRINTERS, AND
BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
No. 73 Camp Street.
We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.
We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 3m

D. H. HOLMES,
Direct Importation of
FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,
AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
No. 155 Canal Street,
sep1 6m NEW ORLEANS.

JAMES A. GRESHAM,
BOOKSELLER AND STATIONER
92 Camp Street, New Orleans.
School, Medical and Law Books, Church and Masonic Books.
Job Printing and Binding executed at lowest market prices. oc13 1m

PHILIP WERLEIN,
82..... Baronne Street,.....82
Successor of the well known music houses of Ph. P. Werlein and P. P. Werlein & Haley,
Dealer in
PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,
GUITARS, VIOLINS,
And other musical instruments. Also Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper—in fact everything belonging to music trade.
The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. HURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.
Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.
Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.
Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.
Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.
Music neatly bound.
P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 6m

CENTENARY COLLEGE,
Jackson, Louisiana,
was established by the State of Louisiana in [illegible] and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845. It is now under the [illegible] patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.
The college exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.
Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.
Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month.
The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.
The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.
The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.
The old students, alumni, and friends of the institution, are respected to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.
W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,
GREENSBORO, ALA.
The exercises of this institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught
TERMS:
Tuition fees per term.....$10 00
Contingent fee.....5 00
Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month
aug21 W. M. WIGHTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.
The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866
The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.
TERMS:—Tuition and Board, per month, $10.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March.
Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.
Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.
Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D., New Orleans, La.
As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.
W. H. N. MAGRUDER.
Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866. 4

WOODVILLE FEMALE SEMINARY.
THE SECOND SESSION
Will begin October 3rd 1866, and close July 10th, 1867. The system of instruction aims at the truest mental, moral, and social culture. The discipline seeks to embrace whatever is helpful to this end, and to exclude what is hurtful to it. Obedience to rightful authority, is a necessary to membership in the school.
TERMS PER SESSION.

Board, with fuel, lights and washing,	$300 00
Tuition in Preparatory course,	60 00
" Academic "	80 00
" Collegiate "	100 00
Music,	80 00

Other ornamentals as low as can be afforded.
The Collegiate course embraces Latin and French without any extra charge. These charges are made from the beginning of the half month in which the pupil is entered, to the end of the session, and must be paid, one half in advance, and the other on the 1st of March, nor will assignment of a pupil to room, seat or class, be made until this demand is met. A sum sufficient to get books, music, and medicines for slight sickness, must be deposited with the Principal. Each boarding pupil must be provided with a supply of plain, neat clothing suitable to the season, and also with towels, table napkins—all marked in the owner's name. When a pupil, not residing in the Seminary, or one act remaining in it during her illness, is sick more than twenty consecutive days, a deduction of one half the charges for the time will be made.
W. T. J. SULLIVAN, Principal.
Woodville, Miss., Aug. 8th, 1866. aug25 3m.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE
FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmer; Miss Jemima Constantine.
The Fall Session of this institution will open on the 26th day of September next.
This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattrasses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.
The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.
TERMS:
For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—

Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of Instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00

Ornamental branches at usual prices.
☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.
The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.
After entrance no reduction will be made in other board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.
For other information address
CHARLES B. STUART, President,
aug4ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M., President,	Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright, Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Principal. Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight, Miss Annu M. Ross,	Music, French, Drawing. Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Muxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.
Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.
Board, with English Tuition, at $35 per quarter.
The next session commences 10th September.
Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to
A. J. WRIGHT.
D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.
jy14 6m

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.
Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible House is at its own building, No. 163 Camp street, New Orleans.
When was it established? 1850.
Who is the General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev W. H. Bayliss.
Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.
What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.
What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.
What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans: then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.
What are the terms of membership?
The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.
The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.
The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.
The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.
The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.
Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not: to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S. by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.
Our last thought is the heart-cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a25 1y.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
Is located at Brookhaven, Miss. It is under the immediate care of Rev. GEO. F. THOMPSON, and under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. The Board of Visitors consists of Rev. H. Jones, Rev. W. Millsaps, Rev. George H. Clinton, and Rev. William Price—all members of that Conference.
Its course of instruction is as complete as that of any other institution for the education of females in the State, and is sufficient to accomplish all that can be desired by the friends of our Church.
The exercises of the first term of its next session will begin on the first Monday in September 1866, and ends Jan. 31, 1867.
For further particulars apply to the Rev. G. F. Thompson, Brookhaven, Miss. a18t

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp Street, corner Natchez—open day and evening.
This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.
For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address
f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address
f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

OPELOUSAS LAND AGENCY.—At the solicitation of numerous friends, the undersigned has consented to become an Agent for the sale and purchase of land in this healthy and much sought after country, above any high water overflow, and where the prospects for crops are so encouraging. He will take very great pleasure in shewing the land to any persons visiting this country, and in giving any other information that may be desired concerning it.
For reference I refer to the Editors of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.
JAMES H. HOUSTON,
Sept 4, 1866. Opelousas, La.

TURNER & COHEN,
Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,
NO. 57 CAMP STREET.
Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.
These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.
The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of the city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER
And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,
61 Camp street, New Orleans.
Cartes de Visite,
Hallotypes, Ambrotypes,
Pictures on Porcelain,
And every description of Pictures known to the Art.
All kinds of Photographic Materials at the lowest price for cash. sep1 1y

THOS. B. BODLEY & C

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

Good for Nothing.

A gentleman, while addressing some children, took out his watch, and asked them what it was for.

"To keep time," the children answered.

"Well suppose it wont keep time, and can't be made to keep time, what is it good for?"

"It's good for nothing," they replied.

He then took out a lead pencil, and asked what it was for.

"It is to mark with," was the answer.

"But suppose the lead is out, and it wont mark, what is it good for?"

"It is good for nothing."

He then took out a pocket-knife, and asked what was its use.

"To whittle with," said some. "To cut," said others.

"Suppose that it has no blade, then what is it good for?"

"Good for nothing."

"Then a watch, or pencil, or knife is good for nothing unless it can do the thing for which it was made?"

"No, sir," the children all answered.

"Well, children, what is a boy or girl made for?"

The children hesitated.

"What is the answer to the question, 'What is the chief end of man?'" asked the gentleman.

"To glorify God and enjoy him forever."

"Now, then, if a boy or girl does not do what he or she is made for, and glorify God, what is he or she good for?"

And the children all answered, without seeming to think how it would sound:

"Good for nothing."

"Well, if children are made to glorify God, and they don't do it, are they good for any anything? that is,it is so much more important that they glorify God, and become prepared to enjoy him forever, than anything else, that if they fail to do this, it is as though they failed in everything. Without love to God, all other things are as nothing.

Story of a Picture.

A painter once wanted a picture of Innocence, and drew the likeness of a child at prayer. The little supplicant was kneeling beside his mother; the palms of his uplifted hands were reverently pressed together; his rosy cheek spoke of health, and his mild blue eye was upturned with the expression of devotion and peace. The portrait of young Rupert was much prized by the painter, who hung it up on his study wall, and called it "Innocence." Years passed away, and the artist became an old man. Still the picture hung there. He had often thought of painting a counterpart — the picture of guilt—but had not found the opportunity. At last he effected his purpose by paying a visit to a neighboring gaol. On the damp floor of his cell lay a wretched culprit, named Randall, heavily ironed. Wasted was his body and hollow his eye; vice was visible in his face. The painter succeeded admirably, and the portraits of young Rupert and Randall were hung side by side, for "Innocence" and "Guilt." But who was young Rupert and who was Randall? Alas! the two were one. Old Randall was young Rupert led astray by bad companions, and ending his life in the damp and shameful dungeon.

A Word for little Girls.

Who is lovely? It is the little girl who drops sweet words, kind remarks, and pleasant smiles as she passes along; who has a kind word of sympathy for every boy or girl she meets in trouble; and a kind hand to help her companions out of difficulty; who never scolds, never contends, never teases her mother, nor seeks in any way to diminish, but always to increase her happiness. Would it not please you to pick up a string of pearls: drops of gold, diamonds of precious stones, which can never be lost? Take the hand of the friendless, smile on the sad and dejected, sympathise with those in trouble, strive everywhere to diffuse around you sunshine and joy. If you do this you will be sure to be loved.

"Not Worth a Straw."

Perhaps a straw is not as worthless as your think. Let us see. Straws are the stems of wheat, rye, oats, and barley. In order to wave to and fro in the wind, and yet bear up the heads of grain, they must be both light and strong. Let us see how lightness is secured. They are made hollow, you see, like quills; and yet not hollow through the whole length, for every now and then we find a knob or joint, which helps brace up the sides and make them strong. The straw outside is hard, and looks shiny, as if it had been polished. It is polished, and that keeps the weather and the insects from damaging it, besides adding to its strength. Polish! but where does it get polished? God gave these plants the the power of drawing up through their roots this gummy sort of varnish from the earth. It is flint. There is nothing like it on the stem of the sweet pea or the currant bush, because they do not need it. But does it not show wisdom and knowledge in giving this power to one plant where it is needed, and withholding it from others where it is not? So you see that a straw even can show the wonderful power of our Creator God, and speak his praise.

All Things Speak of Jesus.

Did you ever think how every part of your house can remind you of the great truths which Jesus Christ taught about himself? The corner-stone says, "Christ is the corner-stone;" the door, "I am the door;" the burning candle, "Christ is the light of the world." You look out of the window, and the sight of the starry sky bids you turn your eyes to "the bright and morning Star." The rising sun speaks of the "Sun of righteousness, with healing in his wings." The loaf on your table whispers of the "bread of life." When you lie down, you think of Him who had not where to lay his head; and when you get up, you rejoice that he is the resurrection and the life.

"Can't Leave the Store."

The Dayton Journal publishes the following as having occurred in that city:

Little Mary was discussing the great hereafter with her mamma, when this dialogue ensued.

Mary.—"Mamma, will you go to Heaven when you die?"

Mamma.—"Yes, I hope so, my child."

Mary.—"Well, mamma, I hope I'll go too or you'll be lonesome."

Mamma.—"Oh, I hope your papa will go too."

Mary.—"Oh, no, papa can't go: he can't leave the store."

Mamma thought she had a good rebuke for papa, as very often, when asked to accompany her to prayer-meeting, his reply is, "Can't leave the store."

Reader, does it apply to you?

A father came home from his business at early evening, and took his little girl upon his knee. After a few dove-like caresses, she crept to his bosom and fell asleep. He carried her himself to her chamber, and said, 'Nellie would not like to go to bed without saying her prayers?" Half opening her large blue eye, she dreamily articulated—

"Now I lay me own to sleep,
I pray the Lord—"

then adding, in a sweet murmur, "He knows the rest," she sank on her pillow, in His watchful care who "giveth His beloved sleep."

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Since the publication of our last issue the movement in Sugar and Molasses has been of a restricted character and Western Produce has evidenced little activity, attended, however, with a decline in Flour, Corn and Pork; while operations in our leading staple have been unusually active, and factors, under the favorable influence of an improvement at Liverpool, have succeeded in realising enhanced prices, the market closing steady yesterday at our quotations.

COTTON.—On Saturday the movement was of a restricted character from the opening to the close of business, and as factors refused to submit to the concessions demanded by buyers, sales were confined to 2100 bales, at unchanged prices. On Monday operations were unusually active, and factors, under the encouraging tenor of the Liverpool advices, were enabled to realize enhanced rates, the sales at the close summing up 7000 bales, at an irregular advance of ¼ to ⅜c per lb. Yesterday the market opened with a fair enquiry, and although the views of factors were considerably in advance of the limits of buyers, there was a liberal business transacted, the sales comprising 4100 bales, at prices leaning to outside figures as to even running lists of the higher descriptions, but indicating a softening tendency as to the lower qualities.

With the reiterated remark that the demand appeared to be entirely confined to the better qualities, we quote as follows:

Low	—	to —
Ordinary	30	to 31
Good Ordinary	33½	to 34½
Low Middling	35½	to 36½
Middling	—	to 38

TOBACCO—We have again to note a very dull market. The stock on sale is too small for extended operations and there is consequently no demand on foreign account. Factors, however, are very firm in their views and have refused to make any concessions in prices. Only a few hogsheads have been sold for baling and for the city trade.

Yesterday there was some looking around, but without resulting in any important sales, although negotiations were pending for a considerable lot. Three hogsheads were sold for baling at 16 to 23c per lb. We continue to quote:

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to 4½	Currency.
Good do	5 to —	— to 5½
Common Leaf	6 to —	— to 7½
Fair	8 to —	— to 10
Good	11 to —	— to 12
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec's	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—The new crop is very much in request for the local trade, our neighboring ports, and for the North and West, but supplies, as yet, are very small and operations are restricted in consequence. The sales on Saturday and Monday comprised 40 hogsheads, new, all the receipts and all on the market, excepting two small lots, at 15¾c per lb for Prime, 16¼ for Yellow clarified, and 16¾c for Choice Centrifugal. An offer of 16½c per lb was refused for a lot of Yellow Clarified and a much higher price asked. Yesterday the sales comprised 50 hogsheads, new in several lots, nearly all in first hands on sale, at 15¾c for Fully Fair to Prime, old process, and 16, 16¼ and 16¾c for Yellow Clarified.

MOLASSES—The sales on Saturday and Monday comprised all the receipts, of which were 44 barrels Choice new, at $1; 50 barrels new, poor in quality, at 85c, and 54 half barrels, old crop, at 55 per gallon.

FLOUR—The absence of brands desirable for our trade, such as Superfine, and the lower grades of Extra, have not deterred buyers from entering the market and operating to a considerable extent, as will be shown by the annexed quantity of the higher grades that have changed hands since last Friday. The transactions on Saturday and Monday sum up fully 7000 bbls, at the following rates. Fine at $12 25, Superfine at $13 to $13 50, Single Extra $13 25 to $13 50, Double do $14 to $14 50, Treble do at $14 75 to $15, Choice Family do $12 25 to $16 50 per bbl. Of the above not over 1000 barrels Superfine and Single Extra were disposed. Yesterday the sales comprised about 2200 barrels.

BACON—There have been receipts of about 90 casks Shoulders, which has caused a reduction of about ½c per lb, and the demand is now met in a small way at 18½c; the same price is being paid for Ribbed Sides, while Clear are readily disposed of as previously at 19½c per lb. Green Shoulders command 16½c, Plain Hams at 21 to 22c, and Sugar-cured do at 25½ to 26c per lb, at which rates about 175 casks of the last mentioned were sold.

PORK—Under the effect of liberal receipts from the West, we are again called upon to notice a leaning of rates in favor of buyers, and we now quote Even-weight Mess, in round lots, at $34, while dealers are supplying the demand at $34 25 to $34 50 per bbl. The last sales of Prime Mess were to the Government at $30 per bbl.

LARD—The supply of Prime, both in tierce and kegs, is fair, and is freely offered at 16 to 16½c per lb for the former, and 20c per lb for the latter.

CORN—The sales on Saturday and Monday were restricted to 7500 sacks, the majority of which were taken at $1 12½ to $1 15 per bushel, and $1 10 for White Mixed. Yesterday prices exhibited increased firmness, and, with a moderate demand, some 3300 sacks were sold at $1 15 to $1 17½ per bushel for White.

OATS.—There is only a moderate supply, both in store and on the levee, and prices in consequence rule firmly at 64 to 65c per bushel, at which rates some 300 sacks were disposed of. Yesterday some 1350 sacks changed hands at the outside figure.

BRAN—We have noticed a very quiet market, and with only a light stock, the transactions did not exceed 1500 sacks, principally at $1 35 to $1 40 per 100 lbs. Yesterday the market presented a little more activity and about 1500 sacks were sold at $1 35, $1 37½, and $1 40 per 100 lbs.

HAY—The stock on hand is very small, but amply sufficient to meet the present demand, which is being supplied at $24 to $25 for round hoop St. Louis, and $28 per ton for Prime do. Yesterday New Prime Ohio River was selling at $29 per ton.

BALE ROPE—There has been some little movement, the particulars of which we have been unable to ascertain, though we are aware of offerings being made freely at 13c per lb.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is greatly reduced, but the demand is very active at 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—A good demand prevails, and several sales have been made, the particulars of which have been suppressed. Round lots are quoted at 34c in rolls, and 34½c per yard in bales, while parcels are being disposed of at 35c for the former, and 36c per yard for the latter.

GUNNY BAGS—We have not heard of any sales for some time past, but give 30c a piece as a fair quotation.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The market is overstocked with Western Butter, which is very dull at 20 to 35c per lb according to quality. Northern Butter is selling at 42 to 45c per lb. The inside figures for both are the rates for the larger lots. Cheese is in good supply and commands 16 to 18c for Western and Northern. We quote English Dairy at 23 to 25c per lb.

CORN MEAL—We noticed sales of some 300 bbls kiln-dried, White, in lots, at $5 per bbl. Retail lots command $5 25 to $5 50 per bbl.

HOPS—There is a very good demand for the new crop at 65 to 70c. Bavarian is scarce at 80c per lb.

COFFEE—Is in fair demand and the market is very firm. Dealers are supplying the demand at 28½ to 29½c per lb currency for Good to Prime Rio, at which rates 200 sacks were sold on Monday. We quote Prime at 19½c per lb gold, duty paid.

STAR CANDLES—The supply is light, but the demand is active at 20c for 12 oz, 21c for 13 oz, and 25c per lb for full weight.

WOOL.—There is only a fair stock on hand, but with a good demand holders readily receive 16 to 18c for Louisiana Native, 18 to 22c for Texas ¼ to ½ Merino, 23 to 25c for do ¾ to ⅞ Merino; 28 to 30c for washed and 13 to 15c per lb for hurry.

HIDES—Are in small supply, but the demand is beginning to slack, tanners being unwilling to pay the present high rates. Prices are ruling at 10 to 10½c for Green, 10½ to 11c for Kip Skins, 13c per lb for Dry Hides. Mexican Dry Hides command 1s to 21c per lb., and Pelts 20 to 25c per piece.

MALT—There is but little demand, and we furnish the following quotations for reference. Canada at $1 75 to $2 00, and Western at $1 00 to $1 75 per bushel.

OILS—There is some demand for Linseed at $2 to $2 05, and also for Coal in cans at 82½ to 85c per gallon.

NAVAL STORES.—The market is quite bare and prices in consequence exhibit a still further improvement, and we now quote common Rosin at $1 50, No. 2 do at $6 50, and No. 1 do at $8 75 to $9 per bbl. Spirits Turpentine would bring 80c per gallon.

SALT—We have little or no alteration to note; prices remain about the same and we continue to quote Liverpool $2 40 to $2 75 for fine, and $2 35 to $2 60 for Coarse in warehouse, and $2 15 for the former, and $2 10 for the latter in cargo.

ESCULENTS.—Potatoes are selling at $2 75 to $2 90 in sacks, and $2 00 to $3 25 per bbl. Apples at $5 50 to $6 50 per bbl, Onions $2 75 to $3 00 in sacks, and $3 25 to $3 50 in barrels, and Cabbages at 18 to 22c per crate.

POULTRY AND EGGS.—Chickens sell on the landing at $6 to $7 for the young and $8 50 to $9 50 per dozen for the large, Geese at $11 to $18 and Turkeys at $31 to $38 per dozen. Western eggs are selling at $28 to $40 per bbl.

FISH—Are in small supply with an active demand. We quote No. 1 Mackerel at $21 to $21 50 per bbl, No. 2 at $22 to $22 50, No. 3 at $17 to $17½. Codfish are selling at $1 90 to $ 2 per box.

BEANS—Are in good request, and meet with ready sale, at $4 to $6 00 per bbl for Western, and $10 50 to $13 per bbl for Northern. There is an active demand for the latter.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. Louisiana is in small supply, and the receipts being light, it sells readily at 12¼ to 13½c, according to quality.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY,
Wednesday evening, Nov. 7, 1866.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to —
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	— to —
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 50
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$12 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	13 to 15
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50 to $3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100 to $150
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 7 to $14
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

MONETARY.

The Coin market has evidenced only moderate activity during the past three days, although rates, in agreement with the course of prices at New York, have been attended with some irregularity. Gold opened on Saturday at 148¼ to 148¾, and after selling as high as 149¼, it receded and closed steady at 148 to 148¼; it opened on Monday at 149 to 149½, but the noon telegrams being unfavorable, it declined and closed at 148¼; and opened yesterday 149 to 149½, and without exhibiting much animation, closed steady at 148½ to 149.

J. R. POWELL,
COTTON FACTOR,
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANT,
190 Common Street,
W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & James. } NEW ORLEANS
☞ Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORN, Duck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. G. ELLIS. W. C. CHAMBERLIN
ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jan20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,
46 Carondelet street, New Orleans,
COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,
General Commission Merchants,
And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,
Wholesale Grocer,
Nos. 8 and 10 Tchoupitoulas Street,
And 8 and 10 New Levee,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,
MUSIC PUBLISHER,
Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nanns," "Guild" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c.
oc27 6m 187 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. D. M. HOLLINSWORTH
R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,
CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,
Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,
f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. K. WALKER. THOS. M'KNIGHT. J. P. JOHNSON.
R. K. WALKER & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
jn20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,
Importers and Wholesale Dealers in
DRY GOODS,
Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS
E PEET—S WILLIAMSON
P SIMMS—J BOWLSU } aug25 1y

LOEB, SIMON & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
86 Canal Street,
sep1 3m NEW ORLEANS.

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.
HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.
Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.
Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jon20-1y

G. & T. F. SEARING,
Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in
CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS
No. 29 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
oc13 1y. NEW ORLEANS.

D. L. CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. F. M. ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile
CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,
o13 No. 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

R. BLEAKLY & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 56, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,
Corner Poydras and Tchoupitoulas sts.,
NEW ORLEANS.
All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of MR. J. F. GIRAULT, (formerly with the house of Messrs Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,
Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
No. 190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. JOS. HOY. CHAS. HARDENBERGH
CARROLL, HOY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,
aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JOHN G. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.
PARHAM & BLUNT,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,
No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,
General Commission Merchants and
COTTON FACTORS,
57 Poydras street.
Cotton Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4ft

STEWART, GALBREATH & FIZER
Commission Merchants & Cotton Factors,
40 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Andrew Stewart, New Orleans.
Wm. R. Galbreath, } Memphis.
Wm. Stewart, }
John C. Fizer, } sep1 3m

SAM'L. BARRETT. CHS. LE SASSIER.
BARRETT & LESASSIER,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
118 CARONDELET STREET,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. A. H. MAY
STEVENSON & MAY,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 10 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY,
Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. S. S. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.
HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. H. R. ALSOBROOK.
WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,
WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,
No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. o18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,
Cotton Factors,
No. 32 Union Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
J. U. PAYNE, W. C. H. DAMERON, G. W. HUNTINGTON, H. M. PAYNE.
je23-1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.
TOM & SAM HENDERSON,
COTTON FACTORS
AND
General Commission Merchants,
190 COMMON STREET,
je9 1y New Orleans

J. C. M'ALLISTER E. M'NAIR
M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
No. 74 Common Street,
ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

CARY W. BUTT. WM. FLASH. THOS. T. A. LYON
BUTT, FLASH & LYON,
Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.
Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.
Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,
New Orleans.
J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. july7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Padacah, Ky. WATTS, CRANE & CO. New York. W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.
GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool.
feb3-1y

W. A. BELL, FRED N. OGDEN, H. E. WITHERSPOON
WM. A. BELL & CO.,
General Commission Merchants,
And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,
41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30-1y

J. J. WARREN T. W. CRAWFORD F. B. FLEITAS
WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

THOS. A. HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.
HAMILTON & DUNNICA,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
42 Union street, New Orleans.
sep22 1y

L. E. WALKER, Missouri. C. B. FISHER, New Orleans.
WALKER & FISHER,
Commission & Forwarding Merchants
NO. 6 (GROUND FLOOR) CARONDELET ST., N. O.
Solicit consignments of all kinds of Manufactured Goods, and will make liberal advances on same.
GEO. W. WALKER, JUN., late of the firm of Harper, Walker & Co., will give his personal attention to the sale of all consignments to our house. sep22 2m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,
Wholesale Dealers in
Fancy Goods,
STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,
HOSIERY,
Furnishing Goods, etc.,
55 MAGAZINE STREET,
Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La.
aug25 1y

CHAS. H. CHURCHILL. PETER G. TAYLOR.
CHURCHILL & TAYLOR,
HARDWARE AND GUNS.
DIRECT IMPORTERS,
41 MAGAZINE STREET, and 20 BANK PLACE, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.
We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of Country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.
COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.
Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Steel (wood mould board) Plows.
SAWS, TIN WARE, AXES.
King Cary (wood mould board) Plows, offered for sale at the lowest market quotations.
HOLLOW WARE.
GUNS, NAILS, SADDLERY.
Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations. Orders from the country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St. James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832. aug25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,
Grocers and Commission Merchants,
95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of
CHAMPAGNE,
BRANDIES,
WHISKIES,
CLARET,
CORDIALS, Etc.
Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, saltable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the Most reasonable Rates.
☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.
W. H. HENNING & CO,
a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and
PLANTATION CLOTHING,
No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET, (SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices. a18 1y

JAMES SYME,
Wholesale Druggist,
139 CANAL STREET, (Touro Buildings,) NEW ORLEANS.
Importer and Dealer in Fine DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES, Fancy Goods, Perfumery, Surgical Instruments, French, English, and American, of every variety
Also—
Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags.
aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF,
Wholesale Grocer,
COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,
48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st.,
aug26 6m NEW ORLEANS,

A. B. GRISWOLD. W. M. GUODRICH
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Corner of Canal and Royal streets,
[Late HYDE & GOODRICH],
Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!
MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,
Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.
The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,
HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD.
Established, August, 1861
Destroyed, May, 1863.
Re-established, January, 1866.
SALES ROOMS,
C. E. CATE & CO.,
18 CAMP STREET, 18
Under the City Hotel.
We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of
LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF AND KIP BROGANS,
Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.
We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.
A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.
C. E. CATE & CO.
feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W. C. SHEPARD. A. L. ABBOTT. ROBT C. HUTCHINSON
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,
Nearly opposite Picayune Office,
CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,
PLATED WARE,
House Furnishing Goods,
AND KITCHEN WARE.
We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.
Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!
BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
Established in 1837.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W. COFFIN & CO.,
102 & 104 East Second street,
Cincinnati, Ohio,
Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.
Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our Improved Rotary Yoke.
All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.
Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
CLOTHING,
AND
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
No. 27 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS
Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.
☞ Special attention given to orders.
Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,
Corner of St. Andrew Street,
oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,
Successors to D. Geucila,
112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,
Dealers in
CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,
Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,
PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.
Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.
J. P. WILSON,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,
77 Magazine Street,
oc16 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]
EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL
Hat Emporium,
No 62 CAMP STREET,
Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. a18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY,
DRAKE & MARKHAM,
Manufacturers of
Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Children's
BOOTS AND SHOES,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.
We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine Custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.
We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.
OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!
Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.
Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.
One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.
We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.
Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.
All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP STREET.
aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE
is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family.
Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delay of your daily meals, may be saved by using the
CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.
Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.
The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top
has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size over made.
The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.
The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove, broils in the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry whereby the offensive odors arising from the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.
The Hot Closet, in which meats and vegetables are kept warm for hours when there has been a delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and desserts and place them hot upon the table.
The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.
Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Tools, etc.
RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,
93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras,
and 565 Magazine street, near Magazine Market.
sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN
PRICE'S
Patent Texas Tonic
PURELY VEGETABLE.
It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for
CHILLS AND FEVERS.
For particulars, see accompanying Extract with each bottle.
For sale at 59 Camp street, New Orleans.
THOS. K. PRICE, Vender.
Read the following opinions of some of old and well known citizens of
PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC
Or, Vegetable Medicine.
T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:
DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best receipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefited.
Wishing you great success in introducing so valuable medicine,
We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City Hall
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Co.
T. GREENERLD, of house of Fellows & Co.
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. HUNSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce.
New Orleans, June, 1863.
TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$
6 " "
8 " "
12 " "

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or case at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.
All orders will meet with prompt attention.
sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,
PAPER WAREHOUSE,
No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and Charlas streets, New Orleans.
Newspaper of the following sizes: 23 by 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 44 by 48.
Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams' Cottage Presses; and Jas

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 44. WHOLE NUMBER 610

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1866.

$3 00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE. OFFICE—113 CAMP STREET

For the N. O. Christian Advocate:

MRS. SARAH L. BARNES.

Mr. Editor: Please indulge our sacred grief. Let a large circle of Christian friends know through the Advocate, that "a mother in Israel has fallen asleep in Jesus," that they may weep those tears which pure affection bids them weep. Let the Church militant know that one of her brightest lights has been transfered to the Church triumphant. Mrs. Sallie Barnes—this being the name by which she was most generally known—died of yellow fever at her residence in New Orleans, Oct. 10th 1866. She was born in Claiborne county, Miss., July 24th, 1802, and was the daughter of Geo. W. and Sarah Humphreys. Her parents were wealthy for the period in which they lived; and she enjoyed the best educational advantages afforded by the country at the time she grew up. As a part of her education, and as one means of introducing her into society, she was trained up to attend the public worship of God, but it was by no means the wish of her father's household that she should enter the Church in the days of her youth. But—as the writer now recollects—in the latter part of 1821, she was awakened to an affecting and deeply humiliating sense of her total unfitness for heaven, and her exposure to the wrath of God, as an unforgiven and unregenerated sinner; and, in order more assuredly to obtain deliverance from the guilt and pollution of sin, she attached herself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, as a seeker of religion; and for several months, amidst many prayers and penitential tears, she earnestly sought, and successfully obtained an assured interest in the Redeemer's blood. To her youthful associates, who yet slumbered in their sins and guilt, it was an unexplained mystery, that one so lovely and apparently every way so innocent of moral wrong, should feel herself to be such a sinner, and should, with so much solicitude, beweep her want of reconciliation to God. But she viewed her relation to God in the proper light, and sought and obtained relief in the scripturnl way. Miss Sallie Humphreys now appeared in the social meetings of the Church, a cheerful and happy christian, and full of hope as to the eternal future of her existence. Everything in the class of what the world calls innocent pleasure and amusement, which antagonized her spiritual progress, was cheerfully exchanged for the higher and holier joys of a renewed nature. The mere gewgaws of dress were promptly abandoned, and while she was a perfect exemplification of neatness and refinement in her wardrobe, she assumed the plain costume of the primitive Mississippi Methodists.

In November 1826, she was united in marriage with John A. Barnes, of the same vicinity, a christian gentleman every way worthy to be the husband of such a daughter of the Church. Mr. Barnes, on account of his wealth, and especially his intellectual and moral worth, also belonged to the elevated class of society. He was long an efficient steward and class leader—was gifted in prayer and exhortation—was zealous in attending all the meetings of the church, and in visiting and praying with the sick and dying in his reach, and in various ways he served his fellow citizens in civil matters, especially as a legislator. From the time of their marriage, their house was the headquarters of Methodism in that community, and a place of constant resort for our itinerant pastors. While the mere noviciate in the itineracy met a cordial greeting at their threshold, the most gifted in the ministry felt themselves highly favored when opportunity permitted them to enjoy the hospitalities of their dwelling. But, after a few brief years of the most congenial married life, this happy pair were doomed to a painful separation. Mr. Barnes died in manhood's prime, but, as he lived, so he died in the Lord, and his name is like the fragrance of the richest odors among those who knew him best. After his death, sister Barnes was content to finish her long and toilsome journey alone. Her first and greatest care was to rear and educate her children in accordance with the united wishes and purposes of herself and her now sainted husband, and well did she perform her duty as a christian mother in this respect. She remained at the old homestead "full of good works and alms-deeds"—often boarding the pastors of her church for months together without cost to them—until her children grew up and married, after which she generally lived with one of them, and especially of late years, with her youngest daughter, Mrs. Dr. James, now of New Orleans. After leaving the sad as well as joyful associations of her much loved home in Claiborne county, she resided successively in Warren county, and in Madison and Claiborne Parishes, La., and finally in New Orleans. But wherever she "rested or roamed" she was steady in her attachment to the church of her first love, and unvarying in the discharge of her christian duties. Hers was a cheerful and happy christianity, and while she was often called to endure the heaviest afflictions, she "endured, as seeing him who is invisible." As she neared the end of life's weary pilgrimage, it was evident to those who knew her best, that she thought less of earth and more of heaven. In my religious intercourse with her during our late General Conference, I was sensibly impressed with the maturity of her devotional frame of mind. The Master called for her suddenly, but to her not unexpectedly, and found her ready to go. Amidst the tears of her weeping household, she said to her daughter, and two married nieces, who had grown up under her maternal guardianship, "Do not grieve for me as as though I were lost to you, but think of me when I am gone as having taken a delightful journey to a happy country to meet kindred and friends, and that you may soon follow after me." After her vocal organs refused to articulate, she was asked several times "if Jesus was with her?" to which she replied affirmatively with expressive looks and a smile of heavenly birth that glowed upon her happy face. Her death accorded well with her exemplary and useful life. When she first entered the church, she did it amidst the regrets of her father's family; but she lived to see most of them follow her example, and among those who are endeavoring to follow her as she followed Christ, we are permitted to number one of her brothers who is the present Governor of her native State.

Mr. Editor: I hope both you and your readers will excuse the length of this communication. Were I to indulge my feelings, and use the ample materials furnished by her long and eventful christian life, I could fill your paper for weeks to come. The reminiscences of the pious dead are the treasures of the living Church. It improves one's heart to look upon such an example of all that "is lovely and of good report," as found in the life and death of Mrs. Sallie Barnes. I had personal knowledge of much of her history. We first met at the altar of penitence in the days of our youth, and united with the Church about the same time, and have often enjoyed the "fellowship of the Spirit," together since that time, which now dates back forty-nine years.

Please let me indulge my personal feelings a little! I feel the loss of this dear friend, but it has been made a blessing to my soul. I am a better man to day than when I first received a notice of her death. O may I live as she lived, and may my sun of life set as did hers!

J. J. Jones.

Fayette, Miss., Nov. 1st, 1866.

A YEAR IN HEAVEN.

A year uncalendered; for what
Hast Thou to do with mortal time?
Its dole of moments entereth not
That circle, mystic and sublime,
Whose unreached centre is the throne
Of Him, before whose awful brow
Meeting eternities are known
As but an everlasting now!
The thought it removes Thee far away—
Too far beyond my love and tears;
Ah! let me hold thee as I may,
And count thy time by earthly years.

A year of blessedness—wherein
Not one dim cloud hath crossed thy soul;
No sigh of grief, no touch of sin,
No frail immortality's control:
No bounce hath disappointed stung,
Nor care, world-weary, made Thee pine;
But rapture, such as human tongue
Hath found no language for, is Thine.
Made perfect at thy passing—who
Can sum thy added glory now?
As on and upward, upward, through
The angel ranks that lovely bow,
Ascending still from height to height,
Unfaltering, where raft seraphs troll,
Nor pausing, mid those circles bright,
Thou tendest inward unto God!

A year of progress in the lore
That's only learned in Heaven! Thy mind,
Unclogged of clay and free to soar,
Hath left the realms of doubt behind,
And wondrous things, which finite thought
In vain essayed to solve, appear
To thy untasked inquiries, fraught
With explanation strangely clear:
Thy reason owns no forced control,
As held it here in needful thrall;
God's mysteries court thy questioning soul,
And Thou may'st search and Know them all.

A year of love; Thy yearning heart
Was always tender, even to tears,
With sympathies, whose sacred art
Made holy all thy cherished years!
But love, whose speechless ecstasy
Had overborne the finite, now
Throbs thro' thy being pure and free,
And burns upon the radiant brow.
For Thou, those hands dear clasp hast felt,
Where still the nail-prints are display'd;
And Thou, before that face hast knelt,
Which wears the scars the thorns have made!

A year without Thee! I have thought
My orphaned heart would break and die,
Ere time had meek quiescence brought,
Or soothed the tears it could not dry.
And yet I live, to faint and quail
Before the human grief I bear:
To miss Thee so! then drown the wail,
That trembles on my lips, in prayer.
Thou praising, while I weakly pine!
Thou glorying, while I vainly thrill!
And thus, betwixt thy heart and mine,
The distance ever widening still.

A year of tears to me! to Thee
The end of thy probation's strife,
The archway to eternity,
The portal of immortal life.
To me—the pall, the bier, the sod;
To Thee—the palm of victory given:
Enough, my heart—thank God! thank God!
That Thou hast been A Year in Heaven.

Meaner for God than for the Devil.

A gentleman of wealth who had been much addicted to frolic and sports, was converted and became a member of one of our congregations. This congregation had adopted the ad valorem principle, as a means of defraying its expenses. In a few months after this gentleman's conversion, the deacons waited on him in order to make their assessment; and knowing that he was rich, and that his proportion of the expenses would amount to a pretty handsome sum, they feared that he would not be willing to bear it, and their demand might give him serious offence, and prove an injury to him. Hence they approached their business with some trepidation and great caution. At first he was at a loss to ascertain the reasons of their apparent diffidence. The deacons perceiving this, became more explicit. The gentleman was surprised. "What on earth," said he, "do you mean? Did you suppose that I would be unwilling to pay my full proportion? When I was a man of the world, and united with others in a scheme of pleasure, I would have deemed myself a mean man had I not paid the full proportion of the expense. Go to the assessor's book, and put me down for my full proportion of the expenses of the church. Do you think that I intend to be a meaner man now, since I have become a servant of God, than when I was a servant of the devil?"—Methodist.

Don't Write There.

"Don't write there," said one to a lad who was writing with a diamond pin on a pane of glass in the window of a hotel.

"Why?" said he.

"Because you can't rub it out."

There are other things which men should not do because they cannot rub them out. A heart is aching for sympathy, and a cold, perhaps a heartless word is spoken. The impression may be more durable than that of a diamond pin upon the glass. The inscription on the heart may last forever.

On many a mind and many a heart sad inscriptions are deeply engraved, which no effort can erase. We should be careful what we write upon the minds of others.—Merry's Museum.

The Christian Witness, (Episcopal) says: "Ninety years ago we had one clergyman to every ten thousand of the people; now we have only one to every fifteen thousand: and this discrepancy is increasing. The past two years, the additions have not filled the places made vacant by death and disability. In some dioceses there is not a single candidate for orders to-day.

From the Southern Christian Advocate.

LETTER FROM CHINA.

Mr. Editor:—Now that war has ceased and the smoke of battle cleared away, we are anxious to hear from our Church and people, our friends and loved ones. We long to know how you are and what you are doing, to renew our correspondence with you and acquaintance with the times and circumstances that exist among you; for although we have been separated long and far from you, we have not lost our interest and sympathy in all that pertains to our common welfare.

More than a year has elapsed since the close of the war, and yet not a Church paper from the South has reached us, with but the single exception of a few stray copies of the New Orleans Christian Advocate by last mail.

We are anxious to see the proceedings of our Annual Conferences, but especially those of the General Conference. I have seen a few detached items from the South as reported through the Northern Church journals, but most generally accompanied with such comments and restrictions as only intensified the desire to see and know for ourselves the true state and conduct of our people.

I have just forwarded to Dr McFerrin a full statement of our finances up to July 1, 1866, showing the China mission to have survived its long separation from you, with its status unimpaired, its missionaries all well; the native Church though small, yet vigorous; its operations enlarged; its property intact, and its treasury, though unreplenished for more than four years, having, at the beginning of this year, liabilities outstanding far less than a thousand taels.

Isolated, tempted, embarrassed and almost destitute, its vitality has been no less surprising to us than to many of our crocodile friends abroad.

Is there not in all this reason for profoundest gratitude to God, whose providence hath cherished the orphanage of our infant mission, and is there not in you, and in every member of the Southern Church, a heart to embrace it once more?—Or shall an enterprise so important and so tenacious of life, while left to itself, have outlived its separation and every adversity, to perish at last, if perish it must, in the hands of its friends? God forbid.

"The China Mission still lives," said the College of venerable Bishops in their recent address to the General Conference, "and we recommend it to your fostering care."

Those thrilling words have reached us freighted with precious promise, and in the absence of information as to the sequel, we cherish them "as the substance of things hoped for; the evidence of things not seen"; yea, we half forget her struggle for a precarious existence in the past, and her yet more recent four years of perilous history, in the partial prospect that she shall realize "your fostering care" and be sustained yet more vigorously in the future.

Within the past few years the ways of Providence have done much toward unsealing and opening this great Empire to the influence of Christianity.

Hitherto, and even now for want of means and means, missionary effort has been restricted to the coast and the immediate vicinity of the Treaty Ports, but the great barriers which recently forbade or deterred efforts to reach the interior, are now partially, and almost wholly removed. The suppression of the great "Tai Ping" Rebellion, and a more liberal policy on the part of the Imperial Government, have opened up the highways of China to the Prince of Peace, and vast numbers of the people, especially those in the great valley of the Yang Tze, where the "abomination of desolation" stood the longest, are willing and ready to welcome his advent. Having sought and found refuge, during the desperate years of '62, '63 and '64, in the sea ports, where the foreign flag, brazen serpent like, assured and protected them from future harm, they have at last returned to their homes, which foreign powers, too, restored them; but they have not been permitted to return as they came. Missionaries, early appreciating the wonderful opportunities their presence afforded of extending the influence of Christianity, took advantage thereof, and the result is, they have returned carrying with them kind if not grateful remembrance of their contact with foreigners; and in numerous instances, impressed with the truth of Christianity, and bearing with them its precious seeds.

Throughout this vast province and even beyond, not less apparent and perhaps not less real is the change wrought in the hearts and minds of the people than upon their homes and country. And now that such a marvellous change has been effected in Government and people, and this extensive valley, once more populous than the whole United States, been thrown open to our coming, with here and there throughout its extent a Christian Church member ready to welcome the Missionary, and make his house a sanctuary for Christian worship, and his family and relatives a nucleus of future success, who can ignore the indications of Providence, or say that this is not a field peculiarly prepared to enter and occupy it fully. Already have Christian colporteurs gone before as and circulated numberless tracts and books, but the great, the pressing, imperative want is men, both foreign and native, to perfect the work already wrought and perpetuate the saving influence which began during their captivity at Shanghai. I have been endeavoring, by means of a system of weekly and monthly itinerations, to supply, in a small measure, instruction and preaching to those of our little Church who have returned to their homes in the interior, and I find it both a more extensive and hopeful work than that immediately at Shanghai, where there is so much to conflict with and modify the influence of our teachings.

Here in this place daily public and private preaching and teaching had been maintained for years, until there are but few who have not learned the name of Jesus and more or less of his doctrines; but a sleep sleep seems to have fallen upon this people, an oblivious indifference, from which all efforts seem vain to awake them, and the time very nearly if not quite arrived when Missionaries shall be called to shake off the dust of this city from their feet as a testimony against them and proceed whither the Lord seems directing them.

The Roman Catholics, alive to the present emergency, seem destined to overrun the country. With an agency and energy peculiar to themselves they outstrip us all; and the recent concessions of the Government in their favor will go far toward establishing the influence of the Pope "under heaven," as the Chinese say, of the Empire.

I have not yet been able to ascertain, whether the Catholics demanded it, or whether official representations moved the Government to take the initiative in this matter; be that as it may, the Roman hierarchy or Priesthood in China find themselves amply elevated among the Chinese to official rank and station equal with that of the Magistrate of a third class or district city, and their bishops in contact and communication with the higher Mandarins of the Empire. The alleged object of this movement, whether originating with the Priesthood or the government, is to guarantee and secure the execution of the law and punishment of crime which often finds a refuge and hiding place in that Church. Their numbers are considerable, amounting to several hundred thousand, and as they are more or less in contact with their foreign spiritual guides, Chinese officials, since the experience of the last war, have been exceedingly cautious of conflict with them; hence many Chinese criminals, not adherents of the Church, often seek it and avail themselves of it as a shield from the law. The present movement therefore seems to be somewhat mutual: the Catholic Church claims the right to adjust all difficulties arising in the Church or between adherents and non-adherents, and the Government have conceded the demand, and officially claimed them Mandarins. How characteristic this whole matter of the subtlety and greed of power on the part of the one, and the reticence and timidity of the other.

It remains, however, still to be seen what influence this new inauguration of power is to have on the future destinies of this country, whether the "Son of Heaven," or the cause of Protestant Christianity be the ultimate victim.

About the close of the last year or beginning of this, two Catholic Priests were murdered in the remote Province of Sz. Chuen, at the instigation of the literati, who were assembled for their annual examinations, and a more horrible and extensive massacre has been recently perpetrated in Corea, a small tributary kingdom to the north-east of China.

Recent intelligence from the North of China, Peking and Che-foo, intimates that a lively sympathy has been manifested for the victims of the recent Corean prosecution, and that measures will be forthwith taken, especially by the French, to avenge these wrongs and throw open that hitherto unknown region to the commerce of Foreign Nations. Most important results are anticipated to flow from this blood-thirsty outrage, and especially from the part the French are expected to act in view of it. "Blood is thicker than water," said Commodore Tatnall at the battle of the Peiho, on seeing his men go to the assistance of the wounded English Admiral and his brave boys; and this bloody event, we may safely say, is the cement of the Church, a crowning stroke and pledge of her success in that region. Already great inducements are being offered to emigration and exploration. The country is described as being beautifully situated and abounding in gold and silver.

"One town situated on a hill is said to be built on a silver mine of nearly pure ore. Nearly all the rivers contain gold dust, and gold has been found at a few feet from the surface in many parts of the country. One of the French Missionaries, formerly in California, has given it as his opinion that Corea is much richer in gold and silver than California or Sonora. The Government prohibits all search for gold, etc., except for its own use."

Such statements as the above are current rumor here, and though evidently circulated without scrupulous regard to their truth, are producing a sensation. Trade in this place is excessively dull, and there are numbers here ready to avail themselves of the first opportunity to emigrate to this new El Dorado.

It is now mid summer here and the heat is quite oppressive. So far, however, we have not been visited this year with any plague or epidemic. A few cases of sunstroke have occurred—three were reported yesterday, the 2d August. Cholera has occurred, but of milder type and less alarming than formerly. Indeed, Shanghai is one of the most healthful regions in all China, early impressions to the control notwithstanding. Dysentery and diarrhœa are our most common and fatal diseases; fevers are almost unknown—except intermittent, and rare cases of what has been called Shanghai fever.

Our Mission families are in good health at this time.

I shall, I think, be able hereafter to make regular communication of any items of intelligence or news, which may come into my possession in this far off region, that may interest your readers.

I would not complain but I must suggest that your Missionaries here begin to feel most keenly, the great neglect and silence with which they have been treated. It is now the 3rd of August, and not a paper or letter, except a few private ones, from personal friends, has been received. We should have been in blissful ignorance of all that has been going on in the South, in the Church especially, had it not been for the items gleamed from "unwelcome sources."

I have seen "The Methodist," of New York, and hence am more or less acquainted with the proceedings of the General Conference, but far above "The Methodist" I esteem your noble sheet, and hope ere long to see it once again on my table.

With prayers and best wishes for you and your enterprise, I remain,

Yours affectionately,

Young J. Allen.

Shanghai, China, August 3rd, 1866.

The latest advices from Canada states that fighting between the Christians and the Turkish army continued, but the accounts of its progress are unreliable. Turkish accounts claim victories over the Christians.

The Pope has just sent several medals in gold and silver, bearing his effigy, to the Sisters of Charity who have been in attendance on the cholera patients at Amiens.

TENNESSEE CONFERENCE.

We copy from the Nashville Advocate part of an excellent letter of Rev. A. H Redford, dated Huntsville, Ala., Oct. 29th:

Bishop McTyeire is in the chair. In every department where he has been called to labor, he has met fully the wishes and expectations of the Church; but no position he has filled has more obviously displayed the wisdom of the Church than in calling him to the high and holy office of a Bishop. Presiding with ease and impartiality, and in the full strength of his manhood, beloved by the ministry and the Church, he promises to be eminently useful.

During the past year the Church in the bounds of this Conference has been greatly blessed. God has poured out his Holy Spirit on many of the charges; revivals have crowned the labors of preachers, and thousands have been converted and added to the Church.

On Saturday evening the Anniversary of the Missionary Society of the Tennessee Conference was held in two of the churches. Drs. Young and Green were the speakers at West Huntsville Station, and Dr. McFerrin and the Book Agent at the Presbyterian Church. I had not the pleasure of hearing Drs. Young or Green, but am happy to be able to write that Dr. McFerrin fully sustained the high reputation he had previously earned. The collections, although not large, far exceeded my expectations, in view of the wasted condition of the country.

The most important measure that has occupied the attention of the Conference is the action of the General Conference in reference to the change of the name of the Church. I heard the speeches made at the General Conference, and I thought the entire question was more ably discussed here than at New Orleans. Drs. McFerrin and Green, the veteran warriors of the Conference, men whose devotion to the Church had been marked through more than thirty years of labor and of toil, ably advocated the concurrence in the resolution adopted by the General Conference; while Drs. Young, Kelley, and Wilson, younger men, yet full of promise to the Church, opposed the measure. The deepest interest was felt in the debate and the issue. The audience was large, and evinced the most intense anxiety. I was not prepared for the vote that was given. I had been impressed with the belief that all the Conferences South of Kentucky would, with unanimity, vote to concur, and I was consequently not prepared for the very large negative vote given by this Conference.

My information had also led me to believe that the laity throughout the entire South were clamorous for the change; but whatever may be the sentiments of the people farther South, I have, as yet, met with no lay-member of the Church, in either Tennessee or North Alabama, who desires it. On the contrary, their attachment to the name we have borne, both in prosperity and adversity, is too ardent to be easily effaced. The vote was 55 to concur, and 46 against it.

The question of lay-delegation was disposed of by nearly the same vote, having been ably discussed by Drs. Green and McFerrin in the affirmative, and Drs. Young, Hughes, and Kelley in the negative.

You will perhaps be surprised when I inform you that we have no Methodist church in this city. Previous to the war, we had two church edifices, but one of these was destroyed by fire, and the other by the army rendered unfit for use; so that our people are now deprived of a house of their own in which to worship God. The subject is a sad one. With a membership of three hundred in the two churches, in the wasted condition of the country, they are unable to rebuild; and hence must become scattered and peeled. As I think of their generosity in the years that are past, and of their present inability to rebuild for themselves a house of worship, I have asked, Is there no relief? Must a community like this, noble, and generous, and good, who in the days of their prosperity had never turned unaided from them any object that claimed their benevolence, but now themselves bereft of fortune—must they be deprived of the altars of the Church? I think to-night, as I write of my own beloved State, we thought we suffered and endured, when the cloud of war spread wide and hung low over the land. But not Our homes were left, and our altars were neither desecrated nor destroyed. And would not Kentucky, that suffered comparatively so little, and is now so prosperous—Kentucky, whose harvest is so abundant—respond to an appeal in behalf of Huntsville, and aid in this noble enterprise? No monument of the benevolence of my State could be erected that would be more enduring, and no act of generosity meet with a richer reward, than to render proper aid in this time of extremity to a people, than whom there live none nobler on earth.

THE REVIVAL AT ATHENS, GA.

We extract part of a letter of Rev. H. H. Parks, to the Southern Christian Advocate, giving a notice of the revival at Athens, Georgia.

Mr. Editor: You have given through your columns information to your patrons that we are enjoying in Athens, a precious season of grace. It will not, however, be deemed inappropriate for me to make some further statements in regard to this work.

Before our meeting began, there was more opposition to earnest, spiritual, self-denying piety, than ever existed in this community, and I am not sure but more than I ever witnessed in any other community, where in the providence of God, my lot has fallen, since I became a minister of the gospel.

We were very much given to worldly and sinful amusements—as card-playing, dancing, etc. Not only were these tolerated, but approved, by Church members in many instances, as well as by those who were avowedly worldly. A goodly number of my own people, as well as others, felt restive under my frequent, earnest and (it may be) severe unladversions upon their temper and conduct, touching the things to which allusion has been made.

Such was the state of the Church and community, when our District Meeting began, the Friday before the fourth Sabbath in August. Bishop Pierce preached as three sermons at that meeting which I doubt not did much good. And I am pleased to be able truthfully to say that, upon the subject of dancing, he was not equivocal—but denounced it in unmeasured terms. I make mention of this gratefully, for the reason that a good many of our brethren are becoming "tender footed" on that subject of late, and some of the ministers even, are limping a little, I fear,—but not so Bishop Pierce—thank God, and it is under God, through the instrumentality of such men as he—and none others—that the living, earnest piety of the Church is to be promoted.

But to the meeting. I determined to prosecute the services. We held a prayer-meeting every morning at nine o'clock, and preached every night. Brethren Myrick, Worley and Corley assisted me between Sabbaths. We contended manfully against the world, flesh and devil—a few of the male members, and quite a large number of the females attending constantly. Several were awakened and converted—perhaps twenty—in the course of about three or four weeks. About this time, Bishop Andrew and Bro. G. J. Pearce came to our relief. The Bishop was very feeble, and remained but a few days, but gave us some good mellow talks during his stay. Bro. P. continued with us until the meeting closed, and did an efficient service. Meanwhile, when the people found that we were much in earnest, our congregations increased, and the interest also, among the irreligious. The Baptist and Presbyterian ministers and congregations joined in, and within a few days more, we were in the midst of a wonderful revival.—From Wednesday night preceding the last Sabbath in September, there was a marked increase in the meeting. On Sunday morning I felt that we were victorious and in possession of the field, and at night the rush to the altar was beyond anything of the kind I ever witnessed. It was the week succeeding this that we sent for Bro. J. S. Key, who stayed with us several days, and preached us four excellent sermons. Dr. Longomb and his venerable father helped us much. And I am gratified to be able to say that the entire Faculty of the University sympathized with the movement most profoundly, and rendered us, in a prudent way, all the aid in their power. The students were wonderfully blessed—about 70 of them have professed religion and joined the Church; or rather, there are that number who are now religious—a few of them were so before the meeting—only 34 in the University who are not professors. I received on one Sunday morning in one class about 112 into the Church, and the communion service last Sunday week was beyond anything of that kind I ever witnessed. To see so many of the young men and women for the first time commemorating the death and sufferings of our divine Lord, was almost more "than flesh and blood could bear." Our hearts said "Hallelujah!"

But I feel that I can give you or your readers but a faint idea of the meeting, if I were to write a great deal more than is proper for one communication for the Advocate. So I must close. We continued our meeting for seven weeks. Bro. H. J. Adams came and preached for us the last week of our meeting four times, with zeal, earnestness, and I trust, much profit.

During the meeting, I think we had several times, as many as two hundred at and around the altar for prayer—persons from 6 to 60 years of age. As to results, we have received into our Church 150 members, and among them some of the best material in the land. In a few instances whole families have been brought in. I think the Presbyterians will receive as many as 35 or 40 at least, the Baptists some 10 or 15, and the Episcopalians 8 or 10, as the fruits of revival. Our colored Church 50.

The amount of good done cannot be approximated. The numbers who have been reclaimed that are members of the Church, the extirpation of bitterness and ill feeling from the hearts of many, and the general strengthening and building up of Church members, and the purpose of so many to address themselves earnestly to the work of saving their own souls, and the souls of those around them.

I have no doubt God will call some of these young men to preach the gospel.

The temper of the community is changed towards the world, towards ministers, towards the Church, and towards God as well.

Rest assured, brother, we feel very grateful to God.

H. H. Parks.

Athens, Ga., Oct. 26th, 1866.

Religion in Ireland.—Ireland at present contains six millions of inhabitants, of whom four and a half millions are Roman Catholics, and one and a half are Protestants, who principally reside in the north. The Presbyterians chiefly reside in the north of Ireland, while the Methodists are scattered everywhere abroad. The Episcopallan Church was endowed; it was supported by the State; the landlords paid the clergy, and therefore that denomination was not much affected by emigration. The Presbyterians were also, in a certain sense, endowed, for in any village or town where a church was formed and a subscription amounting in American currency to one hundred and seventy five dollars, the Government gave a supplementary grant of three hundred and seventy-five dollars. The Presbyterians had been obliged to confine themselves principally to the larger towns. The Roman Catholics were not endowed, but the Government gave to the college of Maynooth, where priests were manufactured for the world, thirty thousand pounds a year. The position of the Methodist Church had been such that every year it lost by emigration, until it had actually lost one-third of its membership.

The Mormon Delusion.—There are now nearly 100,000 of the "saints" at Salt Lake. There are Mormon missions in England, Wales, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, and the Sandwich Islands. Brigham Young, Jr., is the president of the European missionary system. He is twenty-seven years of age, and his headquarters are at Liverpool. Forty missionaries are annually sent to Europe, and the missions are supported by the "Saints" in Utah. The policy of the mission is gradually to concentrate all the followers at Salt Lake. The converts usually embark at Hamburg or Liverpool. Great licentiousness and utter disregard of health characterize the voyages. Careful arrangements exist at New York to prevent the immigrants from getting among the "Gentiles" on their arrival.

The Greek Church in Poland.—There are in the pale of the United Greek Church in Poland, 222,000 persons belonging to the Diocese of Kholm, being 11,966 less than in 1840. They had in 1863, 381 churches, 201 in ruins.

A Beautiful Illustration.—The following paragraph by Dr. Holmes contains a beautiful and truthful illustration:

If one should give me a dish of sand and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes and search for them with my clumsey fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how would it draw to itself the most invisible particles, by the mere power of attraction. The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and, as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find in every hour some heavenly blessings; only the iron in God's sand is gold.

The Right of Priests to Marry.—After a hard struggle the Italian civil courts have solemnly affirmed the principle that priests can legally depart from their vows of celibacy. Some months ago the Registrar of Genoa refused to sanction the marriage of a priest, and his refusal was sustained by an inferior court. The case was carried up to the Court of Appeals, which, after mature deliberation, reversed the sentence of the lower court, and declared the validity of the laws that give priests the right to contract civil marriage.

Both British and American Episcopalians seem to be repudiating Bishop Staley's mission for proselyting the Sandwich Islands to an unmitigated ritualism, and calumniating all the American missionary work there. The venerable society in London for the propagation of the gospel in foreign parts, last year appropriated £100 toward sustaining him. This year its committee, by a vote of nine to three, refuses to renew the grant. The Foreign Committee of the Episcopal Board of Missions in this country has just reported against the last year's recommendation of the Board, to sustain two missionaries under his Episcopate.

The Pope has delivered an allocution, condemning the conduct of Italy, declaring that he is ready to die in defence of the right, and that in case of need he will seek the free exercise of his ministry in another land, (i. e. before he concludes to die.)

The statistics of fifty-four American colleges show that out of 7,180 students, 3,326 are professors of religion, of whom 1,034 have the ministry in view.

The Rev. M. D. Kalopothakes.—This brother, who was formerly the missionary of the United Synod, is still earnestly engaged in his useful labors at Athens, Greece. Dr. Jonas King, the veteran missionary of that city, now in this country, has received a letter from Mr. K., dated August 1st, in which he details the rapid progress of the Greek mind "in walking up to religious liberty and a true apprehension of the gospel."

A Lutheran minister, just returned from a trip through the West, writes to the Observer, Baltimore: "In many a church belonging to our Lutheran faith, where I entered as a silent and unknown visitor, I was struck with all kinds of fanatical and superstitious Roman Catholic customs. The burning of wax tapers on the altar, crucifixes, so-called holy pictures, flowers, expulsion of the devil by the sign of the cross in infant baptism, and many other remnants of the Papal church, seem to be the order of the day."

All the Synods of the Lutheran Church are this year discussing and passing resolutions on the secession of the Pennsylvania Synod from the General Synod, and the proposed formation of a new High Lutheran General Synod. The New York ministerium, at its session last week, resolved to postpone taking action until its next annual session.

The Unitarians, to-day, considered and adopted propositions for a more perfect organization of their sect. In the afternoon the question of how to procure a greater supply of ministers was taken up and discussed, and during the proceedings the sum of $30,000 was pledged for the use of the Meadville Theological school. There were votes of respect for the Cambridge Theological school and its professors, recommending to the churches to raise for denominational purposes annually the sum of $100,000, approving and promising cooperation in the temperance movements and extending fraternity to the Universalists.

Rev. W. E. Armitage, of Detroit, has finally accepted the Assistant Bishopric of Wisconsin, to which he was elected some time since.

There are fully twenty thousand widows and sixty thousand orphans (whites) in Alabama; three-fourths of them are utterly destitute.—Gov. Patton.

The work of restoring the cathedral church of Notre Dame, Paris, to its original beauty is almost finished. It has occupied no less than twenty years.

A letter from Bishop Gobat, for twenty years Bishop of Jerusalem, gives an encouraging account of the progress of religion in that city. Its population is now about fourteen thousand. There are four regular services every Sunday in our different languages, and two prayer meetings during the week. An orphan asylum contains forty-three boys, who are fed, clothed, and taught, besides twelve or fifteen other scholars. The bishop has eleven schools in other parts of the country.

The Church of England missionaries in the Northern part of the province of Tinnevelly, India, have had no fixed home. They have moved their tents from place to place throughout the district (1,200 miles square), and thus the gospel has been preached to more than three hundred thousand souls, in fifteen hundred villages.

The Congregationalists are about to erect their first church in the City of Washington, a few rods from the Patent Office, at a cost of $50,000 to $60,000.

Dr. Robinson, Superintendent of the only Christian Sunday School in Salt Lake, has been murdered by the Mormons.

Two Good Things.—Rev. Dr. Moore writes from Belfast to the Central Presbyterian, that in connection with the Presbyterian General Assembly of Ireland there are no pastors who have two churches, but there are some churches that have two pastors.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 112 Camp st, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronising Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. M. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1866.

MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE.

The Montgomery Conference will be held at Jacksonville, Ala., Dec. 5th, 1866.

Ministers who come by public conveyance will report at the Hotel Those who come by private conveyance will report at E. L. Woodward's store, north-west corner of public square.

W. R. Kirk.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

By the subjoined dispatch which we have just received, it is determined that the Mississippi Annual Conference will meet at Brookhaven, Nov. the 28th:

"It seems the preachers of Mississippi Conference have resolved to convene at Brookhaven. Hope to meet them."

R. Paine,
J. J. Clarke, Sec'y.

Notice to the Preachers of the Mobile Conference.

As the Mobile Conference holds its next session at Enterprise, Miss., Nov. 21st, I would notify the members that they will be met at the depot, at 2 and 4 A. M.

Those coming by private conveyance will please stop at the store of "Johnson and Holden," just opposite the depot.

W. J. Powers.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Lord's Prayer Picture.—A unique work of art. First drawn by a pen, then photographed. In the center, the Lord's prayer elaborately printed; and on the border, twelve beautiful and exact copies of the heads of the twelve Apostles from the Last Supper of Leonaidi da Vinice. Making altogether a picture which one could desire to have in his house. Good for grown people, good for children.

P. P. Werlein, Teacher of music vocal and instrumental. Lessons given either at the residence of papils or at his house, 95 Jackson street. Mr. P. is a well known and accomplished teacher.

The Discipline of the M. E. Church South, Nashville, Tenn. Published by A. H. Redford, for the M. E. Church, South, 1866.

We acknowledge the receipt of a beautiful copy from the agent—bound in Turkey; the binding, type, presswork and general appearance of the book would do credit to any publishing house of New York or Philadelphia.

The binding and pursy look of the edition which was first issued, deterred us from calling any particular notice to its mechanical merits. We understand that edition was done at the North. But this edition is entirely satisfactory. The Editor has done his part of the work with the faithfulness and correctness and ability which distingaish all his Editing.

BAPTO.

Mr. Editor: My friend and Bro. Dr. Courtney, thinks that the time "multitude," in my communication of August 1st, is improper; I suggest therefore that, "congregation of about one hundred and fifty persons," be substituted, to the mind of the reader, in lieu thereof.

I propose, also, that "a number" be substituted for the word "many" in the same connection.

Thos. J. Upton.
Mt. Lebanon, Oct. 29th, 1866.

To make the above intelligible, we quote the paragraph—

"The Bishop also delivered two lectures on the subject of Baptism, in which he presented our views to an astonished multitude, most of whom had supposed we did not pretend to have scriptural authority for our practice, but left the house, many of them, believing that pouring was the mode and that infants were proper subjects."

One of the evidences that peace has returned, is that our old friends Bapto and Baptizo are again in the market place "piping" and "mourning." If our people don't immerse, they "have a devil;" if they do immerse, they are "friends of publicans and sinners." But Methodism is justified of her children.

THE CHINA MISSION.

We publish an excellent letter this week from Rev. Y. J. Allen, one of our missionaries at Shanghai, China. If there are any missionary coals in the heart of the reader, this will kindle them to a flame.—One of the great defects of our missionary movement is, that no regular intelligence is transmitted from those distant points. Occasionally a letter is received which gladdens and thrills the Church. But our people need something beyond the intermitting visits of angels to keep their hearts open, and their prayers and alms active in behalf of China. They need monthly letters, telling the faith, fears, burdens, toils, and triumphs of the missionary. They wish to share these joys and sorrows, these hopes and burdens, that advance the standard of Christ. Our brethren there should let the Church feel them. Bad news, old news, difficult passages in their daily experience, conflicts with Heathenism, will all strengthen the sinews of the Church at home. We want to know how the fight is going. It is a great mistake not to write, because there is nothing new or encouraging to tell. Let's hear about the drudgery of preaching the word of life to the Pagan. The drudgery of Christ's service is more interesting to us than to hear of the most noble employments of mere earth. "We had rather be door-keepers," &c. The routine of a godly life can refresh us; we like to hear of it, as we love old tunes and the unchanging stars. There is nothing monotonous in Christian truth. The same words do not lose their charm, because they express the soul that hears full as much as the one that speaks. God has raised up the right men among us for this grand work: men intelligent, zealous, men of faith, love, power, and a sound mind.—These men have mastered the language; and they have souls large enough to be the fit exponents of our Zion. Have we soul enough to sustain them? In our Church there are thousands of mere babes, whose faith toddles about in a very small room, and rejoices in a very little progress; but there are also among our people a goodly number who feel strong enough to go out of doors, and look abroad upon "fields white to the harvest," who wish to share with the reaper, and rejoice in the sheaves of his bosom.

We stand to the Chinese as Heaven stood to us. Heaven sent us angels; we send them Ministers of Christ. Heaven held the truth once; we hold it now—hold it in trust for myriads. This truth we must publish, this light we must sow; if we do not, it would be better for us had we never been born. Whether we wit it or not, God has constituted His Church to be the light of the world. We may eat our crust alone; but we must share our light with others. A man who would not share Heaven with another is not fit for it himself. The money which we hold back from this great enterprise will, in the last days, burn our flesh as fire.—One of our missionaries—Bro. Lambuth—in 1864, sold his property, that he might return to China, had to borrow money there to pay a balance due on his passage, and since then, during the war and until now, has had to support himself by manual labor, while preaching to the Heathen. What's the matter? Do our people lie in the depths of meanness, as well as poverty! Why are not the funds forthcoming for the sustenance of these men of God who are toiling in foreign fields? We cannot doubt that it is sheer want of information; that the statement has not been clearly made, or these pressing wants would be met, even if children at home had to cry for bread.

If it be the last cent on the circuit, we hope that our preachers will wring it out, and bring it up for China.

"COLOR BLINDNESS."

The Editor of the New York Christian Advocate and Journal, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, North, in its last issue, takes himself to task for having been too conservative. He has contemplated the "Africo American" as something less than an equal. Has said to him, "sit thou there." Has proposed to set him up in a separate Conference. All which indicates an assigned grade, less than that of absolute "co-equality with the whites." Thus does this conscientious, sensitive mind reason; and now, half repenting, he calls on the North to enter upon the difficulty, and "the much needed work of conquering our prejudices." In view of "interests of such gigantic proportions as are now forced upon us," he calls upon his church to rise above "such puerilities." "Statesmanship" is necessary: "great breadth of mental vision" is necessary; an acute and minute perception of "the tendency of things" is necessary; to such the "case of the Freedman must present claims of the highest order."

"Probably in all human history," he adds, "there never has been another race whose potential increase, in all that contributes to moral and social elevation, has equalled that now possessed by the American negro. We repeat what we have before said, the negro is the coming man, for whom all who care for the future of society should make way. Already he rules the destiny of the State, and he influences not less certainly, though less openly, the character and the future success of the church."

From this specimen we do not think that the conservatism of the writer is by any means beyond remedy. By a judicious course of treatment, and a little time—it will take time—he may hope to equal even the most radical. "The American negro" has certainly shot up into a personage of immense value. There was always a good deal in him. The knowledge of which, excited to a violent pitch all cotton manufacturing philanthropists, whether of New England or Great Britain. To get at the negro was to get at the raw material. To accomplish this, prayers were instituted, the church subsidized, Reviews charged to the muzzle, Diplomatists instructed, and Politicians unleashed. It took forty years just, to secure the prize. But oh, the blood, the rapine, the ruin, and wreck of rights, through which these Humanitarians marched; from Kanzas until they attained the object of their cupidity! In the struggle their hands were so empurpled with a brother's blood, that they have been ever since striving to remove its stain and smell. Now They deny the deed:—"Thou canst not say I did it."

They find solace in the great moral ends which impelled them forward. The negro has a soul—more precious than many whole crops of cotton! And while they are saying that soul, they can be attending to a few other things. Southern lands are waste, rich, and cheap, and the "poor negro" needs some settler in whom he can confide, who can teach him, and show him how to keep accounts. So here they come, not exactly as "doves to their windows," but rather as Saul's people flew upon the sheep. The Northern missionary spirit has become immense, all the churches are at work, in fact have a great work to accomplish; even the Pope sees something in it, and after a century in which they have cared no more for the soul of a negro than for that of a dog, they are bestiring themselves with an all consuming zeal. The Northern Methodist Church was in such hot haste, that she must needs steal churches in order to begin. The missionaries of Southern Christian churches have anticipated this zeal by half a century, and have gathered into the fold of Christ a larger proportion of this colored population than ever has been gathered of any population in any country; a larger number of them than ever will be again in the church. This they did in the face of many adversaries. The past is secure, and the record of these toils is in Heaven.

But there is another side to the "American negro." He is a man, a citizen, a good citizen, a voter, a legislator—capable, very capable; in fact almost docile. In the language of Dr. Curry, "already he rules the destiny of the State." The Doctor greatly fears that "those charged with practical ecclesiastical affairs," in his own Church, will lose sight of this fact; but, as we think, unnecessarily. That astute, godly man, Bishop Ames, will, we doubt not, be found on hand at the right time. He is fully up to the times, and the New York editor, in his new theory of "color blindness,"—which we quote:

"Our official action should be distinct and outspoken on this subject; the theory of "color blindness" should be clearly enunciated and at once reduced to practice. Colored ministers should be invited to membership in our annual conferences, and introduced into our pulpits. Colored families should be welcomed to our churches; not to sit on separate seats assigned to them as a distinct caste; but, in free churches, to sit where they please, and in pewed Churches in such seats as they may choose to pay for. No reason can be given against this, but an unreasonable and an unchristian prejudice, of which a man of sense should be ashamed, and for which a Christian should make haste to repent before God."

What if it should turn out that this whole thing of "color" is a matter of the retina of the white man, and not a pigment of the African cuticle—an over-excited retina, diseased, seeing color where there is none! May not a strong effort of the will correct this faulty vision? To go further, is it not a duty to make the correction? Dr. Curry thinks it is. He is willing to welcome the negro socially. But why invoke "color blindness?" Is he not willing to look upon the physical parts of the negro with admiration? Or is it his moral nature and his intellectual—the great elements for good displayed in his past history—that calls for this color blindness? Or, is it the enlarged Christian spirit of the Doctor which seeks to embrace every man because he is a man? Or, is it an immense guileful affectation of charity which seeks to blind itself while obeying the low instincts of a nature willing, for the purposes of ambition, to debase self and blood, family and race, by embracing the negro socially, in order to control him politically? Let the whole drift of his article answer. It evidently seeks to prepare the North Church, and to key up its Bishops for a union with the African Methodist Church, upon the basis of ecclesiastical and social equality. The possession of large masses of colored members will enable the North Church to control the immense expected vote of the colored population, and enable Dr. Curry to share the fortunes of that "coming man for whom all who care for the future of society should make way." It is somewhat singular that one who can see in the far distance the negro as "the coming man," should profess to be "color blind;" and should exhort this blindness upon others. Does nature compensate this blindness by making him very wide-awake to the "potential" uses of the "American negro," and to everything else, but color? Doubtless the philosophy which solves the devotion of those Pagans who prefer only hideous idols, will explain the wilful, monstrous, and self-debasing prostration of this blind devotee.

Montgomery Conference.

This Conference is to meet at Jacksonville, Ala., Dec. 5. Bishop Wightman is to preside. Messrs. Wilson and Kirk state that there are trains of cars from Selma to Blue Mountains, distance 125 miles, fare $9 45. Stage from Blue Mountains to Jacksonville, distance 10 miles, fare $2 00. Stage from Rome to Jacksonville, distance 50 miles, fare $8 00. Stage from Montgomery to Talladega, triweekly, fare $10 00—train from Talladega to Jacksonville, 25 miles, fare $1 80.

They wish Presiding Elders to give them the names of candidates for admission; also, of local brethren coming up for ordination. Ministers who expect to bring their wives to Conference must let them know in due time. Ministers who do not expect to attend Conference, will do them a favor by letting know before Conference convenes. Ministers of other Conferences expecting to attend, will please let them know. Ample provision will be made for all.

Don Manuel Matamoras, the young Spanish Christian, in whose fate the whole Protestant world some years ago were so deeply interested, has at last fallen a victim to the cruel malice of his Papal persecutors. A Spaniard by birth, and a Catholic by education and discipline—at an early age he entered the Spanish army, in which his father was an officer of high rank. There he read his Bible assiduously and discovered to his amazement and horror that his cherished creed was in express violation of holy writ. With the fortitude of a man he abandoned it, and with the heroism of a convert he busied himself in unmasking the evil practices and dangerous tenets of the Church of Rome — always basing his arguments upon the written word, which he continued to study, and offered to his comrades. This sort of officious piety brought down upon him the rage of the priesthood, the church, and the government, and he was pitilessly persecuted—arrested and imprisoned in an infected dungeon.

Clemency—even justice—was all but hopeless when he was amenable to a court whose judge could say: "If you were a robber or an assassin, you might be pardoned; but you have committed an offense against the church, and there is no pardon for you."

Though a great sufferer, and long confined, he bore himself with such fortitude, and displayed such purity, that even men of the vilest stamp uncovered their heads as he walked through the prison. The Queen's offer of pardon on his recantation and return to the Church of Rome he spurned—preferring death to ignominious life, and imprisonment to perjured liberty. He was finally condemned to eight years hard labor in the galleys, with the loss of all his civil rights. But outraged Christendom so loudly protested, that even Spain relented and commuted his sentence to perpetual exile. He went to France, thence to Switzerland, where his active zeal was too much for a frame emaciated by confinement and enfeebled by disease, and he sank at the early age of thirty, a victim of a church professing to be a friend of learning, religion, and the Bible, though indicted for no crime but the love of the truth and adesire for the salvation of men. "He giveth his beloved sleep."

NEWS FROM THE CHURCHES.

The following is from Rev. Thomas S. Abernethy, jun., dated Forkland Circuit, Mobile Conference, November 5th, 1866: "We began a meeting at Trinity Church, on Saturday the 27th day of October, and closed to-day. There were a number of conversions and eleven additions to the Church. Our beloved Presiding Elder, the Rev. Abram Adams, was with us on Saturday and Sunday of last week, and preached with his usual acceptability and power. On Monday, Rev. James D. Cameron arrived and remained until Friday, preaching every day with power and the demonstration of the spirit. Amid the desolations of Zion it is good to find a live Church of zeal and good works. Such is Trinity. May God bless this people. This is a good circuit, particular about the mint, anis and cummins, and not neglecting the weightier matters of the law. Subscriptions have been passed round and a support for the preachers next year secured."

We are glad to receive the following letter from our old friend Rev. B. J. Hamilton, and hope to hear from him again.

Chinnaby, Ala., Nov. 5, 1866.

Mr. Editor: The Chinnuby is no doubt quite familiar to many of your Southwestern readers, and will awaken in their minds both pleasant and mournful reminiscences. This is the name of an old camp ground in Talladega county, Ala. Here many years ago their progenitors worshipped, and here many of them perhaps were born again. This particularly must embalm it both in their memory and affections. An inscrutable Providence leading me in my blindness has brought me unexpectedly to this antiquated spot, and I felt when I came to the place as if I stood upon enchanted ground. I recalled to memory the multitudes which in former days had worshipped here, who are now so scattered up and down the face of the earth. Many have fallen on death and seen corruption, others are inhabitants of the far West, and many of the pulpits supplied by the young men here converted. The place is now in desolation. Time in his swoop of ruins has also swung his scythe o'er this sacred spot. Here he has stretched out the line of confusion, and the stones of emptiness. The arbor is gone—and a few dilapidated tents are only left to tell the mournful catastrophe. There was holden on this spot, at the time of my visit, a protracted meeting; here there was an effort made by the now living citizens to revive the church. For many years there has been no appointment here; and even now it comes within the purview of the missionary work. Our meeting lasted for nine days, and there were about eleven conversions and accessions to the church. There still resides in this vicinity a few of the old standard bearers, and in that number will readily be recognized the names of Bros. Camp and Siew, local preachers. Bros. Tarrant and Harris Taylor have gone to their rewards. I have, during the summer, visited many appointments on the Alabama and Tennessee Rail Road, from Selma to White Plains. It was my fortune to attend revivals at Columbiana, Oxford and this place. Most of the ministers show great zeal, and in some instances seemed to weary the membership by efforts to get up a better state of feelings. I have never witnessed more zeal or earnestness than on the part of some of the preachers of North Alabama. It would perhaps appear invidious to mention any names; but I can hardly forbear to say that the church owes much to the watch, care and zeal of Bros. Wilson, Cary and Dr. Slaughter. I felt while I occupied the pulpits in many of the places, a peculiar emotion. I felt as though I stood in the footsteps, and offered incense upon altars consecrated by the labors of priests, both now dead and removed. There is a great spirit of emigration from this country to the West, particularly to Texas. The late war and adverse providences have greatly afflicted this people; many of them are now acquiescing in the political change produced by the war. I allude to emancipation. The voice and needless self indulgencies of the former generation of young men and ladies will be greatly prevented by this change: The young men and ladies are going to work, and to school and colleges, not to lounge and dress, but to learn.

The annual meeting of the Annual Conference will take place in Jacksonville, in December. Bishop Wightman will preside. A pleasant time is anticipated, and no doubt there will be many ministers in attendance. It is quite accessible, being at the head of the Alabama and Tennessee Rail Road.

B. J. Hamilton.

A letter from the Rev. Jas. E. Bradley, Louisiana Conference, dated Opelousas, 30th Oct., says: "Immediately west of this place (about 15 miles,) there is a neighborhood called "the Mallet." This is just in its formation. There is already a number of good families living there; and there is vast room for many more. The citizens out there are showing a public spirit, worthy of imitation. They have made a move to build a church, Masonic hall, and school house, under the same roof. And though a few weeks only have elapsed since the thing began to be agitated, they have the land contributed, and more than six hundred dollars subscribed. The work is to be commenced in a few weeks; and they intend to have a preacher and a place in your Conference next year. Much good will flow from this move. In this it will invite settlers; children will be educated; and the whole country out there will wear a more interesting and happy face."

Letter from the Rev. T. Rawson, La. Conference, says: "The last round of Quarterly Conferences for this District has just been held. At Opelousas, Washington and Plaq. Brulie, the Presiding Elder preached acceptable sermons. He received at each of these places his full claim. There has been no revival at either place indeed, the present condition of these churches is rather unpromising. There seems to be a deadness that is ominous. The people go to church, listen attentively, and seem to imagine that the Lord has got tired of them. With a few exceptions, they certainly act as if the Lord had released them from church obligations. There are noble exceptions—a few.

"The church given me this year, (Washington) has much good in it. The house has been painted, nice lamps fitted up, the preacher and Presiding Elder paid their full allowance, and other good things done; but that thing called "Holy Ghost Religion" seems scarce. Alas, what shall be done! Suppose we get up a big camp-meeting—will you send us some heavy artillery?" [O certainly—the Holy Spirit, for instance?]

A letter from Rev. W. B. Lewis, of Yazoo City, Mississippi Conference, Oct. 30th, says: "On the 14th inst., we began a meeting in this place which continued until the 25th, with good results: seven joined the church. Bro. Wm. F. Camp was with us during the last week, and preached ably to large and attentive audiences. An interest was awakened in the church, such as we have not seen before during the past two years."

Rev. L. M. Dunlap, of Whistler, Ala., writes: "I have been in charge of the church here for the past year as a supply. The good Lord has abundantly blessed this community. I have taken into the church sixty members, most of whom have been converted: some few by letter. But there is a great work to be done here yet; near five hundred men reside here, mostly young men, employed as mechanics; of whom comparatively few are professors of religion. We are endeavoring to establish a reading room for their benefit—will you contribute one copy of your paper to the "Whistler Reading Room?" [Yes.—Ed.]

Rev. W. J. M'Gaughey, Tensas Dist., La. Conference, writes:

We have now finished our fourth round of Quarterly meetings. Have had some revivals and accessions to the Church, had a fine camp meeting at Oakly. The spiritual condition of the Church is improving—but alas, the finances of the Church are very meagre: owing partly to the great failure of crops in these parts. These people were once rich, and what they contributed to the support of the gospel they did not feel. Now poor, they feel every dollar they give: it is a large dollar: it is a hard-earned dollar: and they do not know how to part with it. We have not received as much money in the entire district as it will take to support one of us. Some have not received as much as one hundred dollars. If District meetings will do any good let us have them. We have tried Church meetings; and I will say that I would be willing to submit to lay delegation, as much as I am opposed to it, if we thought it would improve our financial operations. When every wheel is bogged down to the hub, we are willing to receive help from any source.

NEWS FROM OTHER CHURCHES.

METHODIST E. CHURCH, NORTH.

Strange Religious Movement.—A number of religious enthusiasts of Maine, United States, are about to emigrate to the Holy Land. In 1860, Elder G. J. Adams, who has been a Methodist preacher, gained some followers, in Springfield, to a new theory he set up, regarding the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ, who, he declared, was soon to come to sit on the throne of David, in Palestine. Afterwards he went to Addison, in Maine, where he has several hundred followers, and in connection with a merchant of that place named McKenzie, he has purchased a tract of land in Jaffa (Joppa,) where he proposes to build a city. A barque is now fitting out at Jonesport to carry the pilgrims to their new home in the Holy Land. They will carry with them all the enterprise and improvements of the Yankee character, and expect, on their arrival, to be acknowledged by God, presided over by Christ, and to reclaim that country to the Church.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Cumberland Presbyterians.—The Convention Movement.—In several late numbers of the Cumberland Presbyterian, the editor and others have been discussing the action of the late General Assembly, and in the last one a proposition is definitely put forth to have a "Convention" in the North, in order to a separation from the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and form a new organization. Dr. Brice argued the subject at length, and urges the approaching Presbyteries to take action in the matter.

BAPTIST.

Mr. M. M. Jones was recently excluded from the Baptist Church, at Utica, N. Y., for some statements which he made in an article published in the Religious Herald, concerning the treatment of Confederate prisoners at the North, and the character of the preaching of Northern Baptist ministers, and the conduct of Federal soldiers and officers during the war. He charged Northern Baptist ministers with preaching politics. He charged Federal officers and soldiers with robbing and plundering Southern citizens during the war. He charged that Confederate prisoners, whilst in Northern prisons, were inhumanly treated and starved. He was charged before the Church with publishing a libel upon his brethren of the North, especially the ministers, and "the Church voted to withdraw the hand of Church fellowship from him as a public slanderer of the great body of Baptist ministers throughout the United States."

Rev. Loyd Murphy, Baptist, was arrested the other day while holding a protracted meeting at Liberty, in Franklin county, for the crime of preaching without taking the oath. Rev. Mr. Bird, Methodist minister at Savannah, in Andrew county, was arrested last week.—Mo. Baptist Jour.

EPISCOPAL.

The society for the Increase of the Ministry in the Episcopal Church held their second annual meeting on Tuesday evening, the 2d inst., in New York. This society has been organized but two years, and, already, 262 students have been added by the association to the ministerial profession; 26 of the Episcopal dioceses have contributed to the funds, and 19 dioceses have furnished scholars to be educated. The total receipts for the present year have been $19,074; total resources, $20,125, and total expenditures, $19,677.

FOREIGN.

Rev. Mr. Knapp, American missionary at Bitles, writes that an opening has at length been presented for the education of females hitherto inaccessible in Turkey. It is looked upon justly as a great advance and ground of hope for the future.

The Turkish New Testament.—The Boston Traveller states that all the difficulties in the way of preparing the text of the Turkish New Testament have been overcome by Dr. Schauffler, who has had charge of the work. The first edition was revised by the eminent Dr. Kieffer in Paris, the next by a distinguished Turkish scholar, Turahi Efendi; the next by an English scholar under the direction of the British and Foreign Bible Society. It was then carefully collated with the Arabic and Persian versions, and it was then revised by a learned Turk in the service of the Sublime Porte. At last it comes fairly before the Turkish nation as perfect, we believe, as human learning and talent and care can make it.

CITY NEWS.

The Mechanics and Agricultural fair is the present talk. Any enterprise that will advance self-help, that will make our people independent of the world in manufacturing, and mechanically as self-sustaining as they are agriculturally, should command and receive the support of every true friend of the South. The African muscle is no longer our reliance. We rejoice at it. Dependence upon it, enslaved our people to the whole world, commercially, industrially, and politically. A laboring class that cannot be educated to make a mill, as well as turn it, to build a steam engine, as well as run it, must ever prove an inherent and fatal weakness in any nation. The genius and skill of the enlightened artisan of the nineteenth century, is now absolutely necessary to the maintenance and existence of all high forms of life, power and intelligence. We are rejoiced to know that one of the results of the war will be to bring the intelligence and action of the South into competition with other Nations in the production of everything necessary to the welfare of a people.

This Fair commences on the 20th, and continues until the 28th of this month, inclusive. The following circular has been issued by the Secretary of the Fair Association:

The New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern Railroad, and the Mississippi Central Railroad, will, during the Fair, pass all persons visiting New Orleans at half the usual price of tickets.

Passengers will be carried over the New Orleans, Opelousas and Great Western Railroad, and the Steamboats running on Bayou Teche in connection therewith, at half price from the 19th to the 29th November inclusive.

The Vicksburg packet Fashion, Capt. D. Pratt, will bring all persons to New Orleans during the period of the Fair, at half rates.

The following Railroad and Steamboat Lines will return, free of charge, all Exhibitors and their wares, present at the Fair in New Orleans, commencing on the 20th November, 1863: Chicago and Great Eastern Railroad; Mississippi Valley Transportation Company; Memphis and Charleston Railroad; Pacific Railroad; Cincinnati and Gainsville Railroad; Syracuse, Burmingham and New York Railroad; Peoria, Pekin and Jackson Railroad; Nashville and Northwestern Railroad; Rutland and Burlington Railroad; Keokak and Mount Pleasant Railroad; Atlantic and Mississippi Steamship Company, and Railroad Lines, Southern Mississippi Railroad; Mobile Mail Line of Steamers; Texas Line of Steamers.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

Washington, Nov. 4.—The following from a member of the Cabinet to a friend, the Administration, on President Johnson's future policy. He says:

"How will veto every bill that he may regard unconstitutional, no matter how unpopular it may be for him to do so, but he will execute with unscrupulous fidelity all laws and especially those to which he has decided to give his executive sanction. The apprehension which you seem to feel and which many others have with you, that Mr. Johnson will attempt to force Southern representatives into Congress or do any other imprudent thing, by which the public credit might be deranged, is utterly unfounded. While he will exercise fearlessly the power he possesses under the Constitution in furtherance of the measures which he thinks are best calculated to promote the public weal, he will not quarrel with Congress by pursuing the same independent course. He regrets the disagreement between the legislative and executive branches of the Government, and would, I doubt not, yield much to effect a reconciliation. He will not, however, sacrifice his principles or violate the Constitution, according to his interpretation of it, no matter what pressure may be brought to bear upon him. He means to do right, as he understands the right, and will trust to time for the vindication of his course. He will be as true to the Constitution and the Government as President of the United States as he was true and steadfast to the Union in the darkest day of its trials."

London, Nov. 15.—The holders of Confederate bonds are about bringing their case under the notice of the British Government as a set off against the Alabama claims for the United States.

It is reported that when the French troops evacuate Rome, the Romans will immediately vote in favor of being annexed to Italy.

Washington, Nov. 15.—Chief Justice Chase called at the White House this evening, and was closeted with the President for about an hour. Before his departure Mr. Seward, Gov. Randall, Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Browning arrived, and remained in consultation with the President until six o'clock. It is believed that this meeting was for consultation upon a most important subject, based upon an effort now making by leading men of all parties to induce the President, in consideration of a general amnesty, to induce the people of the South to accept universal suffrage, with qualification either of property or intelligence. Prominent Southern men are co operating with Republicans and Democrats in this effort.

New York, Nov. 15.—The New York Herald's Washington dispatches state that Gen. Sherman, who sailed from this port with Minister Campbell for Vera Cruz, Mexico, on Friday, will stop in Havana, where probably he will be met by Gen. Sheridan.

The French Minister at Washington has sent a dispatch to his Government in regard to Sherman's mission, and the answer he received was sent to New Orleans for immediate transmission to Vera Cruz.

A special cable dispatch to the Herald dated Greenwich Observatory, says that a meteoric shower occurred between 11 P. M. and 3 A. M. Five thousand fell in one hour, illuminating the whole heavens. They were red, blue, green, orange and amber. One of an emerald hue left a trail of flame visible for a minute and a half.

OBITUARIES.

Died August 23rd, 1866, at the residence of Mr. Bartlett Smith, Copiah county, Miss., Mrs. MINERVA DAVIS SMITH. She was born in Copiah county, Miss., January 1st, 1832, was married to Mr. Bartlett Smith, October 11th, 1848. She was an exemplary member of the M. E. Church, and exhibited in her life a pattern of Christian virtue at home and in society. Her christian life was sufficient assurance of a christian's death, and did not fail her in that trying hour; but full of rich assurance and undisturbed consolation, her spirit left its tenement for a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens." She has left a husband and seven children to mourn her loss. A large circle of friends and family connections gave her up to God in tears and hope, and pinned her in the bed of death in hope of eternal life.

May her life and death cheer and encourage the bereaved to a better life above. W G M.

TOMMIE JAMES, youngest son of Thomas and Margaret James, of Tensas Parish, La., died of congestion, on the 24th of July 1866, aged five years.

When we think of the bright promise he gave, and remember that he was our pride, our future hope, 'tis hard for us to give him up; and consign to the grave his lovely form; but we must bow in submission to the will of that God "who doeth all things well." Weep not, kind invalid mother, that your infant boy hath gone home before you; no, rather rejoice that he hath escaped the storms of life, and is now in heaven to welcome you, when God shall bid you come. H.

MRS. MARY ANN SANFORD, the daughter of William and Nancie Massie, was born in Tarquier county, Virginia, on the 14th day of December, A. D., 1810. Married to Daniel F Sanford, in Stafford county, Virginia, on the 24th day of December 1829; was converted and joined the M E Church, South, in early life, under the ministry of Rev. Joseph White, of the Baltimore Conference. She died at Braggs Bluff, on the Bigbie river, in Green county, Alabama, on the first day of September, 1866. She was a pious, holy woman, faithfully and usefully performing all her duties as long as she lived. Her "praise is in all the churches," in this section of country. No doubt she rests with God. She leaves a husband and several children to mourn her loss, the youngest and last of whom was converted at our late meeting at the Trinity Church. May God bless them all.

THOS. S. ABERNATHY, JR.

STEPHEN ALEXANDER, youngest son of W H N and Mary Magruder, died on Thursday, the 1st inst, aged two years and five months.

KNIGHT & CO.,
Dealers in
PLANTATION, MILL, & WOOD-WORKING
MACHINERY,
And Agricultural Implements

Keep constantly on hand a large assortment of articles peculiar to our business, and through our agents in the North and East, can fill promptly, and at a small advance above manufacturer's prices, all orders for articles in our line not usually kept in this market

The great change in our labor system necessitates a corresponding change in the implements used, and we have prepared ourselves to offer the latest improved

LABOR-SAVING MACHINES,

both for Agricultural and Mechanical purposes at prices that will warrant their purchase.

Also, LEEDS & CO'S Sugar Kettles, Newell Screws, Gin Gearing, &c; and will contract for any kind of work done at their establishment, at their prices.

172 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
nl7 1y

CLOAKS!
F. ADAM,
(Formerly with C Yale, jun, & Co,)
MANUFACTURER & WHOLESALE DEALER
In Ladies' and Misses'
CLOTH AND SILK CLOAKS,
No. 26 Canal Street—Up Stairs.
NEW ORLEANS.

Don't trust to glaring advertisements in the newspapers, but go to THE FACTORY itself, if you want good Goods at fair prices. nl0 2m

STOVES, GRATES, TIN WARE, AND
HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.

The undersigned offer for sale an assortment of COOKING STOVES, embracing among the lot the well known Charter Oak, the Brilliant, the Peerless, the American Home; and others of the latest improvement.

Also, a large lot of HEATING and PARLOR STOVES, a large variety of GRATES, and of COUNTRY HOLLOW WARE, etc.

We manufacture all our own Tin Ware, and sell cheap.

CAMPMAN & CO.,
nl0 0m 115 Poydras st, bet. Camp & Magazine

THE LORD'S PRAYER PICTURE.

Good Agents wanted all over the South to Sell by Subscription this Great and Beautiful Picture.

This is one of the most exquisite works of art ever offered to the public, being the result of six years' close labor of the Artist. It has received the highest commendations from every source, and never fails to elicit the greatest admiration from all connoisseurs of the fine arts. A liberal paying commission is allowed, and it is believed there is no work before the public so universally popular, and offering so good inducements to canvassers—as this: It is new—will never get out of date; exclusive territory given.

To avoid delay and insure reply, testimonials as to character and ability should accompany applications. Dealers need not apply. Here is offered congenial and lucrative employment for ministers, or competent and worthy persons of all classes. For full particulars apply to

HOLMES & CO.,
26 Camp street, Room No 5, or address
Lock Box 424, New Orleans

N B—Please do your friends a favor by showing this advertisement to such as may be adapted or benefited by such an agency nl0 1m

P O BARRIERE G W BABCOCK
F. G. BARIERE & CO.,
Importers and Dealers in
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
No. 135 Canal Street, New Orleans.
nl0 6m

A CARD.

P. P. WERLEIN resumes teaching music, both Vocal and Instrumental; and is ready to take a limited number of pupils, either at his home, 95 Jackson street, or at the residence of pupils.

Apply at music store, 82 Baronne street, or at his residence. nl7 1m

WANTED.—A Gentleman (unmarried) of considerable experience as a Teacher, desires a Situation in that capacity for the coming year; has been well received by former patrons. Address

A H C, nl7 3t Shubuta, Clarke Co, Miss.

WANTED — SITUATIONS FOR three well educated Southern young ladies, in private families, or in Seminaries of wide reputation: one, as Music Teacher only; the other two, as Teachers of the ordinary branches of an English Education, with Music. Address Rev R H Herbert, Meridian, Miss., stating compensation, health, society, etc, of the location. nl0 1m

NEW ORLEANS—1866.
DIRECT IMPORTATION.
J. LEVOIS & CO.,
Invite the attention of
Wholesale & Retail
Buyers to their importation of
PARIS NOUVEANTES,
For Fall and Winter,
Comprising
DRESS SILKS,
In Embroidered, Brocade, Chines, and Solids, with a large assortment of
FOULARD SILKS,
In Printed and in Plain Colors, being designs printed exclusively for themselves.

Black and White Striped Silks,
Black and White Checked Silks,
Colored Silks, checked and striped,
Irish Poplins, plain,
Lyons Poplins, plain and fancy.
French Merinoes and Deleines,
Alpacas, colored and black,
Opera Flannels, all colors,
French Cloths, plain, & plaid,
Grey and White Blankets,
Carriage Blankets,
German Knit Goods,
Nubias, Sontags, Capes, Muffs,
Black Cloth Cloaks,
Black Silk Cloaks, of the Newest shapes and designs; with every article required in Housekeeping Goods.

J. LEVOIS & CO.,
Invite the attention of merchants to their cases of
IMPORTED AND AMERICAN GOODS,
Which they offer in quantities to suit, at the Lowest Scale of Prices & on Liberal Terms
CORNER CANAL AND BOURBON STREETS.
oc20 1m

SOUTHERN CLOTHING MANUFACTORY,
OVER STORES
Nos. 20, 28 and 30 St. Charles street, cor. Common, New Orleans, La.
CLOTHING MADE TO ORDER
with dispatch, in the most durable manner and approved styles, at reasonable prices. A large and magnificent assortment of French, English, Scotch, German and American PIECE GOODS,
latest styles, suitable to the season, always on hand. L. W. LYONS & CO.

SOUTHERN CLOTHING ESTABLISHMENT.

Just received, one of the Largest and most Fashionable Stocks of CLOTHING and FURNISHING GOODS in the Southern country.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT UP STAIRS.

Buyers are respectfully invited to call and examine the stock.

CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
FURNISHING GOODS.....at Wholesale.
SHIRTS.....at Wholesale.
TRUNKS, VALISES, etc.....at Wholesale.
UMBRELLAS.....at Wholesale.
BOYS' CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
PLANTATION CLOTHING.....at Wholesale.
L. W. LYONS & CO.,
Nos. 26, 28 and 30 St. Charles street, and 131 and 133 Common street.

BOYS' CLOTHING EMPORIUM.—
No. 26 ST. CHARLES STREET.
Parents, Guardians and others will always find a large and well selected stock of Youths', Boys', and Children's
DRESS AND SCHOOL CLOTHING.
Shirts and Furnishing Goods, latest fashions.
For sale, at low prices, by
L. W. LYONS & CO.,
corner St. Charles and Common streets.
oct 3 1m

ST JAMES HOTEL,
MAGAZINE STREET,
Between Gravier and Natchez Streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.

This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.

It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof. Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquors equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, as far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.

The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expense to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.

n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

COAL! COAL!! COAL!!!
BEATTY & SAWYER,
Offer COAL and WOOD at the lowest prices.—Coal, $1 per barrel. Leave orders at Yard on Josephine, between Prytania and Coliseum sts., or at Price Current Office; at Ducatel's, 24 Carondelet; or at M E Stack's, opposite Magazine Market. Send in your orders promptly. ulm

McCUTCHON & HUBBELL,
Importers and Dealers in
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE,
Hoes, Axes, Nails, etc.
NO. 54 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
n3 6m

W. G. COYLE & CO.,
COAL MERCHANTS,
Office: 142 Gravier street.
Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.

Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannal Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

ROBERT L. WALKER,
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

STAFFORD & WILSON,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 66, Magazine Street,
oc27 1y NEW ORLEANS.

CLOTHING, CLOTHING.

For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.

Now receiving and opening for inspection, at
R. PITKIN'S
FASHIONABLE
CLOTHING EMPORIUM,
Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,
The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior
READY-MADE CLOTHING,
AND
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS
Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:

Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,
Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.

A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles;

FOR CUSTOM WORK.

He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentlemen of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,

MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,

as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS

To his
Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing
suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.

Also a large assortment of
YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,
TRUNKS,
VALISES,
CARPET-BAGS,
UMBRELLAS, ETC.
A call from the public is respectfully solicited.

R. PITKIN,
Fashionable Clothing Emporium,
13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15
oct13 3m

ROBERT SLARK, WM. A. KENT,
ISAAC H. STAUFFER, CHAS. MACREADY
SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,
No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsiere St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.
Importers and Dealers in
HARDWARE:
Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws
MILL STONES,
INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND, PLANTATION SADDLERY, ETC.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS,
Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrett & Cottman, for Sugar and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert King, "Caray," for Cotton; Peoria Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.
Agents for the Vieille Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. oct3 1y

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES.)
Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in EARTHENWARE,
GLASS, CHINA,
JAPAN WARE,
PLATED WARE,
SILVER WARE,
FINE TABLE CUTLERY,
WATER PURIFIERS,
HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.
All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.
No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.
L. ELKIN,
3, Carondelet Street, 3.
Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior
WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN
CARPETS,
RUGS,
WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Commission and Forwarding Merchants,
122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row,
NEW ORLEANS.
R H Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. oc13 6m

H. P. ETHELL, New Orleans. NAT. H. THOMAS, Late of Alabama.
ETHELL & THOMAS,
FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.
Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.
No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.
Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sep1 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. THOS. D. MILLER
J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
No. 190 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep1 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. W M Owen. E Owen
LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 6m

H. S. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.
B. S. HARPER & CO.,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKERT,
GROCER,
And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,
s15 6m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally,
53 Gravier street, New Orleans.
sep15 1y

H M WRIGHT C W ALLEN J MIDDLETON
(1st August, 1865)
WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
160 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aog25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, Memphis, Tenn. JAMES M. ALLEN, PERRY NUGENT, New Orleans
T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,
(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
aog18 1y

F F FOLGER, L FOLGER, W H THOMAS
FOLGER & CO.,
Dealers in
Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,
37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
(Opposite the St James Hotel)
Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aog25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
27 Camp Street, New Orleans.
WM. EDWARDS. } sep15 3m
EDWD. J. GAY. }

W A VIOLETT. R Y BLACK. S H SNOWDEN.
VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
s15 6m 138 Grevier street, New Orleans.

W. B. LOTT, Madison County, Miss. C. W. WOOD, Canton, Miss.
LOTT, WOOD & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants
65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

R A BANKS, W W LORING, O W VENABLE
BANKS, LORING & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
20 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

H ATKINSON & CO: New York. JAMES HEWITT & CO., Liverpool.
HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And Commission Merchants,
188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWISHER & CO., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,
(Successor to FELLOWES & CO.)
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., New York. LEWIS, NANSON & CO., St. Louis.
OBER, ATWATER & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
38 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep15 1y

S. M. SWENSON, N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. W. M. PERKINS, D. L. KERNION, Of Perkins & Co., N.O.
PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street, NEW ORLEANS.

SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
20 Exchange Place, New York.
s20 0m

EDW'D NALLE, W. C. DAY.
NALLE, DAY & CO.
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,
168 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc13 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants
186 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc13 6m

E R KEEP. L CAULFIELD.
KEEP & CAULFIELD,
Western Produce,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.
oc13 1y

HENRY WARE, Of Texas. WM. H. WARE, Of Texas.
H. WARE & SON,
Cotton and Wool Factors,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
oc13

JOB PRINTING.
COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,
SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,
PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,
And everything else in the line of job printing, executed in
The Very Best Style, at Moderate Prices.
Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

BOOKS! BOOKS!
The Agent of the Southern Methodist Publishing House, at 112 Camp street, New Orleans, has just received from the steamships George Cromwell and Merrimac, and by the steamboats Mepham and Olive Branch, ample supplies of Sunday School requisites: Catechisms, Spellers Questions, Dictionaries, Primers, Reward Tickets, etc., etc. Also, Clarke's and Benson's Commentaries, and Hymn Books in sheep and roan.
Address:
R. J. HART, Agent,
sep1ft 112 Camp street, New Orleans.

J. H. MASSEY,
(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.,)
WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,
No. 100 Common Street,
Opposite City Hotel.
I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination, on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please any and all of my old friends and patrons, and also including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.
Very respectfully,
oc13 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE
DRY GOODS.
Also, a large and varied supply of
HOUSEKEEPING and
PLANTATION GOODS,
Constantly on hand, at
126 Canal Street,
sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

TULANE BUILDING,
New Orleans, La.
We are now in the receipt of a full assortment of
CLOTHING.
SHIRTS,
FURNISHING GOODS,
TRUNKS AND VALISES,
UMBRELLAS, ETC.,
Which we are selling at very reduced prices, at
Wholesale and Retail.
GARTHWAITE, LEWIS & STUART,
oc20 1m 31 & 33 Camp street.

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,
Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of
TINWARE,
Also,
COOKING AND HEATING STOVES
Of all kinds, for sale.
25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,
Corner Customhouse street,
oct20 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co. JOHN W. MADDEN,
P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,
General Mercantile Stationers,
JOB PRINTERS, AND
BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
No. 73 Camp Street.
We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.
We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 3m

D. H. HOLMES,
Direct Importation of
FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,
AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
No. 155 Canal Street,
sapr 6m NEW ORLEANS.

JAMES A. GRESHAM,
BOOKSELLER AND STATIONER
92 Camp Street, New Orleans.
School, Medical and Law Books, Church and Masonic Books.
Job Printing and Binding executed at lowest market prices. oc13 1m

PHILIP WERLEIN,
82..... Baronne Street,.....82
Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALEY,
Dealer in
PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,
GUITARS, VIOLINS,
And other musical instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper—in fact everything belonging to music trade.
The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. BURCHALDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.
Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.
Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.
Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.
Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.
Music neatly bound.
P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 6m

CENTENARY COLLEGE,
Jackson, Louisiana,
was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845. It is now under the joint patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.
The College exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.
Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.
Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month
The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.
The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.
The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.
The old students, alumni, and friends of the Institution, are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.
W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,
GREENSBORO, ALA.
The exercises of this institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught
TERMS:
Tuition fees per term.....$40 00
Contingent fee..... 5 00
Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month
aug4ft W M WIGHTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.
The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.
The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.
TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $40.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March,
Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.
Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.
Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D., New Orleans, La.
As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.
W. H. N. MAGRUDER.
Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

WOODVILLE FEMALE SEMINARY.
THE SECOND SESSION
Will begin October 3d 1866, and close July 10th, 1867. The system of instruction aims at the moral, mental, moral, and social culture. The discipline seeks to embrace whatever is helpful to this end, and to exclude what is hurtful to it. Obedience to rightful authority, is necessary to membership in the school.
TERMS PER SESSION.

Board, with fuel, lights and washing,	$300 00
Tuition in Preparatory course,	60 00
" Academic "	80 00
" Collegiate "	100 00
Music,	80 00

Other ornamentals as low as can be afforded.
The Collegiate course embraces Latin and French without any extra charge. These charges are made from the beginning of the half month in which the pupil is entered, to the end of the session, and must be paid, one half in advance, and the other on the 1st of March, nor will assignment of a pupil to room, seat or class, be made until this demand is met. A sum sufficient to get books, music, and medicines for slight sickness, must be deposited with the Principal. Each boarding pupil must be provided with a supply of plain, neat clothing suitable to the season, and also with towels, table napkins—all marked in the owner's name. When a pupil, not residing in the Seminary, or one not remaining in it during her illness, is sick more than twenty consecutive days, a deduction of one half the charges for the time will be made.
W. T. J. SULLIVAN, Principal.
Woodville, Miss., Aug. 8th, 1866. aug25 3m.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE
FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmor; Miss Jemima Constantine.
The Fall Session of this Institution will open on the 20th day of September next.
This Institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattresses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.
The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.
TERMS:
For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—

Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of Instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00
Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.
The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.
After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the Institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and bar own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.
For other information address
CHARLES B. STUART, President,
aug4ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M., President,	Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal.
Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Moxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.
Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.
Board, with English Tuition, at $85 per quarter.
The next session commences 10th September.
Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to
A. J. WRIGHT.
D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.
jy14 6m

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.
Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 163 Camp street, New Orleans.
When was it established? 1850.
Who is its General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev W H Bayliss.
Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.
What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.
What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.
What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans; then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.
What are the terms of membership?
The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.
The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.
The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.
The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.
The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.
Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not: to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S.: by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.
Our last thought is the heart-cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a25 1y.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
Is located at Brookhaven, Miss. It is under the immediate care of Rev. GEO. F. THOMPSON, and under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. The Board of Visitors consists of Rev. B. Jones, Rev. W. Millsaps, Hon. George H. Clinton, and Rev. William Price—all members of that Conference.
Its course of instruction is as complete as that of any other Institution for the education of females in the State, and is sufficient to accomplish all that can be desired by the friends of our Church.
The exercises of the first term of its next session will begin on the first Monday in September 1866, and ends Jan. 31, 1867.
For further particulars apply to the Rev. G. F Thompson, Brookhaven, Miss. a18ft

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp St t, corner Natchez—open day and evening.
This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, book-keepar, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.
For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address
f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This Institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address
f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

OPELOUSAS LAND AGENCY.—At the solicitation of numerous friends, the undersigned has consented to become an Agent for the sale and purchase of land in this healthy and much sought after country, above any high water overflow, and where the prospects for crops are so encouraging. He will take very great pleasure in shewing the land to any persons visiting this country, and in giving any other information that may be desired concerning it.
For reference I refer to the Editors of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.
JAMES H. HOUSTON,
Sept 4, 1866: Opelousas, La.

TURNER & COHEN,
Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,
NO. 57 CAMP STREET.
Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.
These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.
The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of this city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER
And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,
01 Camp street, New Orleans.
Cartes de Visite,
Halliotypes, Ambrotypes,
Pictures on Porcelain,
And every description of Pictures known to the Art.
All kinds of Photographic Materials at the lowest price for cash. sep1 1y

THOS. B. BODLEY & CO.,
No. 9 Perdido Street, New Orleans,
Dealers in all descriptions of
MILL AND PLANTATION MACHINERY,
AND AGRICULTURAL INSTRUMENTS.
Sole Agents in the Southwest for the celebrated Wood & Mann Steam Engines, 4 to 35 horse power; Coleman's Corn and Wheat Mills; Straub's Corn and Wheat Mills, Smut Machines, Bolting Cloth; Todd's Circular Saw Mills; Wool Carding Machines, Flowery Machines; Stafford Sulky Cultivators; Stanley Gang Plows; Plows, Wheelbarrows, Belting, Saws, etc.
Send for descriptive circulars and price lists.
oc13 6m

GEO.

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

An Unexpected Visitor.

"It must be, my child," said the poor widow, wiping away the tears which slowly trickled down her wasted face, "I am too sick to work, and you cannot, surely, see me and your little brother starve. Try and beg a few shillings and perhaps by the time that is gone I may be better. Go, Henry, my dear. I grieve to send you on such an errand, but it must be done."

The boy, a noble looking little fellow of about ten years, started up, and throwing his arms about his mother's neck, left the house without a word. He did not hear the groan of anguish that was uttered by his parent as the door closed behind him, and it was well he did not, for his little heart was ready to burst without it.

It was a by street in Philadelphia, and as he walked to and from on the sidewalk, he looked first at one person and then at another, as they passed by him, but no one seemed to look kindly upon him, and the longer he waited, the faster his courage dwindled away, and the more difficult it became to muster resolution to beg.

Everybody seemed in a hurry, and the poor boy was quite in despair, when at last he espied a gentleman who seemed to be very leisurely taking a morning walk. He was dressed in black, wore a three-cornered hat, and had a face that was as mild and benignant as an angel's. Somehow, when Henry looked at him, he felt all his fears vanish at once, and instantly approached him. His tears had been flowing so long, that his eyes were quite swollen and red, and his voice trembled; but that was with weakness, for he had not eaten for twenty-four hours. As Henry, with a low faltering voice, begged for a little charity, the gentleman stopped, and his kind heart melted with compassion as he looked into the fair countenance of the poor boy, and saw the deep blush which spread over his face, and listened to the modest, humble tones which accompanied his petition.

"You do not look like a boy that has been accustomed to beg his bread," said he, kindly laying his hand on the boy's shoulder, "what has driven you to this step?"

"Indeed," answered Henry, his tears beginning to flow afresh, "Indeed, I was not born in this condition. But the misfortunes of my father and the sickness of my mother have driven me to the necessity now."

"Who is your father?" inquired the gentleman, still more interested.

"My father was a rich merchant of this city, but he became bondsman for a friend, who soon failed, and he was entirely ruined. He could not live long after this loss, and in one month he died of grief, and his death was more dreadful than any of our trouble. My mother, my little brother and myself soon sank into the lowest depths of poverty. My mother has, until now, managed to support herself and my little brother by her labor, and I have earned what I could by shovelling snow, and other work that I could find to do. But night before last my mother was taken very sick, and has since become so much worse that," here the tears flowed faster than ever—"that I fear she will die; I cannot think of any one in the world to help her. I have not had any work for several weeks."

The tears, and the simple moving language of the poor boy touched a chord in the breast of the stranger that was accustomed to frequent vibrations.

"Where does your mother live, my boy?" said he, in a husky voice. "Is it far from here?"

"She lives in the last house in this street, sir," said Henry. "You can see it from here in the third block, on the left hand side."

"Have you sent for a physician?"

"No, sir," said the boy, sorrowfully shaking his head. "I had no money to pay either for a physician or medicine."

"Here," said the stranger, drawing some pieces of silver from his pocket, "here are three dollars; take them and run immediately for a physician."

Henry's eyes flashed with gratitude; he received the money with a stammering and almost inaudible voice, but with a look of the warmest gratitude, he vanished.

The benevolent stranger instantly sought the dwelling of the sick widow. He entered a little room in which he could see nothing but a few implements of female labor—a miserable table, an old bureau, and a little cot which stood in one corner, on which the invalid lay. She appeared weak and almost exhausted, and on the bed at her feet sat a little boy crying as if his heart would break.

Deeply moved at the sight, the stranger drew near the bedside of the invalid, and feigning to be a physician, inquired into the nature of her disease. The symptoms were explained in a few words, when the widow, with a deep sigh, added: "Oh, my sickness has a deeper cause, and one which is beyond the physician's art to cure. I am a mother. I see my children sinking deeper in want, which I have no means of relieving. My sickness is of the heart, and even death is dreadful to me, for it wakens the thought of the misery into which my children would be plunged, if"—

Her emotions checked her utterance, and the tears flowed unrestrained down her cheeks. But the pretended physician spoke so consolingly to her, and manifested such warm sympathy for her condition, that the heart of the woman throbbed with an unwonted pleasure.

"Do not despair," said the stranger; "think only of recovery and of preserving a life that is so precious to your children. Can I write a prescription here?"

The woman took a little prayer-book from the hands of a child who sat with her on the bed, and tearing out a blank leaf, "I have no other," she said; "perhaps this will do."

The stranger took a pencil from his pocket, and wrote a few lines upon the paper.

"This prescription," said he, "you will find of great service to you. If it is necessary, I will write you a second; I have great hopes of your recovery."

He laid the paper on the table and departed. Scarcely was he gone when the oldest son returned.

"Cheer up, my dear mother," going to her bedside and affectionately kissing her. "See what a kind, benevolent stranger has given us. It will make us rich for several days. It has enabled us to have a physician, and he will be here in a moment. Compose yourself now, dear mother, and take courage."

"Come nearer, my son," answered the mother, looking with pride and affection on her children. "God never forsakes the innocent and good. Oh may he watch over you in all your paths. A physician has just been here. He was a stranger, but he spoke to me with a compassion and kindness that was a balm to my heart. When he went away, he left that prescription on the table; see if you can read it."

Henry glanced at the paper and started back—he took it up; as he read it through again and again a cry of wonder and astonishment escaped him.

"What is it, my son?" exclaimed the poor widow, trembling with apprehension of she knew not what.

"Ah, read, mother! God has heard us."

The mother took the paper from the hands of her son, but no sooner had she fixed her eyes upon it than she exclaimed, "It is Washington," and fell back fainting on her pillow.

The writing was no obligation from Washington—for it was indeed he—by which the widow was to receive one hundred dollars from his own private property, to be doubled in case of necessity.

Meanwhile, the expected physician, made his appearance, and soon awoke the mother from her fainting fit. The joyful surprise, together with the good nurse with which the physician provided her, and a plenty of wholesome food, soon restored her to perfect health.

The influence of Washington, who visited them more than once, provided for the widow friends who furnished her with consistent employment; and her sons, when they arrived at a proper age, were placed in respectable situations, which rendered the remainder of their mother's life comfortable and happy.

Let the children who read this story remember, when they think of the great and good Washington, that he was not above entering the dwelling of poverty, and carrying joy and gladness to the hearts of its inmates. This is no fiction.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Since the date of our last publication the general market has disclosed very little activity. Sugar and Molasses have continued extremely quiet, and Western Produce has been attended with about the usual movement; while operations in our leading staple, in consequence of increased depression both at Liverpool and New York, has been on a limited scale, and prices have indicated further weakness.

COTTON.—After a limited business on Friday the market closed too unsettled to admit of regular quotations, but the sales effected were on the basis of 32½ to 33½c for Good Ordinary, and 34½ to 35½c for Low Middling. On Saturday the enquiry was of a restricted character throughout the day, and although holders were disposed to meet the demand at reduced rates, buyers evinced no desire to operate, in anticipation of further weakness predicated on the rapid decline in Gold and Exchange, as well as unfavorable news from Liverpool and New York, and hence the sales were confined to 850 bales, at easier rates. On Monday the previous dullness was continued, and as buyers and sellers entertained the same views, the day's business was quite moderate, amounting only to 1600 bales, on the basis of 32 to 33c for Good Ordinary, and 34 to 35c for Low Middling. Yesterday the market opened quiet, and as the movement was restricted to a few buyers, who had unexecuted orders to complete the sales were on a limited scale, summing up at the close only 1200 bales. Prices were exceedingly irregular, in fact too much so to admit of definite quotations which we accordingly omit. We may add, however, that the greater portion of the limited sales effected were on the basis of 33 to 34c for Low Middling, and 35 to— for Middling.

TOBACCO—There is a stock on sale of about 3500 hogsheads. The market is firm, and we continue to quote:

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to 4½	Currency.
Good do	5 to —	— to 5½
Common Leaf	6 to —	— to 7½
Fair	8 to —	— to 10
Good	11 to —	— to 12
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec's	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—The receipts of the new crop are yet small, but they are more than ample for the demand, which is only local and limited. There are some orders here to purchase for shipment, but buyers are holding back for more liberal receipts, a larger assortment and lower prices. Prices have fallen heavily since our last weekly review, showing a decline of fully 1 to 1½c per lb. Inferior 9 to 10, Common 11½ to 12½c, Fair 12½ to 13, Fully Fair 13½c, Prime 14 to 14½c, Yellow clarified 15c, White Clarified 15½c.

MOLASSES—The supplies, though small, have exceeded the demand, which is limited and only local, and prices have declined at least 10c per gallon. Buyers for shipment are holding off for larger supplies and until the present unsettled rates have subsided. The sales on Saturday and Monday embraced 360 barrels mostly at 60c per gallon for inferior, 70c for Common, 80 to 81c for Prime, and 85 to 90c for Choice, some lots commanding a little more. Yesterday the market was drooping, and previous prices were barely sustained. There was some demand for Good, but the lower descriptions were very much neglected.

FLOUR—The demand has been only moderate, there being no disposition either upon the part of buyers or sellers to operate at the present rates: $11 37½ to $11 62½ for Superfine, $12 for Single Extra, $13 25 for Double do, and $15 05 to $15 50 per bbl for Choice do. Yesterday business freshened up a little, and about 1400 barrels were sold at $10 50 for Low Fine, $11 50, $11 62½ and $11 75 for Superfine, and $12 25 to $13 75 for some of its merits.

PORK—There is little or no demand for round lots of Even-weight Mess, which is held at $31 50 per bbl, but we have heard of no sales. Retail parcels command $32 per bbl. The heavy decline in the West has caused a further reduction of $1 50 per bbl, and Heavy Mess was offered yesterday at $30 per bbl.

BACON—Prices exhibit a further falling off since last Friday, and we now quote Shoulders and Ribbed Sides, at 17c and Clear Sides at 18c per lb. There were sales of 250,000 lbs Clear Sides to the Government, on Monday, at 18c per lb. Yesterday the market closed at 16½c for Shoulders and Ribbed Sides and 17½c per lb for Clear Sides.

LARD—A fair demand has prevailed for Prime, both in tierce and kegs, which has enabled holders to realize full prices. We noticed a sale of the former on Saturday at 14½c, and on Monday at 15c per lb for Choice. The latter is still quoted at 17c per lb.

CORN—On Saturday and Monday the transactions were restricted to 8000 bags, at $1 30 per bushel for Mixed, Yellow and White. Yesterday owing to the rapid disposal of the late arrivals, holders were obtaining further advanced rates, and about 1200 sacks, in several lots, were sold at $1 35 per bushel.

OATS.—The stock is being greatly reduced, and prices in consequence are firm. The enquiry is only moderate, and the sales as far as reported did not exceed 1000 sacks at 60 and 62c per bushel.

BRAN—We have noticed a further decline of 5c per 100 lbs since the close of our last weekly review. The demand has been very light, and not over 100 sacks have changed hands for which the ruling rate was $1 40 per 100 lbs.

HAY—There is only a moderate stock on hand, which is held at very full prices. The sales on Monday comprised 300 bales Inferior St. Louis at $25, and 200 Prime do. at $29 per ton.

BALE ROPE—The market has become more settled, but we have learned of no sales of any magnitude, but quote firm at 14c per lb.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is greatly reduced, but the demand is very active at 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—The supply in first hands is nearly or quite exhausted, and dealers are supplying the demand at 34c for rolls, and 55½c per yard for bales.

GUNNY BAGS—We have not heard of any sales, but report 28½ to 28½c a piece as a fair quotation.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The market is overstocked with Western Butter, which is very dull at 20 to 35c per lb according to quality. Northern Butter is selling at 45 to 48c per lb. The inside figures for both are the rates for the larger lots. Cheese is in good supply and commands 16 to 18c for Western and Northern. We quote English Dairy at 23 to 25c per lb.

CORN MEAL—We noticed sales of some 300 bbls kiln-dried, White, in lots, at $5 per bbl. Retail lots command $5 25 to $5 50 per bbl.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. The stock of Louisiana is heavy, and with only a light demand, prices are lower. We now quote 10 to 12c per lb, according to quality.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY, Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, 1866.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to —
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	— to —
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 50
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$12 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	11 to 13
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50 to $3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100 to $150
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$5 to $12
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

MONETARY.

The movement in Gold has been to a fair extent, although rates have evidenced a heavy decline. Gold closed yesterday steady at 146:

D. DOLBEAR, COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,

(In the Spacious and Elegant Story Building,)

Is constantly in session under able Professors. It was founded in 1832, and is chartered by the State. Its former students may be found as Principals or Book-keepers in a large portion of the old houses of this city and over the Southern States. Ladies or gentlemen can attend the COMMERCIAL COURSE; or Book-keeping, Penmanship, Mathematics, English, French or Spanish, separately. A business education, that enables one to earn $1000, $2000, or $3,000 annually, is the best fortune parents can give their sons. A DIPLOMA from this College is a passport in all Commercial communities. Ladies and Gentlemen are invited to call. We have ample arrangements for 1000 students the present year. Liberal arrangements made for Clergymen or their sons and crippled soldiers. Catalogues sent to all who desire them.

RUFUS DOLBEAR, President.

nov 17 1y

HOMŒOPATHIC PHARMACY.

RICHARD ANGELL,

156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles

PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,

Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.

Chill-Drops, the best curative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c.; Burdotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College.)

Has established himself at No 109 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suite the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lebanon, Tenn — CHAS. S. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La

STEWART & BROTHER,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,

NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

o 27 1y

J. R. POWELL,

COTTON FACTOR,

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

190 Common Street,

W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & Jones. — NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Duck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. O. ELLIS. — W. C. CHAMBERLIN

ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jan20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,

48 Carondelet street, New Orleans,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,

General Commission Merchants,

And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,

Wholesale Grocer,

Nos. 8 and 10 Tchonpitonlas Street,

And 8 and 10 New Levee,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,

MUSIC PUBLISHER,

Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nunns," "Gulid" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c

oc27 3m 187 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. — D. M. HOLLINGSWORTH

R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,

CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,

Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,

f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. K. WALKER. — THOS. M'KNIGHT. — J. F. JOHNSON.

R. K. WALKER & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

an20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

DRY GOODS,

Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS

E PEET—R WILLIAMSON / F SIMMS—J BOWLISS

aug25 1y

LOEB, SIMON & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

86 Canal Street,

sep1 3m NEW ORLEANS.

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.

HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.

Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.

Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jan20-1y

G. & T. F. SEARING,

Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in

CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS

No. 29 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

oc13 1y NEW ORLEANS.

D. L. CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. — F. M. ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile

CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,

o13 No. 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

R. BLEAKLY & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 56, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,

Corner Poydras and Tchoupitoulas sts.,

NEW ORLEANS.

All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of MR. J. F. GIRAULT, (formerly with the house of Messrs Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO., Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale, Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

No. 190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. — JOS. HOY. — CHAS. HARDENBERGH

CARROLL, HOY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,

aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 1y

JOHN O. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. — BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.

PARHAM & BLUNT,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,

No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,

General Commission Merchants and

COTTON FACTORS,

57 Poydras street.

Cotton Office—102 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4ft

STEWART, GALBREATH & FIZER

Commission Merchants & Cotton Factors,

46 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Andrew Stewart, New Orleans.
Wm. R. Galbreath, } Memphis.
Wm. Stewart, }
John C. Fizer, }

sep1 3m

SAM'L. BARRETT. — CHAS. LESASSIER.

BARRETT & LESASSIER,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

118 CARONDELET STREET,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. — A. H. MAY

STEVENSON & MAY,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY, Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug 18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. — S. H. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.

HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. — H. R. ALSOBROOK.

WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. a18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

No. 32 Union Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE, W. C. H. DAMERON, — G. W. HUNTINGTON, H. M. PAYNE.

je23-1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. — SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.

TOM & SAM HENDERSON,

COTTON FACTORS

AND

General Commission Merchants,

190 COMMON STREET,

je9 1y New Orleans

J. C. M'ALLISTER — E. M'NAIR

M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,

WHOLESALE GROCERS,

No. 74 Common Street,

ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

GARY W. BUTT. — WM. FLASH. — THOS. T. A. LYON

BUTT, FLASH & LYON,

Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.

Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.

Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,

New Orleans.

J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. jnly7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. — WATTS, CRANE & CO. New York.

W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.

GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool. feh3-1y

W. A. BELL, — FRED N. OGDEN, — H. E. WITHERSPOON

WM. A. BELL & CO.,

General Commission Merchants,

And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,

41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30-1y

J. J. WARREN — T. W. CRAWFORD — F. B. PLEITAS

WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 6m

THOS. A. HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. — JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.

HAMILTON & DUNNICA,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

42 Union street, New Orleans.

sep22 1y

L. E. WALKER, Missouri. — C. B. FISHER, New Orleans.

WALKER & FISHER,

Commission & Forwarding Merchants

NO. 6 (GROUND FLOOR) CARONDELET ST., N. O.

Solicit consignments of all kinds of Manufactured Goods, and will make liberal advances on same.

GEO. W. WALKER, JUN., late of the firm of Harper, Walker & Co., will give his personal attention to the sale of all consignments to our House. sep22 2m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,

Wholesale Dealers in

Fancy Goods,

STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,

HOSIERY,

Furnishing Goods, etc.,

35 MAGAZINE STREET,

Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La

aug25 1y

CHAS. H. CHURCHILL. — PETER G. TAYLOR.

HARDWARE AND GUNS.

TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.

41 MAGAZINE STREET, and 20 BANK PLACE,

DIRECT IMPORTERS,

We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.

COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.

Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.

NAILS, HOLLOW WARE, SAWS, TIN WARE, AXES.

GUNS. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations. Orders from the country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St. James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832.

W. H. HENNING & CO.,

Grocers and Commission Merchants,

95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of.

CHAMPAGNE,

BRANDIES,

WHISKIES,

CLARET,

CORDIALS, ETC.

Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, suitable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the

Most reasonable Rates.

☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.

W. H. HENNING & CO,

a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and

PLANTATION CLOTHING,

No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET, (SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS

☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices. a18 1y

A. B. GRISWOLD. — W. M. GOODRICH

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

Corner of Canal and Royal streets,

[Late HYDE & GOODRICH],

Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!

MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,

Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.

The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

JAMES SYME,

Wholesale Druggist,

139 CANAL STREET, (Toure Buildings,) NEW ORLEANS.

Importer and Dealer in Fine DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES, Fancy Goods and Perfumery. Surgical Instruments, French, English, and American, of every variety

Also—Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags.

aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF, Wholesale Grocer,

COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,

48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st.,

aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,

HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD

Established, August, 1861

Destroyed, May, 1863.

Re-established, January, 1866.

SALES ROOMS,

G. E. CATE & CO.,

18 CAMP STREET, 18

Under the City Hotel.

We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of

LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF, AND KIP BROGANS,

Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, in Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.

We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.

A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.

C. E. CATE & CO.

feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W. O. SHEPARD. — A. L. ABBOTT. — ROBT. C. HUTCHINSON

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,

No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,

Nearly opposite Picayune Office,

CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,

PLATED WARE,

House Furnishing Goods,

AND KITCHEN WARE.

We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.

Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,

sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Established in 1837.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,

Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W. COFFIN & CO.,

102 & 104 East Second street,

Cincinnati, Ohio,

Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.

Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our improved Rotary Yoke.

All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.

Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

No. 37 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

sep22 3m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS

Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.

☞ Special attention given to orders.

Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,

Corner of St. Andrew Street,

oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,

Successors to D. Gencila,

112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,

Dealers in

CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,

Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,

PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.

Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,

77 Magazine Street,

oct6 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]

EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL

Hat Emporium,

No 62 CAMP STREET,

Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. n18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY.

DRAKE & MARKHAM,

Manufacturers of

Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Children's

BOOTS AND SHOES,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.

We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.

OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!

Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.

Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.

One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.

We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.

Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.

All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of

DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP STREET.

aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE

is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family. Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delays of your daily meals, may be saved by using

CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.

Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.

The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top

has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.

The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.

The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove, broils in the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from meat during the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.

The Hot Closet, in which meats and vegetables are kept warm for hours when there has been delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and desserts, and place them hot upon the table.

The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.

Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Tools, etc.

RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,

93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras, and 565 Magazine street, near Magazine Market.

sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN!

PRICE'S

Patent Texas Tonic,

PURELY VEGETABLE.

It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Malignant Fevers of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for

CHILLS AND FEVERS.

For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.

For sale at 59 Camp street, New Orleans.

THOS. K. PRICE, Vendor.

Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of

PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,

Or, Vegetable Medicine.

T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:

DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate trial and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefitted.

Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,

We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLIN, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, Orleans.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Office.
T. GREENFIELD, of house of Fellows & Co.
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. JOHNSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Book of Commerce.

New Orleans, June, 1863.

TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$1 00
6 " "	1 50
8 " "	2 00
12 " "	3 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.

All orders will meet with prompt attention.

sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,

PAPER WAREHOUSE,

No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and Charles streets, New Orleans.

Newspaper of the following sizes: 22 by 32, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 36 by 48.

Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams' Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Sons' Type. sp1

J. B. JENNINGS. — J. W. WICKS. — M. J. WICKS.

JENNINGS, WICKS & BRO.

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

aly 39 PERDIDO STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

O. HORTER, Late of Magee & Horter, New York. — T. K. PETERSON, Late of Goff & Peterson, Philadelphia. — E. C. FENNER, New York.

HORTER, PETERSON & FENNER,

(Sign of the Black Horse,)

MANUFACTURERS OF SADDLES HARNESS AND TRUNKS.

Importers of Saddlery & Coach Hardware

7 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

s22 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,

17 Chartres Street.

Lately received Carpeting of all kinds and qualities; Floor Oil Cloth of all qualities, which we cut to suit rooms; Curtain Materials, Lace Curtains, Cornices and Bands

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 45.
WHOLE NUMBER 602 611

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1866.

$3.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE
OFFICE—113 CAMP STREET.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

THE RIVER OF LIFE.

The allusion is to the first Paradise. This was a well watered garden in which grew the tree of life, where new created man in all the innocence of his unfallen nature enjoyed all the happiness which his varied faculties could desire from the various sources of pleasure so lavishly spread around him. There his every sense was pleasingly regaled, and every faculty delighted with its appropriate satisfaction. That Paradise was lost by the transgression of the first Adam—but has been restored by the second Adam—the Lord from heaven. This restored Paradise is here presented to our delighted contemplation, as the future and final home of the good. Through this paradise flows the "River of Life," full from the throne of God, through a long and verdant vale, shaded with the boughs, sweetened with the odors, and enriched with the fruit of the tree of life.

Inspired truth is often deeper and wider in its import than its mere vehicles of expression would seem to indicate. Material images are used and meant to body forth spiritual truths of vast and eternal significance. We apprehend that without violence to the word, we may understand its material images to express the deepest and noblest spiritual truths.

The river of the water of life proceeding out of the throne of God, would seem symbolically to teach that all life and being emanate from God; so in fact it must. God alone is uncreated, unoriginated. He was once the sole existence in the universe, all life was summed up and centred in Him. Life flowed out from God as its original source. How vast, and to our finite powers, how immeasurable the universe. Yet we have reason to believe that life has flowed in living waves over all; that near and far it has been replenished with life; that in every part of the immeasurable whole, animated and rational creatures exist, and rejoice in the bounty of that Providence which opens its hands and satisfies the desire of every living thing.

It is a river of water of life, which may well symbolize its inexhaustible and boundless fullness. How much life throughout the suns and systems of the stellar universe! How much among heaven's countless millions. How much on earth in its oceans, atmosphere, its plains and its forests. Each drop of water, each flower, and each leaf teems with life. Man has in the highest and most intimate sense received his life from God. It was man's glorious distinction to be created in the image of God. How high our origin. What dignity it imparts to man; it should inspire us with lofty aspirations after the glorious and the good, and elevate us above the low and mean.

This Divine birthright has been forfeited by sin, and man has died to holiness and to God; as a dead man has no power to raise himself to life again—so man, spiritually dead, could not raise himself to newness of life. If then man ever lives again, it must be by the aid of some power outside of, independent of, and superior to himself—for no creature can recreate and restore a fallen nature. Life then must flow, (if ever,) from its original source, but the river of life is "pure," and cannot stain its purity by mingling itself with any impurity. Here is a spiritually dead and depraved creature to be restored to life and purity. How can the pure and just source of life, in harmony with itself, effect this for a depraved and guilty creature, who merits nothing but death. The Infinite alone could solve the deepest and darkest of problems. It was solved. This river of water of life flows from the throne of God and the Lamb. Here was the atonement—and this sacrifice was the solution, and secured the flow of the pure river of water of life in its unsullied purity. The pardon of the guilty, and the salvation of the lost flows from God. No less a sacrifice could have atoned.

"Arabia sacrificed,
Or all her spicy mountains in a flame,"

Or the conflagration of a thousand solar systems Nothing less than the precious blood of God manifested in the flesh. This river of life could flow alone from the throne of God and the Lamb who was slain (in the purpose of God) from the foundation of the world. This is that fountain that was opened to the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and uncleanness.

This supply of life to a world dead in trespasses and sins, is most ample, "a river of water of life." Go stand upon the banks of the Amazon or the Mississippi, as they roll their majestic floods, thousands of miles from their far off sources, onwards towards the ocean, and thus gather some faint illustration of a river of water of life flowing into a world dead to God. So deep and vast was the flood to the unsealed eye of the Prophet, that he felt emboldened to cry to a famishing world": Ho every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters." Almost the last recorded words of Revelation are a universal invitation, "whosoever will, let him take of the water of life freely." This is that prophetic river Ezekiel saw, that from a little rill became a brook, and then a mighty river, deep and impassable, whose far off banks were shaded by unfading trees, whose fruit was food, and whose leaves were for the healing of the nations. This is the river, "the streams whereof make glad the city, the holy place of the tabernacle of the most high."

This life which flows from the throne of God flows as a river, which seems to indicate not only its abundance, but its continuous and ever increasing flow. Rivers do not run dry, or altogether freeze. The river of life, that bears life in its current, and carries life wherever its waters flow, shall roll on unchecked, or if impeded, shall pause only to gather greater force and volume, until it swells above all obstacles, and pours its resistless flood over every land, until every continent, isle, and desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose, and the parched ground become a pool of living water.

The life of God in the soul is not an intermitting life, it flows unceasing, and as rivers deepen and expand, so the life of God in the soul of man expands, and grows more and more. Every temper and purpose becomes more and yet more consecrated to God. The affections become increasingly spiritualized and elevated, and each grace more vigorous and active, more ardent love, stronger faith, and brighter hope.

It is the distinguishing excellence of the life that flows from God, that it is not exhausted or worn like earthly things by the lapse of ages. Unfading, everlasting and eternal, are the inspired terms to designate its nature and perpetuity. It is a river of life flowing from the throne of Him who only hath immortality, who only hath it in the inherent and glorious perfection of his nature. Our present spiritual life is but the upwelling and outbursting of a stream whose flow is for ceaseless ages.

The character of our future life, is indicated by the character of the stream. "A pure river of water," a life of unsullied and everlasting purity. The whole nature in harmony with God. No angry passions rise, no impure desire for forbidden joys, no temptation, and no sin.

This river is not only pure, but clear as crystal, which seems to symbolize the undimmed brightness of the vision of the future. Here and now, we are surrounded by mysteries deep and dark that baffle our utmost skill—mysteries in nature, which the line of science cannot fathom; but then and there shall be clear, the long night of ignorance shall be dispelled, for "there shall be no night there." Mysteries in providence like winter clouds hang dark about us, but there we shall see as we are seen, and know as we are known. We shall then see that many blessings which are now deeply disguised in sore afflictions, were messengers sent to wean us from earth, and lift our hearts to heaven. These happy discoveries shall kindle to a more ardent rapture our praises and our love.

"Clear as crystal," may intimate the unalloyed enjoyment of the life to come. Earthly joys are ever moved by painful memories, or fearful apprehensions. But in heaven no sad memory, or disturbing fear shall come to mar our fullness of joy. The river of life flows ever on, shaded on either shore by life-eternal trees, whose generous fruits on boughs immortal grow. As inspired vision shall look down the vista of endless ages, each redeemed immortal shall feel and exclaim with triumph, "Henceforth there is a crown laid up for me."

Thought repress thy weak endeavour:
Here must reason prostrate fall,
O the ineffable forever,
And the eternal ALL IS ALL.

W.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

YAZOO DISTRICT, MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

MR EDITOR: I wrote you a few lines correcting an error in my communication of August 14, and at another time gave you an account of an interesting meeting held in Yazoo county. Your types made me say that there were thirty five conversions at Greenwood, when they ought to have said, at Greenwood ten, and at Springfield thirty-five. My fourth round of Quarterly meetings has been a continued series of protracted meetings, and I am glad to say of gracious revivals. Though to me it has been a time of much hard work, it has truly been a delightful season. And when both mind and body have become fatigued, there being such a demand for exertion and persevering effort, lest souls be lost, I have worked on until I became rested. With gratitude to the giver of all good, I record my unfeigned thanks for almost uninterrupted good health and spiritual prosperity. The preachers on most of the circuits have labored indefatigably, and our local brethren have come up to the help of those in charge with a commendable zeal and self-sacrificing devotion to the cause of God.

Since my last report there have been on Carrollton circuit, fourteen conversions. Bro. A. J. Smith, the preacher in charge, is devoted to his work. It would have afforded me pleasure, could I have attended his meeting at Eden. He was aided by Judge Bullard of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

Holmes Circuit has been visited with the gracious outpouring of the Spirit. At the Quarterly meeting held at Wesley Chapel we had the pleasure of the presence and Ministerial labors of Bishop Paine. He preached three sermons to the delight and edification of large audiences, many of whom had come a considerable distance to see a "live Bishop." He ordained Joseph R. Booth, and Henry T. Belard, to the office of Deacon, and Stephen Johnson to that of Elder. I am gratified that the action of General Conference is thrusting the Bishops more fully out into the work. It will do an immense amount of good to the Church, and eternity alone can develop the great moral results. The meeting was continued for about two weeks, and then closed as I understand, for the want of ministerial aid. Forty-two souls were converted. The power of God was manifested in a wonderful manner, sinners were converted and the church rejoiced. I was compelled to leave on Friday of the first week, but with much reluctance. Bro. T. C. Parish, the preacher in charge, has not been idle, and the results of his labors prove that God will reward the efforts of a faithful pastor.

My Quarterly Meeting for Lexington circuit was held at Oregon, a Baptist Church, (we not having a suitable house for worship,) which continued eight days, and resulted in twenty-five conversions. Great harmony exists in this community between the Methodist and Baptist churches. They worship not only in the same house, but as the same congregation. Nothing occurred during the meeting to disturb this fraternal feeling; but all worked for the conversion of sinners. Bro. W. P. Barton, the preacher in charge, has recently had a severe attack of bronchatis which will interfere with his very acceptable pulpit ministrations for some months, if not permanently.

The fourth Quarterly meeting for Black Hawk Circuit was held at Black Hawk. It was protracted for three weeks, and resulted in about forty conversions, and fifty-five or more accessions. Other duties called me away after the first week, and it was with very great reluctance that I yielded to the call of duty to attend a Quarterly Meeting at another point. It was delightful to be there. It was refreshing to see the aged veterans of the cross, those who had for years borne the heat of spiritual conflict; the young man and maiden, and the new-born soul, all rejoicing in the love of God and feeding on angels' food. Thirteen young men on one occasion united with the Church, and it is confidently hoped that some of them may be called to the work of the ministry. Bro. J. D. Newsom, with the local brethren, held a meeting at Smith's school house, previously, which resulted in twenty-five conversions. He has had a gracious revival on his work, and it has been and is now one of the best circuits in the Conference. The reason is very easily perceived, when I inform you that this circuit is favored with two of the best stewards within the bounds of the Conference. One of them especially makes the stewardship his study, and devotes his energies to the work. Bro. Newsom, though at times in feeble health, has not neglected the important and responsible duties of his calling.

Bro. J. I. E. Byrd, a pioneer preacher, and who has been a member of the Mississippi Conference from its organization, though now superannuated, has labored successfully at the various meetings within his reach. Like the veteran soldier of a thousand battles, he delights to draw his trusty blade which he has wielded for more than half a century, to hear the clash of arms in the spiritual conflict, and to mingle in the contest. When his last battle is fought and victory won, may his sun set without a cloud, and his brow be wreathed with glory.

Richland and Ebenezer, on the Richland Circuit, have had some refreshing showers of grace, and the meetings held resulted in fifteen conversions. Bro. G. D. Wade has steadily labored for the welfare of his charge, and the prosperity of Christ's kingdom.

A meeting was held at Prospect, a new appointment on Yazoo Circuit, by Bro. H Williamson, assisted by Bro. W. P. Lewis, of Yazoo city station, and local brethren. It was an excellent meeting, at which there were twenty-five conversions, and the appointment will be an important one. Bro. Williamson has been an itinerant for many years, and knows the toils and hardships of such a warfare, as well as the pleasures of preaching the gospel of Christ. Punctual in meeting his appointments, his clarion voice has often rang from the ramparts of Zion, and his gospel trumpet has not given uncertain sounds.

Mount Olivet Circuit has been visited also by the saving influences of divine grace. I held a meeting at Fletcher Chapel, in August, which lasted nine days, and we had a refreshing season. There were twenty-eight conversions. Bro. T. W. Alexander, the preacher in charge, was taken sick on the second day, and was compelled to return home. I was assisted by Bros. L. D. Langford and J. P. Briggs. We have just closed a meeting at Mechanicsburg of nine days, at which there were twenty conversions. At a meeting held at Dover, by Bros. Alexander, Langford and Briggs, there were three conversions. Bro. Alexander has been an itinerant for many years, and has spent the most of his days of labor and toil, in the Holston Conference, enjoying the honor of the presiding eldership a number of years. His health and the circumstances surrounding him, have been unpropitious to the arduous duties of a circuit, and I regret that he is about to lay aside his itinerant armor.

A meeting has been held in Yazoo city, the preacher in charge being assisted by Bro. W. F. Camp, of Vicksburg; but with what results I have not learned. There may have been other conversions of which I have not been informed. The number of accessions to the Church has been about equal to the number of conversions, one hundred and nine. The year has been one of general good health to me, and one of spiritual prosperity to the Church within the bounds of the District. I have one more Quarterly Meeting to hold, and then I am off for Annual Conference.

J. M. PUGH.

Sharon, Miss., Nov. 15th, 1866.

Alabama Conference of the M. P. Church.

The thirty eighth annual Conference of the Ala. District of the Methodist Protestant Church closed its session at Antauguville, on Saturday, the 3d instant.

The attendance was good, and the proceedings throughout were characterized by the utmost harmony and good feeling.

Rev. Bishop Andrew, of the M. E. Church, South, visited the Conference during its session, and addressed it upon the interest of Methodism in this portion of the country—expressing the hope that the day was not distant when the two branches of the great Methodist family at the South would become one united and prosperous organization.

Rev. A. J. Briggs, Fraternal Messenger from the Montgomery Conference of the M. E. Church, South, also addressed the Conference, communicating in very appropriate and cordial terms the christian affection and regard of the body he represented.

A resolution was passed, reciprocating the kindly sentiments thus expressed, and appointed Rev. Jno. Axford, and Dr. C M Howard, Fraternal Messengers to the next Annual Session of the Montgomery Conference of the M E Church, South.

Communication from several Quarterly Conferences of this district in reference to a union of the Methodist Protestant Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church South, respectfully report — that they have given to the subject that grave and deliberate consideration which its vital importance demanded at their hands, nor did they enter upon their deliberations till they had first invoked the guidance of the Divine Spirit.

Cherishing as we do an honest and ardent attachment for our destinctive principles as a religious denomination, and holding in sacred veneration the memory of the Fathers of the Church, we would be unwilling under any circumstances to compromise those principles, or cast contempt upon those honored names. At the same time we have always held ourselves prepared to welcome the opportunity of healing the breach between ourselves and the mother Church whenever it could be done consistently with our conscientious convictions, and the respect due to those who laid the foundation of our ecclesiastical edifice. We believe that under the providence and blessing of God that period has well nigh come, and that the unhappy differences that have so long divided the two Churches are about to be buried in a spirit of mutual concession, and in a union based upon principles honorable to both.

Regarding Lay Representation as the most essential feature of difference between us, we were greatly gratified at the action of the late General Conference of the M E Church, South, held at New Orleans in April last, proposing the introduction of the lay element into both the General and Annual Conferences of said church. And inasmuch as we have been invited to meet with our M E brethren on the basis of this proposed change, we feel that consistency and christian obligation will not allow us to decline this offer.

We therefore, in the fear of God, in the love of the brotherhood, and with an eye to the glory of our common Lord and master, respectfully recommend—that the delegates that may be elected by this conference to the General Convention of the church, to be held in Montgomery in May 1867, be instructed to advocate, and vote for, the union of the two Churches, provided the action of the General Conference at New Orleans be endorsed by a sufficient majority of all the Annual Conferences of the M E Church, South, to make that action an organic law of Church.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

SAMUEL K COX,
DAVID R SMEDLEY,
ISAAC SPANGLER,
BENAJAH S BIBB,
CHARLES M HOWARD,
PEYTON T GRAVES.
Committee.

The report was adopted by a very large majority, and the Conference then went into an election of delegates to the General Convention.—Whereupon the following were elected:

Ministerial.—D B Smedley, S K Cox, L L Hill, J C Davis, F L B Shaver. Alternates—I Spangler, D J Sumpley, Jno. Axlord, F W Postell, H H McFaden.

Lay Delegates—B S Bibb, P T Graves, Dr. C M Howard, C E Crenshaw, and J B Clayton.—Alternates.—D N Smith, Dr. Reeves, E Harrison, T F Jenkins, R Russell.

From the N Y Observer.

THE GREAT SWISS ORGAN.

It is at Freyburg, on the route from Lausanne to Berne. It has been long celebrated as one of the best instruments in the world, and there is probably but one superior to it. Yet the performances upon it are so unequal, varying with the skill or the humor of the organist, that very different reports are made of it by parties hearing it at different times. Perhaps it was my usual good fortune to hear it under circumstances the most favorable. Certainly the music was the most effective of any that I have ever heard, more so than any I expect to hear till the "nobler, sweeter strains" of the divine melodies break on the spirit's ear among the harmonies of heaven.

The cathedral dates back to 1285. Over the front entrance is a queer old bas relief, representing the last judgment. The Father, God himself, done in stone, sits aloft with angels blowing trumpets around him. At his feet, on the right, the righteous are led off in triumph to their places in glory, and on the left a devil is weighing souls in a pair of scales; another devil, with the head of a pig, is carrying a lot of poor sinners in a basket on his back, and is about to cast them into a great kettle where others are boiling, while little imps are blowing the fires with bellows, and hell itself, represented by the jaws of a monster, yawns near, and Satan sits on his throne above. We studied this strange device, until the evening shades were too dense to permit us to see it, and then entered the portals. Darkness and silence reigned within. Two candles on the columns near the altar gave all the "dim religious light" that only served to deepen the gloomy grandeur of the venerable pile. A few persons had already been admitted, and conversing in whispers, invisible and scarcely audible in the distance. We sat as far away from the organ as we could, and where it was probable it could be heard to the best advantage. As the hour approached (it is played from half-past nine every evening) the strangers who pause here on their travels entered in little groups, and then a large crowd of gentlemen, who as I learned the next day, were the teachers, professors, and other literary men of Switzerland, came in together filling every available place. They were in Freyburg in convention, and by invitation were now present to enjoy the musical feast. It may be that owing to this unusual attendance of the learned and cultivated men of the country, we had the highest possible development of the powers of the instrument and the ability of the organist.

Something in the circumstances doubtless added to the dramatic effect of the exhibition. The cathedral seemed to be full of people, but a few only could be seen, and a sense of solemnity, devotion, awe, began to steal upon me as I sat waiting for the first notes of the organ, which was lighted only by a single candle and that unseen, so that the instrument seemed among the stars. Some of its pipes are thirty-two feet long. They are 7,800 in number, with sixty-four stops. As I looked up expectant, I thought, "O, if it had only a soul!" And there, just then, a breath of melody, so soft, so sweet, so soul-like came along on the still air, it might have been the first notes of the advent song of peace that fell like this, by night, over Bethlehem. This gentle stream of music rose and swelled into a river of melody, that soon burst its banks and became a rushing torrent of sound, mighty in its power, almost awful in its expression. This was but the prelude. Then came in successive anthems, songs, and passages of master-pieces of the great composers, some of them familiar, all of them exquisite in their effect, to illustrate the wondrous faculties of this uninspired, untenanted mechanism, that was yet able to represent with such fidelity, the deep, and lofty, the softest and strongest emotions of the soul.

Now the imitation of the human voice was so perfect it required an effort of the mind to believe that a living being was not rendering those plaintive strains, in some distant chamber of this vast hall; and now the ring of bells broke musically on the ear, and the far away toll of some solemn church bell added its voice to the harmony; the Alpine horn, flute, and other instruments were so distinctly given, it was hard to comprehend the truth that in the midst of one grand performance, on a single instrument, so many and so distinct and perfect imitations of others could be introduced. Perhaps nothing was more beautiful than the tinkling of water dropping into a fountain, yet when one effect had been enjoyed, as if the most complete, another soon succeeded, so delicate and so touching, that it seemed as if the last were more lovely than all which had been heard before.

It was quite impossible to speak of the closing performance without being suspected, by those who have not heard it, of exaggeration. And, indeed, so differently are we constituted that some will be charmed with a picture or statue, ravished with eloquence of oratory or music, and delighted with a landscape or waterfall, while others exposed to the same influences, are as unmoved as the marble or the instrument. I know that I am not one of them, thanks to Him who made us to differ, and I know, too, that they who sat near me, when the last grand movement of this organ was made, are not of them. For when the strong wind began to shake the walls of the old cathedral, the rain to pour in torrents on the roof, the thunder rolling in terrific majesty,

"Which as the footsteps of the dreadful God, Marching upon the storm in vengeance seemed,"

we bowed our heads, with such a sense of awe and adoration, as could scarcely have been increased, if the war of elements had indeed been bursting on us, and the voice of the Almighty had suddenly filled his temple.

It will be set down as a witness of weakness, and therefore I will not describe the effect of this music: how it soothed, subdued and melted the heart when its tenderest utterances fell like balm on a wounded spirit; how it carried me away to other days, and far away lands, and lifted me again to thoughts of heaven and the harmonies of the saints; and so pure, so holy were the strains and the associations they brought with them, I wept—there, I have unwittingly confessed it—I wept that I had ever lived but in the hallowed atmosphere of the Good, the Unseen and Infinite! Nor was this a transient sentiment, fading when the hour of such strange teaching was ended, and the gothic temple ceased to tremble with these majestic tones. It has followed me for days and nights among these stupendous mountain fastnesses, over ice-clad plains, where "motionless torrents, silent cataracts," proclaim the power of Him who "clothes them with rainbows" only less lustrous than the one around His throne, I hear the voice of God everywhere, in this sublime and awful land. But if these silent works of His are eloquent to speak of His praise, how much more is such a voice as that organ, the great achievement of a mind and hand that God made, endowed, and guided in their work. I have written, in years past, against the idea of some philosophers that words are not essential to a train of thought; we think in words, always and only in words. But now I know that we need no words to make us feel, and words are not made that are capable of expressing what we feel. As we sat in silence beneath the majestic harmonies of this surpassing instrument, even so it were better that I had made no attempt to portray with pen, what is not in the compass of words to utter. It is to be heard to be felt and enjoyed. Writing these last words, I look up and before me is the Jungfrau, clothed in white raiment, from crown to foot. The sky kisses her cold brow. As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so are the everlasting hills about her now and ever. But no words can give to you, beyond the sea, the faintest conception of what one feels who exposes his soul to these visions of grandeur and beauty, and rejoices as he thinks "My Father made them all." IRENAEUS.

British Honduras.

We have just met John M. Bateman, who lately returned from British Honduras. He gives a very good account of the country, and from his statements we would judge comfortable homes might be established in portions of the regions of country included in and below British Honduras, extending down the coast to St. Thomas and beyond.

Mr. Bateman says that the uniform price of labor for field hands is six dollars per month, but that the laborers have yet to learn how to plough, hoe, and cultivate with American implements of husbandry. Everything connected with husbandry is rude and half-civilized. The laborers have the strength and ability to make good farmers, and the laws of the country compel them to do their duty to their employers. Good house servants can be obtained by having children bound till they are twenty-one years old, and training them from childhood in household duties.

The land in places is extremely rich, and the fertility extends to the depth of many feet. Lands can be purchased cheap, many choice tracts at two bits an acre. Fine tracts can be secured large enough for hundreds of families to settle in colonies. There is plenty of timber for sugar making. Baggasse may boil half of the crop. Since they have no frosts there cane may become very ripe before grinding, and it makes better fuel than when ground earlier in the season. Cane rattoons for eight or more years, and the land produces much more sugar per acre than the sugar lands of Louisiana.

The country produces numerous kinds of fruits, both wild and cultivated, many of them very delicious. The banana ripens the year round. Pine apples, oranges, lemons, cocoa nuts, yams, and numerous other fruits are abundant.

The health of most portions of the country is excellent. There are many old people in the country, the diseases are of a mild character, and yield easily to medicines. There is usually but one physician to several thousands of inhabitants.

The country is generally fine for cattle, horses, mules, hogs, and all domestic animals. Good mules may be bought for fifteen dollars, and fat hogs weighing two or three hundred for $4 or $5 per head.

The laws of the country are usually very good, and are well enforced. Crime is not common, and life is as secure there as in Louisiana.

The little nuisances and pests sometimes complained of in tropical climates, Mr. Bateman thinks are scarce in the portions of country with which he became acquainted. He saw but one snake in the country, and thinks they are not troublesome. Chiggres, fleas, bugs, ticks, ants, centipedes, tarantulas, musquitos, flies, he heard no complaint of. Musquitos, flies, &c., are common in nearly all low latitudes, but a moderate number of them in certain seasons of the year are no serious drawback in any country.

The landholders and capitalists are anxious to have citizens from Louisiana settle in the country. They desire to see plantations opened and cultivated in a civilized manner. There is no doubt that fifty or a hundred sugar planters from this State, scattered over that country would add millions to the value of property now almost worthless, develope the rich resources of their generous soil, and lay the foundation for great progress and prosperity in the country in future years.—Planter's Banner.

The Famine in India.

A Calcutta letter of the 2d ultimo in relation to the famine raging in parts of Bengal, speaks of the increasing misery of the population. No adequate system of relief has yet been organized, though the local officers and foreign missionaries spare neither toil nor money in attempting to stem the tide of suffering.

In Calcutta, where rice is still 10s. for 80 lbs., or 50 per cent. dearer than in ordinary times, thousands of the starving, who are flocking in from all quarters, are fed partly by the municipal authorities, chiefly by the native residents. For once Bengal apathy and selfishness has given way to claims of benevolence. But with all this, absolutely reliable facts are unattainable, for there is no one, except the Board of Reference, who can collect them, and the Board, very properly, is reluctant to press its overworked subordinates in the afflicted districts for elaborate returns. A special commissioner, with a large staff of relieving officers, native doctors, and public works' overseers, is especially wanted for Orissa, to which a few doctors and overseers have only now been sent. These facts, obtained from the latest official sources, you may rely on as considerably within the truth. In the fifteen affected districts, but chiefly in the three districts of Orissa and the adjoining country of Midnapore, 75,000 are daily fed by public charity. If you double that for the numbers fed privately, and chiefly by Hindoos, you will be still within the truth. Out of Orissa and Midnapore half of the destitute are professional beggars; in these provinces nearly all are the laboring poor and the lower class of agriculturists. The largest number of deaths from starvation in Orissa and Midnapore reported in one week is 3,500, and in the Santhal country, 12. The average number of deaths reported to the authorities during the past six weeks may be, and is, by officials, taken as not less than 2,500 a week. Add to these the deaths witnessed by no human eye in the far interior where aid has never penetrated, and you will have by no means an exaggerated idea of the state of Orissa and Midnapore. I will not harrow the feelings of your readers by the details of cases which appear in the daily papers here, reported by eye-witnesses, of the jackals eating the corpse of one wretch while they wait for his companion who is dying, or of the child taken from the breast of its mother who has been dead two days. We know still less of the state of Ganjam, the Madras district immediately to the south of Orissa.

A Positive Witness.

It is of Warren, the author of "Ten Thousand a Year," that this sharp practice in the examination of a man accused of swearing falsely in a will case is related. It shows great dramatic power unconsciously exhibited in his daily business.

The prisoner being arraigned, and the formalities gone through with, the prosecutor, placing his thumb over the seal, held up the will, and demanded of the prisoner if he had seen the testator sign that instrument, to which he promptly answered he had.

"And did you sign it at his request as subscribing witness?"

"I did."

"Was it sealed with red or black wax?"

"With red wax."

"Did you see him seal it with red wax?"

"I did."

"Where was the testator when he signed and sealed this will?"

"In his bed."

"Pray how long a piece of wax did he use?"

"About three or four inches long."

"Who gave the testator this piece of wax?"

"I did."

"Where did you get it?"

"From the drawer of his desk."

"How did he light that piece of wax?"

"With a candle."

"Where did that piece of candle come from?"

"I got it in the cupboard in his room."

"How long was that piece of candle?"

"Perhaps four or five inches long."

"Who lit that piece of candle?"

"I lit it."

"What with?"

"With a match."

"Where did you get that match?"

"On the mantle-shelf in the room."

Here Warren paused, and fixing his large, deep blue eyes on the prisoner, he held the will up above his head, his thumb still resting on the seal, and said, in a solemn and measured tone:

"Now, sir, upon your solemn oath, you saw the testator sign that will: he signed it in his bed; at his request you signed it, as a subscribing witness; you saw him seal it; a piece of one, two, three, or four inches long; he lit that wax with a piece of candle which you procured for him from a cupboard; you lit that candle by a match which you found on the mantle-shelf.

"I did."

"Once more, sir, upon your solemn oath, you did?"

"I did."

"My Lord—it's a wafer!"

A young Irish girl, who was rendering testimony against an individual in a court of law, said: "I am sure he never made his mother smile." There is a comprehensiveness and intensity of expression in this simple sentence to which we have scarcely, if ever, seen a parallel. Such a history of hardheartedness and depravity was surely never compressed into nine words before! It was true eloquence.

The Short Sermon mania Professionally Endorsed.

The Abbe' Mullois, chaplain to the French Emperer, in a volume on popular sacred eloquence; as cited in the North British Review, gives the following direction to preachers:

When about to compose your sermon, first study your topic, seizing the salient points of the truth you are going to expound, and then write. But do not stop there—begin afresh. Supposing you have written four pages, reduce them to two, retaining all the thoughts and vigorous ideas of your first draft. On ascending the pulpit, place a watch by your side, and begin thus: 'On Sunday last we said so and so, let us proceed.' Then enter at once upon your subject, cutting it short when the appointed time arrives. People will say that you do not preach long enough, that you tantalize your audience, and rob them of a real pleasure by being so brief. Heed them not, but remain inflexible, for such persons are unconsciously real enemies to religion. Adhere more strictly than ever to your prescribed rule; then rest assured that your discourses will be talked of; every one will be anxious to witness a seven minutes' sermon; the poorer class will come, and the rich will follow. Faith will bring the one, novelty will attract the other, and thus the Divine Word will have free course and be glorified.

What a Spider eats per Diem.

In order to test what a spider could do in the way of eating, we arose about daybreak one morning to supply his fine web with a fly. At first, however, the spider did not come from his retreat, so we peeped among the leaves and there discovered that an earwig had been caught, and was now being feasted on. The spider left the earwig, rolled up the fly, and at once returned to his "first course." This was at 5:30 A. M. in September. At 7 A. M. the earwig had been demolished, and the spider, after resting a while, and probably enjoying a nap, came down for this fly, which he had finished at 9 A M. A little after 9 we supplied him with a daddy-long legs, which was eaten by noon. At 1 o'clock a blowfly was greedily seized, and then immediately, with an appetite apparently no worse for his previous indulgence, he commenced on the blowfly. During the day, and towards the evening, a great many small green flies, or what are popularly termed midges, had been caught in the web; of these we counted 120 all dead, and fast prisoners in the spider's net. Soon after dark, provided with a lantern, we went to examine whether the spider was suffering from indigestion, or in any other way, from his previous meals; instead, however, of being thus affected, he was employed in rolling up together the various little green midges, which he then took to his retreat and ate. This process be repeated, carrying up the lots in little detachments, until the web was eaten, for the web and its contents were bundled up together. A slight rest of about an hour was followed by the most industrious web-making process, and before daybreak another web was ready to be used for the same way. Taking the relative size of the spider and of the creatures it ate, and applying this to a man, it would be somewhat as follows: At daybreak a small alligator was eaten; at 7 A M a lamb; at 9 A M a young camelopard; at 1 o'clock a sheep, and during the night 130 larks. This, we believe, would be a very fair allowance for a man during twenty-four hours, and could we find one gifted with such digestion, we can readily comprehend how he might spin five miles of web without killing himself, provided he possessed the necessary machinery.—Chamber's Journal.

PRESENCE OF MIND.—Foreign papers relate the following incident of the great crush in Paris, at the Pont-de-la Concorde, on the evening of the Fete Napoleon: "One Charles Shuiller, formerly of the Cent-Garde, a man of remarkable muscular power, and who has saved several persons from drowning, was in company with his wife on the bridge when the crowd was forming into a dense and compact mass. Seeing his wife on the point of fainting from the pressure, and fearing that she would be crushed to death, he threw her over the bridge into the Seine; then, plunging into the river immediately afterwards, he seized the woman, and in the course of a couple of minutes brought her safely to the bank, without having suffered any material injury."

PEACE — Christian peace, the peace which Christ gives, the peace which He sheds abroad in the heart, is it aught else than such a glorified harmony—the expelling from man's life of all that was causing disturbance there, all that was hindering him from chiming in with the music of heaven, all that would have made him a jarring and dissonante note, left out from the great dance and minstrelsy of the spheres, in which now shall mingle for ever the consenting songs of redeemed men and elect angels.—French.

PRAYER.—It is a communion with God. Oh! brethren, prayer is not an apostrophe to woods and wilds and waters. It is not a moan cast forth into the viewless winds, nor a bootless behest expended on a passing cloud. It is not a plaintive cry directed to an empty echo, that can send back nothing but another cry. Prayer is a living heart that speaks in a living ear, the ear of the living God.—Dr. Hamilton.

METHODISM IN GREAT BRITAIN.—The London Patriot says that Wesleyan Methodism has come to a stand still in Great Britain. In Staffordshire and all the Southern districts it has been steadily losing ground for several years. In the London circuits during the last year there was an increase of nearly six hundred members; but in so many of the others was there a decrease, that the total gains shown on the numerical returns during the year just closed is scarcely more than a single hundred. Complaints are made of a general laxity of discipline, of the abandonment of love feasts, and slacker attendance at the class-meeting.

THE FAMILY.—The family circle is God's blessed ordinance, and is the sweetest, the happiest, and the most hallowed spot on earth. It is the nursery of affection, of friendship, and of virtue.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 112 Camp st, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronising Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. M. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1866.

MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE.

The Montgomory Conference will be held at Jacksonville, Ala., Dec. 5th, 1866.

Ministers who come by public conveyance will report at the Hotel Those who come by private conveyance will report at E. L. Woodward's store, north-west corner of public square.

W. R. Kirk.

To the Preachers of the Montgomery Conference.

The Alabama and Tennessee Rivers R. Road, will convey the preachers to and from Conference, for half fare.

Ample stage room will be in readiness at Blue Mountain, on Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday nights. And by special arrangement the preachers will be conveyed to Jacksonville, for one dollar. Let all come, plenty of room, and a hearty welcome. Those coming by stage will be met at the hotel, and directed to their homes.

L. M. Wilson.

Mississippi Conference.

By the subjoined dispatch which we have just received, it is determined that the Mississippi Annual Conference will meet at Brookhaven, Nov. the 28th:

"It seems the preachers of Mississippi Conference have resolved to convene at Brookhaven. Hope to meet them."

R. Paine,

J. J. Clarke, Sec'y.

Change of Name and Lay Delegation.

We compile from our exchanges the following vote on these subjects, and will continue to add from time to time until all the Conferences are heard from.

Conferences.	Change of Name. For	Change of Name. Against	Lay Delegation. For	Lay Delegation. Against
Missouri	28	30	40	19
St. Louis	26	12	19	19
Arkansas	24	19	16	29
Louisville	35	31	57	10
Kentucky	45	7	47	4
W. Virginia	15	7	21	1
Holston	51	2	47	7
N. W. Texas	28	00	26	00
Tennessee	55	46	—	—

War Poetry of the South. Edited by William Gilmore Simms, LL.D. New York: Richardson & Co., 540 Broadway. 1866.

This volume is splendidly bound—482 pp., 12mo. The accomplished Editor has gathered here the choicest effusions of Southern poets, ponred forth under the quickening inspiration of patriotic ardor and devotion. The volume is inscribed to "The Women of the South."

It contains much genuine poetry, and nearly every poem has asseverations which, apart from literary merit, commend it to the hearts of our people.

We are indebted to Messrs. Bloomfield & Steel, No. 60 Camp street, for this highly appreciated publication.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Knight & Co., Dealers in Plantation, mill, and wood working machinery and agricultural implements, 172 Gravier St.

F. Adam, Manufacturer and Wholesale Dealer in Ladies and Misses cloth and silk cloaks, 76 Canal street, up stairs. Mr. Adam was formerly connected with Messrs. C. Yale, Jr., & Co., and is thoroughly versed in all the departments of his business, his urbanity and promptness can but give satisfaction to those who entrust him with their orders.

F. G. Barriere & Co., Importers and Dealers in Foreign and Domestic Dry Goods, 135 Canal street. Mr. Babcock of this firm was for many years connected with the houses, respectively, of Marshall and James, Jno R. Marshall & Co., Babcock and Rhodes, J. Babcock and Kermochan.

Hill & Veasie, Dealers in Coal Oil, Lamps, Chandeliers, globes, chimneys, shades, brushes, cans and fillers, and kerosene oil. We were much pleased by an examination of the very ample, rich, and varied assortment displayed on the shelves of these gentlemen. Parties wishing lamps and chandeliers for churches, halls and saloons, would do well to examine their stock.

CHRISTIAN LIVING.

The reduction of the principles of Christianity to our daily living is the important business of every believer. To be a Christian in the fullness of our duties and privileges, is a matter of present and personal concern. Holy living in the world, amidst its business, its temptations, and its annoyances, is the great achievement. To bring up the outward and inward life to the spiritual ideal and standard of the gospel is certainly a possible attainment. It is possible to be Christians.

There is however danger of losing sight of this essential aspect of religion, and of leaving the matter in the shape of objective formulas, declarations of faith and outward worship. We may not deny the doctrines of the witness of the Spirit, we may be complacent under the preaching of it, and feel something like boasting, that we belong to a church in which it is preached and believed. At the same time there may be no witness of the Spirit in the heart; no lively and comfortable assurance of present acceptance with God.

These doctrines of spiritual life and experience are so explained away, that the words lose their simple and proper meaning, and force. They have some mysterious theological import, and are regarded as idioms of religious talk and pulpit declamation. Or if we take these terms in their plain and literal meaning, their force and novelty have worn off, and we are not impressed with the painful consciousness that our inward feelings are almost destitute of the Spirit of Adoption, and the comfort of the Holy Ghost.

The fairest fruits, with but a slight outward puncture, are sometimes found rifled of their meat. The pulp and juice are gone whilst the shell retains the form and tint of health. It may be so in these higher spiritualities in which we profess to believe. We are accustomed to their announcement from the pulpit, the language of them may be on our lips in prayer and conversation, but Aba Father is not the habitual frame and utterance of the soul.

The direct and powerful testimony of the Spirit is not a matter of daily experience. Perhaps we comfort ourselves with the thought that there is something of over statement in the doctrine; and that when reduced to personal realization, the facts are to be shaded off and pared down to the ordinary and natural operations of human thought and emotion. In the simplicity and directness of scriptural statement, the felt operations of the Spirit are to be reduced to the habitual and daily consciousness of the believing soul. Our Christian living is certainly defective, if this be not so. There is a wide gulf and deep between the spirituality of our profession, and the actual facts of experience. In the tempers and affections which the gospel teaches, and in the new life and creation which mark the child of God, there is the same point of application.

These qualities and graces are not only to be assented to in theory, but they are to be felt and displayed in the affairs of life. In our social and business relations, in the domestic circle, and in the atmosphere of utter worldliness which surrounds us, the mind that was in Christ should be displayed. The meekness, humility, purity, and heavenly mindedness of the Christian is to be seen here if any where. But there is often a discrepancy between the principles of religions duty, and the course of life. There may be integrity and everything that worldly society demands for respectability. But the conversation is in the world rather than in heaven. The hardness and selfishness of men is not modified by the Christian spirit. Patience, meekness and love are Sunday graces, to be dilated upon in the pulpit, to be prayed and sung in the sanctuary, and to melt away and pass out of sight like the stars, when the secular day rises. There is a conviction that these graces of temper and spirit are not fitted for the bustling arena of business; that as Christian men are thrown into a world where selfishness, hardness, and bullying tempers prevail they must needs put on the same character, and meet it with its own weapons. The hand that is fraternally warm on Sunday, is often cold and distant on Monday: and the brother of the sanctuary is strangely suspicious and distant in the counting room.

If we examine the qualities of the religious life, the charity, unselfishness, patience, and fervor of spirit which enter into it, we shall be struck with the vast incongruity. Religion, in this aspect of it, is too much excluded, and held in the back ground, when it should be exhibited. The teachings of Scripture, and the professions of believers, come to be regarded as hyperboles or extravagance of language: a kind of millenium imagery, which, when reduced to sober life-facts, amount to nothing beyond the ordinary range of human conduct.

Religious men are supposed not to love the world, nor the things in it. They are to be distinguished from the world. There is, to be no love of money; no eager and feverish attempt after the vanities and pomp of fashion. Within there is to be the hidden life of faith: without, the display of the fruits of a nature regenerated, and consecrated to God. Those are the words of our Gospel and profession, but how stands the case in our business, social and domestic living?

It is in this direction that the gospel needs a fresh and more powerful demonstration. The argument for Christianity in the usual lines of evidence is complete enough. Scholastic and systematized infidelity have been sufficiently and often enough demolished. But there is in these times a ground swell of unbelief and indifference, largely based upon the evident distance between doctrine and profession, and actual Christian living. The kind of evidence the world wants is in the Christian life. There is a divine and irresistable logic in this that will silence opposition, and confirm the claims of the gospel as the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.

MOBILE CONFERENCE.

FIRST DAY.

The Mobile Conference met in Enterprize 21st Nov., Bishop Wightman presiding. This body reminded me of the Alabama Conference when I entered it long years ago. Then it met at Montgomery, and Bishop Andrew was presiding. Here are the same friends whom I looked on then with the reverence of a son in the ministry: Brothers E. Calloway, G. Shaeffer, W. Murrah, J. Hamilton, and G. Garrett, undimmed in the glory of their Master's service, mellower, and holier and truer men, finishing their course, and fighting the great battle. Here, too, were many who started with me, no longer young, but maturer, strong to bear the burdens of the Church of God. Besides these, many new faces, many well educated and finely trained Methodist Preachers.—It is pleasant to renew one's youth by resorting to fountains which we have known only as a youth. Nobody but a Methodist itinerant can know the strength and sweetness of the ties which bind together men who take the same vows, make the same sacrifices, who serve the same Lord, and entertain the same hopes. The voices of these men, their cheerfulness, their simplicity, their good sense, their heartiness, and their heroic, composed zeal, command my admiration and my love. When a man of ordinary sense attends an Annual Conference, he had rather be a Methodist Traveling Preacher than be a king. So it seems to me. The division of the Alabama Conference into the Mobile and the Montgomory Conferences, left in this Dr. Summers, that man of all work and everybody's servant, for Jesus' sake. The Doctor is never greater than in his own Conference: full, easy, quick, witty, sound in doctrine and Discipline, he is the life of the body. It might not be safe to speak farther in this direction.

This is the first occasion of Bishop Wightman's presiding. He begins among his warmest friends, asking their prayerful and charitable consideration: though full-orbed and mature in the various experiences of a Methodist Preacher, and the qualities which constitute a Methodist Bishop.

As this is the first day, only this has transpired: but one comes up for reception on trial—the Rev. T. A. S. Adams, a young man of excellent promise. These are the times when, to be heard, the call, "Go preach my Gospel," must be distinctly uttered. Men who now enter, doubtless do it from a double conviction of duty. The Church can, therefore, expect, with fewer men, an equal power.

This point was sprung: "What is meant by, Is there anything against the brother?" Does it refer to his moral or his ministerial character, or both? Before this was determined, the object of it came into view: Is there anything against a Preacher who does not administer the Discipline upon the subject of Dancing? Quite an extended discussion, which we shall hereafter notice, resulted in the reference of the whole matter to a Committee.

J. C. K.

CHRISTIAN UNION OF ILLINOIS.

Rev. A. Monroe, of Missouri, accompanied Bishop Doggett to the meeting of the "Council" of this body, hold at Clinton, Ill. He furnishes the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist with an account of the number and character of this organization:

We reached there at six o'clock Friday morning, and were met at the depot by brother Howard, preacher in charge, who seemed glad to see us, and conducted us at once to his house, where we were most kindly cared for. Being at the preacher's house where every one feels free, we soon made the acquaintance of most of the preachers. We found the Council was occupying the court-house; no church in the city being offered for their use. The Bishop being fatigued, did not attend the morning service. The writer was introduced and cordially invited to take part in the deliberations of the Council, which was cordially accepted; so that during the session I felt very much like I was in a Southern Methodist Conference, and really enjoyed it very much. At noon, Bishop Doggett had an interview with the leading men, and satisfied himself that he could do nothing more officially than perform the duties of a fraternal messenger, which he did at the afternoon session of the Council in a most admirable manner, creditable to himself, and highly gratifying to the members of the Council. We had free conversation with their leading men as to their condition and prospects. It was stated privately, and in Council, that they never claimed more than four thousand members in Illinois, and some twenty-five preachers in the regular work. Such is the statement of Jones, Smithson, Holt, Westcot, Howard and others, all good men and true, who protested against being held responsible for exaggerated accounts. Now, I make this statement not to cast reflections upon any one, but as a conviction of duty as being best for all interested. If their success depended on their numerical strength, they might be discouraged, but thank God this is not the case. Reform and Church movements have always been small in their beginnings. Think of the mustard seed—think of what the beginnings of Methodism had to contend with—see what God has wrought, and let no one despair of the success of the Christian Union, for God is most surely with them, and who can be against them? Men of God in the ministry, and several thousands of pious, devoted members—all willing to bear reproach for Christ and publish a pure unmixed Gospel, and to build up under God a non secular Church! Some have feared there might be something political in the movement, but I am satisfied there is no ground for such apprehension. The leaders were, men persecuted and literally driven from the Conference and Church on account of their political opinions—did not organize this new convention in support of a political party—but that they might work for God according to the dictates of their consciences, and might preach Christ and Him crucified unmixed with politics. I am convinced, and so are the leaders of the movement, that a formal connexion with our Church would be a decided advantage—would inspire confidence in the stability of the organization, and thousands who are distrustful would in good faith unite their religious fortunes with them. Upon consultation the preachers concluded to talk it over with the members, and when they are all satisfied will notify the Bishop, who expects to visit us again in a few months; he will then consummate the union. In conclusion allow me to express myself in favor of the proposed union, because I verily believe it will be the means of building up a non-secular Church where is it greatly needed. I think God will be glorified, and thousands of souls saved thereby. I beg you will excuse the length of this article.

NEWS FROM THE CONFERENCES.

RELIEF FOR THE SOUTH.

The Louisville and Kentucky Conferences have taken measures to extend substantial aid to the Preachers laboring in the more destitute and impoverished sections of the South. They have appointed Committees to secure contributions of money, clothing and provisions. We publish the address and notices:

To the Members and Friends of the M E Church South within the bounds of the Louisville Conference—

At the late session of our Conference, held in Elizabethtown, an Association was inaugurated for the relief of our brethren in the ministry, engaged actively in the service of the Church, and the widows and orphans of ministers who had been left destitute—all of whom were to some extent dependent on congregations and communities impoverished by the war, and the almost universal and distressing drought which has fallen upon them.

In behalf of this Association, as a committee appointed for that purpose by our Conference, we address you this circular, urging upon you the necessity of a prompt and vigorous co-operation in a work which we know must commend itself at once to the kindest and most generous impulses of your Christian hearts.

Let no time be lost. Our brethren and their families are suffering for the necessaries of life. Let each pastor lay this matter before his congregation. Many persons may be found who would contribute to this object, who might be disposed to give for nothing else; and as is always the case, those who give for every other benevolent object, would not withhold from our dear brethren who are so needy and so meritorious.

We depend greatly upon the preachers for the successful prosecution of this work—particularly in the agricultural districts, where appeals of this kind have not been made.

Let the women of the Church be enlisted in this cause. Their demands will not be disregarded—particularly when they plead for desolate widowhood and destitute orphanage.

In the plan adopted by the Conference, each preacher and his board of stewards are constructively an auxiliary board, to secure food of any kind that may be suitable for the sustentation of life—or funds that will procure it—to be forwarded with the least possible delay to the Rev. A. H. Redford, at Nashville, Tenn., or to B. C. Levi, of the firm of Morehead & Co., or R. C. Snoddy, Main Street, or C. O. Smith, of Lithgow & Co., Louisville Ky.

J. H. Linn.
T. Bottomly,
R. Dering,
} Com.

From the Kentucky Conference the following goes forth:

Whereas, The Kentucky Conference of the M. E. Church, South, at its late session in Winchester, Ky., resolved itself into a Southern Relief Society for the purpose of aiding the members of the Georgia Conference to continue their labors during the coming year; and whereas, Rev. B. M. Messick, John C. Young, and C. T. Messick, of Lexington, Ky., were appointed a Central Committee for the Conference at large; notice is hereby given that all contributions in money, provisions, clothing, etc., forwarded to them will be forwarded to the proper persons.

Provisions, grain, etc., should be addressed to them in care of J. P. Hendly & Co., or L. C. Randall & Co., Lexington, Ky., and will receive prompt attention.

Persons intending to make contributions will please do so immediately.

PACIFIC CONFERENCE.

The Rev. O. P. Fitzgerald writes to the Nashville Advocate, dated San Francisco, Oct. 22: "The Pacific Conference closed its session Oct. 15. Action of the General Conference changing the name of the Church concurred in by a vote of 37 to 8. Only one vote against Lay Representation. The session of our Conference was harmonious and happy. God is baptizing the Church on the Pacific with fresh hope and new zeal. Bishop Kavanaugh left San Francisco on the 20th for Oregon."

WESTERN VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

The session of this body was held at Clarksburg. The vote on change of name of the Church was yeas 15, nays 7; on Lay Representation, yeas 21, nays 1. The appointments as contained in the Clarksburg Conservative are as follows:

Clarksburg District—W Kennedy, P E; Clarksburg and Milford circuits, S S Rider; St George and Philippi circuits, J L Williamson; Buckhannon and Beverly circuit, to be supplied, R Stepheus, Sup; Weston and Jacksonville circuits, W S May; Webster Mission, S Black; Braxton circuit, to be supplied; Glenville circuit, to be supplied.

Parkersburg District—S T Mallory, P E; Parkersburg station, C W Miller; Little Kanawha circuit, R Fox and T Wade; Ravenswood and Ripley circuits, B J Hull; Martinsville and Middlebourne circuits, R A Claughton and J Snodgrass; Elizabeth and Spencer circuits, S K Vaught; Mason Mission, to be supplied; Tnys Valley Mission, to be supplied.

Charleston District—W Briscoe, P E; Charleston and Cedar Grove Circuit, J M Lauck; Charleston circuit, W R Chambers; Coals Mouth and Browostown, B S Chambers; Fayetteville and Raleigh, W F Claughton; Boone circuit, R Bias; Logan circuit, E Vertegans; Summerville circuit, C F Crooks; Wyoming Mission, to be supplied.

Guyandotte District—S H Mullen, P E; Cattlesburg station, S Hargiss; Greenupsburg and Ashland, R Brase; Guandotte and Barboursville, W G Miller; Greenup circuit, W Shearer, North Liberty circuit, J C Tinsley; Grayson circuit, J Martin; Big Sandy circuit, J C Crooks; Louisa station, J Farmer; Grenbottom circuit, H Moore; Wayne circuit, J T Johnson, B Spurlock, Sup; Paintsville circuit, J F Bean.

LITTLE ROCK CONFERENCE.

This Conference was held at Arkadelphia, from Oct. 10 to Oct 15, Bishop Pierce presiding. The following are the appointments:

Little Rock District—Andrew Hunter, P E; Little Rock, C O Steele; Benton, Geo W Primrose; Maumell, to be supplied; Perryville, J W Brandon; Mill Creek, to be supplied; Bayou Metro, C M Slover; Des Aro, to be supplied; Austin, B G Johnson, B O Davis; Brownsville, to be supplied; J E Cobb, Editor Arkansas Christian Advocate.

Pine Bluff District—M H Wells, P E; Pine Bluff, C Pope; Plum Bayou, Elijah Crowson; St Charles, to be supplied. De Witt, Jno N Doyle; Old River, Wm O Lanier; Sulphur Springs, R H Withers, C M Gentry; Lehi, C A Williams; Auburn and Jefferson, Jno H Riggin, A Mizell.

Arkadelphia District—W R J Hushands, P E; Arkadelphia, J M Bradley; Tulip, R F Colhurn, E R Barous; Princeton, J E Caldwell, J R Harvey; Rockport, H M Younghlood; Hot Springs, to be supplied; Caddo, to be supplied; Clarke, W C Adams; Dallas Colored Circuit, to be supplied; Warren, A W Simmons, R C Weir, Sup; Bradley Colored Circuit, to be supplied; B Watson, President Little Rock Female College.

Washington District—A B Winfield, P E; Washington, E N Watson; Hempstead, D T Holmes, J A Stanly, Sup; Hempstead Colored Circuit, W J Scott; Moscow, H D McKennon; Ozan, Alex Avery; Center Point, J G Ward; Center Point Colored Circuit, to be supplied; Paraolita, J P Holmes; Richmond, S G Colburn; Polk, to be supplied; Center Point Academy, T W Hayes, Principal.

Red River District—Wm Moore, P E; Louisville, Robert Parvin; Falcom, J P Haise; Mt Moriah, to be supplied; Rondo, G W Evans; Olive Branch, G E Butler, Lost Prairie Colored Circuit, R P Davies; Long Prairie, J M Stevenson.

Camden District—A R Winfield, P E; Camden, to be supplied; Camden colored charge, to be supplied; Wachita, T A Graham; Wachita Colored Circuit, to be supplied; Buena Vista, to be supplied; Eldorado, J F Hall; Magnolia, Samuel Morris; Lapeal, M McManly; Hampton, to be supplied; Agent for American Bible Society, W P Ratcliffe.

Monticello District—Jno Pryor, P E; Monticello, Horace Jewell; Lacey, E L Gaidie; Hamburg, to be supplied; Bartholomew, J A Clower; Ashby Colored Circuit, to be supplied; Wolf Creek, James Stinoill; Lake Village, W A Chamberlain; Eunice Colored Circuit, Jno Dickson; Holly Circuit, L Garrett; Mt Pleasant, J F Carr.

Marcus Arrington, transferred to Arkansas Conference; A H Kennedy transferred to Memphis Conference.

Bishop Marvin.—Bishop Marvin reached this city on Thursday morning, from Galveston, and left the same evening for St. Louis. It was his purpose and desire to remain some time with us, and to be present at the approaching sessions of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences, but, hearing of sister Marvin's continued ill health, he was constrained to hasten his departure.

Have to Carry Guns to Church.—Rev. Mr. Alexander, a Methodist preacher at Fonty, in this county, received last Saturday an anonymous letter, informing him that he should preach no longer without taking the oath: and if he attempted to do so he would be taken from the pulpit. In spite of this threat Mr. Alexander entered his pulpit yesterday and preached as usual, his friends filled the church with arms at hand. No disturbance occurred.—St. Louis Dispatch.

LETTER FROM THE REV. W. G. E. CUNNYNGHAM.

My Dear Dr. Keener.—I have consented the more readily to furnish missionary intelligence for your excellent paper, because I know you to be well informed and deeply interested on the subject of Foreign Missions. You will understand and appreciate any information my letters may contain. You know both how to value, and how to use facts; and I shall therefore write with entire freedom.

I do not like "official information;" in other words, intelligence "cooked" and seasoned to suit the popular taste. There are two sides to most questions, and a man who possesses all the information on any subject, may so present it, as to make a false impression, without making a single false statement. Missionary reports may give only one side of the picture, as is too often the case, leaving the church in ignorance of facts which are essential to a just understanding of the real condition of the work. The people wish to know what prospects—what encouragement the mission fields present: They are impatient of delay, and ready and waiting to be discouraged. Under the pressure thus created, the missionary is called upon to report progress. Nobody asks for an account of his trials—of the discouragements which oppress his heart, but what success? How many converts? as if he were engaged in holding a "revival meeting." If he cannot report conversions and additions to the church, he is supposed to be doing nothing, and is perhaps informed by some good brother who says he has given a great deal to the mission, that the church is disappointed, and unless more signs of success speedily appear, he and many other sensible people will be compelled to withdraw their support. He advises the missionaries to pray more—believe more—says he believes to a "golden sunset circle," who are praying mightily for the heathen. As a balm for the wounds which he supposes his charitable censures and reproaches have made, for he is not malignant, he closes by saying, perhaps, that he pities the poor missionaries, who must be very unhappy.

After reading such impertinent stuff as this, addressed "dear brother," he takes up a newspaper, and see that Dr.——thinks our foreign missionary operations have proved the truth of an opinion which he expressed some years ago, to-wit, that the time has not yet come for the conversion of the heathen. He shows how, on strictly commercial principles, the missionary enterprise must be considered a failure; He knows whereof he affirms, for he has made the subject a study—has the figures here they are: Converts so many—cost the church in round numbers, so much. Divide the number of dollars expended, by the number of converts made, and you have the cost of each convert. The Dr. emphasises the result with three exclamation points, and says, nothing could be clearer to his mind than that the whole concern is a failure! He closes his very suggestive remarks with the charitable supposition that we may hope not more than one third of the converts reported are hypocrites.

Now, sir, add to all this, the sore trials arising from the ignorance, indifference, deceit, and the many peculiar vices of the heathen with whom the missionary lives and labors—the cherished hopes deferred—the many instances of disappointment—hopes raised only to be dashed, and you will have some idea of the circumstances under which the missionary writes home, and will not, I am sure, too hardly judge him, if he presents the most encouraging view of the work which strict veracity will allow, reserving the rest for his own closet and heart.

I know the heart of a foreign missionary. I know its trials, its anxieties, its fears, its hopes; and do I know how hard it is to wait, and watch, and long, and pray, and labor for the salvation of the perishing multitudes around him; and to know in the midst of all this, that he is blamed and censured by his brethren at home, for not doing more. To none on earth is the truth, "Then God seest me," more precious than to the faithful missionary. He knows that the living eye of the Master is upon him, and though others may misunderstand him, neglect or forget him, there is one who intimately sympathizes with him, understands him, and will never forsake him.

There are also many in the church, who have comprehension enough to see that the conversion of the heathen world is a great work, and that if the difficulties were no greater than those attending the gospel ministry in this country, years of toil must pass away, before much fruit could reasonably be expected. My innocent friend of the "Golden sunset Circle," or the commercial doctor of divinity, with his arithmetic, cannot be taken as representing all the sense and piety of the church. The heart of the christian church, its leading men in all countries, are friends of the missionary enterprize. The church itself must be missionary, or forfeit its charter. A little reflection would enable any of the impatient ones to see that their clamor for results is unreasonable. "Be patient therefore, brethren. Behold the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the early and latter rain. Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts."

I have received two letters, recently from our China Mission. When I commenced this letter, it was my intention to give you some extracts from one of these, showing what our brethren in that mission are doing, but I have filled my sheet, and have room only for a few facts. 1. We have three men with their families in the field, Lambuth, Wood, and Allen. 2. Bro. Wood has two motherless children to take care of. He feels it his duty to bring them home. He will therefore leave his work at least for a time. 3 Bro. Lambuth's health is such as to require a change of climate. He speaks of going to China. 4. Bro. Allen is working away as hard as he can. He reports the church as doing something in the missionary work.

These good brethren have labored and suffered heroically during the last few years, and they are now very weary and very needy. They must have help, or that soon, or the mission will be abandoned. Is the Southern Methodist Church prepared to give up the only foreign mission it has? Suppose we are poor, as was the early apostolic church—so was the early Methodist Church, yet they were missionary churches in the days of their poverty. We are not too poor to send the gospel to the heathen as long as we have any thing left us. No church can prosper at home, while it neglects its duty abroad.

Your brother in Christ,

W. G. E. Cunnyngham.

Abington, Va., Nov. 14th, 1866.

Report of the Secretary of the Board of Domestic Missions.

Mr. Editor: Since my last publication report I have visited several important points, and have been present at three Annual Conferences, viz: the Kentucky, Louisville and Tennessee. The brethren everywhere approve the change in the mode of conducting our missionary enterprise. The Board of Domestic Missions, and our brethren have resolved to reduce the mode of collecting money to a system. Below I give you the Constitution of the Tennessee Conference Board. This is similar to that adopted by the other Conferences. The collections for the times have been respectable, but ought to be much larger the coming year. There seems to be a oneness of purpose to maintain the home work, and at the same time to extend our labors in foreign fields and pay the old debt. I verily believe that brighter day dawns upon our great missionary work. I hope to be able to visit at least four or five additional Annual Conferences this autumn and the approaching winter. I met Dr. Sehon in Kentucky. It was important for us to meet and consult as to our future plans. He is now visiting the Conferences east of the mountains, while I go South.

Allow me to say that I never attended pleasant Conference meetings than I have witnessed thus far, and I think the prospects of our Zion were never more encouraging. Extensive revivals have blessed the Church everywhere. In the Tennessee Conference there has been a net loss for the past year of 6,000. The preachers are in the spirit of the work; in the midst of poverty they go forth cheerfully, willing to sacrifice ease and wealth for the cause of Christ. Let us "thank God and take courage."

Let the Church labor and pray, and God will crown our efforts with abundant success.

J. B. McFerrin, Sec'y Board.

Methodism North—Centenary Statistics.

An examination of the official statistics now being prepared for the General Minutes soon to be issued, shows that the present number of members and probationers in the M. E. Church, as reported at several annual conferences, and not including the traveling preachers, is one million and thirty thousand nine hundred and seventy-eight, being an increase over the report of the previous year of one hundred and one thousand seven hundred and nineteen. The number of baptisms by ministers during the year is, adults 47,419; children, 35,536; total 82,955. The year has been the most prosperous in the history of the Church. The Centenary collections thus far sum up $2,500,000.

CITY NEWS.

THE STATE AGRICULTURAL FAIR.

This enterprise was inaugurated on Tuesday morning. The first ceremony was a grand mass and consecration by the Bishop and priests of the Papal Church afterwards Bishop Wilmer, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, supported by his clergy, opened the Fair with divine service, followed by addresses from the President of the Association and Mr. Burwell. But the Catholic and Episcopal clergy, we believe that no ministers of other denominations were invited or expected to be present or participate in the religious services. This sort of prelatical pretension and partiality looks rather queer, especially as the Institution cannot be regarded as sectarian in its character.

Tuesday was a general holiday in the city; stores were closed, and everybody that could go went. There was, therefore, a large attendance. Besides the multitude of people there was little of interest to be seen, as the stock, implements, machines, factories, and works of art, were not generally ready for exhibition. Later in the week the attendance has not been so large, but the exhibition in the arena and elsewhere have been interesting and instructive. On the whole we believe this Fair will prove a success. It is a new thing in the South and West, and not equal to similar exhibitions in the North and West. But there is no reason why it should not, in time, become worthy of comparison with the best institutions of the kind. There are some things on exhibition of Southern invention and workmanship; more things, however, of Yankee construction. We hope to see the day when this state of things shall be reversed—when our own products and industry shall be the leading features of our annual display.

Obituaries.—Several obituary notices are laid over for want of space this week. They will appear in next issue.

OBITUARIES.

Died in the city of Jefferson, neer New Orleans, Nov 3rd, 1866, DAVID BROWDER MOORE. Mr. Moore was born in Logan county, Kentucky, in 1814. He was married to Miss Mary White in East Baton Rouge, August 13th, 1850. His wife was an exemplary Christian, and member of the M E Church, South, and died in peace two or three months before the husband. Mr. Moore was blessed with pious parents, and his father was a worthy minister of our Church. He was himself a devoted friend to Methodism, for several years a teacher in the Sunday School, a generous contributor to the support of the gospel, and at the time of his death was acting as an informel and volunteer steward for the Church near his residence, in the city of Jefferson. We believe him to have been a praying man, correct and conscientious in his deportment, and sincerely interested in the cause of religion. For many years a citizon of New Orleans, and engaged in active business pursuits, his integrity was without a stain. He was universally honored and respected. But he was not a member of the Church. Like many others, in this respect, his views though honestly entertained, were defective. He had the most exalted conception of the character, dignity, and obligations of the Christian profession, and felt himself unworthy of a place within the pale of the Church. We believe that before he died he saw and regretted this error, and that, had he lived a few weeks longer, he would have united with the Church. The death of his pious and beloved wife afflicted him deeply, and was evidently sanctified to his spiritual good. During his brief illness he was much engaged in prayer, and in the last moments expressed himself as wonderfully happy and satisfied of his acceptance with God through Jesus Christ. In the death of this estimable couple, we have lost two much loved friends, the Church is deprived of two of its earnest supporters, and a family of orphan children are without parental love and guardianship. May the God of their parents in his kind providence surround them with pious and watchful friends, and preserve them in his knowledge and love.

LINUS PARSONS.

Nov. 21st, 1866.

MRS. ELISHEA ADELIA SANDERS, wife of Rev. Joel Sanders, and daughter of Zadoc Mumford, Esq., was born in Swansborough, N C, Sept. 2nd, 1825, was married to Rev Joel Sanders, Oct 25th, 1841, and died after a painful illness of five weeks, in Cherokee county, Texas, on the 19th of January 1866. Sister Sanders was well known throughout the boundaries of Louisiana Conference, having shared with her husband the privations of itinerant life about twenty-four years. At the time of her marriage she was peculiarly adapted by nature and grace for the position in life which Providence called her to occupy, and entered into the spirit, and felt the great importance of the sacred calling of her husband. She never once said to him "don't go to your appointment," but often urged him to go, when she or some of the family was sick, saying, "go and preach, and return as soon as you can, and we will try and get along without you." She was fond of Class Meeting, and never absent from the class room when in her power to attend. She bore her sufferings during her last illness with great patience and Christian fortitude. Aware of her approaching end, she seemed both to distress her family by talking upon the subject, but gave some directions about her burial, and told a young lady who assisted in nursing her that she "would be with her Saviour." Her husband and six children survive her; three of her children having preceded her to the spirit land.

MISS SUSAN ELISHEA SANDERS, daughter of Rev Joel Sanders, was born in Claiborne parish, La., August 26th, 1846, and died in Cherokee county, Texas, December 28th, 1865. She made a profession of religion in October 1859, and though living where she had little religious association, she continued to hold fast her religious profession. She was a most beautiful and interesting young lady: and she was pious.

KNIGHT & CO.,

Dealers in

PLANTATION, MILL, & WOOD-WORKING

MACHINERY,

And Agricultural Implements

Keep constantly on hand a large assortment of articles peculiar to our business, and through our agents in the North and East, can fill promptly, and at a small advance above manufacturer's prices, all orders for articles in our line not usually kept in this market

The great change in our labor system necessitates a corresponding change in the Implements used, and we have prepared ourselves to offer the latest improved

LABOR-SAVING MACHINES,

both for Agricultural and Mechanical purposes, at prices that will warrant their purchase.

Also, LEEDS & CO'S Sugar Kettles, Newell Screws, Gin Gearing, &c; and will contract for any kind of work done at their establishment, at their prices.

172 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

nf7 1y

A COUGH, A COLD, OR A SORE THROAT

Requires immediate attention, and should be checked. If allowed to continue,

Irritation of the Lungs, a Permanent Throat Disease, or Consumption

Is often the result.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES

Having a direct influence to the parts, give immediate relief.

For Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Consumptive and Throat Diseases,

Troches are used with always good success.

SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS

will find Troches useful in clearing the voice when taken before Singing, or Speaking, and relieving the throat after an unusual exertion of the vocal organs. The Troches are recommended and prescribed by Physicians, and have had testimonials from eminent men throughout the country. Being an article of true merit, and having proved their efficacy by a test of many years each year finds them in new localities in various parts of the world, and the Troches are universally pronounced better than other articles.

Obtain only "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," and do not take any of the Worthless Imitations that may be offered. Sold EVERYWHERE.

THE LORD'S PRAYER PICTURE.

Good Agents wanted all over the South to Sell by Subscription this Great and Beautiful Picture.

This is one of the most exquisite works of art ever offered to the public, being the result of six years' close labor of the Artist. It has received the highest commendations from every source, and never fails to elicit the greatest admiration from all connoissours of the fine arts. A liberal paying commission is allowed, and it is believed there is no work before the public so universally popular, and offering so good inducements to canvassers as this. It is new—will never get out of date; exclusive territory given.

To avoid delay and insure reply, testimonials as to character and ability should accompany applications. Dealers need not apply. Here is offered congenial and lucrative employment for ministers, or competent and worthy persons of all classes. For full particulars apply to

HOLMES & CO.,

26 Camp street, Room No 5, or address Lock Box 424, New Orleans

N B—Please do your friends a favor by showing this advertisement, to such as may be adapted or benefited by such an agency n10 1m

P O BARRIERE G W BABCOCK

F. G. BARIERE & CO.,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

No. 135 Canal Street, New Orleans.

n10 6m

WANTED — SITUATIONS FOR three well educated Southern young ladies, in private families, or in Seminaries of wide reputation: one, as Music Teacher only; the other two, as Teachers of the ordinary branches of an English Education, with Music. Address Rev R H Herbert, Meridian, Miss., stating compensation, health, society, etc, of the location. n10 1m

LATEST FASHIONS.

Call for

J W BRADLEY'S

DUPLEX ELLIPTICAL

[Or, Double Spring]

SKIRT!

THEY WILL NOT BEND OR BREAK Like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary Skirts are thrown aside as useless—hence are the CHEAPEST.

Each Hoop is made by braiding two springs together, edge to edge, forming the STRONGEST, most FLEXIBLE, and still the LIGHTEST Hoop made.

In fact, for premenade, or the house, or the church, the theatre, or for crowded assemblies, railroad cars, carriages, etc., they are superior to all others, affording COMFORT TO THE WEARER, with that ELEGANCE OF SHAPE which wins favor with all, and has made the

"DUPLEX ELLIPTIC."

The Standard Skirt of the Fashionable World.

For misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

For Sale Everywhere.

Manufactured exclusively by the owners of the Patent,

WESTS, BRADLEY & CARY,

97 Chambers, 79 and 81 Reade sts, New York.

CAUTION.

The Duplex Skirt will admit a pin being run through the centre of each hoop, thereby proving there are TWO SPRINGS braided together therein, which is the secret of their remarkable STRENGTH and FLEXIBILITY—a combination not possessed by any SINGLE-SPRING Skirt.

The red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. BRADLEY'S Duplex Elliptic Springs," will be found upon the waistband of every Skirt; none other are genuine. n24 6m

COAL OIL AND LAMPS.

HILL & VEAZIE,

Having removed from No 31 Chartres street to No 74 Camp street, have received large additions to their former stock, making their assortment of Coal Oil Lamps, and all the articles needful to use with them, very extensive; together with COAL OIL CHANDELIERS from two to six lights, suitable for lighting Churches, large Halls, Parlors, etc; and every variety of Lanterns from the small Hand to the large Station. FISH'S PATENT COOKING LAMPS for coal oil and gas, very useful and economical; also EDDIE'S COOKING STOVES, assorted sizes, heated by coal oil; with many other useful and convenient articles.

Always on hand the best Kerosene and Coal Oil manufactured.

Call and examine.

HILL & VEAZIE,
No 74 Camp street,
nly Between Natchez street and Times Office

STOVES, GRATES, TIN WARE,

AND

HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.

The undersigned offer for sale an assortment of COOKING STOVES, embracing among the lot the well known Charter Oak, the Brilliant, the Peerless, the American Home, and others of the latest improvement.

Also, a large lot of HEATING and PARLOR STOVES, a large variety of GRATES, and of COUNTRY HOLLOW WARE, etc.

We manufacture all our own Tin Ware, and sell cheap.

CAMPMAN & CO.,
n10 6m 115 Poydras at, bet. Camp & Magazine

CLOAKS!

F. ADAM,

(Formerly with C Yale, jun, & Co,)

MANUFACTURER & WHOLESALE DEALER

In Ladies' and Misses'

CLOTH AND SILK CLOAKS,

No. 76 Canal Street—Up Stairs.

NEW ORLEANS.

Don't trust to glaring advertisements in the newspapers, but go to THE FACTORY itself, if you want good Goods at fair prices. nf0 2m

W. G. COYLE & CO.,

COAL MERCHANTS,

Office: 142 Gravier street.

Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.

Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

ROBERT L. WALKER,

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

STAFFORD & WILSON,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 66, Magazine Street,

o27 1y NEW ORLEANS.

CARD.

P. P. WERLEIN resumes teaching music, both Vocal and Instrumental; and is ready to take a limited number of pupils, either at his home, 95 Jackson street, or at the residence of pupils.

Apply at music store, 82 Baronne street, or at his residence. n17 1m

WANTED.—A Gentleman (unmarried) of considerable experience as a Teacher, desires a Situation in that capacity for the coming year; has been well recoived by former patrons. Address

A B C, n17 3t Shuhuta, Clarke Co, Miss.

TULANE BUILDING,

New Orleans, La.

We are now in the receipt of a full assortment of

CLOTHING,

SHIRTS,

FURNISHING GOODS,

TRUNKS AND VALISES,

UMBRELLAS, ETC.,

Which we are selling at very reduced prices, at

Wholesale and Retail.

GARTHWAITE, LEWIS & STUART,
oc20 1m 31 & 33 Camp street.

CLOTHING, CLOTHING.

For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.

Now receiving and opening for inspection, at

R. PITKIN'S

FASHIONABLE

CLOTHING EMPORIUM,

Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,

The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior

READY-MADE CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS.

Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:

Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,

Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.

A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,

FOR CUSTOM WORK.

He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,

MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,

as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS

To his

Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing

suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.

Also a large assortment of

YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

TRUNKS,

VALISES,

CARPET-BAGS,

UMBRELLAS, ETC.

A call from the public is respectfully solicited.

R. PITKIN,

Fashionable Clothing Emporium,

13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15

oc13 3m

ROBERT SLARK, WM. A. KENT,
ISAAC H. STAUFFER, CHAS. MACREADY

SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,

No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsiere St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.

Importers and Dealers in

HARDWARE:

Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws

MILL STONES,

INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND, PLANTATION SADDLERY, ETC.

Constantly on hand a large assortment of

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS

Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrott & Cottman, for Sugar and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert Klog, "Carey," for Cotton; Peoria Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.

Agents for the Vieille Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. o13 1y

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES.

Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in

EARTHENWARE,

GLASS, CHINA,

JAPAN WARE,

PLATED WARE,

SILVER WARE,

FINE TABLE CUTLERY,

WATER PURIFIERS,

HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.

All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.

No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.

L. ELKIN,

3, Carondelet Street, 3.

Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior

WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN

CARPETS,

RUGS,

WINDOW SHADES,

CORNICES,

OIL CLOTHS,

And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Commission and Forwarding Merchants,

122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row,

NEW ORLEANS.

R B Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Furstall, New Orleans. oc13 6m

H. P. ETHELL, NAT. H. THOMAS,
New Orleans. Late of Alabama.

ETHELL & THOMAS,

FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.

Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.

No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.

Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sep1 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. THOS. D. MILLER

J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

No. 19c GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep1 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. W M Owen. E Owen

LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 6m

S. S. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.

B. S. HARPER & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,

GROCER,

And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,

s15 6m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally, 53 Gravier street, New Orleans.

sep15 1y

H M WRIGHT C W ALLEN J HINDLESTON
(1st August, 1866)

WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

169 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, JAMES M. ALLEN } New
Memphis, Tenn. PERRY NUGENT, } Orleans

T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,

(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 1y

F F FOLGER, L FOLGER, W H THOMAS

FOLGER & CO.,

Dealers in

Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,

37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET NEW ORLEANS.

(Opposite the St James Hotel)

Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

27 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WM. EDWARDS. }
EDWD. J. GAY. } sep15 3m

W A VIOLETT. R Y BLACK. G H SNOWDEN.

VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

s15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. B. LOTT, C. W. WOOD,
Madison County, Miss. Canton, Miss.

LOTT, WOOD & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants

66 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E A BANES, W W LOEING, G W VENABLE

BANKS, LORING & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

26 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 6m

H ATKINSON & CO: JAMES HEWITT & CO.,
New York. Liverpool.

HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And Commission Merchants,

188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWIENER & CO., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,

(Successor to FELLOWES & CO.)

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., LEWIS, NANSON & CO.,
New York. St. Louis.

OBER, ATWATER & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

38 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep16 1y

S. M. SWENSON, W. M. PERKINS,
N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. D. L. KENNION,
Of Perkins & Co., N.O.

PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street, NEW ORLEANS.

SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

26 Exchange Place, New York.

a29 6m

EDW'D NALLE, W. C. DAY.

NALLE, DAY & CO.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,

168 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

of 3 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

186 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oc13 6m

E S KEEP. I. CAULFIELD.

KEEP & CAULFIELD,

Western Produce,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.

oc13 1y

HENRY WARE, WM. H. WARE,
Of Texas. Of Texas.

H. WARE & SON,

Cotton and Wool Factors,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

oc13

JOB PRINTING.

COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,

PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS, &c.

And everything else in the line of job printing, executed in

The Very Best Style, at Moderate Prices.

Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

J. H. MASSEY,

(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.,)

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 100 Common Street,

Opposite City Hotel.

I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock, and respectfully solicit an examination, on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please any and all of my old friends and patrons, and also including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.

Very respectfully,

oct1 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

Also, a large and varied supply of

HOUSEKEEPING and

PLANTATION GOODS,

Constantly on hand, at

126 Canal Street,

sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ST JAMES HOTEL,

MAGAZINE, STREET,

Between Gravier and Natchez Streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.

This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.

It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof. Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquors equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, as far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.

The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expense to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.

n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

COAL! COAL!! COAL!!!

BEATTY & SAWYER,

Offer COAL and WOOD at the lowest prices.—Coal, $7 per barrel. Leave orders at Yard on Josephine, between Prytania and Coliseum sts., or at Price Current Office; at Ducatel's, 2½ Carondelet; or at M E Stack's, opposite Magazine Market. Send in your orders promptly. nfm

McCUTCHON & HUBBELL,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE,

Hoes, Axes, Nails, etc.

NO. 74 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

n8 6m

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,

Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of

TIN WARE,

Also,

COOKING AND HEATING STOVES

Of all kinds, for sale.

25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,

Corner Customhouse street,

oct2 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, JOHN W. MADDEN,
Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co.

P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,

General Mercantile Stationers,

JOB PRINTERS, AND

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

No. 73 Camp Street.

We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.

We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 3m

D. H. HOLMES,

Direct Importation of.

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,

AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

No. 155 Canal Street,

sep1 6m NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

82..... Baronne Street,.....82

Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALAY,

Dealer in

PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,

GUITARS, VIOLINS,

And other musical instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper—in fact everything belonging to music trade.

The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. BURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.

Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.

Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.

Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.

Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.

Music neatly bound.

P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 6m

CENTENARY COLLEGE,

Jackson, Louisiana,

was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845. It is now under the joint patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.

The College exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed, after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.

Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.

Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month

The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.

The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.

The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.

The old students, alumni, and friends of the Institution, are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.

W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALA.

The exercises of this institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught.

TERMS:

Tuition fees per term,	$40 00
Contingent fee,	5 00

Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month

aug4ft W M WIGHTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.

The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.

The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.

TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $40.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March.

Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.

Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.

Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keenor, D.D., New Orleans, La.

As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.

W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

WOODVILLE FEMALE SEMINARY.

THE SECOND SESSION

Will begin October 3rd 1866, and close July 10th, 1867. The system of instruction aims at the truest, mental, moral, and social culture. The discipline seeks to embrace whatever is helpful to this end, and to exclude what is hurtful to it. Obedience to rightful authority, is a necessary to membership in the school.

TERMS PER SESSION.

Board, with fuel, lights and washing,	$300 00
Tuition in Preparatory course,	60 00
" Academic "	80 00
" Collegiate "	100 00
Music,	80 00

Other ornamentals as low as can be afforded.

The Collegiate course embraces Latin and French without any extra charge. These charges are made from the beginning of the half month in which the pupil is entered, to the end of the session, and must be paid, one half in advance, and the other on the 1st of March, nor will assignment of a pupil to room, seat or class, be made until this demand is met. A sum sufficient to get books, music, and medicines for slight sickness, must be deposited with the Principal. Each boarding pupil must be provided with a supply of plain, neat clothing suitable to the season, and also with towels, table nap-kins—all marked in the owner's name. When a pupil, not residing in the Seminary, or one not remaining in it during her illness, is sick more than twenty consecutive days, a deduction of one half the charges for the time will be made.

W. T. J. SULLIVAN, Principal.

Woodville, Miss., Aug. 8th, 1866. aug25 3m.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE

FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmer; Miss Jemima Constantine.

The Fall Session of this institution will open on the 26th day of September next.

This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattresses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.

The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.

TERMS:

For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—
Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00

Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.

The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.

After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.

For other information address

CHARLES B. STUART, President,
aug4ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M., President,	Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal.
Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Maxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.

Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.

Board, with English Tuition, at $35 per quarter.

The next session commences 10th September.

Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to

A. J. WRIGHT.

D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.
jy14 6m

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 163 Camp street, New Orleans.

When was it established? 1850.

Who is its General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev W H Bayliss.

Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.

What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.

What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.

What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans; then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.

What are the terms of membership?

The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.

The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.

The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.

The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.

The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.

Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not: to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S. by founding, or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.

Our last thought is the heart-cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a25 1y.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,

FOR YOUNG LADIES,

Is located at Brookhaven, Miss. It is under the immediate care of Rev. GEO. F. THOMPSON, and under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. The Board of Visitors consists of Rev. B. Jones, Rev. W. Millsaps, Rev. George H. Clinton, and Rev. William Price—all members of that Conference.

Its course of instruction is as complete as that of any other institution for the education of females in the State, and is sufficient to accomplish all that can be desired by the friends of our Church.

The exercises of the first term of its next session will begin on the first Monday in September 1866, and end Jan. 31, 1867.

For further particulars apply to the Rev. G. F Thompson, Brookhaven, Miss. a18ft

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp St, corner Natchez—open day and evening.

This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.

For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address

f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This Institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address

f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

OPELOUSAS LAND AGENCY.—At the solicitation of numerous friends, the undersigned has consented to become an Agent for the sale and purchase of land in this healthy and much sought after country, above any high water overflow, and where the prospects for crops are so encouraging. He will take very great pleasure in showing the land to any persons visiting this country, and in giving any other information that may be desired concerning it.

For reference I refer to the Editors of the New Orleans Christian Advocate.

JAMES H. HOUSTON,
Sept 4, 1866. Opelousas, La.

TURNER & COHEN,

Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,

NO. 67 CAMP STREET.

Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.

These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.

The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of this city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER

And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,

61 Camp street, New Orleans.

Cartes de Visite,

Hallotypes, Ambrotypes,

Pictures on Porcelain,

And every description of Pictures known to the Art.

All kinds of Photographic Materials at the lowest price for cash. s

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

The Promise that was Kept.

Oee evenlug four German students at university were enjoying themselves in an upper room of a little hotel. They had four instruments, and were employing themselves in makleg music after the hard labors of the day. There was a pause lu their music, but no sooner had they ceased playing than they heard an old man playleg a violin beneath their window lu the street. They went to the window and looked out, watchlug him until he had ceased playing. One of them then threw out a little piece of money, and said to him, laughing: "Here, poor Peter, this is all we have for you now; come again some other time."

"Yes," said another, "come agalu in a year from now."

"Then we will give you a little house for a present," said the third.

"Yes, in the middle of a garden," said the fourth.

The old man was struck with wooder at such a promise. His long white hair shone brightly in the light of the lanterns which hung out at a neighboring restaurant. He looked up to the window and said, after a moment's reflection: "Young people, are you in earnest in what you say to me? I hope you are not making light of an old man."

"Indeed we are in earnest," replied Ernest, with excited voice; and his three companions called upon God to witness their seriousness.

"Farewell, then," replied the old man; "I take my leave of you. One year from to-day, at this same hour, expect me to come and play a tune beneath this window. Farewell; may the Almighty Oee, whose name you have called upon, bless you in your kindness!"

The old man went off after luvoking this blessing upon them. The studeuts closed the window, took their lustrumeets again le their hands, and after havlug played three or four lively tunes seemed to forget all that had occurred. Ernest said to them, however, after the space of half an hour: "You seem to be very quiet. I can not be, for I have made a promise that I would give something which I have not got."

"What promise?" answered one of his lighthearted companions.

"The promise of a house and a garden."

A loud laugh was the response that he met with, and the studeets separated. They met again on the following evening, and during their interview Ernest called to mind the promise of the night before. They made light of him, and told him that he was foolish to pay any more attention to it. Then said he: "I don't see where your consciences are, if you can make a promise and break your word."

"How can we fulfil aey promise of thal klud?" said Christopher. "Our parents are all poor, and have more than they can do to send us to the university. How thee can they help us to buy a house and garden for a foolish old man? Good night, comrades, I wish yon as pleasant a sleep as I shall have!"

But this kind of argument did not affect Ernest much, for he eonld not help thinking that he was compelled to keep his bargain. He was the poorest oee of the group, for his mother was a plain widow, and she made her living by washing. The promise that he had made deeply affected him, aed he left the university for a week, so that he might go home and tell his mother the pledge that he had made to the old musician. After he had told her, she replied; "Keep it, my sou; keep it, if it cost you your life."

"That is what I will try to do, mother, and I hope I shall have your prayers."

Ernest returned to the university and told his friends that they must seriously think of bayieg the old man a house and garden. He went into a neighboring village one day, and found that he could get a neat little house and garden for two thousand guldens. That was a large sum for those poor students to think of paylag, but through the loflcence of Ernest the other three gradually became convinced that it was their duty to keep their promise. The four resolved that, in one year from the time the pledge was made, the old man should have his house and garden if it was in their power to get them for him.

They must leave the university—a sad proceeding for them. They came to the conclusion to go through the country, and give little concerts; for really this appeared to them to be the only way possible to gain any money. Even by pursuing this course there appeared to be a poor prospect to get a large sum. Still they resolved to do their best. They closed their books, put their instruments in little bags, and set out on foot to give concerts in the villages through which they might pass. Ernest, before leaving, exacted a promise of the man who owned the house and lot which he had looked at that he would not sell it under six months to any body, and that if he would promise to take it at the end of that time he might have it though the money need not be paid under a year. Week after week passed by, and the students slowly proceeded on their way. Their expenses were not heavy, but their income was certainly very small too. Nine months and a half passed by, and still they had but little above seven hundred guldens. It was a great question with them how the remaining thirteen hundred could be raised. They were spending one day at a country town, and a nobleman living in a large castle a few miles distant was seeking musicians to attend the wedding of his daughter who was to be married in three or four days. Fortunately enough for the students, the nobleman employed them for the occasion. The marriage ceremonies took place, and by and by it was time for the music to begin. The students had trained themselves very carefully for that evening, and their selections were certainly of a very high order During the course of the festivities, it was noticed that the nobleman became very sad. His face wore a melancholy appearance, and those who stood nearest to him saw him weeping. What could have caused him to be melancholy at such a time as that? One of the pieces that those musicians had played was his mother's favorite melody. She had often sung it to him many years ago, and he had not heard it since, until the students played it. It was enough to make him sorrowful, and it drew those students to his heart in such a way that he could not express his feelings. They had recalled to his memory a piece of music which he had never been able to find in any music store, and which it was now worth a fortune to him to hear.

I must now make my story short. The nobleman kept the four students in his castle two weeks, became acquainted with them very fully, and learned their object in leaving the university to give concerts. He supplied them with three thousand guldees, and told them that he would pay their expenses at the university for foer years, and that they might have the privilege of making drafts on him at any time.

Their fortune was better than they had reason to expect. Ernest had already written to the owner of the house and garden that he might expect them to take it, so that it was now engaged.

The students returned to the university, and reached there just a few weeks before the end of the year when the house must be ready for the owner. On the evening of the day when the old man promised to appear, he stood below the window in the bright winter moonlight, playing on his old violin. He was true to his word, and expected the promise to be kept. The young men went down to invite him up and told him all that they had done. They showed him the deed for his place and gave it to him. On the following day he formally took possession of it, and they supplied it with furniture aed with groceries for housekeeping.

The yoeng men felt that they were amply repaid for their kalthiness to their word by the gratitude and joy of the old man. But they were not only repaid in feelings; they were more than repaid even in mooey.

Fourteen years after that time that place came luto their possession; for the old man had died aud bequathed it to them in his will. That part of the town rose suddenly lu value. Many things contributed to its increased value which I will not now enumerate. It is eough to say, that in seventeen years form the time the four students gave the deed of that house and garden to the old musician, the same property which had cost two thousand guldees was worth eighty thousand. The students therefore were not merely repaid in heart, but also in money. They had kept their word, aed the memory of being faithful to their word, even to the poor old man who had no power to compel them lo he true to it, was a pleasant memory as long as they lived.

Be true to your word, children, no matter what it costs you!

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Since the publication of our last issne the general market has undergoee no variatioe worthy of special notice. Sugar and Molasses have been quiet, aed Western Prodece has disclosed about the usual movement; while operations in our leading staple have been of a restricted character, attended, however, with a reactioeary tendency, the market closing yesterday with a firmer feeling.

COTTON — Oe Saturday the enquiry was of a restricted character from the opening to the close, aed notwithstanding factors were geeerally disposed to sell at the ruling rates, buyers, le aeticipation of further weakness, held aloof, aed heece the sales were confiued to 2400 bales. Oe Monday there was a liberal movemeet, hnt the stringent claims of holders, in coenection with the limited supplies oe sale, to which may be added the heavy depreciation in Gold and Exchange, exercised a depressieg infineece on operatioes, and consequently the transactions were limited to 1400 bales at hardeeing prices. Yesterday being the opening day of the Louisiana State fair, there was very little business transacted, beieg confined principally to the execetion of unfinished orders, the sales at the close comprising 900 bales, which is of too limited ae extent to furnish a standard as to the position of prices. We anhjoin, however, our qeotations of Mneday evening, with the remark that the demand has been chiefly confiued to the higher descriptions:

Low	—	to —
Ordinary	26	to 28
Good Ordinary	31	to 30
Low Middling	31	to 32
Middling	—	to —

TOBACCO—There was again some enquiry on foreign acconnt and there were sales of 29 hogsheads Light Leaf at—, aed 26 hhds good rich Clarksville Leaf at 12c per lh. The market is quiet hot firm, aed factors refuse to make the concessions asked for hy beyers. A few hhds were taken for baling and for the city trade and we continee to qnote:

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to 4½	Currency.
Good do	5 to —	— to 5½
Commoe Leaf	6 to —	— to 7½
Fair	8 to —	— to 10
Good	11 to —	— to 12
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec's	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—The receipts of the new crop continne small but they are qnite sufficient for the demand, which is only local and very limited. There is some demand Fully Fair to Prime, old process, hnfother descriptions are dnll and clarified is very much neglected, while all descriptions have declined fnily ½c per lh. The sales on Saturday and Monday were confiued to 230 hogsheads, in various lots, at prices ruling within the range of the following rates and leaning to the inside figures: Inferior 8½ to 8¾c, Common 10 to 10½c, Fair 11 to 11½c FnHy Fair 11¾ to 12c Prime 12¼ to 12⅝c, Choice 13¼ to 13½c, Yellow clarified 13 to 13½c, White Clarified 14c.

MOLASSES — The supplies are small bnt amply sufficient for the demand, which is very limited, and prices have declined abont 10c per gallon. Choice Molasses is in some request for the local trade and for shipment, but the medium qualities are neglected, and the lower grades are very dnll. The sales on Saturday and Monday embraced 875 barrels, mostly at 50c per gallon for Inferior, 57o for Common, 60 to 62c for Fair, 65c for Prime, and 68 to 75c for Choice—the inside figures ruled on Monday. Yesterday the sales were confined to 350 bbls and 29 half barrels at the foregoing prices.

FLOUR— The demand since last Friday has been restricted to the higher grades, but the stringency of holders have to a great extent prevented sales of magnitude, and the transactions on Saturday and Monday did not exceed 2500 barrels, within the range of the following prices: $10 50 for Fine, $11 for Superfiee, $11 50 to $12 75 for Single Extra, $13 to $13 50 for Double do, $13 75 to $15 50 for Treble do, and $15 to $16 50 per bbl for Choice Family do.

PORK— The market has been exceedingly dull, and only a few retail transactions have transpired at $29 to $29 50 per bbl for Even-weight Mess. Large lists will not command over $28 50 per bbl.

BACON—Prices, since our last report, have fallen off about ½ to ¾c per lb for Shoulders and Sides, and we now quote Shonlders at 15½ to 15¾c, Ribbed Sides at the same, and Clear do at 15c per lb. Green Shoelders at 13c Bacon Hams at 16 to 17c Sugar-cured do at 20 to 26½c per lh

LARD—The decline in the West has placed prices more within the views of buyers, and we now qnote Prime in tierce at 14 to 14½c, and do in kegs, at 15½c per lb.

CORN—The supply is fair, hnt the enqnlry is only moderate, and the transactions on Saturday and Monday were restricted to 6000 sacks at prices ranging from $1 34 to $1 37 per bushel for Mixed, Yellow and White. Yesterday nothing of any consequence transpired.

OATS.—There is only a moderate stock on hand, and prices since our last report, remain about the same. The sales since the above specified time embrace about 3000 sacks at 60 to 62½ per bushel.

BRAN—The stock on hand, thoegh not large is sufficiently ample to meet the present demand, which is being supplied at $1 40 to $1 45 per 100 lbs, at which rate about 3500 sacks were disposed of on Saturday and Moeday.

HAY— The majority of the late arrivals are of an inferior quality of Ohio River. We qnote Prime St. Louis at $29, Fair do. and Ohio River at $28 to $28 50 per ton.

BALE ROPE— There has been no transactions of magnitude for some time past, and in the absence of sales we quote it at 14c per lb.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is greatly redeced, bnt the demand is very active at 11 to 12c per lh.

INDIA BAGGING—The supply in first hands is nearly or quite exhausted, and dealers are supplyieg the demand at 33c for rolls, and 34c per yard for bales.

GUNNY BAGS— We have heard of sales of 100 bales at 28½c a piece.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The market is overstocked with Western Butter, which is very dull at 20 to 35c per lb according to quality. Northern Butter is selling at 40 to 45c per lb. The inside figures for both are the rates for the larger lots. Cheese is in good supply and commands 16 to 18c for Western and Northern. We qnote English Dairy at 23 to 25c per lh.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. The stock of Louisiana is heavy, and with only a light demand, prices are lower. We now qnote 10 to 12c per lb, according to quality. The supply of India is emplc, and is held at 10 to 11c per lh for Choice.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY,
Wednesday evenieg, Nov. 20, 1866

Western Beef, choice per lb net	—	to	—
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lh net	8	to	10
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35	to	45
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20	to	35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$10	to	20
Hogs per lh gross	8	to	12
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25	to	$4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	—	to	—
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50	to	$3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	—	to	$9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100	to	$150
Milch Cows, per head	$50	to	$80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12	to	$25
Yearlings, per head	$ 5	to	$12
Calves per head	$7 00	to	$12

DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,

(In the Spacious and Elegant Story Building,)

Is constantly in session under able Professors. It was founded in 1832, and is chartered by the State. Its former students may be found as Principals or Book-keepers in a large portion of the old houses of this city and over the Southern States. Ladies or gentlemen can attend the COMMERCIAL COURSE; or Book-keeping, Penmanship, Mathematics, English, French or Spanish, separately. A business education, that enables one to earn $1000, $2000, or $3,000 annually, is the best fortune parents can give their sons. A DIPLOMA from this College is a passport in all Commercial communities. Ladies and Gentlemen are invited to call. We have ample arrangements for 1000 students the present year. Liberal arrangements made for Clergymen or their sons and crippled soldiers. Catalogues sent to all who desire them.

RUFUS DOLBEAR,
nov 17 1y President.

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.

RICHARD ANGELL,

156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles

PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,

Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.

Chill Drops, the best cerative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c.; Bardotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)

Has established himself at No 109 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted npon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lebanon, Tenn — CHAS. S. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La

STEWART & BROTHER,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,

NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS
o27 1y

J. R. POWELL,

COTTON FACTOR,

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

190 Common Street,

W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & James. } NEW ORLEANS

Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Duck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. G. ELLIS. — W. O. CHAMBERLIN

ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Prodnce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the pnblic. jan20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,

46 Carondelet street, New Orleans,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,

General Commission Merchants,

And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,

Wholesale Grocer,

Nos. 8 and 10 Tchonpitonlas Street,

And 8 and 10 New Levee,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,

MUSIC PUBLISHER,

Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nunns," "Guild" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c

oct27 6m 167 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. — D. M. HOLLINGSWORTH

R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,

CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,

Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,

f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. K. WALKER. — THOS. M'KNIGHT. — J. F JOHNSON.

R. K. WALKER & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

an20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

DRY GOODS,

Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS

R PEET—R WILLIAMSON
P SIMMS—J BOWLIEU } aug25 1y

LOEB, SIMON & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

86 Canal Street,

sep1 3m NEW ORLEANS.

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.

HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.

Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.

Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jan20-1y

G. & T. F. SEARING,

Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in

CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS

No. 29 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

oc13 1y NEW ORLEANS.

D. L. CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. — F. M. ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile

CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,

o13 No, 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

R. BLEAKLY & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 56, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,

Corner Poydras and Tchoupitonlas sts.,

NEW ORLEANS.

All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of Mr. J. P. GIRAULT, (formerly with the house of Messrs Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,

Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

No. 190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

ang18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. — JOS. HOY. — CHAS. HARDENBERGH

CARROLL, HOY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,

aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aog18 1y

JOHN O. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. — BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.

PARHAM & BLUNT,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,

No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

ang11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,

General Commission Merchants and

COTTON FACTORS,

57 Poydras street.

Cottoe Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. ang4ly

STEWART, GALBREATH & FIZER

Commission Merchants & Cotton Factors,

46 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Andrew Stewart, New Orleans.
Wm. R. Galbreath, Wm Stewart, John C. Fizer, } Memphis.

sep1 3m

SAM'L. BARRETT. — CHS. LESASSIER.

BARRETT & LESASSIER,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

118 CARONDELET STREET,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. — A. H. MAY

STEVENSON & MAY,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY, Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug 18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. — C. B. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.

HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. — H. B. ALSOBROOK.

WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. a18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

No. 32 Union Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE, W. C. H. DAMERON, — G. W. HUNTINGTON, H. M. PAYNE.

je23-1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. — SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.

TOM & SAM HENDERSON,

COTTON FACTORS

AND

General Commission Merchants,

190 COMMON STREET,

je9 1y New Orleans

J. O. M'ALLISTER — E. M'NAIR

M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,

WHOLESALE GROCERS,

No. 74 Common Street,

ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

GARY W. BUTT. — WM. FLASH. — THOS. T. A. LYON

BUTT, FLASH & LYON,

Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.

Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.

Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,

New Orleans.

J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. jnly7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. — WATTS, CRANE & CO. New York.

W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.

GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignements to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool. feb3-1y

W. A. BELL, — FRED N. OGDEN, — H. E. WITHERSPOON

WM. A. BELL & CO.,

General Commission Merchants,

And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Genny Bags, Coffee and Western Prodnce, 41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30-1y

J. L. WARREN — T. W. CRAWFORD — F. B. FLEITAS

WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 6m

THOS. A HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. — JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.

HAMILTON & DUNNICA,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

42 Union street, New Orleans.

sep22 1y

L. E WALKER, Missouri. — O. R FISHER, New Orleans.

WALKER & FISHER,

Commission & Forwarding Merchants

NO. 6 (GROUND FLOOR) CARONDELET ST., N. O.

Solicit consignments of all kinds of Manufactured Goods, and will make liberal advances on same.

GEO. W. WALKER, JUN., late of the firm of Harper, Walker & Co., will give his personal attention to the sale of all consignments to our House. sep22 2m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,

Wholesale Dealers in

Fancy Goods,

STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,

HOSIERY,

Furnishing Goods, etc.,

35 MAGAZINE STREET,

Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La

ang25 1y

PETER G. TAYLOR. — CHAS. H. CHURCHILL.

HARDWARE AND GUNS.

TAYLOR & CHURCHILL,

41 Magazine Street, and 20 Bank Place, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) New Orleans, La.

DIRECT IMPORTERS,

We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.

COTTON AND WOOL CARDS; NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.

Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.

GUNS, NAILS, AXES, SAWS, TIN WARE, HOLLOW WARE, &c.

Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations. Orders from the country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832. aug25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,

Grocers and Commission Merchants,

95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of

CHAMPAGNE,

BRANDIES,

WHISKIES,

CLARET,

CORDIALS, Etc.

Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, suitable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the

Most reasonable Rates.

Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.

W H HENNING & CO,
a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and

PLANTATION CLOTHING,

No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET, (SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS

Sales guaranted at New York prices. a18 1y

A. B. GRISWOLD. — W. M. GOODRICH

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

Corner of Canal and Royal streets,

[Late HYDE & GOODRICH],

Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!

MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,

Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.

The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

JAMES SYME,

Wholesale Druggist,

139 CANAL STREET, (Touro Buildings,)

NEW ORLEANS.

Importer and Dealer in Fine DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES, Fancy Goods an Perfumery.

Surgical Instruments, French, English, and American, of every variety

—Also—

Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags.

aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF, Wholesale Grocer,

COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,

48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st.,

aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,

HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD

Established, August, 1861

Destroyed, May, 1863.

Re-established, January, 1866.

SALES ROOMS,

C. E. CATE & CO.,

18 CAMP STREET, 18

Under the City Hotel.

We respectfully call the attention of all partie desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of

LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF,

AND KIP BROGANS,

Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.

We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.

A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.

C. E. CATE & CO.
feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W. C. SHEPARD. — A. L. ABBOTT. — ROBT C. HUTCHINSON

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,

No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,

Nearly opposite Picayune Office,

CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,

PLATED WARE,

House Furnishing Goods,

AND KITCHEN WARE.

We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.

Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Established in 1837.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,

Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W COFFIN & CO.,

102 & 104 East Second street,

Cincinnati, Ohio,

Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.

Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our improved Rotary Yoke.

All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.

Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free npon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

No. 27 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS

Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices

Special attention given to orders.

Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,

Corner of St. Andrew Street,

oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,

Successors to D. Genella,

112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,

Dealers in

CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,

Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,

PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.

Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,

77 Magazine Street,

oct6 0m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]

EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL

Hat Emporium,

No 62 CAMP STREET,

Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. a18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY

DRAKE & MARKHAM,

Manufacturers of

Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Children's

BOOTS AND SHOES,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La

We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.

We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.

OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!

Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.

Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.

One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.

We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.

Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.

All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of

DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP STREET.
ang18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE

Is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family. Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delay of your daily meals, may be saved by using the

CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.

Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever tried.

The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top

has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.

The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.

The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove—the most perfect maener to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from meats during the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.

The Hot Closet, in which meats and pastry are kept warm for hours when there has been a delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and deserts, and place them hot upon the table.

The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.

Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Bright Tools, etc.

RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,
93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras,
and 565 Magazine street, near Magazine Market.
sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN

PRICE'S

Patent Texas Tonic,

PURELY VEGETABLE.

It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Pulpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for

CHILLS AND FEVERS.

For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.

For sale at 59 Camp street, New Orleans.

THOS. K. PRICE, Vendor.

Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of

PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,

Or, Vegetable Medicine.

T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:

DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate use and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been sufferieg from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefitted.

Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,

We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City N. O.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Office
T. GREENEFIELD, of house of Fellows & Co
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. HANSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce.

New Orleans, June, 1863.

TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$1 00
6 " "	2 50
8 " "	3 00
12 " "	5 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.

All orders will meet with prompt attention.

sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,

PAPER WAREHOUSE,

No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and St Charles streets, New Orleans.

Newspaper of the following sizes: 22 by 31, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 34 by 48.

Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams' Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Sons' Type. sp1-1

J. B. JENNINGS. — J. W. WICKE. — M. J. WICKE.

JENNINGS, WICKS & BRO.

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

aly 30 PERDIDO STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

O HORTER, Late of Magee & Kneass, N.O. — T K PETERSON, Late of Goff & Peterson, Philedelphia. — E O FENNER, New York

HORTER, PETERSON & FENNER

(Sign of the Black Horse,)

MANUFACTURERS OF SADDLES HARNESS, AND TRUNKS.

Importers of Saddlery & Coach Hardware

7 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

s22 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,

17 Chartres Street,

Lately received Carpeting of all kinds and qualities; Floor Oil Cloth of all qualities, which we cut to suit rooms; Curtain Materials, Lace Curtains, Cornices and Bands in great variety; Window Shades, Hair Cloth, Crumb Cloths, Table and Piano Covers, China and Cocoa Matting, of all widths.

oc13 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 40.
WHOLE NUMBER ~~612~~ 612

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1866.

$3 00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.
OFFICE—112 CAMP STREET.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate:

THE FUNDAMENTAL TRUTHS OF CHRISTIANITY.

From the German, by Prof. J. B. Ahrens.

FIRST PAPER.

The paradoxical views of the world in their historical development.

Biblical orthodoxy and heterodoxy are incessant combatants. True, the former can rehearse many victories; but the latter also, and especially at present, can boast of brilliant successes. Two circumstances contribute to the success of modern scepticism: a hundred years back Christianity was still largely supported by the moral force of various, though very uncertain traditions—traditions which amounted to nothing less than superstition; but all these supposed pillars of the true faith have been swept away by the flood of civilisation. So also were the onsets on Christianity, in those days, very erratic and desultory; whereas now they are made on a systematic plan. It is hence the imperative duty of every man, deserving that epithet, candidly to investigate the fundamental truths of Christianity. Says Goethe: "The real, sole and profoundest theme of man's and the world's history, is and remains forever the conflict between belief and unbelief."

Christianity entered the lists of hostile thoughts with a radically new view of the world. Its very first fundamental principles of the unity of God, and unity of the human race, produced a revolution in the heads of the learned world. That the stranger was not an enemy, but our "neighbor;" that man's life was to be a life of service and self-sacrifice for others; whom had that formerly entered into the mind? And again, that the Kingdom of God should be organized on earth to which all people were to be gathered, what philosopher had ever conceived the idea? To us these are household thoughts; nor do they lose their grandeur and beauty when they are familiarly realized.

It is obvious that this new view of the world should not have been at once universally adopted. Although the world of the unique thought had been dissolved, philosophy attempted to substitute in its place the systems of heathenism. But she never proceeded beyond her aristocratic sphere. Hence mysticism was brought into requisition. Herculean efforts were made to restore the heathen mode of thinking. This was the New Platonism of Alexandria. But it was conquered.

The middle ages were emphatically the time for the universal sway of the Christian view of the world. Regardless of the corruption that may have characterized this time, the able productions of poetry and works of art which date to this period, give conclusive evidence that then Biblical scepticism was little heard of. So it has never been again. Then was reason the advent to faith, philosophy to theology.

But in the fifteenth century, through the rival of classical learning in Italy, heathenism again threatened mankind with its mastery. Then, however, the Reformation came to the rescue of Christianity. To this German Reformation does indeed the Church of the Occident owe the fortunate circumstance that the heathen spirit of universal negation of all things revealed, was for over three hundred years immoveably fettered. Only in the eighteenth century that spirit was enabled to commence, where three hundred years previous he had been compelled to break off his pernicious operations.

The next exhibition of the same was Socinianism, which combatted the doctrine of the Trinity, but supported that of a divine revelation. The English Deism of the 17th and 18th centuries went a step further: it denied the divinity of the Bible; but did not touch the doctrine of a God, of virtue, and of a life in the world to come. In France deism degenerated into naked atheism. According to it all spirit was mere matter, and, therefore, the soul was taught to be mortal.

In Germany this movement was more slowly, but, therefore, also more dangerously developed. The Germans wanted religion and ethics, but no mystery. It was taught that only that what was obvious to the human reason could be true. Kant and his rationalism reduced all religion to a mere system of ethics, still retaining, however, the doctrines of a personal God, man's free agency and the soul's immortality. But Pantheism abolishes all this. To it, God and the world are synonimous terms, two names for the same thing, two sides of the same world, the one the inside, the other the outside. There is no spirit, no soul, all is simply the activity of matter: this is its wisdom.

OUR PASTORATE.

Mr. Editor: Our Conference session is a time of interest to our Church, both to preachers and people, and as our pastorate differs in some respects from other churches, I desire to call attention to a few facts in this connection.

1st. The right to choose.

This right to choose a pastor, is surrendered by the people, and also by the preachers, and is mutually placed in the hands of a third party, viz., the Bishop. Some excuse themselves from any obligations, because they have taken no part in choosing their pastor. In this they are mistaken, for if they empower another to act for them, that act becomes their own. This obligation between pastor and people is not always felt by our people, as it should be; for instance, we see too many of our members consult their own tastes in this respect. The preacher does not exactly suit their tastes perhaps, and for that reason they absent themselves from the church service, and I fear their sabbaths are unprofitably spent, or they attend some other Church. Again, this obligation is ignored by neglecting the pastor in other respects; for instance, some member has a wonderful baby, and it must be baptized; some other minister is sent for to do it, and of course a handsome present must be given him. Or some of the family dies, and a preacher is sent for, to come from another place, to preach the funeral. Or perchance, some of the young people are to be married, and some other minister comes and performs the ceremony; all the while the pastor is in his place ready to do his work. Members of other churches act more wisely.

Now, Mr. Editor, as I am an old man, I venture a little advice: soon the Conference will be over and the preachers will go to the new appointments. Let the brethren and sisters make the acquaintance of the pastor as soon as convenient, and make him feel that you recognize him as your pastor. Treat him with due respect, and you will not only win his confidence, but his affections also; when you have heard him preach, be careful how you speak of his performance, especially before the world, for your opinion will have its influence on his future usefulness. As you are returning from church, some one will ask, how do you like the new preacher? how does he preach? Don't say, "ah, so so." Such a reply will throw obstacles in the way of the good man. Mutual confidence will be essential to success. The pastor will need all the help he can get, he may not have the prestige of a name to attract a congregation; in this he will need the assistence of his membership. When you go in company, mention the church and especially the preacher; let them know you feel an interest in the church, and others will be interested also.

An Old Man.

Lexington, Nov. 19th, 1866.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

ENCOURAGING WORDS.

Bro. Keener: With your permission, I will say a few words to the preachers engaged in the itinerant work, that we may not feel discouraged in regard to our support for another year; for, be assured that God will take care of us if we take care of His cause and Kingdom. The commission is, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. Now, Brethren, as we are called of God to the work of the ministry, let us go and do that work, trusting God for the support of ourselves and families. Our people need encouragement, and if we, as the servants of Christ, begin to murmur in regard to our future prospects, will it not discourage the people. When our leaders tremble, what are we to expect of the army. The Lord has, perhaps, led us out into the wilderness, but if we are faithful, He will not forget us. The ark is His, and he is ever mindful of it, and his eye will follow, and his hand support it; if we will present the gospel to the people in its true light, then we can feel assured that God will care for us. If He care for the little "sparrow," that flies in the air, will He not care for us, "His chosen vessels to carry his gospel to the poor and suffering people of earth." Let us stand and see the salvation of God.

We have just passed through a bloody war; and often have we heard the poor soldiers complain, and wonder where their supplies would come from. During the last three years of the war, it seemed that, starve we must; and it is true, that rations were short, but did you ever hear of a soldier starving to death? Our rations were short, but we lived, and always eat what we could get, feeling thankful to God for it. I have lived for days on parched corn and beef, and right glad to get it. Can we not go and preach the gospel, and take the same fare? Are we not willing to make the same sacrifice for the Kingdom of Christ, that we made for our country? Let us take our blanket, clothes, and rations in our haversacks, and go and preach Christ and Him crucified. I now say, "to the Conference," send me where you please, and I gladly go. The poorest circuit you have, is good enough for me. Let us get back to the early days of Methodism, when our fathers traveled on large circuits, and carried all they had with them, and received but little or nothing for their labor. As ministers, we need more faith. We need a fresh baptism of the Holy Ghost. We should go forth and make no provision for the flesh, saying, what shall we eat, etc., but trust God for the future. Let us have the spirit of the Apostles, and then God will bless us. When we go up to Conference, if we resign ourselves into the hands of the Lord, He will care for us, and his work will prosper in our hands. Let us not surrender the Kingdom of our Master, but sacrifice all we have for it.

J. J. Grace.

Eastern Shore, Aln.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died on the evening of Nov. 12, 1866, Mrs. SARAH McDONALD, mother of the Rev Dr Watkins of Natchez and relict of the late Asa Watkins of "Oakwood," Jefferson county, Miss, in the 81st year of her age.

The deceased was born near Columbia, South Carolina, and came to Mississippi in 1801. Her eighty years of life were wisely and industriously employed. Never had mortal more completely filled the measure of duty, and never did mortal more joyfully put on immortality. "Death was swallowed up in victory."

Almost half a century is passed since I learned to gaze up into the face of my then beautiful mother or toddle at her side as she walked across the hill to spend an hour at her parents. Her father was a revolutionary soldier, and she was born near Columbia, South Carolina, Sept. 13, A. D., 1786. The family removed to Georgia— thence through Tennessee and down Mississippi river to the mouth of Cole's Creek, where they landed on the 7th of April, 1801. Her parents were poor, but energetic, industrious and frugal. The children labored and the profits of toil clothed and fed them. There were no school's then and a scant education was all that they could acquire. In 1802 my father came away from Georgia and after spending a few months in the vicinity of Natchez, bought a tract of land adjoining the settlement of my grandfather. Here he built his log cabin, cleared his field and earned his bread. Honest, industrious, generous, happy and young, he and my mother met and loved and wedded. Together they walked to their forest home on the morning of the 12th September, A. D., 1804. Here they shared young life—he to his field, she to her house, or if need be, to his help in the culture of his crop. Fortune came slowly, for they courted her not.

The fruitful soil, the abundant game, the pleasant neighborhood attracted the adventurer, and society took on the forms of order and association. From industry to plenty, and from plenty to ease, the steps were easy and natural. The forests bent to the axe of the woodsman, and the deer and bear sought a deeper solitude. Civilization, law, education, religion, built themselves temples and altars, and fashioned a community not surpassed in intelligence and refinement by any in the State. Upon a hill, a stone's throw from the "old house," the new one was built. Around it rose the barn, the gin, the quarters,—all the appliances of plantation life,—and here the children labored or went to school. On the 7th of November, 1840, my father died, honored, loved, regretted by his neighbors, almost adored by his family. Eleven children had been born to them. One died in infancy. The eldest son, at the time representative of Jefferson County in the State Legislature, died of cholera in 1834, in his 27th year. The youngest died of yellow fever in 1853, in his 27th year. Eight survive, whose average is over 52 years.

As I remember my mother when she was less than 35 years old, she was industrious and frugal. A keeper at home, she lived in and for her children. That they should be educated—should be honest and honored—that she might see the father in her growing boy seemed her delight. The dip of Scotch was too deep for her nature to be passive, but her native good sense, her quick perception, her discretion, her thorough conviction of high moral obligation, made her a wise, indulgent, prudent taking, mother; not blind to the faults of her children; not petulent if they went wrong; not capricious in her temper, and not indulgent toward the refractory. She could administer chastisement without stirring resentment, and overlook or forgive a fault without encouraging disobedience. My mother was a woman of great energy. She had been taught the art of helping herself, and it grew to be second nature. Her memory was remarkable; nothing was forgotten, and at home, abroad, by the sick bed, everywhere, her memory, her discretion, her great practical nature, gave her pre-eminence.

Late in life she became eminently pious. Her proud and high-wrought nature yielded to the influences of divine grace, and she was a child in meekness, retaining all the strength and ardor of maturity. Longing for release from a life of care, from years of feebleness, she was busy still, and still found delight in that ancient hospitality which brought the children of the neighborhood around her table, and the friends who survived into earlier life's fond associations.

My mother was large and finely proportioned. Her eye was brilliantly black; her features all indicating discretion, energy and firmness. She had inherited a fine constitution, and her busy life gave her healthful enjoyment. Though she had entered her eighty-first year, there were no evidences of mental feebleness, and when upon her feet she stood erect and moved with the quickness and elasticity of earlier days. She had enjoyed life, for she had occupied it with deeds of usefulness. Her share of human duty has been nobly done, and now that she sleeps awhile, the God in whom she trusted will watch over her until her waking.

Sunnyside, Nov. 18, 1866.

From the Texas Christian Advocate.

LETTER FROM BISHOP MARVIN.

Mr. Editor: I have been now since the 1st day of September traveling and holding conferences in Texas and in the Indian territory. In every instance I have had barely time to reach the seat of our conference after the close of the proceedings. A gracious Providence has been over me throughout the tour. I have not had one hour's interruption of travel from bad weather, and with the exception of a slight indisposition for a day or two at Brenham, my health has been perfect, or, at least, as nearly so as it ever is. I mention this out of gratitude to God.

In ecclesiastical affairs, there are traces everywhere of the disorganizing tendencies of the war times. A certain depression and apprehensiveness of feeling have had an unfriendly effect upon religion. The preachers have not been supported. Blasted expectations have induced some degree of skepticism in many minds. In short, the church has had many and great embarrassments to encounter. But the christian faith is too vital to be destroyed. It meets the deepest wants of our nature in a manner that must forever prevent its being discredited by any temporary condition of affairs. The truth is, after full allowance is made, for the individual defections, and the general discouragement of the past few years, the church has come grandly through the ordeal, and is to day a wonderful spiritual power in Texas, and is in the act of girding herself for new conquests in the coming time. The reaction has already fairly set in. A healthy tone is everywhere manifest.

I dreaded greatly at the outset a scarcity of preachers to supply the work. In this I have found myself, for the most part, happily disappointed. In two of the conferences only have I been really embarrassed from this cause—the Indian mission and Texas conferences. Several young men of the right sort could be employed especially in the Columbus district, Texas conference. The supply is a little short in the West and Northwest Texas conferences, though in these the work is tolerably well filled up. East Texas is more adequately supplied than any other.

The animus of all the conferences I consider decidedly good. The only drawback is from the fact that so many of the preachers have been driven by inadequate support into secular employments of various descriptions. This greatly lessens the force of the ministry in various ways.

All the preachers in Texas are determined to maintain good and cordial relations between the various conferences in the State. This is highly important. Conference jealousies are injurious, in many ways, and in no case nor in any degree beneficial. These preachers, I think, are too large-minded to indulge them. Harmony and cordial good will are necessary in Texas for the reason that their publishing interests are all united in the Advocate and Book Depository at Galveston.

Much depends on the energy with which these interests are prosecuted. Let me urge upon the preachers the duty of circulating our literature. Much depends upon this. Get the Discipline, Hymn books, Catechisms, and Advocate into every family. Work away at it. Don't be discouraged. Keep talking about it and working at it until it is done. If you progress slowly, still remember that every inch of ground gained in that direction is worth much labor and pains. And see that the children learn the Catechisms. It will do a world of good.

It would gratify my heart to mention all the personal kindnesses I have received in Texas. But even the names I should have to write would fill one number of the Advocate, perhaps. At least they would overfill the space of a reasonable communication. May the blessing of God rest upon them all. The dear christian families in which I have been entertained so cordially can never be forgotten. May the peace which passeth understanding abide with them!

I close this tour of conferences with mingled emotions. Perhaps I have committed some blunders. I trust not many nor great ones. One thing I can say: I have never lost sight of the fact that I am working for God, and must give account to Him of the great trusts committed to my charge. I have in no single case had any private interest or feeling to gratify. I have looked only to His glory and the advancement of the Church. I have given my mind wholly to this business. I have "drawn all my cares and studies this way." If mistakes have been made, may God forgive them, and forstall the evil result! But upon a review of my work I cannot see how I could have done otherwise than I have in every case.

I leave Texas, at least for a season, with the most cordial feeling toward every preacher and all the people whom I have met. I pray and hope for a prosperous year in the conferences. May the power of the Highest rest on all the preachers and all the charches.

E. M. Marvin.

Galveston, Nov. 19, 1866.

The Itinerant Family.

In the closing prayer of the late session of the Louisville Conference, offered by Rev. Dr. Linn, a most affecting allusion was made to the wives and children of many of the then assembled ministers about to receive their appointment for another Conference year. The loved ones at home were referred to as sitting in the quiet of their own family chambers, each family thinking and speaking, tearfully it might be, of an absent husband and father, and of the then closing scenes of Conference, and wondering what was to be their destiny for the ensuing year. Many hearts were stirred to deepest depths, and many eyes were suffused with tears, for thought flew with electric speed to homes near and remote, and looked in upon the anxious ones there. And each husband and father saw, as if he had been personally present, his wife and loved ones as portrayed in the beautiful passage of the prayer which so touchingly referred to them; saw them with mental eye; saw to feel, and felt to weep.

Far less on his own account than on account of wife and children, is a true minister and devoted husband and father concerned in reference to his appointment for another year, when the time for a change is at hand. He can make the daily walks and perform the various duties of his city or village station; can make the rounds on his circuit or district in all the varieties of weather that the successively occurring seasons of the year may bring; endure uncomplainingly all the hardships and privations incident to his work; show himself equal to any emergencies concerning himself that may arise, and feel and affirm with the apostle that "none of these things move me."

But for his sensitive wife and dependent children he feels, as he feels not for himself, and manifests, on their account, a solicitude for the future he would scorn to to evince if self alone were involved. While he may enjoy the social pleasures of pastoral life, and often be called to share the profuse hospitality which every circuit affords, in rich abundance to the visiting minister, his enjoyment may be marred by the consciousness that an inconvenient and uncomfortable house is the home of his family; that while the tables of his parishioners, at which he may feast, may be crowned with plenty, and invite him to epicurean excess by the display of temptling delicacies and luxuries, his own table may scarcely afford the loved ones that surround it the necessaries of life, unless procured at the peril of an onerous debt, to disturb him like a nightmare vision in the future. That while he may have no occasion to complain of a want or cordiality on the part of the people among whom it may be his lot to circulate, his family may have some ground of complaint in that respect; for while our ministers' families are very generally located in communities that are socially inclined, and are the recipients of such social attentions from the families of our Church contiguous to them as are agreeable to them, yet there are a few instances in which complaints are indulged that the minister's family are socially ignored, and live without the social enjoyments they have shared in other places.

Next to physical comforts and religious privileges are to be prized the social pleasures of a social Christian community. Deny to a minister's family such coveted social enjoyments, and you deprive them of that which gives to the itinerant life one of its large attractions, and contributes to make some of its unpleasant phases endurable.

Now that hundreds of itinerant preachers' families are distributing themselves as strangers among the multiplied thousands of readers of this paper, let us record a plea for these homeless ones that may chance to cast their lot among you. Let not the men and women of the Church be slow to greet the newly-arrived family, but let them hasten to bestow upon them such attentions as will make them feel at home —"feel that they are among friends," and let the beginning of the year give hopeful promise of a pleasant future.—St. Louis Advocate.

Wesleyan Methodist.—It is now pretty well settled that this denomination will not, as a body, elect to unite with other non-Episcopal Methodist Churches, to constitute "The Methodist Church." The work of disintegration in the Wesleyan ranks, nevertheless, goes on. They are dying of Congregationalism.

THE CIRCUIT PREACHER.

Itis thin wife's cheek grows pinched and pale with anxiousness intense;
Ito sees the brethren's prayerful eyes o'er all the Conference;
Ilo hears the Bishop slowly call the long "appointment" rolls,
Where, in his vineyard, God would place these gatherers of souls.

Apart, austere, the knot of grim Presiding Elders sit,
Ito wonders if some city "charge" may not for him have writ;
Certes, oould they his sermon hear on Paul and take awreck,
Then had his talent no'er been hid on Anaamessox Neck!

Poor, rugged heart! be still awhile, and you,
worn wife, be meek!
Twe years of banishment they read, far down
the Chesapeake;
Though Brother Bates, less eloquent, by Wilmington is wooed,
The Lord that counts his sparrows' fall shall feed his little brood.

"Cheer up, my girl! here's Brother Riggs our circuit knows will please—
He raised three hundred dollars there beside the marriage fees.
What! tears from us, who preached the Werd these thirty years or so—
Two years on barren Chincoteague and two in Tuckahoe?

"The schools are good, the brethren say, and our church holds the wheel;
The Presbyterians lost their house, the Baptists lost their zeal;
The parsonage is clean and dry, the town has friendly folk—
Not half so dull as Rehoboth, nor proud like Pocomoke.

"O thy just will, our Lord, be done; though these eight seasons more
We see our ague-crippled boys pine on the Eastern Shore,
While we, thy stewards, journey out our dedicated years,
'Mid foresters of Nanticoke or heathen of Tangiers!"

"Yea! some must serve on God's frontiers, and I shall fall, perforce,
To sew upon some better ground my most select discourse;
At Sassafras or Smyrna, preach my argument
on Drink,
My series on the Pentateuch at Appoquinimink.

"Grey am I, brethren, in the work, tho' tough to bear my part;
It is these drooping little ones that sometimes wring my heart,
And cheat me with the vain conceit, the cleverness is mine
To fill the churches of the Elk and pass the Brandywine.

"These hairs were brown when, full of hope,
entering these holy lists,
Proud of my order as a knight, the shouting Methodists,
I made the pine woods ring with hymns, with prayer the night winds shook,
And preached from Assawaman Light far north as Bembay Hook.

"My nag was gray, my gig was new, fast went the sandy miles;
The eldest trustees gave me praise, the fairest sisters smiles;
Still I recall how Elder Smith, of Worton
Heights, averred
My apostolic parallels the best he ever heard.

"All winter long I rode the snows, rejoicing on my way;
At midnight our revival hymns rolled o'er the sobbing bay;
Three Sabbath sermons every week should tire
a man of brass—
And still our fervent membership must have their extra class!

"Aggressive with zeal of youth, in many a warm requite
I terrified Immersionists and scourged the Millerite;
But larger, tenderer charities such vain debates
supplant,
When the dear wife, saved by my zeal, loved the Ignorant.

"No cooing dove, of storms afeard, she shared my life's distress,
A singing Miriam always in God's poor wilderness;
The wretched at her footsteps smiled, the frivolous were still;
A bright path marked her pilgrimage from Blackbird to Snowhill.

"A new inn at the parsonage, at church a double pride!
Like the Madonna and her babe, they filled the
'Amen side.'
Crouched at my feet in the old gig, my boy, so fair and frank,
Cheered the dark swamps of Nascongo, the sluices of Cheptank.

"My cloth drew close; too fruitful love my fruitless life outran;
The townfolks marveled, when we moved, at such a caravan!
I wonder not my boys grew wild, when bright without the door
Spread the ripe, luring, wanton world—and we within, so poor!

"For, down the silent cypress aisles came shapes even me to scout,
Mocking the lean flanks of my mare, my boy's patched roundabout,
And saying, 'Have these starveling beers, thy congregation, souls,
That on their dull heads heaven and thou pour forth such living coals?'

"Then prayer brought hopes, half secular, like seers by Endor's witch;
Beyond our barren Maryland God's folks were wise and rich,
Where climbing spires and easy pews showed how the preacher thrived,
And all the old ones paid their rents, and many young ones wived!

"I saw the ships Henlopen pass, with chaplains fat and sleek;
From Bishopshead with fancy's sails I crossed
the Chesapeake;
In velvet pulpits of the North said my best sermons o'er,
And that on Paul to Patmos driven, drew tears in Baltimore.

"Well! well! my brethren, it is true we should not preach for pelf—
(I would my sermon on St Paul the Bishop heard himself!)
But this crushed wife—these boys—these hairs!
they cut me to the core;
Is it not hard, year after year, to ride the Eastern Shore?

"Next year? Yes! yes! I thank you much!
Then my reward may fall.
(That is a downright fine discourse on Patmos and St Paul!).
So, Brother Riggs, once more my voice shall ring in the old lists.
Cheer up, sick heart, who would not die among these Methodists?"

George Alfred Townsend, Galaxy, Aug. 17th.

Mr. Peabody's Wealth.—An exchange says Mr. George Peabody's fortune is variously estimated, and conjecture is busy, trying to discover what he is worth. In 1851 he was numbered among the millionaires of London, and during the following ten years his business greatly increased. In 1860 he was said to be worth $15,000,000 in gold, and he has endowed various charities in the princely sum of $5,000,000. Mr. Peabody is now probably worth $20,000,000 or $25,000,000, for the increase of his property during the past six years has been considerable. Fortune has not smiled on him in vain, for seldom has so bountiful a giver been numbered among men.

PRETTY COOL.

Our good Bishop Kavanaugh writes to the Nashville Advocate an account of his voyage to California. The letter is interesting, but we have space only for a single item:

It has generally been the habit of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company to have preaching on the ships every Sabbath, when they have a minister aboard. I had always preached for them in the passages I had made on their ships, at the request of the captain of the vessel. Leaving New York the present trip on Saturday, the 1st of September, the next day being the Sabbath, on Saturday evening the purser of the ship asked me if I would read the Episcopal service for them the next day? It occurred to me that the service was well enough in itself, and that I had no farther objection to the service than its general tendency to a dead formality. This deadness may not be a necessary, but is a very usual result. I pondered in my mind the character of this request, and concluded that it was a most singular request; that a minister of more than forty years' standing in the Church, and who by his Church had been placed in the position I occupy, should be called upon to read the service of another denomination. Well, I thought, this is pretty cool. Will the officers of a ship only accept the services of a single denomination? On Sabbath morning, when called upon for the reading of the service, I told the purser that I had concluded that if I held the services, to do so in my own way. He seemed to drop me at once, and inquired if I thought that either of the other clergymen would comply with his request. I told him that I could not say—he had better inquire of them. After a little delay I received a message to please hold the services in my own way, with which request I complied.

On the next Sabbath we were on the Isthmus, which we had to pass over, and make a change of ships, and could have no Divine service. On the third Sabbath we were at Acapulco, the only place of regular stopping between Panama and San Francisco, where we spent the most of the day in taking in coal and water. So our next service was delayed until the fourth Sabbath, the day before we reached San Francisco. On this day, without any consultation with the ministers aboard, the surgeon of the ship read the services. The pertinacity with which this service was insisted upon, induced our Brother Millar to go to the captain to learn whether it was the order of the captain or of the company owning the ships, that this Episcopal service was so uniformly called for. This, he said to the captain, he wished to know, that the public might be informed who are responsible for such a piece of exclusiveness. The captain informed him that it was a standing order of the company, but that it was the usage of the ship, to ask any clergyman who might be aboard to do the reading.

I have been thus particular in the statement of this case, that I might make some remarks upon it, as an interested member of the traveling public.

First, I am gratified at several indications on the part of the company of respect for the Christian religion. They do not allow their ships to leave port, commencing one of their voyages on Sunday. Again, by ordering the observance of the Episcopal Church service, they thereby acknowledge God, by requiring that he shall be publicly worshiped. They thus gratify the religious feelings of their passengers, and set a good example; but, were I in conference with this reputable body of gentlemen on the Divine service on their vessels, I would respectfully suggest that, when practicable, public worship should always be had on the Sabbath day; that when clergymen that hold the great cardinal doctrines of the Christian religion are on board, they be invited to hold service after the manner of their own denomination; that when there is no minister aboard, the services that are now required should be performed; but if possible, have a religious man to lead in the services. It is revolting to a pious heart to see the sacred service conducted in a light and irreverent manner. This seems to be rebuked by the pen of inspiration, Psalms I, 16, 17: "But unto the wicked God saith, what hast thou to do to declare my statutes, or that thou shouldst take my covenant in thy mouth? Seeing thou hatest instruction, and castest my words behind thee."

The Advocate an Assistant Pastor.

We take the following extract from a communication published in the Christian Advocate:

The assistant pastor! He calls weekly. He comes with words of kindness and instruction to the lambs of the flock. Two thirds of the children where the Advocate is read hail its weekly arrival with much the same joy that they would welcome the personal presence of their kind pastor, who never fails to speak words of kindness to them. Because they love it they read it. Reading first the children's department, they inevitably pass to the other departments, and our theology and phraseology, and a love for our economy and peculiarities, becomes a part of themselves. No pastor without this assistant could so "feed the lambs." In every paper there is some word adapted to almost every possible phase of Christian experience, from the babe in Christ to the mature one, ready to be gathered into the heavenly garner. Who can deny his flock, or any member thereof, such faithful ministrations as this assistant pastor never fails to bring? Who can allow a member of his flock to deny himself or family such a treasure, without much the same ontreaty and expostulation as he would use were that one in the neglect of family prayer or other means of grace. From my standpoint I do not regard it a matter of indifference with the pastor whether he circulates our literature or not. This duty is especially imperative upon city pastors. He is culpable beyond measure who does not see that every family has access to our periodicals. It will often require persistent beseeching, but if we may entreat with all long suffering and patience to one duty we must for another. It may require in some instances the aid of charitable contributions. Let it, but do not therefore neglect it.

I have spoken of results. Indulge me in a reminiscence of long years ago as illustrative of my meaning. Twenty-five years ago I found a wealthy farmer, a class-leader, and the father of some eight or ten children, on one of my circuits. He had never taken the Advocate, but was a patron of one of the popular dollar weeklies, which was made up chiefly of novelettes and police reports. Acting upon the conviction it was my duty to furnish that family something better, I set about getting him to subscribe for the Advocate. I failed the first and the second and the third attempt. I could not give it up; and after much importunity I succeeded, but not until near the close of the year. At the time of taking the annual missionary collection I stated the case well as I could, whereupon the class-leader arose and informed me that they did not believe in taking up missionary collections at that appointment. What they believed in was no business of mine, so I took my hat and passed through the congregation. I got just one dime!

Several years afterward, traveling on a steamboat on one of the western waters, I met the old class-leader. Soon after the usual greetings, and inquiries about mutual acquaintances, he called my attention to the abortive missionary collection, adding, "But it is not so now. You induced me to take the Advocate. I have read it attentively ever since. I understand the missionary work now as I did not then. Every member of my family is now a regular contributor." Good, faithful assistant pastor! You had been doing your work during these long years of absence, and had done what the poor pastor had failed to do. That reclaimed class-leader subsequently gave a son and a daughter to the Itinerancy, and other children are now occupying prominent places in Church and State, all remarkable for their systematic liberality.

Traveling among the hills of southern Indiana twenty-four years ago, I came to the cabin of a settler, and received the hospitality so well shown by those men. When I departed I left a copy of Carvosso, and took the name of mine host as a subscriber to the Advocate. Ten years afterward I found a son of this settler struggling through college, working for his board nights and mornings, and paying for his tuition by the proceeds of Saturday's extra labor. He has since filled important places in the army and in civil life. The Advocate more than any one agency led him to seek the education which enables him to be one of the most useful preachers in the West. No bread have I ever cast upon the waters whose gatherings afterward were more manifest than this solicitude for circulating the literature of the Church.

How can any pastor look with indifference upon the labors of such an assistant? Why should not the editors and publishers of our Church papers be remembered in our prayers? Alas! like local preachers, they are too often regarded with cold indifference, as if beyond the pale of ordinary sympathy, because, forsooth, they are not in the "regular work." Regular work! Thereupon I could hang an ower true tale, but I will not now; it does not Belong to this essay on the assistant pastor

The Bible One Book.

A modern philosophical writer of great celebrity, speaking of the Jews, incidentally alludes to "the habit of reading the Bible as if it was one book, which, until lately, was equally inveterate in Christians and in unbelievers." It does not seem to us that this habit is only a thing of the past, but rather that it still continues, and is likely to continue for an indefinite period.

It is surely no novelty that the various portions of Scripture were penned by different persons, at times and often in places far apart, in different languages, and with the greatest diversity of style and manner. Still the book is one in the most obvious and important sense. Not only has it for ages been printed, edited, quoted, explained, attacked, and defended as one, but the results of speculation on this point have confirmed the position. Very few have ever come to receive a part of it as true and inspired, without proceeding, sooner or later, to receive the whole; and still fewer have ever rejected a portion without ultimately rejecting all the rest. The various utterances are interlocked together in a manner curiously close. A chain of mutual dependence runs through the mass, and a separation anywhere must needs give to each division a fragmentary and imperfect appearance.

Artless as the combination of parts appears to a superficial observer, it is yet profoundly systematic and effective. There is a beginning, a middle, and end. The book is the record of a revelation, and this gives it unity. The revelation was made gradually, and this gives the record its diversity. The New Testament is built upon the Old, and the Old foretells and requires as a complement the New. The Epistles presuppose the Gospels, and the Gospels teach us to expect the Epistles. The Pentateuch contains the germs of the Prophets, and the prophetical books refer continually to the Pentateuch.

"Looking unto Jesus."

"Looking unto Jesus," and not unto our brethren, not even to the best and most beloved of them. If we follow a man, we run the risk of losing our way; but if we follow Jesus, we are certain never to go astray. Besides, by putting a man between Christ and us, it happens that the man imperceptibly grows in our eyes, while Christ becomes less, and soon we know not how to find Christ without finding the man, and if the latter fails us, all is lost. But if, on the contrary, Jesus stands between us and our dearest friend, our attachment to our friend will be less direct, and, at the same time, more sweet, less passionate, but purer.

"Unto Jesus," and not to the obstacles we meet in our path. From the moment that we stop to consider them, they astonish and unnerve and cast us down, incapable as we are of comprehending either the reason why they are permitted or the means by which we may overcome them. The Apostle began to sink as soon as he looked at the boisterous billows; but so long as he continued looking unto Jesus, he walked upon the waves as upon a rock. The harder our task and the heavier our cross, the more it behooves us to look unto Jesus only.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 113 Camp st, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. H. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shepard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1866.

TEACHER'S CARD.—An experienced lady teacher, qualified to teach Music, Singing, and French, according to the best method, as well as Drawing and all the English branches, desires a situation in a country Academy or a private family, on low terms. The most respectable references given.
Address: MRS ESTE SHAW,
dec1 3t Mobile, Ala.

JAMES WILLIAM, infant son of Rev Joel Sanders, was born in Calcasieu Parish, La., February 4th, 1865, and died in Cherokee Co., Texas, January 5th, 1866. "Thousands of infant souls compose the family above." CGY.

MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE.

The Montgomery Conference will be held at Jacksonville, Ala., Dec. 5th, 1866.

Ministers who come by public conveyance will report at the Hotel Those who come by private conveyance will report at E. L. Woodward's store, north-west corner of public square.

W. R. Kirk.

To the Preachers of the Montgomery Conference.

The Alabama and Tennessee Rivers R. Road, will convey the preachers to and from Conference, for half fare.

Ample stage room will be in readiness at Blue Mountain, on Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday nights. And by special arrangement the preachers will be conveyed to Jacksonville, for one dollar. Let all come, plenty of room, and a hearty welcome. Those coming by stage will be met at the hotel, and directed to their homes.

L. M. Wilson.

Change of Name and Lay Delegation.

We compile from our exchanges the following vote on these subjects, and will continue to add from time to time until all the Conferences are heard from.

Conferences.	Change of Name. For	Against	Lay Delegation For	Against
Missouri	28	30	40	19
St. Louis	26	12	19	19
Arkansas	24	19	16	29
Louisville	35	31	57	10
Kentucky	45	7	47	4
W. Virginia	15	7	21	1
Holston	51	2	47	7
N. W. Texas	28	00	26	00
Tennessee	55	48	58	41
Memphis	78	43	65	51
N. Carolina	69	3	49	23

Sunday School Visitor.

The first number of the new series of the Sunday School Visitor is to be issued Jan. 1, 1867. Orders for it to supply all the families and schools in the Connection in packages proportioned to the number of children and teachers, ought to be forwarded without delay, that the publishers may know how large an edition to print. The terms are, single copies 50 cents; from five to twenty-five copies to one address, 40 cents; over twenty-five copies, 30 cents a year.

Revival at Fairfax Court-house.—Rev. L. D. Nixon says in the Episcopal Methodist: "We are enjoying some refreshing seasons on old Fairfax Circuit. We have had several meetings of considerable interest, and although we have not yet had any very extensive revival at any one point, yet there is a perceptible improvement throughout the bounds of this charge. Up to this time about forty have professed conversion."

Revival in Washington.—The Episcopal Methodist says: Rev. Wm. V. Tudor favored us with a call on Tuesday of last week. We were glad to learn from him some of the particulars of the gracious work of God which has been in progress for several weeks past at the M Street Church. About one hundred and twenty-five persons have made a profession of religion, and nearly that number have joined the Southern Methodist Church in that city. Brother Tudor is one of the most thorough friends and valuable agents of this paper. It is a very gratifying fact, that the good work in his charge was preceded by a large list of subscribers to the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist.

Home Manufacture.—Mr. Gustave Vom Hofe manufactures excellent pianos in this city. One of them was awarded a premium medal at the recent Fair. See advertisement elsewhere.

THANKSGIVING.

What have we to be thankful for? Our Southern land, what occasion has she to affect any gratitude, amidst the sorrows and destitution which everywhere stare us in the face? Is there anything in the widowhood, orphanage, and material ruin of a "lost cause" to call for thanksgiving?

To many, no doubt, the observance of the day seemed out of place; an ill-timed and tantalizing impertinence. It was too much, to ask that in the freshness of our grief and trouble, we should take down the harps from the willow boughs and tune them to grateful song.

And yet we do not know but there is reason for thanksgiving, notwithstanding the billows that have rolled over us. Our thanksgiving may be for blessings and benefits, altogether different from those which stir the sordid soul. There are those who have made a show of thanking God for the humiliation and misery they have brought upon us. They have feasted on the spoils and booty of a mercenary triumph, and the wealth which has been stripped from the impoverished and famine threatened homes of the South. It was a good day in pious New England. The cheer was generous, the turkeys were fat, and there was something to be glad about. Why should not this godly seed pray, and feast, and give thanks, enriched and made prosperous by plunder and tribute from their neighbors?

Not such thanksgiving as theirs can we, nor would we offer. There is something besides wealth and material prosperity to be grateful for. We may be thankful even for a "lost cause," if it be a good one—good in its purposes, and nobly lost. True thanksgiving to God springs from the loftiest faith, and the profoundest submission. That is gratitude which finds something to feed upon in adversity, and like certain birds, sings its sweetest songs in the night. To be grateful we have only to believe in God, and to see him daily through the medium of a pure heart. That is to Him the most acceptable Eucharist which is offered amidst suffering and disappointment. Thanksgiving from Southern hearts, homes and churches is the sublimest exhibition of humble gratitude, springing, not from the lower and grosser impulses of temporal prosperity, but from faith in Almighty goodness, chastened and purified by trial.

There is peace—it may be an oppressive peace so far; and the country has returned to the pursuits of peace, only to be embarrassed and almost compelled to failure by unwise and oppressive legislation. Peace has tried us more severely than war, but there has been no departure from the candor, truth and integrity which accepted the situation. If in war no stain was upon our arms, there has been in peace no blot upon our sincerity. It is something to be thankful for that we have stood the ordeal so well, and that the record is one of which we need not be ashamed.

Gratitude lives as long as faith in God survives. This faith has been tested and sometimes shaken, but to no great extent has it been uprooted. To allow it to be eclipsed by the result of the war, or the disasters which have befallen our industry, argues ignorance of God's disciplinary economy, and the lessons of history. "Shall we receive good at the hands of the Lord and not evil?" Virtue and truth do not always triumph in this world. Other nations and peoples have suffered as much. Ours is not the first lost cause; nor will it be the last. Meanwhile "the Lord reigneth;" "justice and judgment are the habitation of his throne: mercy and truth go before his face." "Though he slay me yet will I trust in him," is the language of that faith which inspires gratitude under the darkest cloud. It sees mercy, and goodness, and paternal tenderness in the rod, and rises to the sun lit summits whence it can scan the unfolding and ripening purposes of eternal wisdom.

There may be amidst our wrecked fortunes, devastated homes, and blighted fields, more genuine thanksgiving than was ever here before. Compared with the gratitude of oppression, or with that of our own prosperous days, is there not something dearer to God in it? There is something deeper and far more spiritual in it; something that shames the hollowness and cant of the pampered and well fed Pharisee.

The Christian heart is resigned to God; submissive under the dispensations of his providence. Neither God nor angels are dead. The streams of Infinite grace flow on and make glad the city of our God.

Perhaps we have a debt of gratitude, swelled by the accumulation of other and happier years, that needs acknowledgment now. Such should be one of the uses of adversity. It should remind us of past ingratitude when our blessings were less disguised and more upon the surface; and thus, besides driving us to deeper springs of comfort, lead us to render back to God some return for slighted benefits. How contented, happy and thankful we ought to have been in the days of our prosperity. The painful contrast reveals to us how little we appreciated what was lavishly showered upon us. There was no adequate expression of gratitude to the Giver. Few returned to give glory to God. Ungrateful children and unfaithful stewards, we must have been, as the matter stands out in the light of present experience. If renewed prosperity awaits us, shall it be better for the future? Much has been taken from us, but if it shall remind us of past forgetfulness and robbery of God, and lead to a more grateful spirit for the future, there will be compensation.

Gratitude is guaged not by the extent of our blessings, but by their appreciation. The beggar's crust stirs more thankfulness than the millionaire's feast. There may be more gratitude under the rude cabin than ever breathes in the luxurious mansion. Adversity may have taught us this hearty appreciation of every blessing. The home and fireside without wealth are something now; and the plainest and most rugged fare are a kindness sent from heaven. Through suffering we have attained a sober-minded estimate of treasures of which we were once unmindful. Where there is apparently the least to be thankful for, there is the deepest gratitude.

Besides the devout mind is more than ever moved by the tender mercies of God, as displayed in redemption. To the Christian his faith is dearer than ever before. The promises have been verified in these dark days, and the adequacy of religious consolation has been proved. All may have been taken but this, and the soul has been driven in, from every worldly outpost, upon the strong and final reserve. The preciousness of Christ is enhanced by the vanity of everything else. In proportion as other grounds of thanksgiving have been torn from us, does this broader and truer one of religion, become stronger.

On the whole, whilst want, and woe, and grief, and disappointment, cast their shadows darkly and deeply, we believe there is much of temporal good and hope left; enough to inspire a universal doxology. But were it not so, there is in other directions that which should make us grateful. Above all in the Christian hope, and its strong consolation, to which we are driven for refuge. It may be well for us to feel the greater value of spiritual blessings, and to exclaim with Paul, "Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift!"

MOBILE CONFERENCE.

SECOND DAY.

In the early times of the Alabama Conference, "Chickasaha" was thought to be the Ultima Thule of Circuit work. The Conference now convenes upon its banks, at Enterprize, right in the track of Sherman's Raid. It was a brave thing to elect this as the place of its session, and right bravely do these good people sustain it. I am indebted to the hospitalities of Major Henshaw, and his family, refugees from Bayou Sara, for a true Louisiana welcome. After a good look at this Chickasaha creek, and trying to imagine its angry swell, and stretch, in the spring flood, as an item in a circuit, not merely of travel but of health; and after having seen certain regions round about the "Many Mission," of the Louisiana Conference, I do not hesitate to say that "Chickasaha" never was as far beyond the "Pillars of Hercules as that justly celebrated work. After the Methodist Itinerant comes the Locomotive. So here a thriving village has sprung up on the Mobile and Ohio road—a point of considerable trade, rising again out of the ashes of war.

This morning many other members appeared in the Conference, and several visiting brethren were introduced. Among these Dr. J. B. McFerrin, of rugged feature, and strong hearty sense—the exact type of the Western Itinerant. No man has a larger place in the affections of his brethren. His presence puts an audience, specially of Methodist Preachers, at ease, in five minutes; and there are few themes connected with the doctrines and usages of Methodism which he cannot handle with the tact and grasp of a master. He gave a most invigorating statement of the devotion and triumphs of the ministers of the St. Louis, the Missouri, the Kentucky, and the Tennessee Conferences. In the face of poverty, with an all-subduing purpose, they go forth compact, composed, in the spirit and power of their Master, to the work of ministering the Word; and as they march, the Spirit of God hovers and leads in cloud and fire. The people are moving under the divine pressure, responsive and repenting. In the Tennessee Conference 6000 members were added during the year.—Those present who had come up from the struggles and dark waters of the past year, palpitated with the recital of the heroic sacrifices and achievements of their comrades in the Faith.

Various Church papers presented themselves to the Conference, in writing or in person. But the Mobile Conference does not waver in its support of the New Orleans Christian Advocate. The Book Agent sent up a flattering statement of the success and financial condition of the Publishing House.

THIRD DAY.

The Conference assembles with probably as many present as will visit it during the session. It is a matter of regret that several of the most venerable of its members are absent: Rev. E. V. Larest, and my first Presiding Elder, the Rev. Granberry Garrett. They are still abiding in a green old age. The Rev. T. S. Abernethy looks not quite so vigorous as he did twenty-five years ago, but continues effective. The body is one of admirable poise and polish; if defective at all, it is in the absence of what may be called the bone-making element. There is a great deal of rough work to be done in this rough world. God calls men of strength without regard to finish to do His work—men like Peter, straightway from nets and seashore associations. Methodism has rejoiced in the possession of many such inspired sons of thunder. College training would shear them of their strength and glory. The Church has use for all the baptized genius and scholarship that she now has, and as much more, in the Pulpit: but for every one called from the more educated classes, she needs two from among the great body of the people. There is no other way of reaching the people or keeping among the people.

It seems that the more difficult and impoverished parts of the work are but partially represented in the Conference. From the meagre support received, the Preachers have not been able to attend. One whole district has averaged but seventy dollars to each traveling preacher. It is amazing in what spirit the Conference, as a whole, comes out of the year's work. The truth is, that when a man is rich in faith it is not easy to discover in him the traces of his earthly poverty.

In looking round, no laymen are to be seen upon the Conference floor, representing the financial interests of the work. Those noble spirits, R. A. Baker and Duke Goodman, who became identified with this body and endeared to it by their yearly counsels and sympathy, have passed away. Resolutions appropriate and commemorative of the services of these sainted ones, have been passed by the Conference.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor, a fraternal messenger from the Mississippi Conference of the Protestant Methodist, addressed the Conference. He urged the importance of union among the different branches of Methodism in the South in their schools, their periodicals, and churches.

A memorial was presented asking the Conference to adopt a Female College to be located at Meridian.

The report of the condition and prospects of the Female College at Summerfield was presented. In a very lucid and able speech, its President, Rev. R. K. Hargrove, urged upon the Conference to concentrate its energies upon a few institutions of learning, and not so dissipate its patronage as to afford but little aid to any. That unless the Conference changed its policy, it must prove disastrous to the educational interests of the Church.

Just at the hour of adjoining Dr. Summers formally presented the Bishop a cane sent to him by the venerable senior Bishop of the Church, as a token and symbol of his regard and "warm approval" of the election of Bishop Wightman to the Episcopal office. The cane is of the tea-plant, brought by one of our missionaries from China, and was richly mounted, and presented to Bishop Soule, when in California. It was a favorite stick with the Bishop: but now in "age extreme" he very rarely ventures beyond the limits of his home and garden. Bishop Wightman was taken on surprise. He responded very happily. His admiration and love for one who had been raised up by the Providence of God to bear the starry flag of Methodism aloft all over this continent—that such a man should approve the act of the General Conference, was the highest compliment of his life. Immediately after this, and appropriately, resolutions expressive of the gratification with which the Conference has heard, through Dr. Summers, of the peace and serenity of the venerable Bishop Soule; and sending to him its filial regards and greeting.

FOURTH DAY.

The regular minute business of the Conference has been proceeding with speed sufficient to render a Saturday afternoon session unnecessary. A synopsis of this will be presented in these notes. A considerable time this morning was wisely spent in discussing the whole subject of ordaining certain colored ministers, who are known to the preachers as men tried and fit for the office of deacon. The Conference took the initial step, and elected a number of colored preachers whom it judged worthy; provided that the Quarterly Conferences to whom the said preachers were responsible, should give the disciplinary endorsement. The coalescing of our colored people and churches with the African Methodist or African Zion Churches, was determined to be inexpedient and unadvisable.

The following persons were received on trial in the Conference: Thomas N. Walker, William Larkin, Thomas A. S. Adams, and John C. Brogan. was re-admitted. C. W. Calhoun and J. M. Johnson were received into full connection, and elected to Deacon's orders. T. P. Roberts, A. M. Jones, A. P. Thomas, Alex. Hood, B. G. Fleming, T. A. N. Shelton, were elected elders.

At night the Missionary society—the old one—held a last anniversary meeting, as Dr. Summers says, "buried Cæsar." The last tribute was an imposing one. The collection amounted to five hundred and forty-five dollars. During the year the missionary contribution, the solid net sum is, including the above, $1378.

The meeting was addressed by the Bishop and Dr. McFerrin. Their speeches were happy and effective. The ministers led off as they usually do, their deep poverty abounding to the riches of their liberality. The new regime begins with this Conference year. Hereafter collections are to be taken for the Foreign Mission Society, separately from those taken for the Domestic Missionary Society.

On the Sabbath, in the morning, the Bishop gave us a delightful sermon on the "Manifold wisdom of God as revealed to the gaze of Principalities and Powers of the Heavenly places," as seen in the Church of God. It was a sublime unfolding of that wisdom, impassioned, evangelical, forcible. In the chair, on the platform, and in the pulpit, the Bishop gives the highest satisfaction.

Early on Tuesday morning I left Enterprise, in company with Rev. Dr. McFerrin, for the Mississippi Conference. The Mobile Conference will probably adjourn on Tuesday evening. The vote on lay-representation was not taken on Monday. Various committees were hard at work hammering their affairs into shape. The interests of this Conference, both financial and educational, are large and demand a good deal of annual investigation and direction.

The extremes of full support and deficiency are to be seen in the quarterage reports of the year. The same preacher may not know how "to abound," and how "to suffer want," but any two of them, almost, can unitedly show this great "equality in inequality of fortune." As an example we give the "financial exhibit" of one of the brethren: Quarterage, $3,744 75; parsonage, organ and benevolent purposes, $2,390; Incidental, $448; Bishops' fund, $75. Total, $6,657 75.

This is creditable to Selma.

Another reports the following—never mind the name of the work: Expended for support of self, wife, and children, on circuit, $770; received quarterage, $170; deficient, $600.

The first preacher looked in good heart, prepared for doing another year's hard work, elastic and slightly defiant; the second, who is a faithful preacher, of nearly a quarter of a century, in the regular work, looked care-worn, and as if sinking under a struggle for the mere necessaries of life. And yet this was only after he had lost everything, house and furniture, and his small stock, by Wilson's raid. Surely the itinerancy is a means of grace, when it furnishes the gospel to the people at such a rate.

I was sorry to leave before the conclusion of the Conference, but engaged the services of brothers Abernethy and Grace, the accomplished secretary and assistant secretary, to forward the reports and appointments to the Advocate.

J. C. K.

NEWS FROM THE CONFERENCES.

MISSIONARY REPORT OF ALABAMA CONFERENCE.

The committee to whom was referred the subject of Missions, beg leave to report that, whereas the General Conference, at its late session in New Orleans, created both Foreign and Domestic Boards of Missions, and directed that such Annual Conferences as chose to do so should organize Conference Boards of Domestic Missions, auxiliary to the Parent Board, the following plan of organization is, therefore, recommended by the Conference:

Art. I. This Board shall be denominated and known as the Board of Domestic Missions, of the Mobile Conference of the M. E. Church South.

II. The object of this Board is to co-operate with the Parent Board in support of Missions, especially in the territory occupied by this Conference.

III. The officers of this Board shall consist of a president, vice president, treasurer, secretary, and nine managers, who shall be chosen quadrennially, by the Mobile Conference. The managers shall consist of five members of the Conference and four laymen. In case of vacancy, by death, resignation or otherwise, the Board shall fill such vacancy, subject to confirmation by the Conference.

IV. The President, and in his absence Vice President, shall preside at all meetings of the Board; but, in the absence of both, the Board may elect a president pro tem.

V. Five members of the Board, present and voting, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

VI. The Treasurer shall take charge of all the funds and property of the Board, subject to the order of the Board; and shall make an accurate and full report annually, of all the receipts and disbursements of the Board, to the Mobile Annual Conference.

VII. The Secretary shall keep a full and complete record of the proceedings of the Board.

VIII. It shall be the duty of each preacher in charge, in the beginning of the Conference year, to enroll, in a book provided for that special purpose, the names of all the members of his charge, and enter in said book the amount of money each one is willing to subscribe to the missionary cause; and to collect and remit the same, quarterly, to the Treasurer of the Board.

REPORT ON DISTRICT CONFERENCES IN HOLSTON CONFERENCE.

The following amended preamble and resolutions in reference to District Conferences, was adopted by the Holston Conference. The paper was presented by W. M. Kerr and J. S. Kennedy.

Whereas, the late General Conference adopted a plan of lay-representation in the Annual and General Conferences, and submitted the same to the several Annual Conferences for ratification or rejection; and in case of ratification, empowered each Annual Conference to devise its own plan for the election of lay-delegates from the several presiding elders' districts of the same; therefore,

Resolved, That in the contingency named, this business shall be transacted by District Conferences, to be constituted as follows:

1. A meeting of all the traveling preachers and official members of the Stations, Circuits, and Missions, within each presiding elder's district, shall be called annually by the presiding elder thereof, at such time as he shall specify, and at such a place as he shall specify for the meeting.

2. In the absence of a Bishop, the presiding elder of the district shall preside in the Conference; and in the absence of both, the Conference shall elect its own presiding officer.

3. The Conference shall elect a secretary to keep a record of the proceedings of the body, and to his office the duties of treasurer shall also be appended.

4. It shall be the duty of the District Conference to adopt such measures for the advancement of all the interests of the Church in its bounds as it may deem best, consistent with the laws of the Church, according to an order of business to be adopted by the same. It shall also appoint the place of its own meeting.

5. If the plan of lay-delegation shall become a law of the Church, it shall also be the business of the District Conference to elect delegates to the Annual Conference: Provided, that no traveling preacher who has a vote in the Annual Conference, shall vote on this question in the District Conference.

6. The holding of District Conferences shall not be contingent upon the final adoption of lay representation by the Church.

PACIFIC CONFERENCE.

The Pacific Conference appointments we copy from the Spectator:

San Francisco District.—John Maclay, Presiding Elder; San Francisco station, E. K. Miller; Santa Clara circuit, W. R. Gober, Jos. Emery; San Jose station, George Sim; San Jose circuit, L. D. Hargis; Gilroy circuit, I. L. Hopkins; San Roman circuit, to be supplied; Sacramento station, W. F. Compton; Cosumnes circuit, John F. Campbell; San Simeon circuit, J. N. Turner.

Petaluma District—P. O. Clayton, Presiding Elder; Petaluma station, A. P. Anderson: Santa Rosa circuit, J. C. Pedergrast; Healdsburg circuit, T. S. Burnet; Cloverdale circuit, T. B. Clanton; Ukiah circuit, B. H. Russell; Point Arenas circuit, G. E Dean; Napa and Soanma circuit, Wm. A. Spurlock; Clear Lake circuit, Green M. Edwards; Suisun circuit, Samuel Brown; Vacaville circuit, J. M. Ward, J. M. Rose supernumerary; Humboldt circuit, M. W. Glover; Ivy Taylor, supernumerary, Vacaville circuit.

Marysville District.—T. C. Barton, Presiding Elder; Grass Valley station, T. H. B. Anderson; Grass Valley circuit, B. F. Burris; Bear River circuit S. W. Davies; Yuba City circuit, W. M. Armstrong; Oroville circuit, Alex. Groves; Chico circuit, R. A. Latimer; Shasta circuit, F. M. Staton; Red Bluff circuit, J. W. Stabi, supply; Colusa circuit, J. G. Shelton; Cache Creek circuit, O. Fisher.

Stockton District.—J. L. Burchard, Presiding Elder; Stockton circuit, to be supplied; Jackson circuit, Joel Hedgpeth; Liberty circuit, J. M. Lovell; Copperopolis and Sonora circuit, to be supplied; Mariposa circuit, W. M. Culp; Millerton circuit, L. J. Hedgpeth; Visalia circuit, B. C. Howard; Havilah circuit, E. B. Lockley; Los Angeles circuit, C. M. Hoge; Saollings circuit, J. E. Miller; La Grange circuit, J. H. Neal; French Camp circuit, G. V. Wood; Calaveras circuit, J. W. Lench.

Deacons Ordained.—Revs. George E. Dean, J. N. Turner, Joel Hedgpeth, David Jamison.

Elders Ordained.—Revs. A. P. Anderson, T. H. B. Anderson, W. M. Armstrong, Wm. F. Compton, I. L. Hopkins.

WEST TEXAS CONFERENCE.

The following is the list of appointments for the West Texas Conference:

Victoria District—J. W. Cooley, P. E: Victoria, Port Lavaca, and col. charge—W. T. Harris; Indianola station and col charge, Homer S. Thrall; Texana cir. and col charge, W. R. D. Stockton; Boxville circuit and colored charge, Thomas F. Cook; Brushy circuit, Curran N. Rogers; Cliuton circuit and colored charge, James T. Gillett; Mission Valley and colored charge, R. M. Leaton.

Gonzales District.—A Davidson, P. E. Gonzales station and colored charge, Buckner Harris; Thompsonville circuit, B. M. Kirby; Moulton circuit and colored charge, John L. Harper; Lavaca country colored charge, to be supplied; Hallettsville circuit, Adley A Killough; Prairie Point and colored charge, A B Duvall.

San Marcos District—D W Fly, P E. San Marcos circuit and colored charge, John S Gillett; Lockhart circuit and colored charge, Lucius M McGehee; Prairie Lea circuit and colored charge, A J Potter. J B Whittenburg, supernumerary; Harris Chapel circuit, to be supplied by Thos. Lancaster; Bianca circuit, to be supplied by Samuel Johnson.

Goliad District—Thomas T Leach, P E. Goliad station and colored charge, Solomon T Bridges; Helena circuit and colored charge, Ell Y Seale; Sandies circuit and colored charge, Harrison A Graves. Roswell Gillett, supernumerary; Sutherland Springs station and colored charge, John S McGee; Sutherland colored charge, to be supplied by Preston W Hobbs; Segnin circuit and colored charge; R H Belvin; Rancho circuit, Robt. W Pierce.

San Antonio District—Walter T Thornbury, P E. San Antonio station, James G Walker; San Antonio colored charge, to be supplied; San Antonio circuit, to be supplied by Thos. A Smith; Kerrsville and Uvalde missions, Wm. J Joyce. One to be supplied by William E Pafferd; Cibolo circuit, Robt. Blassingame; Cibolo colored charge, H S Lafferty; Pleasanton mission, to be supplied by Irwin Jones; J W De Vilbiss, Bible Agent, attached to Pleasanton quarterly conference.

Corpus Christy District—O A Fisher, P E. Corpus Christy station, to be supplied by A F Cox; Beeville circuit, Thomas F Rainie; Cummingsville circuit and colored charge, Edward G Duvall; St. Mary's mission and colored charge, Thos. Myers; Oakville circuit, Allen M Box; Brownsville station, to be supplied; Jesse Hord superannuated; Jesse Boring located at his request; James Ferguson located at his request; Thos. F Cocke located at his request; Ivey H Cox transferred to Texas Conference. George W Fleming transferred to Texas Conference.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

Charleston, S. C.—The Rev. E. J. Meynardie, writing to S. C. Advocate, says:

Although we have not recently been blessed with a revival, yet I may venture to say the churches in this city are improving. Brother F. A. Mood, our P. E., is of the opinion that Methodism here promises more than it ever did, and others think so too. The withdrawal of the colored people from our Church has really operated in opening for us a new and far better prospect. We are relieved of a burden, and what was a stigma, unjustly, for our devotedness to this unfortunate race should not have affected our respectability as it did. The absorption of the Church by them—the unremitting attention required of the pastors to all their demands, whether reasonable or otherwise, and the prominence which their numbers and demonstative mode of worship gave us in this city, placed us in a false light before the community. This you know, and, if I mistake not, with so unfortunate an evil your progressive spirit inclined to contend when you were here. The evil has been removed, and our advancement is very perceptible. With God's blessing, it is destined to be unprecedentedly glorious. This is my humble judgment. We have just organized a good choir and introduced an organ in Trinity. Capt. Chichester, a man of piety, is the leader. We have no operatic or new fangled music, and do not intend to tolerate it. Our object is to make sacred music as acceptable, and congregational singing as much admired, at least, as the quartette and highfalutin performances which are turning the heads of the young and giddy from and not to the spirituality and solemnity of God's worship. By far the best church-music I heard last summer whilst at the North, was at Henry Ward Beecher's Church, where a melodeon was played, and a strong choir led off in good old, soul-stirring, time-honored, and God-blessed, songs of Zion, whilst the vast assemblage, standing, thundered forth, from the preacher down to the sexton, and from the lowest floor to the second tier of galleries, the high praises of God.

NEWS FROM THE CHURCHES.

We extract some interesting paragraphs from a letter from the Rev. S. Hargiss, of the West Virginia Conference, dated Gallsburg, Ky., Nov. 9, 1866.

The Western Virginia Conference, M. E. Church, South, met at Parkersburg, West Virginia, on the 24th ult., and closed on the 30th. Bishop Doggett presided. The session was harmonious, interesting, and profitable.

From the time the late General Conference, in their wisdom and compensative kindness, gave to the Baltimore Conference nearly one-fifth of our territory, there was a prevailing opinion among our ministers, that it would be better for all concerned to divide out the remainder among the surrounding conferences; but when we met, the division of our conference was not named; and now I am brought to think that Providence intends to rule that and for our good, and for His glory. In the first place, there is a heavy responsibility shifted from us to the Baltimore Conference; in the second place, the preachers from the ceded district have filled the vacancies in our ranks in the remaining four districts; by this means we shall be able to supply four people with pastoral care much more advantageously than we could have done with the whole territory, and we hope that the Greenbrier district will not suffer by the change, and if they should, we have the satisfaction to know that the responsibility is not on us.

We think it unnecessary to refer to the tide of desolation that has lately passed over us: and in fact we are unwilling to be set down as grumblers, and complainers; we are all better off than we deserve to be: so I am for changing the tune; let us hereafter have the songs of thanksgiving and praise, and of devout gratitude to God, for his loving kindness, and having food and raiment, let us therewith be content.

In advance of the reading out of the appointments, Bishop Doggett gave us a ministerial lecture; it was spiritual, kind and full of encouragement, the right speech at the right time, and in the right place; and we felt thankful that we were called to work in the Lord's vineyard, and in any part of the vineyard. We are in confidence, and with devout prayer looking to the result of this conference year, as a new era, a bright page in our history.

We would like to say a word in regard to Bishop Doggett. The General Conference did themselves a credit, and the church a benefit, in selecting the four new Bishops, there is no doubt of that.

The preachers received their appointments with an unusual degree of cheerfulness and satisfaction, and have gone to their work with bright hopes of abundant success.

MARRIED,

By Rev B F Alexander, at the residence of Rev N M Talbott, the bride's father, Nov 12th, 1866, Rev MILTON G MCALLISTER, of the East Texas Conference, to Miss MARGARET SUSAN TALBOTT, of Bossier Parish, La.

Texas and St Louis Advocates please copy.

At the residence of Judge Christian Hoover, near Summit, Miss., Tuesday night Nov. 20th, 1866, by Rev William Hoover, Rev ROBERT B. DOWNES, of Mississippi Conference, to Miss JANE H. EQUEN, formerly of New Orleans, La.

Episcopal Methodist, please copy.

On the 3d October, at the Franklin street M E Church, Mobile, Ala, by Rev J J Grace, Mr. EDWARD MARSCHALL to Miss ANNIE M OAIN, both of Mobile, Ala.

On the 29th of October, at the residence of the bride's mother, on Eastern Shore, Baldwin county, Ala, by Rev J J Grace, Mr. JOHN T CORDRAY, of Galveston, Texas, to Miss MARY J BEASLEY, of Baldwin county, Ala.

KNIGHT & CO.,

Dealers in

PLANTATION, MILL, & WOOD-WORKING

MACHINERY,

And Agricultural Implements

Keep constantly on hand a large assortment of articles peculiar to our business, and through our agents in the North and East, can fill promptly, and at a small advance above manufactorer's prices, all orders for articles in our line not usually kept in this market

The great change in our labor system necessitates a corresponding change in the Implements used, and we have prepared ourselves to offer the latest improved

LABOR-SAVING MACHINES,

both for Agricultural and Mechanical purposes, at prices that will warrant their purchase.

Also, LEEDS & CO'S Sugar Kettles, Newell Screws, Gin Gearing, &c; and will contract for any kind of work done at their establishment, at their prices.

172 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

nl7 1y

GUSTAVE VOM HOFE,

Manufacturer of Upright Pianos,

807 MAGAZINE ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Pianos sold at moderate prices, with five years guarantee.

One of these Pianos has just been awarded a Medal at the recent Louisiana State Fair, for superior richness of tone and great durability.

decl 1y

A COUGH, A COLD, OR A SORE THROAT

Requires immediate attention, and should be checked, if allowed to continue,

Irritation of the Lungs, a Permanent Throat Disease, or Consumption

Is often the result.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES

Having a direct influence to the parts, give immediate relief.

For Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Consumptive and Throat Diseases,

Troches are used with always good success.

SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS

will find Troches useful in clearing the voice when taken before Singing, or Speaking, and relieving the throat after an unusual exertion of the vocal organs. The Troches are recommended and prescribed by Physicians, and have had testimonials from eminent men throughout the country. Being an article of true merit, and having proved their efficacy by a test of many years each year finds them in new localities in various parts of the world, and the Troches are universally pronounced better than other articles.

OBTAIN only "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," and do not take any of the Worthless Imitations that may be offered. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND FOR 1867.

PRICE REDUCED.

THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND is published Semi-Monthly, by the Presbyterian Committee of Publication, with the co-operation of the Sunday School Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church South of the city of Richmond and vicinity. The design is to make it a good, useful, and entertaining Sabbath School Journal for circulation in the Sabbath Schools of all Evangelical denominations.

TERMS:

From and after the 1st of January, 1867, the terms will be as follows:

1 copy for one year	$ 50
10 copies for one year, to one address	4 00
20	7 00
30	10 00
50	15 00

All over 50 copies at the same rate.

MONTHLY EDITION.

A monthly edition will be issued at the following rates:

10 copies for one year, to one address	$2 00
20	3 00
30	5 00
50	7 50

All above 50 copies at the same rates.

No single subscribers are received for the Monthly edition.

All subscriptions should begin with January, April, July or October; and none will be received for a less period than one year. All subscriptions must be paid invariably in advance.

In sending subscriptions, be careful to give the name plainly, and give the county as well as the Post Office and State.

ORDERS FOR THE PAPER, should be addressed to W. HARGRAVE WHITE, Box 429, Richmond, Virginia. dec1, 2t.

ALWAYS TAKE THE BEST!

MOORE'S RURAL NEW YORKER, the largest-circulating AGRICULTURAL, Literary and Family Weekly in the World, will enter upon its XVIIIth Volume, January 5, 1867. The Rural is a National Periodical, read and admired in every State and Territory. Its ample pages comprise various Departments, including those of Agriculture, Literature, Horticulture, Education, Sheep Husbandry, Arts and Sciences, Domestic Economy, News, Markets &c.

With Tales, Sketches, Engravings, Music, Poetry, &c., &c.

The Rural is ably Edited, neatly Printed, well Illustrated, and adapted to the whole Country. It employs the Best Talent. For example, its Department of Sheep Husbandry is edited by Hon H S Randall, LL D, Author of "The Practical Shepherd," "Sheep Husbandry in the South, &c, &c, the best authority on the subject in America,—while its Southern Corresponding Editor is Hon T C Peters, late Pres't N Y State Ag Society, now of Maryland. Many other able and talented writers are regular contributors, and the whole paper is under the Editorial Management of its originator, D D T Moore. The Rural is the acknowledged Standard in its Sphere,—the best combined Journal for the Farmer, the Horticulturist, the Stock and Wool Grower, and the Family Circle, now obtainable. Remember, also, that it is not a monthly, but a Large and Beautiful Weekly.

TERMS—$3 a Year—less to Clubs, and liberal Inducements to those forming them. Try the Rural, and see if it is not (as the N E Farmer says,) "like a honey-comb, having sweets in every cell." Specimen Numbers, Show-Bills &c, sent free:

LATEST FASHIONS.

Call for

J W BRADLEY'S

DUPLEX ELLIPTICAL

[Or, Double Spring]

SKIRT!

THEY WILL NOT BEND OR BREAK

Like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary Skirts are thrown aside as useless—hence are the CHEAPEST.

Each Hoop is made by braiding two springs together, edge to edge, forming the STRONGEST, most FLEXIBLE, and still the LIGHTEST Hoop made.

In fact, for promenade, or the house, or the church, the theatre, or for crowded assemblies, railroad cars, carriages, etc., they are superior to all others, affording COMFORT TO THE WEARER, with that ELEGANCE OF SHAPE which wins favor with all, and has made the

"DUPLEX ELLIPTIC"

The Standard Skirt of the Fashionable World.

For misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

For Sale Everywhere.

Manufactured exclusively by the owners of the Patent,

WESTS, BRADLEY & CARY,

97 Chambers, 79 and 81 Reade sts, New York.

CAUTION.

The Duplex Skirt will admit a pin being run through the centre of each hoop, thereby proving there are TWO SPRINGS braided together therein, which is the secret of their remarkable STRENGTH and FLEXIBILITY—a combination not possessed by any SINGLE-SPRING Skirt.

The red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. BRADLEY'S Duplex Elliptic Springs," will be found upon the waistband of every Skirt; none other are genuine. n24 6m

COAL OIL AND LAMPS.

HILL & VEAZIE,

Having removed from No 31 Chartres street to No 74 Camp street, have received large additions to their former stock, making their assortment of Coal Oil Lamps, and all the articles needful to use with them, very extensive; together with COAL OIL CHANDELIERS from two to six lights, suitable for lighting Churches, large Halls, Parlors, etc; and every variety of Lanterns from the small Hand to the large Station. FISH'S PATENT COOKING LAMPS for coal oil and gas, very useful and economical; also EDDIE'S COOKING STOVES, assorted sizes, heated by coal oil; with many other useful and convenient articles.

Always on hand the best Kerosene and Coal Oil manufactured.

Call and examine.

HILL & VEAZIE,

No 74 Camp street,

n1y Between Natchez street and Times Office

STOVES, GRATES, TIN WARE,

AND

HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.

The undersigned offer for sale an assortment of COOKING STOVES, embracing among the lot the well known Charter Oak, the Brilliant, the Peerless, the American Home, and others of the latest improvement.

Also, a large lot of HEATING and PARLOR STOVES, a large variety of GRATES, and of COUNTRY HOLLOW WARE, etc.

We manufacture all our own Tin Ware, and sell cheap.

CAMPMAN & CO.,

n10 6m 115 Poydras st, bet. Camp & Magazine

P G BARRIERE, G W BABCOCK

F. G. BARRIERE & CO.,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

No. 135 Canal Street, New Orleans.

n10 6m

CLOTHING. CLOTHING.

For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.

Now receiving and opening for inspection, at

R. PITKIN'S

FASHIONABLE

CLOTHING EMPORIUM,

Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,

The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior

READY-MADE CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS

Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:

Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,
Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.

A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,

FOR CUSTOM WORK.

He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,

MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,

as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS

To his

Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing

suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.

Also a large assortment of

YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

TRUNKS,

VALISES,

CARPET-BAGS,

UMBRELLAS, ETC.

A call from the public is respectfully solicited.

R. PITKIN,

Fashionable Clothing Emporium,

13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15

oct3 3m

ROBERT SLARK, WM. A. KENT,
ISAAC H. STAUFFER, CHAS. MACREADY

SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,

No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsiere St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.

Importers and Dealers in

HARDWARE:

Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws

MILL STONES,

INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND,

PLANTATION SADDLERY, Etc.

Constantly on hand a large assortment of

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS

Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrott & Cottmen, for Sugar and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert King, "Carey," for Cotton; Peoria Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.

Agents for the Vieille Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. o13 1y

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES.

Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in

EARTHENWARE,

GLASS, CHINA,

JAPAN WARE,

PLATED WARE,

SILVER WARE,

FINE TABLE CUTLERY,

WATER PURIFIERS,

HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.

All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.

No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.

L. ELKIN,

3, Carondelet Street, 3.

Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior

WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN

CARPETS,

RUGS,

WINDOW SHADES,

CORNICES,

OIL CLOTHS,

And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Commission and Forwarding Merchants,

122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row,

NEW ORLEANS.

Refer Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. oc13 6m

H. P. ETHELL, NAT. H. THOMAS,
New Orleans. Late of Alabama.

ETHELL & THOMAS,

FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.

Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.

No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.

Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sep1 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. THOS. H. MILLER

J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

No. 130 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep1 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. WM Owen. E Owen

LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 6m

R. S. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.

B. S. HARPER & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,

GROCER,

And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,

s15 6m 119 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally, 53 Gravier street, New Orleans.

sep15 1y

H M WRIGHT C W ALLEN. J HIDDLESTON
(1st August, 1865)

WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

169 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, JAMES M. ALLEN } New
Memphis, Tenn. PERRY NUGENT, } Orleans

T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,

(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 1y

F F FOLGER, L FOLGER, W H THOMAS

FOLGER & CO.,

Dealers in

Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,

37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

(Opposite the St James Hotel)

Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows; Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

27 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WM. EDWARDS. }
EDWD. J. GAY. } sep15 3m

W A VIOLETT. R Y BLACK. A H SNOWDEN.

VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

s15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. B. LOTT, Madison County, Miss. C. W. WOOD, Canton, Miss.

LOTT, WOOD & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants

65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E A BANKS, W W LORING, G W VENABLE

BANKS, LORING & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

28 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 6m

R ATKINSON & CO: New York. JAMES HEWITT & CO., Liverpool.

HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And Commission Merchants,

188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, GWINNER & Co., Galveston, Texas. asp15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,

(Successor to FELLOWES & Co.)

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., New York. LEWIS, NANSON & CO., St. Louis.

OBER, ATWATER & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

88 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

asp15 1y

G. M. SWENSON, N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. W. M. PERKINS, D. L. KERNION, Of Perkins & Co., N.O.

PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street,

NEW ORLEANS.

SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

26 Exchange Place, New York.

s20 6m

EDW'D NALLE, W. C. DAY.

NALLE, DAY & CO.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,

156 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oc13 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

166 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oc13 6m

E R KEEP. P. CAULFIELD.

KEEP & CAULFIELD,

Western Produce,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.

oc13 1y

HENRY WARE, Of Texas. WM. H. WARE, Of Texas.

H. WARE & SON,

Cotton and Wool Factors,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

oc13

JOB PRINTING.

COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,

PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,

And everything else in the line of job printing, executed in

The Very Best Style, at Moderate Prices.

Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

J. H. MASSEY,

(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.,)

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 100 Common Street,

Opposite City Hotel.

I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination, on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please any and all of my old friends and patrons, and also including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.

Very respectfully,

oct3 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

Also, a large and varied supply of

HOUSEKEEPING and

PLANTATION GOODS,

Constantly on hand, at

126 Canal Street,

sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ST JAMES HOTEL,

MAGAZINE STREET,

Between Gravier and Natchez Streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.

This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.

It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof. Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquors equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, as far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.

The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expense to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.

n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

COAL! COAL!! COAL!!!

BEATTY & SAWYER,

Offer COAL and WOOD at the lowest prices.—Coal, $1 per barrel. Leave orders at Yard on Josephine, between Prytania and Coliseum sts., or at Price Current Office; at Ducatel's, 2½ Carondelet; or at M E Stack's, opposite Magazine Market. Send in your orders promptly. n1m

MCCUTCHON & HUBBELL,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE,

Hoes, Axes, Nails, etc.

NO. 74 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

n3 6m

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,

Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of

TINWARE,

Also,

COOKING AND HEATING STOVES

Of all kinds, for sale.

25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,

Corner Customhouse street,

oct26 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, JOHN W. MADDEN,
Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co.

P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,

General Mercantile Stationers,

JOB PRINTERS, AND

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

No. 73 Camp Street.

We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.

We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 3m

D. H. HOLMES,

Direct Importation of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,

AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

No. 155 Canal Street,

sep1 6m NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

82..... Baronne Street,.....82

Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALEY,

Dealer in

PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,

GUITARS, VIOLINS,

And other musical instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper—in fact everything belonging to music trade.

The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. BURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.

Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.

Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.

Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.

Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.

Music neatly bound.

P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 6m

CENTENARY COLLEGE,

Jackson, Louisiana,

was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845. It is now under the joint patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.

The College exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed, after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.

Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.

Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month

The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.

The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.

The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.

The old students, alumni, and friends of the Institution, are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.

W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALA.

The exercises of this institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught

TERMS:

Tuition fees per term,	$40 00
Contingent fee,	5 00

Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month

aug4ft W M WIGHTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.

The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.

The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.

TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $40.—Payable $200 in advance; balance in the 1st of March,

Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.

Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.

Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D., New Orleans, La.

As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.

W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE

FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert O. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmer; Miss Jemima Constantine.

The Fall Session of this institution will open on the 20th day of September next.

This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattresses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.

The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.

TERMS:

For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—
Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00

Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.

The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.

After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the Institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.

For other information address

CHARLES B. STUART, President,

aug4ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M.,	President, Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal.
Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Maxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.

Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.

Board, with English Tuition, at $85 per quarter.

The next session commences 10th September.

Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to

A. J. WRIGHT.

D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.

jy14 6m

THE LORD'S PRAYER PICTURE.

Good Agents wanted all over the South to Sell by Subscription this Great and Beautiful Picture.

This is one of the most exquisite works of art ever offered to the public, being the result of six years' close labor of the Artist. It has received the highest commendations from every source, and never fails to elicit the greatest admiration from all connoisseurs of the fine arts. A liberal paying commission is allowed, and it is believed there is no work before the public so universally popular, and offering so good inducements to canvassers as this. It is new—will never get out of date; exclusive territory given.

To avoid delay and insure reply, testimonials as to character and ability should accompany applications. Dealers need not apply. Have is offered congenial and lucrative employment for ministers, or competent and worthy persons of all classes. For full particulars apply to

HOLMES & CO.,

26 Camp street, Room No 5, or address

Look Box 424, New Orleans

N B—Please do your friends a favor by showing this advertisement to such as may be adapted or benefited by such an agency n10 1m

WANTED — SITUATIONS FOR three well educated Southern young ladies, in private families, or in Seminaries of wide reputation: one, as Music Teacher only; the other two, as Teachers of the ordinary branches of an English Education, with Music. Address Rev R H Herbert, Meridian, Miss., stating compensation, health, society, etc, of the location. n10 1m

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 103 Camp street, New Orleans.

When was it established? 1850.

Who is its General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev W H Bayliss.

Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.

What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.

What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.

What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans; then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.

What are the terms of membership?

The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.

The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.

The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.

The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.

The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.

Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not, to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S: by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.

Our last thought is the heart-cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a25 1y.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,

FOR YOUNG LADIES,

Is located at Brookhaven, Miss. It is under the immediate care of Rev. GEO. F. THOMPSON, and under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. The Board of Visitors consists of Rev. B. Jones, Rev. W. Millsaps, Rev. George H. Clinton, and Rev. William Price—all members of that Conference.

Its course of instruction is as complete as that of any other institution for the education of females in the State, and is sufficient to accomplish all that can be desired by the friends of our Church.

The exercises of the first term of its next session will begin on the first Monday in September 1866, and ends Jan. 31, 1867.

For further particulars apply to the Rev. G. F Thompson, Brookhaven, Miss. a18t

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp St t, corner Natchez—open day and evening.

This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.

For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address

f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This Institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address

f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

TURNER & COHEN,

Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,

NO. 57 CAMP STREET.

Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.

These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.

The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of this city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER

And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,

61 Camp street, New Orleans.

Cartes de Visite,

Heliotypes, Ambrotypes,

Pictures on Porcelain,

And every description of Pictures known to the Art.

All kinds of Photographic Materials, at the lowest price for cash. sep1 1y

THOS. B. BODLEY & CO.,

No. 9 Perdido Street, New Orleans,

Dealers in all descriptions of

MILL AND PLANTATION MACHINERY,

AND AGRICULTURAL INSTRUMENTS.

Sole Agents in the Southwest for the celebrated Wood & Manu Steam Engines, 4 to 35 horse power; Coleman's Corn and Wheat Mills; Stranh'n Corn and Wheat Mills, Smut Machines, B

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

Make the Best of it.

"O, George Hayal just look here!" said little Madge Morrell. "The old gray cat just jumped through this window, and has broken cousin Alice's beautiful rose geranium. O I'm'n't it too bad? How angry Alice will be!"

"My sister don't get angry at such things, Miss Madge. I never saw her angry but once in my life, and that was when some boys worried a poor little kitten almost to death."

"But this is so very provoking, Georgie. Any body would be angry."

"It is really too bad; but you see if Alice does not try to make the best of it."

Pretty soon the young lady entered the room, her sunny face beaming with the bright spirit which reigned within. She was humming a sweet morning song; but she paused abruptly before her beautiful ruined geranium.

"Ah! who has done this?" she exclaimed.

"That ugly old cat broke it, cousin Alice; I saw her myself," said little Madge.

"Poor Puss! she did not know what she was doing. It was the very pet of all my flowers. But come, little cousin, don't look so long-faced; we must try and make the best of it."

"I don't think there is much best to this, Alice."

"O yes, it is not nearly as bad as it might have been. The fine stalk is not injured, and it will soon send forth new shoots. This large broken branch will be lovely in bouquets. Let us arrange a little one for mother's room. We will place this cluster of scarlet blossoms in a wine-glass, and you may run out into the garden and gather a few snow-drops to put around it. There! was there ever any thing more beautiful? Now we will set the wine-glass in this little saucer, and place some geranium leaves around the edge, with a few snow-drops mixed among them. Mother will admire it; she loves flowers so much! Now, little one, you think there is a bright side to this affair? I am not sure but pussy did me a favor, by giving us so much pleasure from quite an unexpected source."

"I think you have found the bright side, Alice, though I am sure I never should. I almost wanted the old cat to be killed."

"Never be angry at the poor, unreasoning animal, my child. Cultivate a more noble disposition, and learn to control yourself even in the smallest matters that might disturb the quiet of your mind. It is only by such self-control that you can ever arrive at true womanhood. Look for the bright side even of your disappointments and troubles. By such a course you will make for yourself a welcome everywhere, and your own happiness will be increased a thousandfold."

Mozart's Requiem.

Those of you who have learned to play on the piano, may know that Mozart composed some of the most beautiful pieces; but did you ever hear of his last? For weeks he had been engaged in its composition; at length, every note was harmonious, and the gratified musician sank back on his cushion in a sweet reverie. The light footstep of his daughter, entering the room, aroused him.

"Emilie," he called, "sit down and play for me my requiem; it is my own requiem."

"Oh, do not say that, my father," answered the affectionate girl, while the quick tears sprang to her eyes at the thought of losing her beloved father.

"Play my child," he repeated, "and sing the hymn your mother used to love so well."

Emilie sat down to the instrument and began a sad prelude; the father lay with closed eyes listening. Soon the heavenly music filled the room. The young girl with holy aspirations, and the faith and hope exposed in the hymn, seemed all her own; the heavy weight of sadness gradually disappeared, and she sang like an angel. When the piece was finished, she sat for a moment in silence, and then turned to meet her father's accustomed glance of sympathy. His eyes were closed, and looked intently; she perceived that he lay motionless. With a cry of terror she sprang to his side, and there she fell senseless, for the first glance told her that her father was dead. She had sung his soul to heaven.—Children's Friend.

A Lost Lifetime.

A young man was converted during an illness which proved fatal, though this was not apprehended when he seemed to give his heart to Christ. When his physician announced an unfavorable change in his condition, he expressed entire resignation, and requested his friends to sing a hymn expressive of that feeling.

An hour or two after, in the silence of the room, he was heard to cry, "Lost! lost! lost!" This surprised the mother, and caused the immediate inquiry, "My son are, your hopes feeble?"

"No, mother; but O, my lost lifetime! I'm twenty-four, and, until a few weeks since, nothing has been done for Christ, and everything for myself and my pleasures. My companions will think I've made a profession in view of death. O, that I could live to merit this reward, and do something to show my sincerity, and to redeem my lost, lost life!"

A Boy who was a Martyr.

They are called martyrs who have died a cruel death rather than to deny Jesus Christ, or say they did not love him. About three hundred years ago the Roman priests sent bad men one night to break into a house in Holland and bring to prison a man and his wife and two boys, because they would read the Bible and pray to Jesus.

They soon took the father and his eldest boy out to burn them alive in the open street. When they got to the place the boy looked up, and said:

"Look, my father! all heaven is opening, and I see ten hundred thousand angels joying over us. Let us be glad, for we are dying for the truth."

They kept the mother and the other boy in prison seven more days; and then, when they found that they would not deny Jesus, they brought them out too, and burned them to ashes. And so this family, parted by wicked men for a few days on earth, soon met again in heaven, to live that eternal life which Jesus gives to all who love his name.

"From burning pains to endless joys;
On fiery wheels they rode,
And strangely washed their garments white
In Jesus' dying blood."

And not only in Holland, but in England, about the same time, in the reign of that wretched woman, Queen Mary, many men and women and young people were put to death for the same things by the Romish priests. In Spain, hundreds upon hundreds were burned; and now, though they dare not burn them, they send people to prison for reading the Bible.

PLAY.—"Can I play if I am one of Christ's followers?" asked a little boy. Certainly. Childhood is the time for play. Play strengthens the limbs, exercises the mind, and gladdens the heart. Father and mother love to see their children at play, and I am sure the Lord Jesus loved to see his. But of course He expects you to play as Christian children. He wants you to carry his spirit of love and kindness and good-will into all your plays. And who does not see how much happier that will make you? Kindness and good-will prevent wrangling, and fighting, and calling names, and striking, and cheating, and pouting. Ah, yes, you know! Well, the Lord Jesus expects His little followers to carry His spirit into everything they do. Happy, happy children are His little followers.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Since the date of our last publication the general market has disclosed a fair degree of animation, although several of the leading articles have been attended with a material variation. Sugar and Molasses have evinced a tendency to further weakness, and Flour and Pork have suffered a material decline; while the movement in our leading staple has indicated considerable vitality.

COTTON — On Saturday there was a liberal enquiry, and notwithstanding limited offerings and increased stringency on the part of holders, buyers came forward quite freely, and sales to the amount of 4200 bales were effected, at prices indicating an irregular improvement of ½c per lb. On Monday there was a continuance of the previous demand. Yesterday there was a fair business done, comprising at the close 5000 bales, at stiffening prices, the market closing at our quotations, with a tendency to increased firmness.

Low	— to —
Ordinary	27 to 29
Good Ordinary	30 to 31
Low Middling	32 to 33
Middling	34 to 35

TOBACCO — The market is quiet but very firm, and factors refuse to make the concessions asked for by buyers. A few hhds were taken for baling and for the city trade at full previous prices, and we continue to quote:

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to 4½	Currency.
Good do	5 to —	— to 5½
Common Leaf	6 to —	— to 7½
Fair	8 to —	— to 10
Good	11 to —	— to 12
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec'n	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—The market has been very dull, and prices have declined ½ to ¾c per lb daily. Yesterday there were sales 275 hogsheads at 8 to 8¾c for Inferior, 8¾ to 8¾c for Common, 9¼c for Fair, 10¼ to 10¾c for Strictly Fully Fair, 11 to 11¼c for Primo, 12c for Choice, 10c for Seconds, 12 to 12¼c for Yellow clarified and 13½ to 13¾c for White Clarified.

MOLASSES — Dullness has been the prevailing feature, and prices have ruled in favor of buyers and show a decline of at least 5 to 8c per gallon since our last. Yesterday the sales embraced 800 bbls in numerous lots, at 40c at 40c for Common, 52½c for Good, 60c or Prime, 62½ to 65c for Choice and 65 to 67½c for very Choice.

FLOUR— The demand has been moderate. Yesterday the market was very quiet at $10 to $10½ for Superfine, $12 for Double Extra, and $15 per bbl for Choice.

PORK— The market has been extremely dull, and only a few retail transactions have been effected at $26 50 per bbl for Even-weight Mess.

BACON—The demand is only for small parcels at 13c for Shoulders, 13c for Ribbed Sides, and 14½c for Clear do.

LARD—There is little or no enquiry; and in the absence of sales, we quote Prime in tierces at 13½ to 13¾c, and do in kegs at 15½c per lb.

CORN—The market has been very firm. Yesterday 3000 sacks sold at $1 37½ for Mixed, and Yellow, and $1 40 per bushel for White.

OATS.—The receipts have been very light, and we now quote at 66 to 68c per bushel.

BRAN—The sales embraced about 3500 sacks in lots at $1 40 per 100 lbs.

HAY—Prime St. Louis is offering at $29, and Ohio River at $27 50 per ton.

BALE ROPE— There have been no transactions of magnitude for some time past, and in the absence of sales we quote at 12½ to 13c per lb.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is greatly reduced, but the demand is very active at 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING— Dealers are supplying the demand at 32c for rolls, and 33c per yard for bales.

GUNNY BAGS—The last sales reported were at 28c a piece.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—Choice Northern and Goshen are scarce at 30 to 35c per lb for the former and 40 to 45c for the latter. Western Cheese is in fair supply, and is selling at 17c.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. The stock of Louisiana is heavy at 9½ to 12c per lb, according to quality.

NAVAL STORES.—The market is quite bare, and prices in consequence exhibit a still further improvement, and we now quote common Rosin at $4 50 to $5 25, No. 2, do at $6 50, and No. 1 do at $8 75 to $9 per bbl. Spirits Turpentine would bring 65c per gallon.

WOOL.—There is a good demand at 13 to 15c for Louisiana Native, 19 to 20c for Texas ¼ to ½ Merino, 23 to 25c for do ½ to ¾ Merino, 13 to 15c per lb for burry, and 28 to 31c per lb for washed.

ESCULENTS.—Potatoes are selling at $2 40 to $2 75 in sacks, and $2 80 to $3 00 per bbl, Onions $2 60 to $2 80 in sacks, and $3 to $3 25 in barrels, Green Apples at $5 50 to $4 00 per bbl. Cabbages at 14 to 16c per crate.

POULTRY AND EGGS.—Chickens sell on the landing at $5 to $6 for the young and $10 to $12 00 per dozen for the large; Geese at $10 to $12, and Turkeys at $20 to $24 per dozen. Western eggs are selling at $30 to $33 per bbl.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY, Wednesday evening, Nov. 27, 1866.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to —
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	8 to 10
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 45
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$10 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	8 to 11
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50 to $3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100 to $150
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 5 to $12
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

MONETARY.

The movement in Coin has evidenced a fair degree of animation, and rates in sympathy with the course of prices at New York, have exhibited a marked improvement, Gold opened on Saturday at 138 to 138¼, and after selling as high as 139¼, it rapidly declined and closed at 137¾ to 138; it opened on Monday at 138 to 138¼, but the telegrams from the North being favorable, it improved, and closed firm at 138½ to 138¾; and opened yesterday at 140¼, but the noon telegrams being favorable, it rapidly advanced and closed at 142 to 142¼.

CLOAKS!

F. ADAM,

(Formerly with C Yale, jun, & Co,)

MANUFACTURER & WHOLESALE DEALER

In Ladies' and Misses'

CLOTH AND SILK CLOAKS,

No. 76 Canal Street—Up Stairs.

NEW ORLEANS.

Don't trust to glaring advertisements in the newspapers, but go to THE FACTORY itself, if you want good Goods at fair prices. n10 2m

W. G. COYLE & CO.,

COAL MERCHANTS,

Office: 142 Gravier street.

Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.

Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,

(In the Spacious and Elegant Story Building,)

Is constantly in session under able Professors. It was founded in 1832, and is chartered by the State. Its former students may be found as Principals or Book-keepers in a large portion of the old houses of this city and over the Southern States. Ladies or gentlemen can attend the COMMERCIAL COURSE; or Book-keeping, Penmanship, Mathematics, English, French or Spanish, separately. A business education, that enables one to earn $1000, $2000, or $3,000 annually, is the best fortune parents can give their sons. A DIPLOMA from this College is a passport in all Commercial communities. Ladies and Gentlemen are invited to call. We have ample arrangements for 1000 students the present year. Liberal arrangements made for Clergymen or their sons and crippled soldiers. Catalogues sent to all who desire them.

RUFUS DOLBEAR, President.

nov 17 1y

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.

RICHARD ANGELL,

156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles

PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,

Oases, Books, Cerates, &c.

Chill Drops, the best curative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c.; Bardotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)

Has established himself at No 109 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lebanon, Tenn — CHAS. S. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La

STEWART & BROTHER,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,

NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS. oc27 1y

J. R. POWELL,

COTTON FACTOR,

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

190 Common Street,

W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & James. } NEW ORLEANS

☞ Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Dnck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. G. ELLIS. — W. C. CHAMBERLIN

ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jan20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,

46 Carondelet street, New Orleans,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,

General Commission Merchants,

And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,

Wholesale Grocer,

Nos. 8 and 10 Tchoupitoulas Street,

And 8 and 10 New Levee,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,

MUSIC PUBLISHER,

Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nanns," "Gnild" and "Ravon & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c

oc27 6m 167 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. — D. M. HOLLINGSWORTH

R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,

CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,

Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,

f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. K. WALKER. — THOS. M'KNIGHT. — J. F JOHNSON.

R. K. WALKER & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

au20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

DRY GOODS,

Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS

A. PEET—R. WILLIAMSON
P. SIMMS—J. BOWLIGH } aug25 1y

LOEB, SIMON & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

86 Canal Street,

sep1 3m NEW ORLEANS.

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.

HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.

Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.

Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jan20 1y

G. & T. F. SEARING,

Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in

CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS

No. 29 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

oc13 1y NEW ORLEANS.

D. L. CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. — F. M. ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile

CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,

o13 No, 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

R. BLEAKLY & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 56, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,

Corner Poydras and Tchoupitoulas sts.,

NEW ORLEANS.

All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of MR. J. F. GIRAULT, (formerly with the house of Messrs Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,

Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

No. 190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. — JOS. HOY. — CHAS. HARDENBERGH

CARROLL, HOY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,

aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 1y

JOHN G. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. — BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.

PARHAM & BLUNT,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,

No. 75 Carondolet street, New Orleans.

aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,

General Commission Merchants and

COTTON FACTORS,

57 Poydras street.

Cotton Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4ft

STEWART, GALBREATH & FIZER

Commission Merchants & Cotton Factors,

46 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Andrew Stewart, New Orleans.
Wm. R. Galbreath, } Memphis,
Wm. Stewart, } Memphis,
John C. Fizer, } Memphis,

sep1 3m

SAM'L. BARRETT. — CHS. LESASSIER.

BARRETT & LESASSIER,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

118 CARONDELET STREET,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. — A. H. MAY

STEVENSON & MAY,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY,

Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug 18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. — S. B. EUCKNER, Of Kentucky.

HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. — H. R. ALSOBROOK.

WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. a18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

No. 33 Union Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE, W. C. H. DAMERON, G. W. HUNTINGTON, H. M. PAYNE.

je23-1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. — SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.

TOM & SAM HENDERSON,

COTTON FACTORS

AND

General Commission Merchants,

100 COMMON STREET,

je9 1y New Orleans

J. C. M'ALLISTER — E. M'NAIR

M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,

WHOLESALE GROCERS,

No. 74 Common Street,

ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

GARY W. BUTT. — WM. FLASH. — THOS. T. A. LYON

BUTT, FLASH & LYON,

Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.

Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.

Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,

New Orleans.

J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. july7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. — WATTS, CRANE & CO' New York.
W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.

GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool. feb3-1y

W. A. BELL. — FRED'N. OGDEN. — H. E. WITHERSPOON

WM. A. BELL & CO.,

General Commission Merchants,

And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,

41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. jo30-1y

J. J. WARREN — T. W. CRAWFORD — F. B. FLEITAS

WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 6m

THOS. A. HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. — JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.

HAMILTON & DUNNICA,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

42 Union street, New Orleans.

sep22 1y

ROBERT L. WALKER,

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

STAFFORD & WILSON,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 66, Magazine Street,

oc27 1y NEW ORLEANS.

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,

Wholesale Dealers in

Fancy Goods,

STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,

HOSIERY,

Furnishing Goods, etc.,

35 MAGAZINE STREET,

Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La

aug25 1y

CHAS. H. CHURCHILL. — PETER G. TAYLOR.

HARDWARE AND GUNS.

TAYLOR & CHURCHILL,

41 MAGAZINE STREET, and 20 BANK PLACE, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.

DIRECT IMPORTERS.

We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.

COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRINDSTONES, PLOWS.

Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.

GUNS, NAILS, HOLLOW WARE, SAWS, TIN WARE, AXES.

Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations. Orders from the country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St. James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832. sep25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,

Grocers and Commission Merchants,

95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of

CHAMPAGNE,

BRANDIES,

WHISKIES,

CLARET,

CORDIALS, Etc.

Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, suitable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the

Most reasonable Rates.

☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.

W H HENNING & CO,

a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and

PLANTATION CLOTHING,

No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET,

(SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS

☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices. a18 1y

A. B GRISWOLD. — W. M. GOODRICH

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

Corner of Canal and Royal streets,

[Late HYNE & GOODRICH],

Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!

MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,

Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.

The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

JAMES SYME,

Wholesale Druggist,

139 CANAL STREET, (Touro Buildings,)

NEW ORLEANS.

Importer and Dealer in Fine DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS, DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES, Fancy Goods and Perfumery.

Surgical Instruments, French, English, and American, of every variety

Also—Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags.

aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF, Wholesale Grocer,

COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,

48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st.,

aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,

HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD

Established, August, 1861

Destroyed, May, 1863.

Re-established, January, 1866.

SALES ROOMS,

C. E. CATE & CO.,

18 CAMP STREET, 18

Under the City Hotel.

We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of

LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF, AND KIP BROGANS,

Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.

We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.

A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.

O. E. CATE & CO.

feh17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W. C SHEPARD. — A. L ABBOTT. — ROBT. C HUTCHINSON

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,

No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,

Nearly opposite Picayune Office,

CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,

PLATED WARE,

House Furnishing Goods,

AND KITCHEN WARE.

We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city. For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.

Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,

sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Established in 1837.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,

Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W COFFIN & CO.,

102 & 104 East Second street,

Cincinnati, Ohio,

Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.

Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our improved Rotary Yoke.

All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.

Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

No. 27 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS

Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.

☞ Special attention given to orders.

Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street

Corner of St. Andrew Street,

oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,

Successors to D. Genella,

112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,

Dealers in

CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,

Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,

PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.

Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,

77 Magazine Street,

oct6 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]

EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL

Hat Emporium,

No 62 CAMP STREET,

Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. a18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY.

DRAKE & MARKHAM,

Manufacturers of

Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Children'

BOOTS AND SHOES,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.

We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.

OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!

Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.

Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.

One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.

We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.

Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.

All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of

DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP-STREET.

aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE

is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family.

Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delays of your daily meals, may be saved by using the

CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.

Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.

The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top

has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.

The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.

The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove—its most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from meats during the process of broiling are carried up its pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.

The Hot Closet, in which meats and pastry are kept warm for hours when there has been a delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and desserts, and place them hot upon the table.

The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.

Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Cuttings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Edge Tools, etc.

RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents, 93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras, and 565 Magazine street, near Magazine Market

sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN

PRICE'S

Patent Texas Tonic,

PURELY VEGETABLE.

It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for

CHILLS AND FEVERS.

For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.

For sale at 56 Camp street, New Orleans,

THOS. K. PRICE, Vendor.

Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of

PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,

Or, Vegetable Medicine.

T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:

DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate use and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefited.

Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,

We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City N.O.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Office
T. GREENFIELD, of house of Fellows & Co
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. HENSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce,

New Orleans, June, 1863.

TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$2 00
6 " "	2 50
8 " "	3 00
12 " "	5 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.

All orders will meet with prompt attention.

sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,

PAPER WAREHOUSE,

No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and St Charles streets, New Orleans.

Newspaper of the following sizes: 23 by 32, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 36 by 48.

Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Sons Type. sp7-1

J. B. JENNINGS. — J. W. WICKS. — M. J. WICKS.

JENNINGS, WICKS & BRO.

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

a1y 39 PERDIDO STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

G HORTER, Late of Magee & Kneass, N.O. — T K PETERSON, Late of Goff & Peterson, Philadelphia. — E C FENNER, New York

HORTER, PETERSON & FENNER

(Sign of the Black Horse,)

MANUFACTURERS OF SADDLES HARNESS, AND TRUNKS.

Importers of Saddlery & Coach Hardware

7 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

a22 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,

17 Chartres Street,

Lately received Carpeting of all kinds and qualities; Floor Oil Cloth of all qualities, which we cut to suit rooms; Curtain Materials, Lace Curtains, Cornices and Bands in great variety; Window Shades, Hair Cloth, Crumb Cloths, Table and Piano Covers, China and Cocoa Mattings of all widths.

oc13 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 47.
WHOLE NUMBER 607. 613

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1866.

$3 00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE
OFFICE—112 CAMP STREET.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate:

THE FUNDAMENTAL TRUTHS OF CHRISTIANITY.

From the German, by Prof. J. B. Ahrens.

SECOND PAPER.

The Paradoxes of Existence.

Man finds himself in the world; and al: so finds the gigeutic question of the exist: ence of the world facing itself upon his bewildered mind. Whence, then, is the world? Pacthelsm answers: "Sho is self: ridding—being is tha cause of being." That is: the Panthéist has no answer. David Straess, the Rationalist, meant the soul of man had, "as the unconscious soul of the universe, created the world, the position and the courses of the stars ar- ranged, the earth and the metals formed, the organic structure of vegetation and the animals ordained." We say: that is in: sanity.

Already the relation of man to the world is an innate paradox. How weak and faint is man!" It is not necessary—says Pascal—thet the whole universe arm itself to destroy him; a breath, a drop of water is sufficieot to kill him. But, although, should eveo the universe destroy him, yet would man he greater than his destroyer; for he knows that he dies, but the universe knows oet thet it kills him. It is thought that fixes the greatness of man." Even man himself is a paradox. In him is a constant thirst for knowledgo and certain- ty. "Eternelly we touch a problem—says Goethe once;—man is a mysterious being, he knows little of the world, and still less of himself." Man has an un- quenchable desire for happiness. He seeks God as his highest good; for he was created for God. Nevertheless, in his desire to approach God, he experiences an opposite desire to depart from God. Man carries in his bosom a secret enmity against God. Also his will is in a paradoxical state with itself. J. J. Rousseau says: "Man is not a unit: I will, and I will not; I know my- self at the same time enslaved and free; I appreciate the good, I love it, and yet do what is evil; I am beneficially active when I listen to my reason, self sufferlng when I am carried away by my passions; and my greatest misery is, when this conquered, to realize that I might have successfully re- sisted."

The realization of these paradoxes and the inability explicitly to explain them, has at all times drawn forth from the breasts of the greatest poets and thinkers, such mournful elegies and dolorous ac- counts of the misery of human life. Many sought in suicide the solution of the pro- blem. But how can death solve the pro- blem when death itself is, of all others, the greatest problem? Death is the com- mencement of an eternity—be it one of destruction or of another life.

"The further we advance in our expe- rience, the nearer we approach in penetra- bility," says Goethe. And furthermore: we must be willing to find the truth. Man doubts not the axioms of mathematics. Why so? He feels no interest to doubt them. It to doubt the existence of a God—herein he is abundantly interested. Even Fichte has confessed that, "man's system of thinking is very frequently nothing more than a history of his heart. My con victions grow invariably out of my disposition, and are not the product of my rea- son." Man's relation to the truth is hence not only one of an intellectual, but also one of a moral nature.

The explanation of the paradoxes of ex- istence lies in God. God is the only basis of a satisfactory view of the world.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

LETTER FROM SWITZERLAND.

Dear Advocate: I avail myself of your columns to greet the brethren of the minis- try, and testify my anxiety to again take the field, and as an humble itinerant battle for Christ and his kingdom. There is no pleasure so sweet to the servant of God as to proclaim salvation through Christ to fallen men. I am not idle in this work. I have seen much, and every new object that strikes my vision, only impresses me the more with the grandeur of God as the cre- ator and supernler of all. I have not on- ly seen wonders in nature, but I have sat within walls which have echoed to the voice of Zuinglius, and heard shall I say the gos- pel! Nay! But the voice was the voice of one professing to be a minister of Christ, and before him lay the open page of the sacred record, but he denied its divine au- thenclty, as well as the Godhead of Christ. I attended (in a building eight hundred years old,) a synod of a Christian church in which infidelity predominated to such an extent that the few faithful ones were com: pelled to threaten withdrawal from the church, to prevent the foundation stone of christian doctrine being torn away. Of course revolution would follow such disso- lution, and this alone awed the proud Infi- del.

Europe seems to be in a strange condi- tion of excitement. Each ruler says, "peace! peace!" and still every nation on the continent is preparing for war—needle- guns, cannons, iron-clads, are called for on every hand. She seems to be afraid of her: self. There is something very peculiar in the late Austro Prussian and Italian war; whilst it was the last act in the drama of the Pope's temperal rolo, it has been a mighty stride towards the permanent es- tablishment of monarchy on the continent. Many of the smaller and more liberal gov- ernments have been swallowed up in the gi- gantic outspreading of empire. We now have on the continent, France, Prussia, Austria, Italy and Russia, as you may say first class empires, and in each the nod of the ruler is the law. Brave little Switzer- land, with her head pillowed on the snowy heights of the Alps — still is intact, but with trembling she says, "make ready! take aim!" and simply holds her fire. If the old Eastern question should again be- come a matter of war on the continent, it will finally result in the overthrow of Isla- mism, and strange to say, will probably bury forever, all hopes of free government in this land. It is more than probable that I will, with God's blessing, accomplish the objects of my trip in time to return by next Fall, say October 1867. I find the poor of Europe very poor, and indeed it is a charity to take them to America. There are thousands here in this Canton, anxious to go to Louisiana, but have not the means. If there who need hands will send me thirty-two dollars, in gold, per hand, I can send ten thousand or more, this winter. A good plan to adopt is for sev- eral planters to unite, charter a vessel at a cost of $7,000, send over 1,500 bales of cotton; the freight of which will more than reimburse them for expense of charter. They can then return with two or three hundred persons. The persons are not on- ly willing, but anxious to have an oppor- tunity of working at reasonable wages for their passage to America. Any assistance that I can, I will gladly give.

Let us ever remember that the great work of life, is to serve God. And if we fail in every thing else, let us make sure work of heaven. May God bless you, my dear brethren, is the sincere prayer of your's in Christ,

B. F. White.

Zurich, Switzerland, Oct. 18th, 1866.

THE FURROW.

BY DENUY WHITAKER.

The coulter through the greensward glides;
The furrow leaves the shining share,
And in its mother's bosom hides
Its crown of emerald hair.
With secret joy I watch the mold,
In color mingling black and gold,
From the green meadow's lap unrolled
And crumbling to the air.

That shifting thread of common earth—
One instant sod, another soil—
How many germs of life have birth
In its unwisting coil!
The secret nature holds most dear
For man's support, from year to year,
The magic touch of toil.

And so I follow round and round
The greensward shrinking as I go,
Till all is changed to mellow ground,
When the bright seed I sow.
O, furrow! safe my treasures keep;
Nourish the young grain while I sleep,
That I who plant in faith may reap
In gladness ere the snow.

From the Nashville Christian Advocate.

THE RED SEA.

The passage through the Arabian Sea was delightful. The nights especially were gorgeous beyond the power of description. Sometimes not a cloud appeared in the whole heavens, the deep azure dome crowd- ed with brilliant stars, the larger constel- lations flaming like chandeliers in the vault of night. Again, as if the angels were preparing for some grand festival, the whole heavens were decked with cloud-drapery of every imaginable hue and color; and all this celestial beauty reflected in the calm seas beneath. As the angle of reflection is equal to the angle of incidence, we seemed to be suspended in the center of a sphere —above, beneath, around on every side, were stars and clouds—a scene never to be forgotten. Even the thoughtless in our company appeared impressed, and looked, admired, and wondered! To the cultivated Christian taste, it was a banquet of beauty.

Nine days from Ceylon, we reached Aden in Arabia, at the entrance of the Red Sea. If the Island we had left was the loveliest, this desolate spot was the most wretched. Aden at the lower end, and Suez at the head of the Red Sea, are unsurpassed by any place visited by civilized man, for all that is cheerless and desolate. The former is a military post, occupied by English troops, who guard the entrance to the Red Sea. Not a tree—not a green thing is to be seen, except the few shrubs brought by the English and kept in boxes. Before the fort was built, there was one small bush in the neighborhood, which the natives had enclosed and worshiped! The soil is black as coal, and the barren hills around look like immense piles of coal and cinders. Yet Christian people live here. If a missiona- ry should make his residence in such a spot, in order to teach the heathen the way to heaven, he would be thought mad by many, and pitied by all. These people, however, spend their lives here, or their best years, for money, and it is all right. The world sees no folly in it, but if they are all paid, applauds them for it. Well, so it is in this world; we will see how it will be in the next.

Our stay was short at this miserable place, and no one regretted that it was so. The Arabs from the desert came in with ostrich eggs, ostrich feathers, and other things peculiar to this country. Sabbath as it was, many of our passengers bought liberally. This was to be expected of those who made no pretensions to piety, but I was sorry to see professed Christians vio- lating the holy Sabbath thus. Even our little friend, the chaplain, invested in feath- ers several pounds. But it was like him. "Pity for him."

The Arabs in this part of Arabia are black—almost as black as the Lybians who acted as stokers on our steamer. The fea- tures, however, are Asiatic, not African. Their wild, free manner, contrasts strongly with the menial aspect of the negro. Men may theorize as they please about the ne- gro, but in his own land, free from the de- basing influence of the "institution," he is as thoroughly the negro as on any cotton or sugar plantation in the South. The difference between the Arab and the negro is not in the skin, for they are here both black, but in that, whatever it is, which makes the negro to differ from the Cau- casian, Mongolian, Malay, and North American Indian. But I have no disposi- tion just now to discuss the "vexed ques- tion," in any of its aspects. I have my views on this, as on other subjects. To return to the Arabs about Aden: These wild creatures are not encumbered with even an apology for clothes. The only at- tempt to interfere with the freedom of na- ture which I observed, was a ridiculous fashion of twisting their hair into small spirals like corkscrews. This they have a perfect right to do, and perhaps could show as good reasons for it as we can for some of our Christian fashions.

I could not learn that any missionary was stationed in this part of the country, though soldiers and merchants from Chris- tian lands are stationed at every point where we touched. The love of souls is not with the mass of professed Christians equal to the love of money. Who is will- ing to go and teach these ignorant children of the desert? They have souls. They sin—they suffer—they die—they will exist for ever.

At 8 o'clock on Monday morning we entered the waters of the Red Sea. I can- not describe my sensations as I gazed up- on this "sea of wonders"! The Red Sea! about which I had read so much in my Bible. On one side rose the gloomy moun- tains of Africa—on the other, the sandy plains of Arabia, glowing like a sea of fire, extended as far as the eye could reach. The sea is narrow, especially at this point, and our course sometimes lay close to one shore, again approached so near to the other, that a strong man could cast a stone from the deck of our vessel to the land. The water is not red, but green, owing to its shallow- ness. Why it is called the Red Sea, I do not know. I am sure it is not red. There are some peculiarities about this sea, which I do not remember to have seen stated. One is, the wind always blows either up or down the sea, according to the season. This, together with its narrowness, pre- vent sailing vessels navigating it. It is said a sail is never seen upon it. We saw none during the six days we were upon its waters. Again; it is so full of coral reefs, that steamers require to be piloted with great care along the single devious channel winding through its entire length. Anoth- er peculiarity is its extreme saltness. It is said to be eighteen parts salt. It is fear- fully hot during the summer months—so hot that the mail-steamers have sometimes been compelled, in order to save the lives of the passengers, to put about and sail against the wind. The season was mere moderate when we were there, still but few of our company escaped the fever caused by the heat. I never suffered such heat before or since.

We were seldom out so far from either the African or Arabian coast, except when changing our course, as not to be able to see the land. There are some points on the African coast presenting a fit type of the moral condition of its inhabitants— dark mountains, separated by deep and hor- rid gorges, or valleys of gloom as dense as that which hangs over the valley of death. My imagination may have added something to the picture, but all united in the opinion expressed by one of our company, that nothing this side the shadow of death could be gloomier. On the Arabian coast beautiful plains and valleys sometimes re- lieve the general appearance of barenness.

But it was the "sacred places" and as- sociations that invested our voyage with its chief interest. We were on the conse- crated waters of that sea so often men- tioned in the early history of God's chosen people. I watched the African shore for two hundred miles, to see if I could fix up- on any point where the children of Israel crossed. It is true, part of the time was night, and I could not stand constantly on deck; besides, attention to my family oc- casionally called me away; but I lost as little time as possible. I had the benefit of Sir Arthur Cotten's intimate knowledge of the coast, and his opinion concerning this and other questions connected with the sacred narrative. I was satisfied as to the point where they crossed, but need not trouble your readers with my views. I have no taste for such discussions. I prefer to believe and enjoy my belief. I do not love to doubt on any subject.

One object of the deepest interest to me is not, I believe, involved in uncertainty— Mount Horeb. This glorious mountain rises up from the shore in towering majesty above all the rest of the world. I felt as if I should have known this mountain if I had seen it anywhere. It is one of the few objects I have seen, of which I had previously formed an idea, that did not dis- appoint me. In a country abounding in bold and striking scenery, it stands a king. If it had not been so often and so well des- cribed, I would copy my journal at this point, but it would be presumption in me to do so. I feel embarrassed any way in attempting to say any thing about these wonderful objects, and shall hasten on. I took up a bottle of water from the foot of Mount Horeb, which I now have.

At the end of six days we came in sight of Suez. The sea at this place is only about twelve miles wide, and so shallow that our steamer, which drew twenty-six feet water, could not approach nearer than three or four miles of the shore. We were taken to the land in small steamers, with flat bottoms, drawing only eighteen inches. It will be enough to say of the city of Suez, that it is quite as desolate and mis- erable as Aden. Somebody has said, "im- agine the city of sin, surrounded by a land- scape of original depravity, and you will have my idea of Suez" We spent a few hours at this wretched city of Egypt, and then took the cars for Cairo. Our way was through the desert, which was to me almost as interesting as the Red Sea. In some particulars the desert was not what I had thought. I had supposed it to be an extended sand-plain. I found it, how- ever, undulating—in some parts hilly, and everywhere barren. The hills appeared to be composed of coarse, yellow sand-stone. Occasionally a bunch of coarse grass was to be seen; but its general appearance is that of utter barcaness. The cars stopped frequently to give the passengers an op- portunity of looking about. In the middle of the desert lives "The Woman of the Desert," as she is called—a single woman employed by the company to occupy a house for the accomodation of lady passen- gers. A dreary life, which few could en- dure. This woman said she could not bear it much longer.

The ride across the desert was pleasant —much more so than in the good old days of caravans, when several weary days were consumed in the journey. The air of the desert is pure, and more exhilirating than that of the sea. Every one who is not af- filiated with some chronic misery, is happy while breathing it. Our company was full of life, and the miseries of the Red Sea were almost forgotten before we reached Grand Cairo. We witnessed that strange illusion so often mentioned by travelers, the mirage. But enough of this for the present.

W. G. E. Cunnyngham.

Dancing.

In the pastoral letter issued to the Cath- olics of this country by the recent council at Baltimore, is the following passage in reference to dancing:

"We consider it to be our duty to warn our people against those amusements which may easily become to them an occasion of sin, and especially against those fashiona- ble dances, which, as at present carried on, are revolting to every feeling of delicacy and propriety, and are fraught with the greatest danger to morality. We would also warn them most solemnly against the abuses which have sprung up in the matter of fairs, excursions and picnics, in which, as too often conducted, the name of charity is made to cover up a multitude of sins. We forbid all Catholics having any thing to do with them, except when manag: ed in accordance with the regulations of the Ordinary, and under the immediate su- pervision of their respective pastors."

AFRICAN SUPERSTITIONS.

The Nashville Union and American says: Some two months or more ago we copied, from the Georgia and Mississippi papers, statements showing that many of the negroes in certain localities in those States were afflicted with the most gro- tesque and absurd religious superstitions. The Rev. C. K. Marshall, of the latter State, also made a statement of well-au: thenticated facts, indicating that those crude superstitions were much more gen- eral among the negro population of the South than was generally known. One of the forms of this heathenism is denominat- ed Voodoo, by the negroes, and was exem- plified practically in Memphis, on Sunday last, in the manner stated by the Appeal, as follows:

"Voodooism.—We believe this barbaric religion of worship is beginning to take hold among the negroes. Free from the check which was once held over them, they have unlimited control over their baser passions, and now and then it bursts out, and proves that the worship of their bar- baric fathers still runs in the blood of the Americanized negro. It was but last Sunday night that a party of five negroes, dressed in the garb which father Adam is supposed to have worn, dashed down across South street into an open field, yelping and shouting like madmen, to the terror of the women and amusement and surprise of the men, who did not know what to make of them. Talking with some negroes yes- terday about this incident, we asked them what it all meant. Several shrugged their shoulders innocently, but one, more igno- rant than the rest, informed us, 'Dey are trying to voodoo de niggars" Voodooism, from what we can learn, is a superstition little else than the idolatrous religion of Africa. It prevails more extensively in New Orleans than elsewhere, and its rites and ceremonies are more disgusting. They believe in incantations and charms, hewitch their enemies by pieces of hair, feathers and similar articles, which are charmed. They have been suspected of human sacri- fices, and are known to rob graves, that they may procure materials for their charms, which are as varied and disgusting as those used by the witches in Macbeth. Strange to say, they have made white converts, and, in one or two cases, of sensible people. The initiatory rites, as described by the New Orleans police, who have several times broken in upon them, consists of naked dances around a leaking cauldron of charm- ed snakes, toads, human remains, and si milar articles. They have a woman to whom they are subject. This woman, who resides in New Orleans, is known to the police as being a beautiful octoroon. The subject is one of interest, and the only works we know of on it are very unsatis- factory. The negro Dr. Randolph, lately traveling with the southern loyalists, de- livered some lectures on the subject at New Orleans, claiming that he had learned its mysteries in Africa, but he evidently knew very little on the subject. It is known to be practiced on most of the Louisiana plantations. Gillmore Simms has written a story called the 'Enchanted Crow,' which is evidently based on this heathen- ism and superstitions religion. It is to be hoped that some competent person will study it, for it is the religion of Africa brought to our doors."

The Galveston (Texas) Bulletin a few weeks ago stated a case occurring in the county jail, as follows:

"There is at the county jail a darkey supposed to be voodooed. Sambo has been there more than a month. He has never spoken except when hungry and forced to say 'bread,' and on one other oc- casion when he was heard to say, 'Nice morning.' Yet the rascal can evidently talk and understand what is said to him. He will stand by the door straight in the position of a soldier,' staring at the blank wall. At other times he will sing 'Bob- bing Around' for half the night, when he will curl himself on the ground, put his head on his tin plate, and sleep like a pig. The other negroes say he is voodooed or else voodooing somebody."

Within the last ten days a case has tran- spired in this city with similar characteris- tics. A negress, of the half-blood, who was for many years a slave in the family of the writer of this, and who has borne and reared a family of several children, was taken sick some six weeks or two months ago, with some scrofulous form of disease. Failing to get relief, she called in a negro "medicine man," who at once pronounced her bewitched, or voodooed. He told her that the bed on which she lay contained certain feathers, bones, and hair, which had produced all her suffering, and whereby she had been voodooed. To prove it, he proposed to rip open and examine the bed. Upon doing so, he found certain minute chicken bones, a few chicken feathers, and perhaps some hair. This demonstrated the truth of the physician's diagnosis, and he began his curative process by dispelling the sorcery, by incantations, sounds, ges- tures, etc., the evil spirit of the Voodoo This so shocked and disgusted the husband of the patient and the other members of the family, that the "medicine man" was peremptorily discharged, with a warning not to return.

Walter Scott's Advice to his Son Charles.

I cannot too much impress upon your mind that labor is the condition which God has imposed on us in every station in life. There is nothing worth having that can be had without it, from the bread which the peasant wins with the sweat of his brow, to sports by which the rich men must get rid of his ennui. The only difference betwixt them is, that the poor man labors to get a dinner to his appetite; the rich man to get an appetite to his dinner. As for knowledge, it can no more be planted in the human mind without labor, than a field of wheat can be produced without the previous use of the plow.

There is, indeed, this great difference, that chance or circumstances may so cause it that another shall reap what the farmer sows; but no man can be deprived, wheth- er by accident or misfortune, of the fruits of his own studies, and the liberal and ex- tended acquisitions of knowledge which he makes all for his own use.

Labor, my dear boy, therefore, and im- prove the time. In youth our steps are light and our minds are ductile, and knowl- edge is easily laid up. But if we neglect our Springs, our Summers will be useless and contemptible, our harvest will be chaff, and the Winter of old age unrespected and desolate.

Again: Read, my dear Charlie, read; and read that which is useful. Man dif- fers from birds and beasts only because he has the means of availing himself of the knowledge acquired by his predecessors. The swallow builds the same nest which its father and mother built, and the spar- row does not improve by the experience of its parents. The son of the learned pig, if it had one, would be mere brute, only fit to make bacon of. It is not so with the human race. Our ancestors lodged in coves and wigwams, where we construct palaces for the rich, and comfortable dwell- ings for the poor; and why is this but be- cause our eye is enabled to look back upon the past, to improve upon our ancestors' improvements, and to avoid their errors? This can only be done by studying history, and comparing it with passing events.

A Curious Medley.

To show how our Northern brethren mix up things—politics with perfection, fervor of devotion and childish folly—we quote a passage from the pen of the Rev. Alfred Cookman, (son of our lamented friend,) in the Guide to Holiness. Des- cribing a scene in the preachers' tent at the Shrewsbury Camp meeting, he says:

Kneeling together, the beloved presiding elder of the Carlisle District led in prayer. While yielding himself afresh and more fully to God, and accepting Jesus as his Redeemer from sin, salvation came in its fulness to his soul, and he sank down over- whelmed with emotion. In a few moments he gratefully and definitely testified, "Brothers, Jesus saves me now; saves me so fully, that I am assured if I should die at this moment I should certainly go to join the blood-washed around the throne in heaven." A hymn of praise was sung. Then another presiding elder stepped into the Bethesda of perfect love. Directly a third presiding elder arose and said, "Breth- ren, I will honestly state, that, theorizing on this subject of sanctification for the last eleven years, I had well nigh theorized my heart out of all belief of the doctrine. To- night, however, I give my theories to the winds, and I want to testify that God is giving me light—not heat, not a special experience, but simply light." A little while after, this same brother rose again, and, with a face all aglow, said, "Brethren, glory to God! I have both now, the light and the heat. O, I know for myself that the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth me from all sin!" So the meeting proceeded, one after another stepping into the full li- berty of the sons of God. Young minis- ters were rejoicing in Christ as their per- fect Saviour. Superannuated brethren were coming out more clearly into the blessed light of full salvation. Thus, for six hours, this wonderful and glorious meet- ing continued. During that time, nine- teen brethren, including the three presiding elders, took the three steps suggested of full consecration, implicit faith, and definite confession. At half-past three in the morning, this band of brothers, full of glory and of God, sallied forth from the preachers' tent and marched around the ground, singing—

"I will sprinkle you with water;
I will cleanse you all from sin;
Sanctify and make you holy;
I will come and dwell within:"

Subsequently they became apostles of holiness, and at every opportunity exhort- ed the Church to come up to the measure of their privileges in the gospel of Jesus. Nor in vain; for, all over the Shrewsbury Camp-ground, hundreds were seeking and large numbers entering into this rest of faith and love. O, how glorious is old Maryland Methodism, standing up so brave- ly just now in the midst of civil and eccle- siastical disloyalty!

From the New Orleans Picayune.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

After a brief interval, the Congress of the United States resumes its annual legis- lative labors.

An all-wise and merciful Providence has abated the pestilence which visited our shores, leaving its calamitous traces upon some portions of our country.

Peace, order, tranquility and civil auth- ority have been formally declared to exist throughout the whole of the United States. In all the States civil authority has super- seded the coercion of arms, and the people, by their voluntary action, are maintaining their governments in full activity and com- plete operation. The enforcement of the laws is no longer obstructed in any State by combinations too powerful to be sup- pressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings; and the animosities engendered by the war are rapidly yielding to the bene- ficent influences of our free institutions, and the kindly effects of unrestrained social and commercial intercourse.

An entire restoration of fraternal feelings must be the earnest wish of every patriot heart, and we will have accomplished our grandest national achievement when, for- getting the sad events of the past, and re- membering only their instructive lessons, we resume our course, as a free, prosperous and united people.

In my message of the 4th of December, 1865, Congress was informed of the mea- sures which had been instituted by the Ex- ecutive, with a view to the gradual restora- tion of the States in which the insurrection occurred, to their relations with the Gener- al Government. Provisional Governors had been appointed, Conventions called, Govern- ors elected, Legislators assembled and Senators and Representatives chosen to the Congress of the United States; courts had been opened for the enforcement of laws long in abeyance, the blockade had been removed, custom houses established, and the internal revenue laws put in force, in order that the people might contribute to the national income. Postal operations had been resumed, and efforts were being made to restore them to their former condition of efficiency. The States themselves had been asked to take part in the high functions of attending a convention, thus sanctioning the extinction of African slavery, as one of the legitimate results of our internecine struggle. Having progressed thus far, the Executive Department found that it had ac- complished nearly all that was within the scope of its constitutional authority. One thing, however, yet remained to be done, before the work of restoration could be completed, and that was the admission to Congress of Loyal Senators and Representa- tives from the States whose people had re- belled against the authority of the Govern- ment. This question devolved upon the respective Houses, who, by the constitution, are made the judges of the election returns and qualifications of their own members, and its consideration at once engaged the attention of Congress. In the meantime the Executive Department, no other plan having been proposed by Congress, contin- ued its efforts to perfect, as far as practica- ble, the restoration of proper relations be- tween the citizens of the respective States and the Federal Government. Extending, from time to time, as the public interests seemed to require, the judicial, revenue and postal systems of the country, with the advice and consent of the Senate, the necessary officers were appointed, and appropriations made by Congress for the payment of their salaries.

The proposition to amend the Federal constitution, so as to prevent the existence of slavery within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction, was rat- ified by the requisite number of States, and on the 18th day of December, 1865, it was officially declared to have become valid as a part of the constitution of the United States. All the States in which the institu- tion had existed had mostly amended their constitutions, so as to make them conform to the great change thus effected in the or- ganic law of the land; declared null and void all ordinances and laws of secession; repudiated all the pretended debts and obli- gations created for the revolutionary pur- poses of the insurrection, and proceeded, in good faith, to the enactment of measures for the protection and amelioration of the colored race. Congress, however, hesitated to admit any of these States to representa- tion, and it was not until towards the close of the eighth month of the session that an exception was made in favor of Tennessee, by the admission of her Senators and Re- presentatives. I deem it a subject of pro- found regret that Congress has, thus far, failed to admit to their seats the loyal Sen- ators and Representatives from the other States, whose inhabitants, with those of Tennessee, had engaged in rebellion, and that now more than one-fourth of the whole number remain without representation. The seats of fifty members in the House of Rep- resentatives and of twenty in the Senate are yet vacant—not by their own consent, but by the refusal of Congress, after mature reflec- tion, to accept their credentials. Their admis- sion, it is believed, would have accomplish- ed much towards the renewal and strength- ening of our relations as one people, and re- moved serious cause for discontent on the part of the inhabitants of these States. It would have accorded with the great princi- ple enunciated in the declaration of Ameri- can independence, that no people ought to bear the burden of taxation and yet be de- nied the right of representation; that each State shall have at least one Representative, and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate. These provisions were intended to secure to every State the right of repre- sentation in each house of Congress. So im- portant was it deemed by the framers of the constitution, that the equality of the States in the Senate should be preserved, that not even by an amendment of the constitution can any State, without its consent, be de- nied a voice in that branch of the National Legislature. It is true it has been assumed by some that the existence of the States was terminated by the rebellious acts of their inhabitants, and that, the insurrection having been suppressed, they were hence- forward to be considered merely as con- quered territory. The legislative, executive and judicial departments of the Government have, however, with great distinctness and uniform consistency, refused to sanction an assumption so incompatible with the nature of our republican system, and with the pro- fessed objects of the war. Throughout the recent legislation of Congress, the undeni- able fact makes itself apparent that these ten political communities are nothing less than States of the Union. At the very commence- ment of the rebellion, each House declared, with a unanimity as remarkable as it was significant, that the war was not waged with any spirit of oppression, nor for any purpose of conquest or subjugation, nor for the purpose of overthrowing or interfering with the rights or established institutions of those States, but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the constitution and of all laws made in pursuance thereof, and to pre- serve the Union, with all the dignity, equal- ity and rights of the several States unim- paired, and that as soon as these objects were accomplished the war ought to cease. In some instances, Senators were permitted to continue their legislative functions, while, in other instances, Representatives were elected and admitted to seats after their States had formally declared their right to withdraw from the Union, and were endeav- oring to maintain that right by force of arms. All the States whose people were in insur- rection, as States, were included in the ap- portionment of the direct tax of thirty mil- lions of dollars annually laid upon the Uni- ted States by the act approved August 5, 1861. Congress, by the act of March 4, 1862, and by the apportionment of repre- sentation thereunder, also recognized their presence as States in the Union, and they have, for judicial purposes, been divided in- to districts, as States alone can be divided. The same recognition appears in the recent legislation in reference to Tennessee, which rests under the fact that the functions of the State were not destroyed by the rebellion but merely suspended, and the same princi- ple is of course applicable to those States which, like Tennessee, attempted to re- nounce their places in the Union.

The action of the Executive of the Gov- ernment upon this subject has been equally definite and uniform. The purpose of the war was specifically stated in the proclama- tion issued by my predecessor on the 22nd day of September, 1862. It was then solemn- ly proclaimed and declared that "hereafter, as heretofore, the war will be prosecuted for the object of practically restoring the constitutional relationship between the Uni- ted States and each of the States, and the people thereof, in which States that relation is or may be suspended."

The recognition of the States by the judi- cial department of the Government has al- so been clear and conclusive, in all proceed- ings affecting them as States, had in the Su- preme, Circuit and District Courts.

In the admission of Senators and Repre- sentatives from any and all of the States, there can be no just ground of apprehension that persons who are disloyal will be clothed with the powers of legislation, for this could not happen when the constitution and laws are enforced by a vigilant and faithful Congress. Each House is made the judge of the election returns and qualifications of its own members, and may, with the con- currence of two thirds, expel a member. When a Senator or Representative presents his certificate of election, he must be admit- ted or rejected; or, should there be any question as to his eligibility, his credentials may be referred for investigation to the ap- propriate committee. If admitted to a seat it must be upon evidence satisfactory to the House of which he becomes a member, that he possesses the requisite constitutional and legal qualifications. If he is refused admis- sion as a member for want of due allegiance to the Government, his constituents are ad- monished that none but persons loyal to the United States will be allowed a voice in the legislative councils of the nation, and the political power and moral influence of Con- gress are thus effectively exerted in the in- terests of loyalty to the Government and fi- delity to the Union.

Upon this question, so vitally affecting the restoration of the Union and the per- manency of our present form of govern- ment, my convictions heretofore expressed, have undergone no change, but, on the con- trary, their correctness has been confirmed by reflection and time. If the admission of loyal members to seats in the respective houses of Congress was wise and expedient a year ago, it is no less wise and expedient now. If this anomalous condition is right now—if in the exact condition of these States at present it is lawful to exclude them from representation, I do not see that the question will be changed by the influx of time. Ten years hence, if these States re- main as they are, the right of representa- tion will be no stronger, the right of exclu- sion no weaker.

Appointments of Memphis Conference.

Memphis District.—John Moss, P. E.; Wesley church, to be supplied, J W Knott, Sup; Asbury church, Guilford Jones, E J Williams, Sup.; Central church, J T C Collins, D J Allen, Sup., F A Owen, Sup.; Collins Chapel, to be supplied; Greenwood colored charge, to be supplied; City Mission, A H Thomas; Hernando st., F S Petway; Hernando ct., Tilmen Page; Olive Branch ct. T P Holman, P Tuggle, Sup.; Olive Branch at., colored charge, to be supplied by J Wil- liams; Friar's Point, J F Markham; Hush- puckany, W McMahen; Moore's Bayou, T P Davidson; Concordia, B T Pearson; Tunica, to be supplied, M M Dunn, Sup.; Samuel Watson, Agent Book and Tract Society; W C Johnson, Editor Memphis and Arkan- sas Christian Advocate; Chas. Collins, Pres- ident State Female College.

Somerville District.—T L Boswell, P. E.; Somerville st., R H Rivers, R V Taylor, W N Morgan, Sup.; Wesley, A R Wilson, J P McCall; Mount Zion, M H Cullum, A C Smith, J D Slaughter, Sup. Randolph, J Per- ry; Raleigh L D Mullins, J W Shelton, Sup; Covington st., J W Mathis; Macon, W T Plummer; Oakland; W M McFerrin; Cypress, to be supplied; La Grange st., B H Bishop; Newcastle, J W Boswell; Bolivar, J H Gar- rett; Salisbury, T J Neely. N A D Bryant, Sup.

Jackson District.—W H Leigh, P. E.; Jackson st., J H Evans, L Lea, Sup.; Jack- son at., Isham L Barrow; Denmark, E E Hamilton; Mt. Pinson, E L Fisher; Lexing- ton, J R Sykes; Decaturville, R S Swift; Trenton ct., R H Burns, N Sullivan, Sup., Humboldt st., to be supplied; A W Jones, President Memphis Conference Female In- stitute; B A Hayes, Agent Memphis Confer- ence Female Institute.

Dyersburg District.—G W D Harris, P. E.; Dyersburg st., G B Allen; Dyersburg at., P J Kelsey, T F Brewer, R M Tarrant, Sup.; Dyersburg ct., colored charge, J A McClellan; Trenton st., W F Mister, N P Ramsey, Sup.; Cageville, J B McCutcheon, J F Armstrong, J M Scott, Sup.; Browns- ville and Prospect, G K Brooks, B Medlin, Sup.; Brownsville ct., O J Mauldin, one to be supplied; Brownsville ct. colored charge, to be supplied; Fulton and Bluff Springs, F M Morris; Madrid Bend, W J Mahon; S W Moore, President Andrew College; W T Harris, Agent for Andrew College.

Paris District.—R S Harris, P. E.; Paris st., D M K Collins; Paris ct., W T C Young, H Bell, Sup.; Camden, E M Baker; Morgan's Creek, J C Crews; Huntingdon st., E B Plummer; Huntingdon ct., B F Peebles; Pleasant Plains at., J Randle, M M Taylor, Sup.; Pleasant Plains ct. colored charge, J H Witt; Boydville, to be supplied; Dresden st., D C Johnson.

Paducah District.—F Bynum, P. E.; Pa- ducah st., E C Slater, J M Spence, Sup.; Paducah ct., T C Ellis; Blandville, to be supplied by F Mason; Benton, B B Risen- hoover; Briensburg, W W Fawcett, J R Dycus, Sup.; Clinton, D Mason; Palestine, J E Beok; Mayfield st., H B Avery; Colum- bus st., F M English; Hickman st., A L Hunsaker, T B Atteberry, Sup.; Hickman ct., J M Flatt, S Weaver, Sup., Dresden ct., H B Covington; Troy, G H Bransford; M D Robinson, Sup.; Hickman ct. colored charge, to be supplied by J D Hale.

Holly Springs District.—J H Brooks, P. E.; Holly Springs st., L H Davis, Holly Springs ct., J B Harris; Chulahoma ct., E Jackson; Chulahoma ct. colored charge, to be supplied; Sardis ct., A J Sse; Sardis ct. colored charge, to be supplied; Harmony, G W Bachman; Cold Water, A P Sage; Cockrum, W S Harrison; Byhalia st., M H Ford; Byhalia ct. colored charge, to be sup- plied; Marshall, R A Neblett; Early Grove, Thomas Joyner; Salem, Warner Moore, S B Carson, Sup.; Hickory Flat, T G Freeman; P J Eckles, President Byhalia Female In- stitute; J E Douglass, President Marshall Female Institute; T J Gooch, President Sar- dis Female Institute.

Iuka District.—W D F Hafford, P. E.; Iuka st., John Barcroft; Iuka ct., J W Pos- ton; Corinth st., R G Rainey; Corinth ct., M L Martin; Rienzi ct., M D Fly, J Gaines, Sup.; Rienzi at. colored charge, W E Ellis; Marietta, J W Honnell; Purdy, to be sup- plied by W P Nance; Rock Spring, to be supplied by L D Webb; Middleton, J A Fite; Ripley, J W Luter.

Aberdeen District.—A C Allen, P. E.; Aberdeen st., Amos Kendall; Gladesville and colored charge, B B Baker; Aberdeen ct., A L Pritchett; Aberdeen ct. colored charge, to be supplied; Chickasaw, T J Lewry; Houston, R G Porter; Okolona ct., T L Dake; Okolona and Verona st., J C Lowe, H D Howell, Sup.; Pontotoc, to be supplied by C D Fontaine, M J Blackwell, Sup.; Pontotoc ct., colored charge, to be supplied by R H Bonner; Baldwin, B W Stubbs; Richmond ct., W L Kistler; Rich- mond ct. colored charge, to be supplied by W Cooper; Fulton, H H Thacker; Lee, col- ored charge, J P Dancer.

Grenada District.—Isaac Ebbert, P. E.; Grenada st., R H Mahon; Grenada ct. to be supplied; Charleston, F A Wilkerson, one to be supplied; Calhoun ct., W C Green, one to be supplied; Calhoun ct. colored charge, J M Hampton; Water Valley and Coffeeville st., W W Pearson; Joseph John- son, Sup.; Coffeeville ct., F C Pearson; Springdale, K Martin; Oxford st., J J Wheat; Oxford ct., A K Miller; Cambridge W S Jones; Sarepta, A H Kennedy; Panola, J W Bates; Cassida, J W Melver; J J Wheat, Professor in the University of Mis- sissippi.

Somerville Colored District.—To be supplied by Thomas Taylor as Presiding Elder; Somerville st. to be supplied; Wes- ley ct., R A Umstead, J T Baskerville, Sup.; Mt. Zion, to be supplied; Macon, J W Walkup; La Grange ct., to be [illegible] Jackson ct., to be supplied; Jackson [illegible] McCutcheon; Denmark, to be supplied by O P Parker.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. KEENER, 112 Camp st., New Orleans.

AGENTS.—All the members of the patronising Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. E. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1866.

THE LOUISIANA CONFERENCE meets at Baton Rouge next Wednesday, Dec. 12th, at 9 A.M.

Change of Name and Lay Delegation.

We compile from our exchanges the following vote on these subjects, and will continue to add from time to time until all the Conferences are heard from.

Conferences.	Change of Name. For	Against	Lay Delegation For	Against
Missouri	28	30	40	19
St. Louis	26	12	19	19
Arkansas	24	19	16	29
Louisville	35	31	57	10
Kentucky	45	7	47	4
W. Virginia	15	7	21	1
Holston	51	2	47	7
N. W. Texas	28	00	26	00
Tennessee	55	48	58	41
Memphis	78	43	65	51
N. Carolina	69	3	49	23
Pacific	37	8	40	1
Virginia	64	47	73	26
Mobile	18	42	34	30
Mississippi	36	52	32	45

Sunday School Visitor.

The first number of the new series of the Sunday School Visitor is to be issued Jan. 1, 1867. Orders for it to supply all the families and schools in the Connection in packages proportioned to the number of children and teachers, ought to be forwarded without delay, that the publishers may know how large an edition to print. The terms are, single copies 50 cents; from five to twenty-five copies to one address, 40 cents; over twenty-five copies, 30 cents a year.

CARONDELET ST. CHURCH, N. O.

MR. EDITOR: It has been about a year since we were restored by order of the President to the reoccupation of our Church in this city. I propose to give a brief statement of the situation in my charge.

In the Spring of 1862, there were some 307 names on the Church register. Immediately before, and during the Federal occupation of the city, many of our members, in common with other citizens, left the city, and sought homes in other localities. The war continued so long that quite a number of our people engaged in business, and made permanent settlements elsewhere; and have been deducted from the membership here. In the past five years some seventy-six that I know of have died, and we have written opposite their names, "died in peace." Eleven have joined the Methodist Church, North,—and this year, for the sake of convenience, eleven have transferred their membership to the Felicity street charge; leaving of the names on the register in 1862—169. During the year past some have joined who have since removed by letter, but deducting these, we have added to the list 139, whose names are now on the register, so that our present number is 308, one more than we had in 1862. As was to be expected, many suffered spiritual loss by the harassments of the war, and deprivations of the means of grace; but we have assembled ourselves together, waited on the Lord, and renewed our strength. Some have been converted, and others are seeking the Lord. Our social meetings are better attended than I ever knew them. The most perfect harmony prevails, there is no schism, nor discord in our borders.

Our Sunday school has been regathered, is in perfect organization, most efficiently administered, is increasing and prosperous.

All the financial interests of the Church have been satisfactorily cared for, and promptly attended to.

J. B. WALKER, Pastor.

N. O., La., Dec. 4, 1866.

A CORRECTION.

MR. EDITOR: In my last communication the report of conversions on the Yazoo District for the last quarter, should have been two hundred and nine. The number of conversions for the conference year has been about four hundred.

J. M. PUGH.

Miss. Conference Room, Brookhaven, Dec. 3rd, 1866.

MONTGOMERY, Dec. 6.—In view of the Congressional proceedings of to-day—Gov. Patton, recanting, gravely urges the adoption of the Constitutional amendment, rejected previously by the Senate—there was an earnest debate, and a solemn time in both houses, but no action.

MOBILE CONFERENCE.

FIFTH DAY.

The Rev. J. E Newman stated to the Conference that it was his purpose to go out into the Empire of Brazil in company with certain families who had determined to emigrate in that direction. He is an old and most effective member of this Conference. He will go out endorsed by it to do work and carry the standard of Southern Methodism into those regions.

The question of Changing the Name of the Church was discussed by Drs. Hamilton, Summers, and Rev Messrs. Spillman, Ware, Harmon, and M. S. Andrews, and was decided in the negative by a vote of 18 ayes and 47 noes.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Conference begins to be feverish, a very unfavorable state for sound legislation. The minute representation of the work has, for years past, appeared to me the most important business of an Annual Conference: what has been accomplished, and in what way the minister has discharged his duties.—When a Conference has not time, in six days, to attend to this weighty part of its supervision, it should sit twelve. It is only by a comparative view of labors, successes, or failures, that improvement can be made in the sublime and momentous work of advancing the Kingdom of Christ.

A most beautiful tribute to the memory of those who have died during the year was read by the Rev. Dr. Neely. Those servants of God who died in the work were men of blessed memory. The Rev. A. J. Crawford was an old minister of Christ; the Rev. Walter C. Harris, gifted with intellect of the highest order, and the Rev. Edwin Baldwin, one of the ablest preachers we ever heard, both of them in the full maturity of manhood, have passed away. These memoirs were read amid the profoundest silence of the Conference. Directly after they were finished, it resumed the course of its business. They seemed only to have arrested the current, which at once closed over them. It would have been, it seemed to me, more than fitting to have sung a verse, and besides the reading that which was written in memoriam, for members of the Conference to have given, each rising in his place, some expression of the deep sorrow that I doubt not filled every breast at the bare mention of the names of the illustrious dead. I had rather be so remembered by my brethren than to be wept over by thousands.

THE APPPOINTMENTS.

MOBILE DISTRICT.—T W Dorman, P E; Franklin Street, J Hamilton; St. Francis Street, P P Neely; St. Pauls, H Urquheart; State Street, no appointment; Whistler and Cottage Hill, J M Boland; Citronelle, J T Heard; St. Stephens, to be supplied; State Line, to be supplied; Bay Shore, M E Butt; Pascagoula, C W Calhoun; Ocean Springs, J Randall; Eastern Shore, J J Grace; Fish River, B G Flemming; Waynesboro, J A Heard.

DAYTON DISTRICT.—J W Rush, P E.; Dayton, J D Cameron; Spring Hill, T S Abernethy, Sr.; Rembert Hills, G F Ellis; Choctaw Corner, R M Powers; Lower Peach Tree, J E Faust; Jackson, A M Jones; Oven Bluff, Miss, to be supplied; Coffeeville, Miss, to be supplied; Snggsville, Miss, A Hood; J E Newman recommended to Board of Foreign Missions for work in Brazile or Central America.

BUTLER DISTRICT.—G W Brown, P. E.; Butler, S M Thames; Bladon Springs, J M Brown; Clark, J M Johnson; Choctaw, to be supplied; Gaston, J E Evans; Yorke, W Larkins; Belmont, E Phillips; Clarke colored charge, to be supplied; Oketibbee, Miss, to be supplied.

MACON DISTRICT.—S H Cox, P. E.; Macon, J Bancroft, Plum Creek, colored charge, E Callaway; Enterprise, T S Abernethy, jr; Enterprise circuit, to be supplied; Meridian, O P Thomas; Marion circuit, W Spillman; DeKalb circuit, J M Gann; DeKalb colored circuit, A J Coleman; Summerville circuit, J N Walker; Gainesville and Scooba, J C Huckabee; Livingston, T A S Adams; Scooba colored charge, J F Marshall; Enterprise Female Institute, J W Harmon.

COLUMBUS DISTRICT.—W Murrah, P. E.; Columbus, W C Hearn; City Mission, colored charge, G Shaeffer, sup.; Columbus ct. G Hawkins, J E Baldwin, sup.; Pickensville and Carrollton, J A Peebles; Greene, H H Kavanaugh; Trinity, J B Stone; Crawfordsville, T P Crymes; Brooksville, L Massingale; Brooksville colored charge, to be supplied; Cooksville, J E Treadwell; Bridgeville, R D Carver; Columbus Female Institute, A S Andrews.

ATHENS DISTRICT.—W D Mabry, P. E.; Athens circuit, J T M Gregory; Athens circuit colored charge, to be supplied; Caledonia circuit, R J Perry; Caledonia circuit colored charge, to be supplied; Yellow Creek circuit, W Vaughn; Fayetteville, U L Thompson; Fayetteville circuit colored charge, to be supplied; Littlesville circuit J C Brogan; Bexar circuit T N Shelton.

JASPER DISTRICT.—J G Gurley, P. E.; Jasper circuit, E Nicholson; Blount Springs circuit, to be supplied; Blountsville circuit D A Hendrick; Murphree's Valley circuit, W H Riley; Elyton circuit, J B Powers; Irondale circuit, E McMeans, Superumerary; Jonesboro circuit, T P Roberts; Northport circuit, E F Turner; New Livingston circuit, W E Cameron; Long Creek Mission, to be supplied.

TUSCALOOSA DISTRICT.—J L Cotton, P. E. Tuscaloosa, W A Armstrong; Scottsville and Carthage, J W Peavy; Havannah, W I Powers; Brush Creek, B D Gayle; Marion and Hamburg, H Adams, E V Levert, Sup. Newbern and Oak Grove, to be supplied; Eutaw, J M Patton; Forkland, C C Ellis; Greensboro, T C Wier; Southern University, E Wadsworth Prof., T O Summers, Editor of Nashville Advocate and Sunday school Advocate; C C Calloway, Super't and employed by Greensboro Bible Society, SUMMERFIELD DISTRICT.—A H Mitchel, P. E; Summerfield, J S Moore; Summerville colored charge, to be supplied; Selma and East Selma, C D N Campbell and one to be supplied; Selma colored charge, to be supplied; Cahaba & Orrville, F M'Grace; MacKinley and Rehoboth, W H Leith; Orrville, Col'd charge, D Carmichael; Perryville, J W Vest; Randolph, W H McDaniel, W A Montgomery, sup.; Uniontown, J Barker; Demopolis, T Mangum; Shelby Coal Mine, to be supplied; Briarfield Iron-works, to be supplied; Centenary Institute, R C Hargrove, Principal; Stonewall Institute, D C B Connerly, Principal; A D McVoy, Ass't; S P Richardson, Agent for American Bible Society, to be transferred from Florida Conference.

GREENSBORO COLORED DISTRICT.—T Y Ramsey, P. E.; Greensboro, J M Sampey; Marion circuit, J W McCann; Brush Creek circuit, to be supplied; Havannah circuit, to be supplied; Eutaw circuit, to be supplied; Carthage circuit, to be supplied.

J. C. K.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

On Tuesday morning I had the pleasure of falling in with Bishop Paine, at Meridian. He is in excellent health. Time has changed his appearance but little during the last twenty years. During the past year he has labored effectively in various parts of his Episcopal District. All along the route, preachers on their way to Conference, were added to our company. Many of them robust young men, as full of hope as of vigor. The paleness of a regular theological graduate is in remarkable contrast with the ruddy hue of health upon the countenances of these men. "A sound mind in a sound body," is essential to the work of an itinerant preacher. The church desires training and mental cultivation, in those who offer themselves for the ministry of the word: and this, not at the expense of health, but in connection with it. Some of her brightest lights have grown dim, and suddenly gone out in nervous debility, the result of long continued and confined study. Four years in a college, and then two or three years in a Theological school, would make a German grow fat, and look as hearty as an inn-keeper, but it will pretty nearly kill an American — philosophy unknown. We doubt not, God will call College students in the right proportion, and baptise them into the spirit of the Master. Then a sound well-gaited horse, a Bible, and a Watson's Dictionary, and one year under a good preacher in charge, will do the balance.

The city of Jackson came into view. I had never seen it, and was charmed with its beautiful site. The ground gently undulates, it affords many eligible positions for public buildings: steeples and structures above the roof are rendered unnecessary by boldness of position. We were surprised to learn that the health of the place is good. On Wednesday morning, accompanied by a heavy rain, the train thundered down the road and drew up at Brookhaven, the seat of the Mississippi Conference. Somewhat under the weather, from exposure, I was not able to attend its session until the

SECOND DAY.

But a few of those old men who have made this Conference famous, are seen upon its floor. Many of them have passed away in the last few years. Winans, Drake, Campbell, John Lane, Wiggins, Walton, Fly, and Light, would have made any Conference strong, very strong. Their powers were distinct, all of them highly subjective in their mould, capable by example, as well as precept, of shaping those who were associated with them. They have left the impression of their character, deeply engraved upon this body of ministers, and upon the membership of our Church in the State of Mississippi.

The ordinary business of the Conference proceeds. Three persons were admitted on trial: E. Mark Alford, Andrew B. Stewart, and Wilbur F. Glenn, the son of Rev. J. W. Glenn, of the Georgia Conference. All of these men of promise, two of them in the prime of early manhood, of good Methodist warp and filling. The Rev. Thomas Nixon was re-admitted. He was "one of the original nine who, in 1816, met in Conference at Bro. Foster's, at Pine Ridge." These facts he stated in a brief, pertinent speech, which indicated that the original fire still burned upon the great altar of his soul. So much for the aid the Holy Spirit vouchsafes the Church in her hour of need. When an old soldier goes to the Armory, and takes down the armor which he once wore, and the sword of his youthful victories, and puts it on about the time that men gather up their feet for the last peaceful hours of life, it powerfully evinces that there is work at hand.

At the hour of eleven o'clock the Conference adjourned, in observance of the proclamation of the President; and a sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. McFerrin, admirably adapted to the occasion. A most remarkable feature of this proclamation is, that it contains an allusion to the "Kingdom" of Christ; the first mention of it, I ever remember to have noticed in any State paper of any country.

The question came up why the Conference was moved from Natchez to Brookhaven. The poverty of the preachers, and the central position of this place, and the facility for reaching it were the reasons given for the change. I wished greatly to see Natchez, but I am glad to know this thriving growing place; to know that noble, enterprising spirit, who is ready to do good, who is active in business, and a pillar of the Church. To him it is largely indebted for a beautiful House of Worship, neatly fenced in, roomy, and in all its appointments indicating generosity and a disposition to regard the quality as well as the quantity of a gift to the Saviour. The Female College, built by him, is an admirably designed building, large and convenient, requiring some repairs, but capable of being made a stronghold of Methodist educational influence. It fitly takes the name of "Whitworth." The Rev. G. F. Thompson, its President, and his lady, teach this excellent school. It was my good fortune to be assigned to their care and hospitality, and in company with a goodly number of preachers, I enjoyed the refined attentions of this large-hearted home.

THIRD DAY.

Soon after the opening services, the subject of Dancing was brought upon the carpet. It went through a somewhat rougher treatment than at the hands of the Mobile Conference. I mean in the discussion. By the by, the final action of that Conference upon this matter I have not yet seen. There is a marvelous stir on this subject all over the country. It suggests the idea that Satan starts a good many agents in different directions about the same time, when he attempts any great movement. With some new ideas, there were evolved new and highly descriptive names of new combinations of the world, the flesh, and the Devil: the "bran-dance," an out door Dryad-movement — "earthly;" "weavle the wheat," a style of very strong, "cheric" motion, with worldly surroundings, accompaniments, and emotions; not to mention other names of this large family. Pity that barbecues, sports, dances, and tournaments, should, in these times of poverty and depression, absorb the time and money of the country. There will be a "deliverance" of the Conference made upon this subject in due form.

It is encouraging to see the number of well educated young men in this body who have graduated at our colleges. "Centenary" is well represented in some four or five of them. From this Conference J. W. Lambuth went forth to China, using his own property, during the war, to rejoin his brethren in that distant field.

In an afternoon session the report of the Missionary Secretary was read, and the whole subject of Domestic Missions considered. A constitution was adopted.

The religious condition of freedmen within the bounds of the Conference, was reviewed. At its previous session a resolution required the Preachers to do all in their power to organize and encourage schools for the education of colored people. Several Preachers reported the result of their efforts in that direction, which were attended with some success. The Conference still recognizes this as a legitimate field of missionary enterprise, and brings to it the same zeal which it has ever felt for the salvation of the black man.

At night the anniversary meeting was held in the Methodist church. The speakers were Drs. Marshall and McFerrin. It was a rare treat. I never saw more life on the missionary platform. How the audience swayed under the successive appeals and magic syllables of these sons of speech, the collection of $864 dollars attests. Before the audience had passed through the first perspiration usual to all money "lifting," I feared that the severity of the times, and the losses which Brookhaven had suffered during the war, would seriously affect the collection. But I had underrated the enterprise and generosity of this community, as the result demonstrates. The whole nett missionary collection for the year is $1,583.66.

On Sabbath morning, Dr. McFerrin addressed the Sabbath school. The Superintendent, Dr. Martin, is a model of energy and devotion to this great cause. He folds these tender "lambs" as if they were his own, and the children of the town, in their disputes, threaten each other to "tell Dr. Martin." Would that every town, and every church had such a Sabbath school!

The sermon of the Bishop was upon the Work of the Ministry, (Matthew, 24 chap., 46 and 47 verses,)—"Who is that wise and faithful servant, &c It was able and stirring. How much of the force of every sermon lies in the moral weight of the Preacher! A spotless, earnest life, is the hale which all see who sit under the ministration of our beloved Bishop. His thoughtful sympathy with every Preacher, and his urbane manner toward the least of his brethren, is observable not only in the chair but in the cabinet.

The Conference Sermon was preached in the afternoon by Rev. H. H. Montgomery, a sensible, vigorous sermon, delivered with singular composure, propriety and care. Text—"Now then we are ambassadors for Christ."

At night, Dr. C. K. Marshall preached from—"I am the bread of life." A sermon affluent in diction and imagery, and earnest in spirit. I have been debarred the pleasure of attending evening service, by bad health, much to my regret. The preaching during the Conference has been good, but no effort has been specially put forth to make its session a season of revival.

MONDAY—FIFTH DAY.

The Committee on Ministerial Support tell the old story of immense deficiencies. Every Methodist Conference lays up treasure in Heaven annually, nearly to the full amount of its annual receipts. This year its Heavenly portion is the larger half.

Whole amount of claims, $18,815.70; whole amount of receipts, $6,328.40—deficiency, $12,487.30.

The claims of the widows, orphans, and superannuates, is $5,000.00. The sum of $1,304.15, has been collected to meet this claim. The amount of the Bishop's collection is $700. When will the Church get so near the Millenium as to pay what she promises to the widows and orphans of men who have "died in the work," and to men who, though living, have spent "their blood, and sweat, and pains, to cultivate Immanuel's lands." A deficiency of $3,695.85 on this account, is matter for reflection and humiliation.

In the afternoon the Conference met again. The question of changing the name of the church was discussed, and decided in the negative by a vote of 36 to 50. It doubtless reflects the opinion of the laity better than did that of the General Conference; as time for consulting the wishes and views of the membership has been afforded. The confusion of "Methodist Episcopal," and "Episcopal Methodist," was illustrated by a man having "two sons, and naming one of them John Henry, and the other Henry John." The possible trouble in the lobbies of "loyal" Legislatures, as about to be constituted, in getting corporate names changed, and the "law's delay" in getting sure ultimate justice, came into view. The history of the church had crystalized upon this name. It was not political in its significance, but antedated the war by many years. It did not limit the commission of a minister to be "an angel" of the M. E. Church South.

On the other side, the wishes of the border; the wide-open field beyond; the large body waiting in Illinois, by common report; the difficulty of giving the Chinese a conception of "South;" the fact that "it will be changed by the majority, sooner or later;" this, and much more was urged. Still, being weighed, "Episcopal Methodist" was found wanting. We concluded that the word "South," like a big freckle upon the face of a red-headed boy, could never be washed off; though but skin-deep, and not desirable; it had gone too far, and, moreover, he was born with it. The discussion upon the subject of lay-delegation, I regret, will not come off until I shall have left on to-morrow. So, too, the reports of the several committees on education and periodicals, are yet in the hands of their chairmen. The very accommodating Secretary, Rev. C. Green Andrews, and his Assistant, Rev. W. L. C. Hunnicut, have promised to forward the several reports and the appointments to the ADVOCATE.

As at the Mobile Conference, there was neither a conference love-feast, nor was the sacrament administered during the session. This is a great oversight—a decided loss of an occasion for renewing spiritual strength and Christian fellowship. The regular ministers of the Conference indicate that the times have sifted the purposes of all who are moved to preach the Gospel. But one person was received into full connection—Samuel E. Hale.

Two were ordained DEACONS—William E. Ballard and Samuel E. Hale.

A. M. Campbell was continued on trial.

The following were ordained ELDERS: W. W. Drake, Wm. E. Ballard, Geo. W. Boyle, Walter W. Hurst, Lolus Kendall, Thomas M. Ward, David Merchant, Ira B. Robertson, Patrick Lane.

I have omitted to say that the Rev. J. G. Jones was elected the President of the Conference on the first day; the Bishop not having arrived at the hour of opening.

APPOINTMENTS.

NATCHEZ DISTRICT.—J. A. Godfrey, P. E.; Natchez, W. E. M. Linfield; Kingston and Washington, Jos. Carr; Percy's Creek and Buffalo, C. R. Godfrey; Macedonia, C. N. Campbell; Wilkinson, J. L. Forsyth, P. S. Petty, sup.; Bayou Sara and Plains, E. R. Strickland; Woodville, P. Lane; Woodville colored circuit, T. W. Brown; Clinton and Jackson, La., W. B. Hines; East Feliciana, W. E. Ballard, H. J. Harris, sup.; German mission, August Gottschall; W. H. Watkins, President of Centenary College; W. T. J. Sullivan, President of Woodville Female College.

VICKSBURG DISTRICT.—Jn. H. Clinton, P. E.; Vicksburg, W. F. Camp; Warren, F. X. Foster; North Warren, to be supplied, J. H. Shelton, sup.; North Warren colored charge, J. W. Jones; Raymond and Springridge, John Lusk; Terry and Forrest Grove, A. M. Campbell; Cayuga and colored charge, W. Wadsworth, P. A. Johnson; Rocky Springs and colored charge, D. A. J. Parker, A. B. Stewart; Steele Chapel and colored charge, C. T. French; Burtonton and colored charge, R. T Hennington; Port Gibson, J A B Jones; Fayette, C Chamberlin, W B Johnson; Jefferson colored circuit, J D Willis; Cole's Creek colored circuit, to be supplied; Rodney colored charge, to be supplied; C. K. Marshall, General Sunday School Agent.

JACKSON DISTRICT.—R. Abbey, P E; Jackson, W L C Hunnicutt; Brownsville colored circuit, J S Harris; Vernon, Livingston, and colored charge, W F Glenn; Canton and colored charge, C G Andrews, H Copeland, sup; Sharon and Thornton's Chapel, H F Johnson; Sharon colored ct. N B Young; Madisonville, L Pearce, J W Adams, sup; Camden, H H Montgomery, W Harrington; Camden colored circuit, J K Hamblin; Carthage, J A Vance; H F Johnson, President Madison College.

YAZOO DISTRICT.—J M Pugh, P E; Yazoo City and col charge, E H Monnger; Silver Creek and Bee Lake, to be supplied; Yazoo circuit and colored charge, W B Lewis; Mt Olivet and colored charge, G D Wade; Richland and colored charge, T M Ward; Lexington, H Williamson; Honey Island, W P Barton; Lexington colored ct, to be supplied by J R Booth; Holmes and colored charge, T C Parish; Black Hawk and colored charge, J D Newsom; Emory and colored charge, to be supplied by Steven Johnson; Carrollton and col'd charge, G W Boyles; Greenwood and Sidon, P. Howard.

GREENVILLE DISTRICT.—J Maclennan, P E; Greenville and Lake Lee, W W Drake; Greenville colored circuit, W T Ashford; Deer Creek, S E Hale; Bolivar, to be supplied; Clover Hill and Leota, to be supplied; Indian Bayou, I B Robertson; Sunflower, T W Flowers.

STARKVILLE DISTRICT.—K A Jones, P E; Starkville, Pierce Chapel, and colored charge, R J Jones; Ootibbeha and colored charge, J C Woodward; Webster and colored charge, George Jackson; Louisville and colored charge, J G Carlisle; Bankston and colored charge, W R Rainey; Winona and colored charge, A R Hines; Greensboro, T W Castles; Line Creek and colored charge, to be supplied.

BRANDON DISTRICT.—B B Whittington, P E; Brandon, J A Willis; Rankin colored charge, to be supplied by D Langhlin; Shiloh, William Price; Fannier, F M Williams; Trenton, Louis Kendall; Forest and Hillsboro, to be supplied; Carthage, J A Vance; Carthage and Lake, to be supplied; Carthage and Lake, to be supplied; Carthage and Lake, to be supplied dred preachers answered to their names. J. Blakely Smith was elected Secretary; and C. R. Jewett and Atticus G. Haygood, assistant Secretaries. The Conference appointed also a permanent "Statistical Secretary," charged with the duty of collecting and arranging all the statistics of the Conference, and furnishing to the preachers all necessary information on the subject. A committee was appointed to examine the various standing committees; this was done in order to conform to a standing rule of the Conference, not to appoint the same man in two committees—to develop more fully the business talent of the preachers. Communications from the Agent of the Publishing House and Book Editor were listened to with great interest, and referred to the appropriate committees. After some other miscellaneous business the Bishop took up the regular questions.

Thus far, Bishop McTyeire has presided to the entire satisfaction of the body. He does not seem disposed to economise closely his labors. After preaching twice on Sunday, in Columbus, and on Monday night, at Fort Valley, he gave us a most appropriate and forcible sermon here last night; from the text commencing, "If a man think himself to be something when he is nothing, he deceives himself."

There are some questions of grave moment to be considered at this session, such as the division of the Conference, etc., I will advise you on the action of the Conference on this and other subjects of general interest. Yours,

RICHMOND.

Americus, Nov. 28th, 1866.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Radicalism is wild with triumph; although checked up in the Senate to-day, it was only a momentary check for form's sake.

Every radical measure will pass early in the session. Among the bills is one stripping the President of the appointing and pardoning power. The avowed object is to prevent the restoration of confiscated property.

The Radicals are determined to leave President Johnson only a name without power.

Mr. Sumner to-day gave notice that he would introduce a bill abolishing all the State governments in the South, and declaring the South shall not vote on the Constitutional amendment. These bills will no doubt pass.

KNIGHT & CO.,

Dealers in

PLANTATION, MILL, & WOOD-WORKING

MACHINERY,

And Agricultural Implements

Keep constantly on hand a large assortment of articles peculiar to our business, and through our agents in the North and East, can fill promptly, and at a small advance above manufacturer's prices, all orders for articles in our line not usually kept in this market.

The great change in our labor system necessitates a corresponding change in the Implements used, and we have prepared ourselves to offer the latest improved

LABOR-SAVING MACHINES,

both for Agricultural and Mechanical purposes, at prices that will warrant their purchase.

Also, LEEDS & CO'S Sugar Kettles, Newell Screws, Gin Gearing, &c; and will contract for any kind of work done at their establishment, at their prices.

42 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

n17 1y

GUSTAVE VOM HOFE,

Manufacturer of Upright Pianos,

807 MAGAZINE ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Pianos sold at moderate prices, with five years guarantee.

One of these Pianos has just been awarded a Medal at the recent Louisiana State Fair, for superior richness of tone and great durability.

dec1 1y

A COUGH, A COLD, OR A SORE THROAT

Requires immediate attention, and should be checked. If allowed to continue,

Irritation of the Lungs, a Permanent Throat Disease, or Consumption

Is often the result.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES

Having a direct influence to the parts, give immediate relief.

For Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Consumptive and Throat Diseases,

Troches are used with always good success.

SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS

will find Troches useful in clearing the voice when taken before Singing, or Speaking, and relieving the throat after an unusual exertion of the vocal organs. The Troches are recommended and prescribed by Physicians, and have had testimonials from eminent men throughout the country. Being an article of true merit, and having proved their efficacy by a test of many years each year finds them in new localities in various parts of the world, and the Troches are universally pronounced better than other articles.

OBTAIN only "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," and do not take any of the Worthless Imitations that may be offered. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

F G BARRIERE — O W BABCOCK

F. G. BARIERE & CO.,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

No. 135 Canal Street, New Orleans.

al7 6m

CLOAKS!

F. ADAM,

(Formerly with C Yale, jun, & Co,)

MANUFACTURER & WHOLESALE DEALER

In Ladies' and Misses'

CLOTH AND SILK CLOAKS,

No. 70 Canal Street—Up Stairs.

NEW ORLEANS.

Don't trust to glaring advertisements in the newspapers, but go to THE FACTORY itself, if you want good Goods at fair prices. n10 2m

TEACHER'S CARD.—An experienced lady teacher, qualified to teach Music, Singing, and French, according to the best method, as well as Drawing and all the English branches, desires a situation in a country Academy or a private family, on low terms. The most respectable references given.

Address: MRS ESTE SHAW,

dec1 3t Mobile, Ala.

THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND FOR 1867.

PRICE REDUCED.

THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND is published Semi-Monthly, by the Presbyterian Committee of Publication, with the co-operation of the Sunday School Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church South of the city of Richmond and vicinity. The design is to make it a good, useful, and entertaining Sabbath School Journal for circulation in the Sabbath Schools of all Evangelical denominations.

TERMS:

From and after the 1st of January, 1867, the terms will be as follows:

1 copy for one year	$ 50
10 copies for one year, to one address	4 00
20	7 00
30	10 00
50	15 00

All over 50 copies at the same rate.

MONTHLY EDITION.

A monthly edition will be issued at the following rates:

10 copies for one year, to one address	$2 00
20	3 00
30	5 00
50	7 50

All above 50 copies at the same rates.

No single subscribers are received for the Monthly edition.

All subscriptions should begin with January, April, July or October; and none will be received for a less period than one year. All subscriptions must be paid invariably in advance.

In sending subscriptions, be careful to give the name plainly, and give the county as well as the Post Office and State.

ORDERS FOR THE PAPER, should be addressed to W. HARGRAVE WHITE, Box 429, Richmond, Virginia. dec1, 2t.

ALWAYS TAKE THE BEST!

MOORE'S RURAL NEW YORKER, the largest-circulating AGRICULTURAL, Literary and Family Weekly in the World, will enter upon its XVIIIth Volume, January 6, 1867. The Rural is a National Periodical, read and admired in every State and Territory. Its ample pages comprise various Departments, including those of Agriculture, Literature, Horticulture, Education, Sheep Husbandry, Arts and Sciences, Domestic Economy, News, Markets &c.

With Tales; Sketches, Engravings, Music, Poetry, &c., &c.

The Rural is ably Edited, neatly Printed, well Illustrated, and adapted to the whole Country. It employs the Best Talent. For example, its Department of Sheep Husbandry is edited by Hon H S Randall, LL D, Author of "The Practical Shepherd," "Sheep Husbandry in the South, &c, &c, the best authority on the subject in America,—while its Southern Corresponding Editor is Hon T C Peters, late Pres't N Y State Ag Society, now of Maryland. Many other able and talented writers are regular contributors, and the whole paper is under the Editorial Management of its originator, D D T Moore. The Rural is the acknowledged Standard in its Sphere,—the best combined Journal for the Farmer, the Horticulturist, the Stock and Wool Grower, and the Family Circle, now obtainable. Remember, also, that it is not a monthly, but a Large and Beautiful Weekly.

TERMS—$3 a Year—less to Clubs, and liberal inducements to those forming them. Try the Rural, and see if it is not (as the N E Farmer says,) "like a honey-comb, having sweets in every cell." Specimen Numbers, Show-Bills &c, sent free.

THE PRACTICAL SHEPHERD,

by Hon H S Randall, LL D, author of "Sheep Husbandry in the South," &c, and Editor of the Department of Sheep Husbandry in Moore's Rural New Yorker, is the best authority on Sheep Breeding, Wool Growing, &c, extant. Over 20,000 copies are already sold. One large 12mo volume of 454 pages—printed, illustrated and bound in superior style. Price, $2—sent post-paid.

Address D D T MOORE, Rochester, N Y.

LATEST FASHIONS.

Call for

J W BRADLEY'S

DUPLEX ELLIPTICAL

[Or, Double Spring]

SKIRT!

THEY WILL NOT BEND OR BREAK

Like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary Skirts are thrown aside as useless—hence are the CHEAPEST.

Each Hoop is made by braiding two springs together, edge to edge, forming the STRONGEST, most FLEXIBLE, and still the LIGHTEST Hoop made.

In fact, for promenade, or the house, or the church, the theatre, or for crowded assemblies, railroad cars, carriages, etc., they are superior to all others, affording COMFORT TO THE WEARER, with that ELEGANCE OF SHAPE which wins favor with all, and has made the

"DUPLEX ELLIPTIC"

The Standard Skirt of the Fashionable World.

For misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

For Sale Everywhere.

Manufactured exclusively by the owners of the Patent,

WESTS, BRADLEY & CARY,

97 Chambers, 79 and 81 Reade sts, New York.

CAUTION.

The Duplex Skirt will admit a pin being run through the centre of each hoop, thereby proving there are TWO SPRINGS braided together therein, which is the secret of their remarkable STRENGTH and FLEXIBILITY—a combination not possessed by any SINGLE-SPRING Skirt.

The red ink stamp, viz: "J. W BRADLEY'S Duplex Elliptic Springs," will be found upon the waistband of every Skirt; none other are genuine. n24 6m

COAL OIL AND LAMPS.

HILL & VEAZIE,

Having removed from No 31 Chartres street to No 74 Camp street, have received large additions to their former stock, making their assortment of Coal Oil Lamps, and all the articles needful to use with them, very extensive; together with COAL OIL CHANDELIERS from two to six lights, suitable for lighting Churches, large Halls, Parlors, etc; and every variety of Lanterns from the small hand to the large Station, FISH'S PATENT COOKING LAMPS for coal oil and gas, very useful and economical; also EDDIE'S COOKING STOVES, assorted sizes, heated by coal oil; with many other useful and convenient articles.

Always on hand the best Kerosene and Coal Oil manufactured.

Call and examine,

HILL & VEAZIE,

No 74 Camp street,

n1y Between Natchez street and Times Office

STOVES, GRATES, TIN WARE,

AND

HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.

The undersigned offer for sale an assortment of COOKING STOVES, embracing among the lot the well known Charter Oak, the Brilliant, the Peerless, the American Home, and others of the latest improvement.

Also, a large lot of HEATING and PARLOR STOVES, a large variety of GRATES, and of COUNTRY HOLLOW WARE, etc.

We manufacture all our own Tin Ware, and sell cheap.

CAMPMAN & CO.,

n10 6m 115 Poydras st, bet. Camp & Magazine

CLOTHING, CLOTHING.

For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.

Now receiving and opening for inspection, at

R. PITKIN'S

FASHIONABLE

CLOTHING EMPORIUM,

Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,

The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior

READY-MADE CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS

Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:

Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,

Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.

A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,

FOR CUSTOM WORK.

He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,

MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,

as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS

To his

Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing

suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.

Also a large assortment of

YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

TRUNKS,

VALISES,

CARPET-BAGS,

UMBRELLAS, ETC.

A call from the public is respectfully solicited.

R. PITKIN,

Fashionable Clothing Emporium,

13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15

oc13 3m

ROBERT SLARK, — WM. A. KENT,
ISAAC H. STAUFFER, — CHAS. MACREADY

SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,

No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsiere St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.

Importers and Dealers in

HARDWARE:

Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws

MILL STONES,

INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND,

PLANTATION SADDLERY, Etc.

Constantly on hand a large assortment of

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS

Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrett & Cottman, for Sugar and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert King, "Carey" for Cotton; Peoria Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.

Agents for the Vielle Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. o13 1y

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES.

Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in

EARTHENWARE,

GLASS, CHINA,

JAPAN WARE,

PLATED WARE,

SILVER WARE,

FINE TABLE CUTLERY,

WATER PURIFIERS,

HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.

All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.

No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.

L. ELKIN,

3, Carondelet Street, 3.

Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior

WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN

CARPETS,

RUGS,

WINDOW SHADES,

CORNICES,

OIL CLOTHS,

And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Commission and Forwarding Merchants,

122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row,

NEW ORLEANS.

R H Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. on13 6m

H. F. ETHELL, — NAT. H. THOMAS,
New Orleans. — Late of Alabama.

ETHELL & THOMAS,

FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.

Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.

No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.

Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sept 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. — THOS. D. MILLER

J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

No. 190 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sept 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. — W M Owen. — E Owen

LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug26 6m

B. S. HARPER. — N. J. THAXTON.

B. S. HARPER & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

sep18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,

GROCER,

And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,

s15 3m 310 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally, 53 Gravier street, New Orleans.

sep15 1y

H M WRIGHT — O W ALLEN — J HIDDLESTON
(late August, 1865)

WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

109 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, — JAMES M. ALLEN } New
Memphis, Tenn. — PERRY NUGENT, } Orleans

T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,

(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 1y

F P FOLGER, — L FOLGER, — W H THOMAS

FOLGER & CO.,

Dealers in

Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,

37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

(Opposite the St James Hotel)

Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Pipes, Axes and Hines; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

27 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WM. EDWARDS. }
EDWD. J. GAY. } sep15 3m

W A VIOLETT. — R Y BLACK. — S H SNOWDEN.

VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

s15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. B. LOTT, — O. W. WOOD,
Madison County, Miss. — Canton, Miss.

LOTT, WOOD & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants

65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E A BANKS, — W W LORING, — O W VENABLE

BANKS, LORING & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

26 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 3m

B ATKINSON & CO: — JAMES HEWITT & CO.,
New York. — Liverpool.

HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And Commission Merchants,

188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWINNER & Co., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,

(Successor to FELLOWES & Co.)

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

180 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., — LEWIS, NANSON & CO.,
New York. — St. Louis.

OBER, ATWATER & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

68 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep15 1y

S. M. SWENSON, — W. M. PERKINS,
N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. — D. L. KEANION, Of Perkins & Co., N.O.

PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street,

NEW ORLEANS.

SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

26 Exchange Place, New York.

se29 6m

EDW'D NALLE, — W. C. DAY.

NALLE, DAY & CO.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,

158 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oc13 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

180 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oc13 6m

E S KEEP. — I. CAULFIELD.

KEEP & CAULFIELD,

Western Produce,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.

no13 1y

HENRY WARE, — WM. H. WARE,
Of Texas. — Of Texas.

WARE & SON,

Cotton and Wool Factors,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans,

oct3

JOB PRINTING.

COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,

PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,

And everything else in the line of job printing, executed in

The Very Best Style, At Moderate Prices.

Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

J. H. MASSEY,

(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.,)

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 100 Common Street,

Opposite City Hotel.

I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination, as your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please my and all of my old friends and patrons, and also intending new ones. My stock is now and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.

Very respectfully,

oc13 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

Also, a large and varied supply of

HOUSEKEEPING and

PLANTATION GOODS,

Constantly on hand, at

126 Canal Street,

sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ST JAMES HOTEL,

MAGAZINE STREET,

Between Gravier and Natchez Streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.

This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.

It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof. Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquors equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, as far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.

The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expense to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.

n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

COAL! COAL!! COAL!!!

BEATTY & SAWYER,

Offer COAL and WOOD at the lowest prices.—Coal, $1 per barrel. Leave orders at Yard on Josephine, between Prytania and Coliseum sts., or at Price Current Office; at Ducatel's, 2½ Carondelet; or at M E Stack's, opposite Magazine Market. Send in your orders promptly. n1m

McCUTCHON & HUBBELL,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE,

Hoes, Axes, Nails, etc.

NO. 74 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

n3 6m

AUSTIN & GODWYN,

Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of

TINWARE,

Also,

COOKING AND HEATING STOVES

Of all kinds, for sale.

25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,

Corner Customhouse street,

oct20 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, — JOHN W. MADDEN,
Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co.

P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,

General Mercantile Stationers,

JOB PRINTERS, AND

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

No. 73 Camp Street.

We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.

We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 3m

D. H. HOLMES,

Direct Importation of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,

AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

No. 155 Canal Street,

sep1 6m NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

82..... Baronne Street,.....82

Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALEY,

Dealer in

PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,

GUITARS, VIOLINS,

And other musical instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper—in fact everything belonging to music trade.

The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. BURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.

Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.

Fiedings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.

Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.

Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.

Music neatly bound.

P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 6m

CENTENARY COLLEGE,

Jackson, Louisiana,

was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845. It is now under the joint patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.

The College exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed, after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.

Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.

Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month

The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.

The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.

The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.

The old students, alumni, and friends of the institution, are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.

W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALA.

The exercises of this Institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught.

TERMS:

Tuition fees per term	$40 00
Contingent fee	5 00

Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month

aug4ft W M WIGHTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.

The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.

The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.

TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $40.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March.

Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.

Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.

Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D., New Orleans, La.

As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.

W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE

FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmor; Miss Jemima Constantine.

The Fall Session of this Institution will open on the 26th day of September next.

This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattresses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.

The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.

TERMS:

For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—

Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00
Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.

The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.

After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the Institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.

For other information address

CHARLES B. STUART, President,

aug4ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M., President,	Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal.
Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Maxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.

Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.

Board, with English Tuition, at $85 per quarter.

The next session commences 10th September.

Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to

A. J. WRIGHT.

D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.

jy14 6m

THE LORD'S PRAYER PICTURE.

Good Agents wanted all over the South to Sell by Subscription this Great and Beautiful Picture.

This is one of the most exquisite works of art ever offered to the public, being the result of six years' close labor of the Artist. It has received the highest commendations from every source, and never fails to elicit the greatest admiration from all connoisseurs of the fine arts. A liberal paying commission is allowed, and it is believed there is no work before the public so universally popular, and offering so good inducements to canvassers as this. It is new—will never get out of date; exclusive territory given.

To avoid delay and insure reply, testimonials as to character and ability should accompany applications. Dealers need not apply. Here is offered congenial and lucrative employment for ministers, or competent and worthy persons of all classes. For full particulars apply to

HOLMES & CO.,

26 Camp street, Room No 5, or address Lock Box 424, New Orleans

N B—Please do your friends a favor by showing this advertisement to such as may be adapted or benefited by such an agency n10 1m

WANTED — SITUATIONS FOR three well educated Southern young ladies, in private families, or in Seminaries of wide reputation: one, as Music Teacher only; the other two, as Teachers of the ordinary branches of an English Education, with Music. Address Rev R H Herbert, Meridian, Miss., stating compensation, health, society, etc, of the location. n10 1m

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 163 Camp street, New Orleans.

When was it established? 1850.

Who is its General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev W H Baylis.

Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.

What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.

What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.

What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans; then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.

What are the terms of membership?

The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.

The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.

The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.

The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.

The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.

Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not; to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S. by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with this Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.

Our last thought is the heart-cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a26 1y.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,

FOR YOUNG LADIES,

Is located at Brookhaven, Miss. It is under the immediate care of Rev. GEO. F. THOMPSON, and under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. The Board of Visitors consists of Rev. B. Jones, Rev. W. Millsaps, Rev. George H. Clinton, and Rev. William Price—all members of that Conference.

Its course of instruction is as complete as that of any other Institution for the education of females in the State, and is sufficient to accomplish all that can be desired by the friends of our Church.

The exercises of the first term of its next session will begin on the first Monday in September 1866, and ends Jan. 31, 1867.

For further particulars apply to the Rev. G. F Thompson, Brookhaven, Miss. a18t

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp St., corner Natchez—open day and evening.

This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.

For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address

f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This Institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address

f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

TURNER & COHEN,

Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,

NO. 87 CAMP STREET.

Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.

These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.

The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well-known citizens of this city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER

And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,

61 Camp street, New Orleans.

Cartes de Visite,

Hallotypes, Ambrotypes,

Pictures on Porcelain,

And every description of Pictures known to the Art.

All kinds of Photographic Materials at the lowest price for cash. sep1 1y

THOS. B. BODLEY & CO.,

No. 9 Perdido Street, New Orleans,

Dealers in all descriptions of

MILL AND PLANTATION MACHINERY,

AND AGRICULTURAL INSTRUMENTS.

Sole Agents in the Southwest for the celebrated Wood & Mann Steam Engines, 4 to 35 horse power; Coleman's Corn and Wheat Mills; Stranb's Corn and Wheat Mills, Smut Machines, Bolting Cloth; Todd's Circular Saw Mills; Wool Carding Machines, Flowery Machines; Stafford Sniky Cultivators; Stanley Gang Plows; Plows, Wheelbarrows, Belting, Saws, etc.

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

The Little Merchant.

Jenny Allen and her sister were in the kitchen preparing their evening meal, when a loud ring was heard at the door. Susie answered it, and in a few minutes returned to the kitchen, followed by a little girl of ten or twelve years of age. She had a very pleasant face, a sweet smile played about the corner of her mouth, and she was very neatly clad. In her hand she carried a large basket, which must have been rather heavy, for as soon as she entered the room, she put it down, and drew a long breath as if she was tired.

"Jenny," said her sister, "this little girl wanted to sell some of her things. I heard you say to-day you needed some thread, needles, etc., and so I brought her in."

"I am glad you did. It will save my going out to-night. Let me see what you have?"

"I have other things besides thread and needles," pulling out a pair of stockings, "These are nice stockings, wouldn't you like to buy some?"

Jenny examined them, and found that they would be the very thing for her mother during the winter. She purchased several pairs of them, besides other little things. The child's eyes fairly beamed with happiness, as the bright silver pieces were put into her hand.—Jenny noticed it, and asked:

"What will you do with your money?"

"If we didn't have money we would have to starve, and we could not have any clothes, or get the doctor when we were sick. Money does a heap of things."

"Your mother does all that with her money, but what do you want with yours? Is it to buy cakes and candies and toys?"

"No ma'am," she said, gravely shaking her head, "I don't buy those. Papa is poor, and we want other things. I have been saving my money for something, and I have most enough now.—But won't Amy wonder when she sees new things!"

"Who is Amy?"

"Amy? Why, she's my little sister, and I am keeping my money to buy some new things for her. She has to stay at home because she has no bonnet nor nice shoes, and papa has been sick and didn't have any money, but she will have them soon. Then she can go out, and I will take her to Sabbath school. She wants to go so much."

"You go to Sabbath school, then. Do you like it?"

"Yes, indeed I do. They do sing such pretty hymns, and I have such a nice lady to teach me. She gave me a little red Testament, and I read it to Amy, and I try to teach her to sing. She wants to hear all the children, though; but I must go."

So she took up her basket and started off, the girls telling her to call again.—She went her way with a happy heart and a smiling face.

Children, do you not think that little child's home must have been a happy one, when she loved her little sister so much as to save her money to spend for her? Don't you think you might make yours happy by being kind as she was? "Little children, love one another." That is what the Bible tells you.

Jesus loves to see little children kind to each other, and if he gave up heaven with all its joys for you, will you not try to do what pleases him?—S. S. Visitor.

"Brighting all it Can."

That day had been dark and gloomy. When suddenly, toward night, the clouds broke, and the sun's rays streamed through, shedding a flood of golden light upon the whole country.

A sweet voice at the window called out in joyful tones, "Look! oh, look, papa! the sun's brighting all it can."

"Brighting all it can? so it is," answered papa; "and you can be like the sun, if you choose."

"How, papa? tell me how?"

"By looking happy, and smiling on us all day; and never letting any tearful rain come into the bine of those eyes; only be happy and good: that is all."

The next day, the music of the child's voice filled our ears from sunrise to dark; the little heart seemed full of light and love; and when asked why she was so happy, the answer came laughingly, "Why! don't you see, papa, I'm the sun? I'm brighting all I can!"

"And filling the house with sunshine and joy," answered papa.

Cannot little children be like the sun every day—brightening all they can? Try it children.—Child at Home.

In the Beginning.

"Where did you get your nice new warm cloak?" asked a lady of a little girl.

"From God, ma'am," said the little girl modestly.

"Why, did not your mother make it?" asked the lady.

"Yes, mother sewed it," said the child.

"And did she not buy the cloth of the shop-keeper?" asked the lady.

"Yes," said the little girl, "but the shop-keeper bought it from the factory where it was spun and wove, and the factory man bought the wool from the farmer, and the farmer took it from the lamb's back, and the lamb got it from God, who clothes the little lambs with their soft wool, to keep them warm. The lambs could not dress themselves, nor could their mothers dress them. God dresses them. So God is in the beginning, mother says, and without God I should not have had it."

That is the very first thing the Bible says:

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."

And so of everything in the world; since everything we eat, drink wear, or use, if we follow them up to the beginning, we shall find God. It is God, God, God everywhere. —Child's Paper.

The Golden Rule teaches us to do unto others as we would have others to do unto us. At the same time it teaches us not to expect from our neighbors what we would not be willing, in similar circumstances, to do for them. Little George's colloquy with his mother illustrates the principle:

"Now, George, you must divide the cake honorably with your brother Charles."

"What is honorable, mother?"

"It means that you must give him the largest piece."

"Then, mother, I'd rather Charley should divide it."

"PAPA" said the son of Bishop Berkeley "what is the meaning of the words cherubim and seraphim, which we meet in the Holy Scriptures?" "Cherubim," replied his father, "is a Hebrew word, signifying knowledge; seraphim is another word of the same language, and signifies flame. Whence it is supposed that the cherubim are angels who excel in knowledge, and that the seraphim are angels likewise who excel in loving God." "I hope, then," said the little boy, "when I die I shall be a seraph; for I would rather love God than [illegible] all things."

What a man should be alphabetically: Affectionate, Bold, Candid, Daring, Enterprising, Faithful, Grateful, Honorable, Indefatigable Just, Kind, Loving, Moral, Noble, Obliging, Polite, Quick, Religious, Sociable, Truthful, Upright, Valiant, Watchful, 'Xemplary, Y's and Zealous.

CAUTIOUS MEN.—Some men use words as riflemen do bullets. They say but little. The few words used go right to the mark. They let you talk, and guide with their eye and face on and on, till what you say can be answered in a word or two, and then they lance out a sentence, pierce the matter to the quick, and are done. You never know where you stand with them. Your conversation falls into their mind as rivers into a deep chasm, and is lost.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

The general market has continued comparatively quiet, although several of the leading articles have undergone a material change. Sugar and Molasses, under the influence of an increased demand has improved, and Western Produce has been attended with about the usual vitality, a less firm feeling being noticeable in Corn and Pork; while the movement in our leading staple has been of a restricted character.

COTTON — On Saturday the news in the morning papers being unfavorable, the inquiry was of a limited character, and although the majority of factors were willing to sell at a heavy reduction, still buyers generally held aloof in anticipation of further weakness, and hence only 3000 bales changed hands on the base of 28 to 29c, for Good Ordinary, and 30 to —c, for Low Middling. Yesterday the market opened with a liberal enquiry, to which the receipt of private telegrams announcing an advance at Liverpool, gave additional stimulus; but the arrival of still later dispatches reporting an unfavorable reaction, exercised a depressing influence, and, notwithstanding holders evinced a disposition to recede from the pretensions entertained in the early part of the day the majority of buyers were reluctant to go on, preferring to await further developments.

Low	— to —
Ordinary	26 to 28
Good Ordinary	29 to 30
Low Middling	31 to 32
Middling	33 to —

TOBACCO — The market is quiet but very firm:

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to 4	Currency.
Good do	4½ to —	— to 4½
Common Leaf	5½ to —	— to 6½
Fair	10 to —	— to 12
Good	12½ to —	— to 14
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec'a	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—There were sales on Saturday and Monday of 525 hogsheads at 8 to 8¼c for Inferior, 8¾ to 9c for Common, 9¼ to 9½c for Fair, 10¼ to 10½c for Fully Fair, 11 to 11½c for Prime, 12c for Choice, 10¼ to 11c for Seconds, 12c for Yellow clarified, 12½ to 13c for White. Yesterday there was a good demand and prices ruled more in favor of sellers.

MOLASSES — Have continued in good demand, and the receipts have sold readily at an advance in prices of about 3 to 4c per gallon. Yesterday there was a good demand, at 45c for Inferior, 55c for Common, 59 to 62½c for Good, 68c for Prime and 69 to 71 for Choice.

FLOUR— The market opened with a good demand, within the range of the following quotations: Fine $9 50 to $10 25, Superfine, $10 50 to $10 75, Single Extra $11 25 to $12 25, Double do at $12 50 to $13 12½, Treble do $13 25 to $14, Choice do $14 25 to $15 50 per barrel. Yesterday about 1500 barrels were disposed of at $10 50 to $10 75 for Superfine, $11 for Choice do, $11 87½ for Single Extra, $12 for Low double Extra, $13 for double do, and $14 75 for treble do.

PORK — There has been some demand, at $24 per bbl. Old Mess commands $26. Dealers are supplying the trade at $25 for the former, and $26 50 for the latter.

LARD—The market has been very dull, our quotations are as follows—Prime in tierces 13½c, do in kegs 14c per lb.

CORN—Yesterday there were sales of about 400 sacks in lots at $1 26 for New, and $1 40 per bushel for Old.

OATS.—With an active demand and light supply, prices present a further improvement of 5c per bushel.

BRAN—The supply is only moderate, and we still quote at $1 40 to $1 45 per 100 lbs.

HAY—The demand is fair, at $27 50 per ton for Prime Ohio River, $28 for Fair St. Louis, and $29 for Prime do.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is greatly reduced, but the demand is very active at 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—The supply in first hands is fair, and is held at 30c per yard in bales. Dealers are supplying the demand at 32c for rolls, and 32½c per yard for bales.

GUNNY BAGS—The movement is of a very limited character. The last sales reported were at 28c a piece.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—Choice Western and Goshen are scarce at 30 to 35c per lb for the former, and 42 to 47c for the latter. Western Cheese is in fair supply, and is selling at 16 to 17c. Skim do is scarce at 15c.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. The stock of Louisiana is heavy at 9½ to 12c per lb, according to quality. The supply of India is ample, and is held at 9½ to 12c for Choice.

COFFEE—There have been only a few small sales from second hands on the basis of 19½c, gold, for Prime Rio.

SALT—Prices within the past few days have shown a downward tendency, and we now quote Liverpool at $2 25 for fine, and $2 20 for Coarse in warehouse.

NAVALSTORES.—There is a good supply on hand, common Rosin at $4 50 to $5 25, No. 2, do at $6 50, and No. 1 do at $8 75 to $9 per bbl. Spirits Turpentine would bring 85c per gallon.

STAR CANDLES—Dealers are furnishing the trade at 20c for 12 oz, and 25c per lb for full weight.

WOOL.—There is a good demand at 13 to 15c for Louisiana Native, 19 to 20c for Texas ¼ to ⅜ Merino, 23 to 25c for do ⅜ to ½ Merino, 13 to 15c per lb for burry, and 28 to 31c per lb for washed.

HOPS—There is a very good demand for the new crop at 65 to 70c. Bavarian is scarce at 80c per lb.

HIDES—Are in small supply, but the demand is slack, tanners being unwilling to pay the present high rates. Prices are ruling at 10 to 10½c for Green, 10½ to 11c for Kip Skins, 13c per lb for Dry Hides. Mexican Dry Hides command 16 to 21c per lb., and Pelts 20 to 25c per piece.

BEANS—Western are selling at $6 to $7, while Northern are in demand at $10 to $12 50 per bbl.

OILS—There is some demand for Linseed at $1 65 to $1 70, Crude Cotton Seed at $1 05 to $1 10 and do Refined at $1 45 to $1 60 per gal.

ESCULENTS—Potatoes are selling at $2 40 to $2 75 in sacks, and $3 00 to $3 50 per bbl; Onions $2 50 to $2 80 in sacks, and $3 to $3 25 in barrels, Green Apples at $5 to $8 per bbl. Cabbages are dull at $14 to $16 per crate.

POULTRY AND EGGS.—Chickens sell on the landing at $5 to $6 for the young and $10 to $12 00 per dozen for the large; Geese at $10 to $12, and Turkeys at $20 to $24 per dozen. Western eggs are selling at $30 to $33 per bbl.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY, Wednesday evening, Dec. 4, 1866.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to —
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	8 to 10
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 45
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$10 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	8 to 11
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50 to $3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100 to $150
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 5 to $12
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

MONETARY.

The movement in Coin market has been rather restricted, and rates have continued comparatively steady. Gold opened on Saturday at 141, and nothing transpiring to stimulate the demand, it closed firm at the opening rate; it opened on Monday at 141 to 141½, but subsequently improved and closed steady at 141½ to 142; and opened yesterday at 141, and without having exhibited any material change, closed at 140 to 141.

W. G. COYLE & CO.,
COAL MERCHANTS,
Office: 142 Gravier street.
Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.

Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,
(In the Spacious and Elegant Story Building.)

Is constantly in session under able Professors. It was founded in 1832, and is chartered by the State. Its former students may be found as Principals or Book-keepers in a large portion of the old houses of this city and over the Southern States. Ladies or gentlemen can attend the COMMERCIAL COURSE; or Book-keeping, Penmanship, Mathematics, English, French or Spanish, separately. A business education, that enables one to earn $1000, $2000, or $3,000 annually, is the best fortune parents can give their sons. A DIPLOMA from this College is a passport in all Commercial communities. Ladies and Gentlemen are invited to call. We have ample arrangements for 1000 students the present year. Liberal arrangements made for Clergymen or their sons and crippled soldiers. Catalogues sent to all who desire them.

RUFUS DOLBEAR, President.
aov 17 1y

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.
RICHARD ANGELL,
156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles
PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,
Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.
Chill Drops, the best curative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c.; Bardotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)
Has established himself at No 109 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lebanon, Tenn. CHAS. S. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La
STEWART & BROTHER,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,
NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc27 1y

J. R. POWELL,
COTTON FACTOR,
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANT,
190 Common Street,
W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & Jones. } NEW ORLEANS
☞ Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Dack Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. G. ELLIS. W. O. CHAMBERLIN
ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jaa20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,
46 Carondelet street, New Orleans,
COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,
General Commission Merchants,
And Commercial Agents. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,
Wholesale Grocer,
Nos. 8 and 10 Tchonpitonlas Street,
And 8 and 10 New Levee,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,
MUSIC PUBLISHER,
Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nunns," "Galid" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c
oc27 6m 167 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. D. M. HOLLINGSWORTH
R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,
CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,
Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,
f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

S. K. WALKER. THOS. M'KNIGHT. J. P JOHNSON.
R. K. WALKER & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
18 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
an20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,
Importers and Wholesale Dealers in
DRY GOODS,
Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS
PEET—R WILLIAMSON
SIMMS—J BOWLAG } aug25 1y

LOEB, SIMON & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
86 Canal Street,
sep1 3m NEW ORLEANS.

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.
HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.
Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.
Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jan20–1y

G. & T. F. SEARING,
Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in
CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS
No. 29 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
oc13 1y NEW ORLEANS.

D. L. CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. F. M. ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile
CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,
o13 No. 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

R. BLEAKLY & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 56, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,
Corner Poydras and Tchoupitoulas sts.,
NEW ORLEANS.
All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of MR. J. F. GRAULT, (formerly with the house of Messrs Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,
Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
No. 100 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. JOS. HOY. CHAS. HARDENBERGH.
CARROLL, HOY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,
aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JOHN G. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.
PARHAM & BLUNT,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,
No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,
General Commission Merchants and
COTTON FACTORS,
57 Poydras street.
Cotton Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4ft

STEWART, GALBREATH & FIZER
Commission Merchants & Cotton Factors,
46 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Andrew Stewart, New Orleans.
Wm. R. Galbreath, Wm. Stewart, John C. Fizer, } Memphis.
sep1 3m

SAM'L. BARRETT. CHS. LE SASSIER.
BARRETT & LESASSIER,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
118 CARONDELET STREET,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. A. H. MAY.
STEVENSON & MAY,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY,
Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug 18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. S. B. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.
HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. H. R. ALSOBROOK.
WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,
WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,
No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. a18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,
Cotton Factors,
No. 32 Union Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
J. U. PAYNE, W. C. H. DAMERON, G. W. HUNTINGTON, H. M. PAYNE.
je23–1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.
TOM & SAM HENDERSON,
COTTON FACTORS
AND
General Commission Merchants,
190 COMMON STREET,
je9 1y New Orleans

J. C. M'ALLISTER E. M'NAIR
M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
No. 74 Common Street,
sp7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

GARY W. BUTT. WM. FLASH. THOS. T. A. LYON
BUTT, FLASH & LYON,
Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.
Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.
Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14–6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,
New Orleans.
J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison;
John N. Harrison. july7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Padacah, Ky. WATTS, CRANE & CO' New York.
W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.
GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool.
feb3–1y.

W. A. BELL, FRED N. OGDEN, H. E. WITHERSPOON
WM. A. BELL & CO.,
General Commission Merchants,
And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,
41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30–1y

J. J WARREN T W CRAWFORD F S FLEITAS
WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

THOS A HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.
HAMILTON & DUNNICA,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
42 Ualoa street, New Orleans.
sep22 1y

ROBERT L. WALKER,
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

STAFFORD & WILSON,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 66, Magazine Street,
oc27 1y NEW ORLEANS.

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,
Wholesale Dealers in
Fancy Goods,
STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,
HOSIERY,
Furnishing Goods, etc.,
35 MAGAZINE STREET,
Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La
aug25 1y

CHAS. H. CHURCHILL.
HARDWARE AND GUNS.
TAYLOR & CHURCHILL,
(Opposite St. James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.
IMPORTERS,
DIRECT
41 MAGAZINE STREET, and 20 BANK PLACE,
PETER G. TAYLOR.
We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.
COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.
Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.
GUNS. NAILS, TIN WARE, AXES, HOLLOW WARE, SAWS,
Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations. Orders from the country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832.
aug25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,
Grocers and Commission Merchants,
95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of
CHAMPAGNE,
BRANDIES,
WHISKIES,
CLARET,
CORDIALS, Etc.
Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, saltabie for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the Most reasonable Rates.
☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.
W H HENNING & CO,
a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and
PLANTATION CLOTHING,
No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET,
(SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS
☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices.
a18 1y

A. B. GRISWOLD. W. M. GOODRICH
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Corner of Canal and Royal streets,
[Late HYAM & GOODRICH],
Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!
MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,
Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.
The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

JAMES SYME,
Wholesale Druggist,
139 CANAL STREET, (Touro Building)
NEW ORLEANS.
Importer and Dealer in Fine
DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS,
DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES,
Fancy Goods and Perfumery.
Surgical Instruments,
French, English, and American, of every variety
Also—
Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags.
aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF, Wholesale Grocer,
COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,
48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st.,
aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,
HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD
Established, August, 1861
Destroyed, May, 1863.
Re-established, January, 1866.
SALES ROOMS,
C. E. CATE & CO.,
18 CAMP STREET, 18
Under the City Hotel.
We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of
LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF,
AND KIP BROGANS,
Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.
We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.
A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.
C. E. CATE & CO.
feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W O SHEPARD. A L ABBOTT. ROBT O HUTCHINSON
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,
Nearly opposite Picayune Office,
CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,
PLATED WARE,
House Furnishing Goods,
AND KITCHEN WARE.
We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.
Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!
BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
Established in 1837.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W. COFFIN & CO.,
102 & 104 East Second street,
Cincinnati, Ohio,
Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.
Made of Geaniae Bell Metal, and mounted with our improved Rotary Yoke.
All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.
Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
CLOTHING,
AND
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
No. 37 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS
Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.
☞ Special attention given to orders.
Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,
Corner of St. Andrew Street,
oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,
Successors to D. Genella,
112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,
Dealers in
CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,
Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,
PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.
Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.
J. P. WILSON,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,
77 Magazine Street,
oct6 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]
EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL
Hat Emporium.
No 62 CAMP STREET,
Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. a18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY.
DRAKE & MARKHAM,
Manufacturers of
Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Children'
BOOTS AND SHOES,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.
We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.
We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.
OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!
Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.
Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.
One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.
We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.
Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.
All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP STREET.
aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE
is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family.
Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delays of your daily meals, may be saved by using the
CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.
Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.
The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top
has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.
The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.
The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove—the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from measuring the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.
The Hot Closet, in which meats and pastry are kept warm for hours when there has been delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to finish the greatest variety of dishes and desserts, and place them hot upon the table.
The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.
Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Edge Tools, etc.
RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,
93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras, and 565 Magazine street, near Mugaziaa Market
sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN
PRICE'S
Patent Texas Tonic,
PURELY VEGETABLE.
It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for
CHILLS AND FEVERS.
For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.
For sale at 59 Camp street, New Orleans,
THOS. K. PRICE, Vender.

Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of
PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,
Or, Vegetable Medicine.
T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:
DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate use and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefited.
Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,
We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Oak Works, City N.O.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Office
T. GREENFIELD, of House of Fellows & Co
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
OLIVER W. HENSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce.
New Orleans, June, 1863.
TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$1 00
6 " "	1 50
8 " "	2 00
12 " "	3 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.
All orders will meet with prompt attention.
sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,
PAPER WAREHOUSE,
No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and St Charles streets, New Orleans.
Newspaper of the following sizes: 22 by 32, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 36 by 48.
Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams' Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Sons Type. sp7–1

J. B. JENNINGS. J. W. WICKS. M. J. WICKS.
JENNINGS, WICKS & BRO.
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
aly 39 PERDIDO STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

G HORTER, Late of Magee & Knenss, N.O. T K PETERSON, Late of Goff & Peterson, Philadelphia. E O FENNER, New York
HORTER, PETERSON & FENNER
(Sign of the Black Horse,)
MANUFACTURERS OF SADDLES HARNESS, AND TRUNKS.
Importers of Saddlery & Coach Hardware
7 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
a22 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,
17 Chartres Street,
Lately received Carpeting of all kinds and qualities; Floor Oil Cloth of all qualities, which we cut to suit rooms; Curtain Materials, Lace Curtains, Cornices and Bands in great variety; Window

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII—NUMBER 48.
WHOLE NUMBER 614

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1866.

$3 00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.
OFFICE—112 CAMP STREET.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

THE REPORT ON MISSIONS.

The committee on Missions have had under consideration the Foreign and Domestic Missions and submit the following report.

Four years of terrible war separated us from our Foreign Missions, preventing our communications with them, and contributions to them to a very great extent. Since the restoration of peace, our land has been so impoverished that the people have not felt able more than to support the gospel at home, and in many places they have not been able to do that, so that in some circuits, ministers have been compelled to follow the plow during the week in order that they might fill the pulpit on Sabbath, thus imitating Paul the tentmaker. Yet notwithstanding these formidable difficulties, something has been accomplished in the Foreign Mission fields. Some of our missionaries heroically remained at their post of duty, though for four long years cut off from communication with our church at home.

Our own noble and beloved brother, J. W. Lambuth, through many difficulties, fired by an unquenchable missionary zeal, returned to China in 1863, since which time he has been laboring, not without success and encouragement, part of the time supporting himself and heroic wife, by the labor of his own hands.

Who can think of these devoted self-sacrificing brethren and their noble wives, without feeling a thrill of admiration for them, and breathing the earnest prayer that their number may be multiplied. A letter has been recently received from Bro. Lambuth, asking that in view of the failure of his health, in consequence of the climate of Shanghai, that he be transferred to California, to labor among the Chinese there. He believes there is an effectual door among that people, and missionary effort made there will react on their native land, and notwithstanding other failures in that field, and the opposition to such a step made in high places, your committee, with all the lights before them, recommend the transfer of Rev. J. W. Lambuth to the California Mission.

There are many other fields of Missionary labor white to the harvest to which we would like to direct your attention and effort at this time, but from which we are restrained by the anomalous and peculiar condition of the finances of this section of country. But while we cannot at once accomplish all a broad Christian philanthropy would dictate and desire, we do most earnestly recommend upon all our ministerial brethren to keep the Foreign Missions prominently and constantly before the minds of our people, and by all suitable means cherish missionary zeal until these calamities be over past.

With regard to the Domestic Missions, we most cordially recommend the continuance of the German Mission; we have a small but interesting field in this department of our mission work, and one missionary, Rev. August Gottschall, who, however, has not been able to accomplish much in a year, from the fact that the Missionary Board could not support him, and he has been kept close and hard at work to support his family. This Mission however is increasing in importance, and will very soon assume proportions calling loudly for prompt and energetic action on the part of the Church of God. It must be evident to even a casual observer, that Mississippi must have cultivators of her rich soil, other than those we have hitherto relied on. These fertile, but now abandoned fields, located in a climate so genial, will not long remain untenanted.

Already the German mind has perceived the adaptation of this country to their wants, and recently we learn that several families have settled in one community, and this is but one instance that will occur in many other places, and it behoves us to provide for and take charge of the spiritual instruction of this interesting and important class of population, in the Providence of God placed in our midst.

There is another class of producers among us, who were always interesting to us in a religious point of view, are now doubly so. When slaves we used to feel called upon to provide for their spiritual wants, and did provide for them with a liberality unsurpassed toward any working class in the world. Why should we neglect them now? When in point of fact, our interest and well being are more involved in their proper religious and mental training than when they were in a state of slavery. Why turn them over to the tender mercies of those who neither understand their nature or their wants?

We feel assured that there is no disposition either to neglect their training or shift the responsibility of others, by those who were their former friends and owners But the question is how, in their new and changed relations, can be best provided for them? It must be evident to the most casual observer that the old plain of investing provision for them will not answer. They feel that it is not of their own choice, and hence, the first opportunity which presents itself they set up for themselves, though in doing so they go away from their best friends. Now how is this difficulty to be met? By letting them alone and holding ourselves aloof from them? We think not, but advise the wise provision of the last General Conference, to be found on the 106th page of our new Discipline.

If they want to remain with us or return to us, let us make provision for their so doing, but not on the old plan that it is to cost them nothing, but let all our operations among them, as far as possible, be self-sustaining, whether the laborers employed among them be white or colored,—this appealing to a lever power within themselves by which to elevate them,—namely, self reliance, and to carry out this view, we recommend the adoption of the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That we encourage and help the colored people to build churches, and establish schools for themselves within our own ecclesiastical organization, and that we recommend Southern men and women to engage in instructing them.

Of money collected for the present year we report as follows:

For old Missionary debt, $198 30; for Foreign Missions, $231 10; for Domestic Missions, $280 55: Total, $709 95.

The Committee on Missions beg leave to report further, that they have had under consideration the action of the last General Conference, whereby the Missionary Society was substituted by two Boards, the one Foreign, and the other Domestic, and they beg leave to submit to the Mississippi Conference to adopt the following report and constitution, viz.

Constitution of the Board of Domestic Missions of the Mississippi Conference.

Art. 1. This Board shall be denominated and known as the Board of Domestic Missions of the Mississippi Annual Conference, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Art. 2. The object of this Board is to co-operate with the parent Missionary Board of the M. E. Church, South, in support of Missions, especially within the territory occupied by this conference.

Art. 3. The officers of this Board shall consist of a President, Vice President, Treasurer, Secretary, and nine Managers, who shall be chosen annually by the Mississippi Conference. The managers shall consist of five members of the Conference, and four laymen.

In case of vacancy by death or resignation, or otherwise, the Board shall fill such vacancy subject to confirmation by the Conference. Five members shall constitute a quorum.

Art. 4. The President, and in his absence, the Vice President shall preside at all meetings of the Board, or in the absence of both, the Board shall elect a President pro tem.

Art. 5. The Treasurer shall take charge of all the funds and property of the Board, subject to the order of the Board, and shall make an accurate and full report annually of all the receipts and disbursements of the Board to the Mississippi Annual Conference.

Art. 6. The Secretary shall keep a full and complete record of the proceedings of the Board.

Art. 7. It shall be the duty of each preacher in charge in the beginning of the Conference year, to enroll in a book provided for that special purpose, the names of all the members of his charge, and enter in said book the amount of money each one is willing to contribute to the Missionary cause, and to collect the same as early as possible, giving due credit, and remit the same so collected quarterly to the Treasurer of the Board.

Art. 8. Each preacher in charge shall take up a collection annually in support of Foreign Missions, and transmit the amount so collected to the parent Board of Domestic or Foreign Missions, and report the same to this Board.

Art. 9. One-tenth of all the collections made for Domestic Missions, with the balance on hand after meeting the appropriations in our own Conference, shall be transmitted to the Treasurer of the parent Board, to be appropriated as the Discipline directs.

Art. 10. There shall be a public annual meeting of the Board, at the time and place of the session of the Annual Conference, in aid of Missions.

The Committee recommend the adoption of the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That we will use our utmost endeavours to collect it as early a day as possible, our proportion of the old Missionary debt as assessed by the late General Conference.

J L Forsyth,
Wm. F Camp,
John A B Jones.

REPORT ON FINANCES.

We the undersigned Committee appointed by your body would beg leave to make the following report:

The collections upon the District for Missions, superannuated preachers, and "Bishops' fund," are below the receipts of last year; and far below the pressing demands of the poor and dependent who look to us for bread.

The amount collected for the "Bishops' fund," is only $859, and the claim about $1400, one half our apportionment. The claims of those who have worn themselves out, and of the widows and orphans of those dying in the service of the church, though small and meagre the claim, is $5000. Of that, only one third can be paid from the funds placed in our hands. How are our widows and orphans to be supported? The poor of the Conference, to whom are they to look? To the future world, while in this they starve! How can our people excuse themselves from a cheerful and liberal response, to the highest appeals of benevolence and charity; the rule most prominently set forth in the Bible—the cause of the widow and orphan. They are poor, they are widows and orphans from service, sacrifice and toil in the noblest cause; they are our poor, and are poorly fed.

We find from reports to the Conference, that the assessment for ministerial support is diminished, and only one third collected. The financial condition of our fields of labor are discouraging, and a great injury to the full and untrammelled cause of the gospel will result. The ministry must be supported, either by the church or by a partial devotion of time to secular labor.

The church is able and willing if untrained to support the ministry.

To increase our receipts and pay the poor, we would respectfully recommend the following Resolutions:

Resolution 1. That the Presiding Elders take up a collection for those dependent upon us, and the "Bishops' fund," at every Quarterly meeting held on their several districts.

Resolution 2. That a sermon on GIVING be preached at every appointment by the pastor.

Resolution 3. That from every Board of Stewards, one be appointed as General Superintendent of finances.

W. G. Millsaps, Chairman.

THE COMMITTEE ON BIBLE CAUSE.

Your Committee have not in their possession any statistics or other information of the operations of our Bible Society. From the general condition of the country, the limited efforts made now for the distribution of the scriptures amongst our people, and the obscurity and poverty of many districts of the country, we fear that many families are without any copy of the Bible. We do not hesitate to express our belief that to supply such destitution is a work of the first importance, and should engage our active energy and special attention. We rejoice that the present posture of the affairs of the Nations seems to promise a far greater tolerance of religious liberty, and to that extent offers a widening field for the dissemination of the precious word of life. We are confident from the promises of our Lord, that his knowledge shall cover the earth as the water covers the sea, and that the nations of the earth shall be given to our Lord and to his Christ. Some of the European Governments that had long proscribed religious liberty, have now opened the way to the operation of all evangelical churches. We believe that these are evidences of the Saviour's presence in his Church, and for her we should invigorate and increase our efforts to occupy every field. We offer for your adoption these resolutions, viz:

1st. That we give grateful thanks to the great Redeemer for the evidences found in the national revolutions of this age, that the nations of the earth are coming to his knowledge.

2nd. That we think it would be highly satisfactory to this conference, and a valuable contribution to those who may be engaged in distributing the Scriptures, if the preachers in charge throughout the Conference would, during the ensuing conference year, ascertain as far as they can, the the families in their respective works who are destitute of the word of God, and report them to some person to be named by this Conference, or to some existing agent of the Southwestern Bible Society at New Orleans.

3rd. That we cannot allow ourselves to abate our interest or energy in the specific work of distributing the word of God, but that we will occupy every field that may open itself to us.

4th. That we as heretofore fully recognize the value of the American Bible Society in furtherance of the great Redeemer's Kingdom, and that we will in every proper way co-operate with that Society.

W. T. J. Sullivan, Chairman.

RESOLUTION ON DANCING.

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Conference that dancing, either in private families or public places, is contrary to the General Rule on diversions, and should therefore be discouraged by all of us, and that the general rule be enforced prudently and firmly.

Wm. B. Hines, Chairman.

REPORT ON THE EDUCATION OF SOLDIERS' ORPHANS.

Respected Brethren:—At the last session of your body, you were pleased to pass a resolution requesting me to digest and issue a circular with a plan for the support and education of the orphans of the deceased and disabled soldiers of the late war. The subject has been one of intense and constant solicitude to me, but I have not deemed any moment so favorable as at the Conference, for speaking on this subject. The matter is one of the highest importance, and if we neglect these dependent children the censure of mankind will rest upon us. Much has already been done, but we must do more and do it at once. We have, as a Conference, considered orphans' houses and asylums of questionable value, in a country devoted to agriculture like ours, where homes and useful employment may easily be found for those old enough to work.

Provision for board and support of infants can easily be made by organized societies in every county, and all who are capable of going to school can be sent at the expense of an "Orphan's League," if some such association were formed, and books, clothing, medicine, and other incidental expenses paid for them. The children would then be able to aid their parents, relatives, or families with whom they live, and they would grow up with habits of industry and self-reliance, and a higher enjoyment of life than can ever be found in any orphan asylum.

It is not improbable but that the Legislature may make some appropriation for the sustentation of the orphans of the State; if so, it would probably be divided to the counties in proportion to the number of orphans, and the ratio of funds raised in each county, to be employed jointly for the orphans' relief. Should this be done it will need many local organizations to carry out the plan. Every district, every town, and every large neighborhood in the several counties, ought to have an orphans' association or league; and clothes, books, funds provided by them. A few good women would carry out the plan if once inaugurated. I therefore recommend the passage of the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1. That the Presidiog Elders take charge of the matter in their respective districts, calling to their aid the Preachers in their districts, and such laymen as they can enlist. They may, if expedient, form District Societies, and shall provide for the needy orphans of deceased soldiers, and the children of disabled and indigent ones, looking especially to their education in the schools near their homes.

Resolved, 2. That a Central Board composed of five Laymen and five Ministers, who shall supervise and control the general organizations, to be appointed by this Conference, one of whom may act as the General Superintendent of the orphans' interests.

Resolved, 3. That every Preacher in charge of pastoral work be, and hereby is required to bring this subject prominently before the Church Meeting in his charge.

Respectfully,
C. K. Marshall.

REPORT ON CHURCH PUBLICATIONS.

The Committee on Church Publications beg leave to submit the following report:

First, the Publishing House. The annual exhibit of the Book Agent, made June 1st, 1866, has been duly considered.

This is the first official information this Conference has received from the Publishing House since the Conference of 1861.

In April, 1862, the real estate and fixtures of the House were libelled for confiscation in the United States Circuit Court in Tennessee, and they went immediately into the hands of the United States Marshall. The Financial Secretary of the House, then in charge of it, fortunately, but unexpectedly, found himself clothed with legal authority from the General Conference, which enabled him to employ the property and connect the suit against the Government for its recovery. This suit was terminated in favor of the Church at the very time of the session of this Conference last year. During this period of three and a half years, the property was partially protected from spoliation and loss by army depredations and otherwise, by the Financial Secretary, and we congratulate the church, that through the merciful interposition of Divine Providence, amidst the disasters of war, we still have a Publishing House.

The agent reports a certain loss in the conduct of the business before the war, of $60,698 60, and a further loss of the most of $112 856 15 in bad debts. But notwithstanding these and some other losses not definitely ascertained, resulting from the use of the printing office by the army and other spoliations, we are glad to learn that the House is in operation, and as the agent thinks, with a prospect of a good business in the future.

The agent reports the available property of the House, including everything, over and above the debts due, at $87,165 70, not including such debts outstanding as may hereafter be collected, and also exclusive of an unadjusted and unliquidated debt, justly due the House by the Government of the United States, and which could not be fairly estimated at less than $10,000, as we are well informed.

The future prosperity of the House, however, will depend upon the patronage it shall receive from the Church and public. It is one thing to have a Publishing House and make books, but it is another to distribute this literature throughout the Church and country, that religion and morality may be advanced thereby.

Second—The Christian Advocate, published at Nashville, by the Publishing House, under the control of Dr. Summers, is in full operation. It is a large and beautiful sheet, with a secular department in an extra, and in every respect is a first class Methodist paper. Its literature is of the highest stamp, its central position gives it high and peculiar claims upon the patronage of the whole Church, and undoubtedly does and will continue to contain much information which would not be so suitable in a mere local Conference publication.

Third—The Sunday School Visitor. We congratulate the Church on the information from the Book Agent, that this valuable periodical will soon re-appear amongst us. Its value to families and Sunday Schools is too great to be estimated, and we hope it will soon be circulated in every Sunday School and family within our reach.

Fourth—The N. O. Christian Advocate. This is one of our own papers, published in our immediate vicinity, is the recognised organ of this Conference, is well known to all of us, and ought to have a far wider circulation than it has received. We hope to see the paper enlarged, and that it may continue to maintain its conservative, religious and literary character.

Fifthly—We beg leave to bring to the favorable notice of the Conference the Home Monthly, published at the Publishing House in Nashville, by the Rev. T. R. Hill, and edited by Professor Sparkman and himself. This monthly is virtually in the room of the Home Circle, formerly published by the Book Agent. It is at present a private enterprise; but if sufficiently successful, it is expected, at no very distant day, to pass into the hands of the Book Agent. It is a fine ladies' book, well and truthfully edited, and highly worthy the patronage of the families of the Church.

In addition to the above, we are glad to learn that in various parts of the country we have weekly newspapers in the interests of our Church in successful operation, and which are wielding a good and healthful influence.

And we further report to the Conference for its adoption, the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the duty of every member of this Conference, to use his industry and diligence, to put into wide circulation the literature of our Publishing House, and the periodicals named in the above report.

R. Anbey, Chairman.

DIVINE SYMPATHY.—"I know their sorrows." Exod. v. 7. Man cannot say so. There are many sensitive fibres of the soul the best and tenderest human sympathy cannot touch. But the Prince of sufferers, He who led the way to the path of sorrows, "knoweth our frame." When crushing bereavement lies like ice on the heart, when the dearest earthly friend cannot enter into the peculiarities of our grief Jesus can, Jesus does. He who once bore my sins, also carried my sorrows. That eye now on the Throne was once dim with weeping. I can think, in all my afflictions "He was afflicted"—in all my tears, "Jesus wept."

THE RELIGIOUS ELEMENT IN THE GERMAN WAR.—The Paris Monde, the Roman Catholic organ, has the following:—"Prussia becomes a great power. In the German struggle there exists a religious element which it is important to disengage. Prussia represented the Protestant element, and around her grouped all the interests appertaining to that faith; whilst, on the contrary, all Catholic sympathies attached themselves to Austria. By the treaty of Westphalia, Protestantism took right of citizenship in Germany, and established itself there on a footing of equality with Catholicism. The victory of Prussia overthrows this equilibrium; the Catholic influence exercised by Austria in Italy and Germany is henceforth destroyed, and it cannot be restored without a long series of contests. The arrangement of Prussia with Europe is a difficult matter. Italy and France will not be always in accord, even admitting they are so at this moment."

WESLEYAN SCHOOLS AND CHAPELS.—The Leeds Mercury says: In educational efforts remarkable advance has been made, twenty-seven new day schools having been established last year, with an addition of 4,669 scholars. The total number of day-schools connected with the Wesleyans is, 606, and of scholars 93,194. There has been an increase of seventy-one Sunday-schools during the past year, and of 5,756 scholars. A very large outlay has been made in chapel building. The committee entrusted with this department has authorized an estimated expenditure since the last Conference of $991,940, the total outlay of the year having been $1,334,272, and during the last eleven years $2 500,000 of chapel debts have been paid off.

From the Southern Christian Advocate.

PROGRESS IN CHINA.

MR. EDITOR: Presuming that you are still interested in the events of this country, especially in so far as they may bear upon the immediate or ultimate introduction and spread of christianity, and that the Church at large, of which your paper is an extensive medium, will look to you for such intelligence from abroad, as shall keep them informed on this important point, I shall take the liberty, as I feel it my duty to the Church and to the cause of Christ, to address you from time to time on such subjects as events in this country shall present.

In a previous letter to you, I referred to the partial removal of the great barriers, which have so long held the influence of Western nations in abeyance, and the inauguration of a more liberal policy by the government which, while still imposing some restrictions, promises to greatly enhance the value of that mutual intercourse which we have always sought with this people; and may, therefore, be hailed by both the commercial and Christian world as an indication of better days in China.

In the present communication I cannot do better, perhaps, than cursorily refer to the events of recent history and connect the links which you may have lost during the long oblivious interval of your isolation from the outer world.

The influence of the anti-foreign element, which had long been in the ascendancy at Pekin, and had hitherto committed the government to an exclusive policy, finally culminated in 1860, in an appeal to the Ultima ratio regum, in which they were successfully and triumphantly met by the Allies with their argumentum in victum.

Defeated, their army scattered, their Capital captured, the Emperor a refugee, the Yuen ming yuen in ruins, and "Barbarians" in victorious possession of their once inviolable and sacred city, their ascendency and power were shaken, and for very shame they hid themselves in the fortresses of Manchuria, and for a long while could not be prevailed on to make their appearance or send commissioners to negotiate a peace. —Not satisfied, however, with that bitter experience, which would make even fools wise, nor grateful for the restoration of their lost capital, which was magnanimously returned to them on the ratification of the treaties, on the death of the Emperor, they dared again to usurp the throne and dictate its policies, but so summary was their punishment, so radical and complete their overthrow, by death and degradation, that the relics of that party are too weak and small at present to make themselves felt or feared. Indeed, occupying our present standpoint, the interests and destinies of China, being already in the hands of Western powers, we may safely pronounce them dead—an Illium fuit.

The late Emperor Shieng Fung—"Universal Plenty," died August 22d, 1861, and the Usurpers were executed or committed suicide sometime in December of the same year. The "style" of the new Emperor was then chosen; and he ascended, (or rather is to ascend, he is only a boy about twelve years of age at this date,) the throne as Tong Chi Hwan-Ti or Emperor of "Mutual Order." This title seems to have been suggested by the recent events, and the adoption of it would seem to indicate a design to promote what it so beautifully expresses.

In the meantime, however, mutual order and confidence were being fast restored, or perhaps, I should say, were being created, and the friendly relations already begun between the East and the West being rapidly cemented.

These events bring us down to the close of 1861, from which time all hostile demonstrations or severity towards the Chinese Government ceased. The city of Canton, which had been held from the beginning of the war as security for the indemnity, was released.

The successful working of the customs system at the various treaty ports, and the greatly increased revenue obtained by means of the foreign inspectorate, tended to keep up the good feeling, and to exhibit the unspeakable advantages to be derived from friendship with Western nations. Thus the overwhelming force which at first was necessary to break down the barriers which separated the inhabitants of China from their foreign brethren, has been succeeded, at least in part, by an influence no less powerful in its effects, while it is far more in accordance with the laws of friendship and rule of right.

The Tai Ping Rebellion, whose proportions were already gigantic, becoming daily more formidable and irresistible, was sweeping the country with destruction at the beginning of 1862. The Imperial forces unable to withstand them retired to the treaty ports, especially to Shanghai and Ningpo, with the tatterdemalion hosts of the insurgents close upon them. They put up a strong plea and invoked the assistance of those powers which had so effectually crushed them at Peking—whereupon the Allies, who had hitherto proclaimed themselves neutral, instituted measures of assistance, and henceforth identified themselves actively with the Imperial cause. Two contingents, one known as the Franco-Chinese at Ningpo and the Anglo-Chinese at Shanghai, were soon levied and drilled by foreign officers detailed for that service.

These two contingents, though numbering but a few thousand, under the efficient management and conduct of their respective foreign leaders, soon became invincible, and after more than forty engagements, beginning in January 1862, they succeeded in May 1864, in breaking and scattering irrecoverably the whole Insurgent power, restored to the bewildered Imperial commandere their country and homes, which they had been powerless, with twice or thrice the same numbers and some material, to defend or recover. This act of kindness (?) and this proof of ability and skill in military tactics, of which they were personally eye witnesses, and in the result of which so many millions of this people were directly interested, cannot fail to be remembered by them as long as the name of "Chang Mon" exists, or the footprint of his desolation mark their country. Having rendered them services as important as those rendered by Lafayette to our own struggling colonies, may we not hope the name and deeds of these foreigners will become as precious and long remembered as his.

Many times, the leaders of these contingents had honorable mention in the Capital, and as often received marks of favor conferred by His Majesty for services, distinguished alike for heroism and "disinterestedness" (as his Majesty is pleased to term them in one of his despatches)

Below I transcribe two of those notices or decrees, one of which appeared in the Peking Gazette, the Official or Government Organ, on the 12th of October 1862. It was called forth by the death of Gen. Ward, an American, formerly with Walker, during his celebrated filibustering expedition in Central America, who was the first to inaugurate the Anglo Chinese movement against the Rebels; in which service he lost his life.

"The second refers to Gordon, an English officer who succeeded Ward, and led the forces till the final overthrow of the Rebellion.

October 12th 1862, the following edict was published—1st.

"Lee Hung Chang (the Governor General,) reports that at the recovery of Tsiche General Ward was mortally wounded, and begs that an altar may be dedicated to him as a mark of our Imperial favor.

"Now Ward was an American who entered our service at Shanghai, and leading our troops recovered the city of Sung Kiang fu, where as well as at many other places he repeatedly routed the Rebels. These exertions were at the time rewarded by his appointment to the rank of Funing.— The report forwarded by Lee Hung Chang, informs us that Ward, having heard that the Rebels on their way to Ningpo had taken Tsiche, proceeded with the utmost rapidity to the place, and commenced operation against it. The enemy nothing daunted, returned the fire of our troops, and one bullet struck Ward on the breast, traversing his body and coming out of his back. His men however completed the work, while he himself was carried back to Ningpo, where he died on the following day. In truth Ward was a great man—a soldier who caused no shame. Lee Hung Chang has already directed Wu Shun and other officers to look after the funeral and we order that at Ningpo and Sung Kiang fu, altars be erected to his memory, while the Board of Rites will indicate the proper ceremonies to be observed in accordance with his rank, that thus his spirit may be comforted and refreshed. Respect this."

The following occurs in the Gazette of June 16, 1864, on the disbanding of the troops:

"Lee Hung Chang now reports that the 'ever victorious army' which Gordon used to lead has been disbanded in the most satisfactory manner, and he begs us to heap further distinctions on Gordon's head.— Such is the substance of his despatch.— Since the Spring of last year, (1863) Gordon has headed the 'ever victorious army,' and aided the ordinary Imperial forces in the subjugation of Fu Shan, &c. &c., (here occurs a list of the places taken by Gordon which I omit from this extract.) He finally captured Chang Chow fu, thus unanimously heaping meritorious acts one upon another. Moreover he has in the most satisfactory and peaceful manner completed the disbandment of the disciplined army.

"There was no uncertainty (or vacillation) about Gordon's services; he was ever inspired with that bravery and strategic talent which enabled him to prove so formidable. He was also intimately acquainted with the relations existing between China and other powers. It is therefore most necessary for us to mark our approval. Gordon is hereby presented with the Yellow Jacket, and a short peacock's feather. He is also presented with the official robes and paraphernalia belonging to the rank Ti tu.

Thus will our favor be manifested to him Respect this."

While the Franco and Anglo-Chinese contingents were being wielded so efficiently on hand there was an attempt to interest the Government in the formation of an Anglo-Chinese steam navy. It was a favorable time and without much pressure, the Government consented, and a commission was sent to Europe to purchase and fit out suitable vessels, (mostly if not all steamers.) In July, (1863) duly equipped, they arrived in Shanghai, but on account of some misunderstanding between the Government and the parties purchasing and at that time in charge, the whole matter became a failure, the Government would not accept the vessels, and they were sent away to be disposed of.

Since the restoration of peace and the reoccupation of the large cities in the Interior, individual mandarins have shown their appreciation of foreign assistance and of the superiority of their naval and military implements by continuing in their service, in the Interior, quite a number of foreign officers, who are constantly engaged drilling and training the Chinese. In Suichow the Governor General—Lee Hung Chang—has established a large (foreign) Arsenal, where cannon, shot, shell, caps and powder are manufactured in abundance, under the oversight of a foreign officer. There is another also at Shanghai, with foreigners engaged. He is rendering himself independent and impregnable.

The Governor General of the Fah Kien province has also intimated his intention to establish a steam fleet, and proposes to send a commission to Europe and America to purchase all the materials necessary for ship building and for the manufacture of munitions of war.

Whether these two rival Mandarins, so deeply conscious of foreign power, have entered into these matters, with the ultimate object of self-aggrandizement, or whether it marks the progress of real conviction, we know not. We feel safe in saying, however, it cannot work any danger or hurt to the foreigner, while it may prove a powerful liberalizing and perhaps civilizing influence among the Chinese.

Thus we have seen the anti-foreign power crushed; friendly relations established and cemented by blood; Mandarins acknowledge their inferiority and accept the services and kind offices of foreigners, also abandon the use of their own weapons of war for those of the West; have seen the Capital thrown open and the Ministers of Western powers take up a permanent residence near the Imperial Palace; the country opened for purposes of commerce and trade as far as foreigners thought it wise or prudent to demand for their own interests. Further, in addition to these evidences of progress, three Imperial schools have been established for the instruction of young men in the English language, &c. One of them is located in Peking, and is under the charge of Rev. Dr. Martin, of the American Presbyterian Mission; one in Shanghai and the other in Canton. I had the honor of inaugurating the one in Shanghai and had charge of it in 1864. They promise to be of immense influence, and I have great pleasure in still cultivating an intimate relation with those who were once my pupils. They are chiefly of the higher classes, and are designed to fill important offices in those places frequented by foreigners, especially in Peking and the Treaty ports.

At present there is a semi-official embassy from this country traveling in Europe, consisting of one Mandarin and two of the pupils from the Peking school.

Besides the above indications of better times I might say that perhaps the best indication of all is the wonderful impetus given to inquiry. The Chinese are difficult to arouse; "darkness covers the land and gross darkness the people," but I think the present attitude of the Chinese mind more favorable for impression, open to conviction, and more ready to receive instruction than it has ever been. They need physical light as well as moral light; give them more of the first and they will more readily accept the other. They have seen hundreds of our Western improvements and know something of their value and use, and the great desideratum now appears to be a Scientific school where something shall be done by impressing their minds with truths of nature, towards leading their pressent inquiry to terminate in Nature's God. What is prepared to meet this want, to direct these inquiries, to harvest these influences, to save these souls?

What Missionaries have done and are doing towards availing themselves of the present condition of affairs in this Empire, I shall reserve for a future communication.

Just as I was finishing this letter the mail came, and to my surprise, (for I had looked and expected till I had quite despaired,) and great joy, brought the long looked for dear old "S. C. Advocate," so familiar in past days. "As cold water to a thirsty soul, so is good news from a far country," especially is that the case, when that country is your native land and the good news from your own dear friends.

Herewith I send an account of the closing scenes of our long voyage to China, which I trust though late will at least be acceptable and interesting if you have space to admit it.

I am very anxious that a more general knowledge of this field of labor should obtain among our people and if I can in any wise be instrumental in giving interest or prominence to this our only foreign mission, or the history of this country, I shall do so with pleasure as far as compatible with my work.

Young J Allen.

Shanghai, August, 1866.

Homely Advice.

Sidney Smith, whose Christianity was rather of the material type, made up his preaching mainly of broad, "common sense" suggestions. The following will be found of great use in the corporeal part of religion They are sufficiently Dr. Franklinish to recommend them to American readers:

Never give way to melancholy; resist it steadfastly, for the habit will encroach. I once gave a lady two-and-twenty receipts against melancholy. One was a bright fire; another, to remember all the pleasant things said to and of her; another to keep a box of sugar plums on the chimney piece, and a kettle simmering on the hob.

Never teach false morality. How exquisitely absurd to tell girls that beauty is of no value, dress of no use! Beauty is of value; her whole prosperity and happiness in life may depend on a new gown or a becoming bonnet, and if she has five grains of common sense, she will find this out. The great thing is to teach her their just value, and that there must be something better under a bonnet than a pretty face for real happiness. But never sacrifice truth.

I am convinced that digestion is the great secret of life; and that character, talents, virtues and qualities are powerfully affected by beef, mutton, piecrust, soups. I have often thought I could feed or starve men into virtues and vices, and affect them more powerfully with the instruments of cookery than Timotheus could do formerly with his lyre.

BLANCHING THE HAIR.—A recent number of Virchow's Archiv contains a highly interesting article by Landois, of Greifswald, on a sudden blanching of the hair. The possibility of such an occurrence has been doubted by many if not all eminent dermatologists of the present day, although several well-known instances are recorded in history. This question is now settled beyond any doubt by observations made by the author upon a case in Prof. Mosler's clinic. The patient was 34 years old, and was received at the hospital on account of delirium tremens. At the morning visit, on the fifth day of his stay, it was noticed by the visiting physicians and the patients that the hair upon his head had become gray. On looking at himself in a mirror, he exclaimed: "Ach God, mir sind die Haare grau geworden!" Strange to say, the delirium vanished at the same time. A microscopic examination showed the presence of a great many minute air-bubbles at the white points, both in the cortical and central portions of the hair. The pigment was perfectly preserved throughout the whole shaft of the hair, and had undergone no change whatever. As the hair gradually is changed to gray the pigment disappears, but in this instance the rapid whitening during a single night was produced by the development of gas within the substance of the hair.

THE PLANET MARS.—Professor Phillips, of Oxford, has published an interesting summary of the results of recent telescopic observations of the planet Mars. No doubt remains that the white patches so long observed at the pole of the planet, are composed of snow: They change uniformly with the changes in the seasons. Red and green patches, also, have been discovered, which are supposed to indicate land and sea. By means of a spectroscope the presence of an atmosphere has been made certain, deep enough to sustain life, and dense enough to bear up aqueous vapors, which may compensate in part for the smaller heat received from the sun.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 113 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 113 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. M. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1866.

Change of Name and Lay Delegation.

We compile from our exchanges the following vote on these subjects, and will continue to add from time to time until all the Conferences are heard from.

Conferences.	Change of Name. For	Against	Lay Delegation For	Against
Missouri	28	30	40	19
St. Louis	26	12	19	19
Arkansas	24	19	16	29
Louisville	35	31	57	10
Kentucky	45	7	47	4
W. Virginia	16	7	21	1
Holston	51	2	47	7
N. W. Texas	28	00	26	00
Tennessee	55	48	58	41
Memphis	78	43	65	51
N. Carolina	69	3	49	23
Pacific	37	8	40	1
Virginia	64	47	73	26
Mobile	18	42	34	30
Mississippi	36	52	32	45
Georgia	109	3	116	16

Sunday School Visitor.

Mr. Editor:—The following resolution was adopted by the late General Conference:

"Resolved, by the Delegates of the Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in General Conference assembled, that the Sunday-school Visitor be forthwith resuscitated; and that all our preachers, and the Superintendents of Sabbath-schools be, and they are hereby, instructed to use diligent efforts to introduce it at once into all our Sunday-schools."

It has been a source of deep regret, that we were unable to respond promptly to the above demand of the General Conference, immediately on entering upon our duties at Nashville.

While the all-the-time working Editor was ready at any moment to perform the duties assigned him in this department, there were difficulties in the way of the Book Agent that compelled him to enter upon this work with proper caution.

The General Conference required the Visitor to be published, whether the subscription to it should be sufficient to pay its expenses or not.

The Publishing House was in an embarrassed condition, and was unable to advance the requisite means, and hence we were compelled to delay. In the meantime, letters from ministers of age and experience, from all parts of our widespread Connection—men whose whole lives had been devoted to the Church—from parents, who were regarding with most intense anxiety the welfare of their children—from Superintendents and teachers in Sunday-schools, and in some cases from the little folks themselves, were received, urging us to supply this demand of the Church. Sunday-school papers also from the North, bearing upon their columns pernicious infection, in many instances substituting a false for the true religion, and gain for godliness, too well calculated by their fair exterior, were finding a large circulation among us.

Under these circumstances, we resolved to wait no longer, but decided to send out the first number of the New Series on the first of January next. We appeal to the Church to sustain us, and feel that our appeal will not be in vain.

It is important that we know before the twenty-fifth of December the number of papers that will be required to be issued the first of January. We therefore request pastors to bring this subject before their congegations, and Superintendents before schools at once, and report to us the number you will require. Already we are receiving subscriptions. There is not a family among us who ought not to take a copy. In the country many of the schools are not kept up during the winter. In such places we ask parents to subscribe for a copy for their children.

Single copy, price.....50c.
From five to twenty-five copies..40c.
Over twenty-five.....30c.

A. H. Redford, Agent,
Nashville, Tenn.

Wesleyan Reform Union.—The Wesleyan Reformers of Driffield, England, have disconnected themselves from the Free Church plan of the Beverley Circuit, and formed a circuit in connection with the Union.

Methodist Prayer Meetings.

In a recent number of the New York Methodist is an excellent article on this subject. It says: "The prayer meeting is the pulse of the Church. It is an almost infallible indicator of its spiritual vigor. And among no people is this more true than with Methodists. Our success, as a Church, has been chiefly spiritual, and from this as the root all our material prosperity has had its growth. And to-day the real power of Methodism is the power of a vigorous spiritual life. Whatever, therefore, tends to diminish the strength or manifestation of its spirituality, detracts from its real power. Now, the neglect of the prayer meeting by our people, has precisely this effect. In the first place it indicates a decreasing interest in the Christian life on the part of members. The least penetrating observer will make this interpretation of a thinly attended prayer meeting, and the interpretation is perfectly legitimate. If the people really loved the meeting, and their hearts drew them thither, they certainly would be there. Where the heart leads, the steps are quite sure to follow. Such is the simple but just process of reasoning which leads the mind irresistibly to the conclusion that the absentees from prayer meeting are such, chiefly, because of a diminishing spirituality. And plain facts substantiate this conclusion. When is a prayer meeting among us poorly attended? Immediately after a revival in which many have been gathered into the Church? The new converts are nearly all present. This zeal continues as long as the warmth of their first love abides. But as the world begins to weave its spell over their affections, the attendance of many becomes more inconstant, until, though they may retain their connection with the Church, their presence is altogether withdrawn from the place of social prayer.—Just in proportion as they backslide in heart do they neglect the prayer meeting. The absence from these meetings of any who should be there is detrimental to the prosperity of the Church, because of its discouraging effect upon all who do attend. In every church there are a faithful few; a few who keep their garments undefiled, and who walk every day with God. But for these there would be no just exhibit to the world of a true spiritual religion. They are the men whom awakened souls desire should counsel them in the agonies of penitence, and whom the dying wish to pray for them. They are the men and women who sustain the devotional services of the Church. Take away these faithful souls, and a torpor settles upon the Church. And yet they are but men; they are exposed to discouragement and weariness as others are; their hearts are liable to faint under the depressions arising from the indifference and worldliness of their brethren. These, therefore, who ought to be at the prayer meeting, but who habitually are not there, imperil the very life of the Church by their neglect. It is an interesting question whether Methodist prayer meetings are more poorly attended than those of other leading Christian Churches. Taking the Church as a whole, we doubt if they are, and yet in certain cases, and where no revival interest exists, the comparison, doubtless, is disparaging to us. We are informed that some of the very first churches in position and influence in our connection, have a very slender attendance of members usually at the weekly prayer meeting. If this be true, ought it not to awaken inquiry? Does not this irregularity arise from the want of a sense of the obligation of an important Christian duty? Some stayaway because the preacher is not interesting in the meeting. How futile and almost impious is this objection. It is not the pastor's meeting. It belongs to the members of the Church. He is there simply as their brother and servant in Christ. The design of the prayer meeting is not to meet the pastor and enjoy what he may say, but to meet the Master and receive his blessing; and no matter who the pastor may be, nor what his adaptation or otherwise to conduct prayer meetings efficiently, it is the sacred duty of the member to be there, and contribute to the interest and profit of the occasion. Again, many absent themselves for trivial causes. Bodily weariness, a little chilliness or cloudiness of the weather, want of effort to be ready in time, and various other reasons equally frivolous, are sufficient to make the places of many members vacant at this social meeting. Many church members will be found on prayer-meeting evenings at places of idle resort. Whether this be the case to a greater extent among Methodists than others, we can not say, but certain it is that our people need and ought to receive earnest and affectionate training in this direction. The imperative obligations of religion may not be thus trifled with by any people without spiritual declension and dearth ensuing."

Rev. Heman Bangs, after an itinerant ministry of over half a century, says the Christian Advocate, New York, Oct. 25, still preaches with much of his early earnestness and success. In his official duties as presiding elder of the New York District, N. Y. E. Conference, he meets all his appointments, and, besides preaching, often supervises the services of two quarterly meetings on the same day. His sermon on Sabbath morning last in the John Street Church, where he officiated as pastor forty-five years ago, was full of evangelical thoughts, systematically arranged, delivered with animation, and heard by the congregation with pleasure and spiritual profit. Brother Bangs commenced his pastoral work in 1814.

Revision of the Jewish Ceremonial Law.—The rabbis of Europe are to assemble in council in Paris, next year, in order that the great Sanhedrim may take place in conjunction with the Universal Exhibition. The Central Jewish Committee of Paris has taken the initiative of the meeting, which will be especially called on to decide the following questions:—The abolition of the prohibition of certain articles of food; the suppression of the polygamy which exists among the Jews in Algeria; and the recognition of female children as equally qualified to inherit, in that country, with males.

Converts to Catholicism.—Rev. Mr. Chiniquy states that, when a Roman priest, he admitted ninety Protestants into the Roman Catholic Church, most of whom had been converted by means of nuns and nunneries. Protestant parents would bring their daughters to be educated, stipulating that their religion would not be meddled with; but when gone, they were uniformly laughed at, and no effort was ever spared to bring their children over to the Church of Rome.

The St. Francis Baptist Church, of Mobile, has raised, during the last twelve months, $4,600 for current expenses of the church, more than $3,000 for repairs to the building, and the members in their individual capacity have contributed at least $2,000 to the domestic and the foreign mission boards and to the Sunday-school board. What they have raised in a year for religious objects will not fall short of $10,000.

Revival in Alexandria, Va.—Rev Geo. W. Langhorne writes to the Episcopal Methodist: "We have had a glorious revival here. About one hundred persons have professed religion, and to the present date sixty-eight have joined our Church. The work is still progressing. I have never seen such uniform seriousness and order."

Col. Johnson, formerly of Missouri, more recently of Alabama, says the S. C. Advocate, has been elected President of Randolph Macon College, and will enter at once upon his duties. He graduated with distinction many years ago at Randolph Macon. He is a lawyer by profession, and also, we learn, has some experience as a teacher. We hope that the Institution may, under his direction, realize a large degree of success.

Somerville, Tenn.—The Memphis Christian Advocate reports a glorious revival in Somerville under the ministry of the Rev. R. V. Taylor and Dr. Rivers, whose pupils share largely in its blessings.

The nine Northern Methodist Bishops held their annual meeting in New York last week, and arranged for sixty conferences. The missionary contributions of that body amounted last year to nearly $73,000, and it is expected that the Centenary gifts will amount to $5,000,000.

Rev. Ph. Guiton, a pasteur of the French Methodist Church, has recently presented Napoleon III. with a copy of the French translation of Rev. Wm. Arthur's Tongue of Fire. It was graciously "received."

DR. BOND ON DANCING.

Commenting on some strictures of the Baltimore Gazette against the decision of the Catholic council in relation to Dancing, Dr. Bond of the Episcopal Methodist, says:

Nor are we ignorant of round dances as practiced now. We have observed them at Saratoga night after night, until we knew all we wished to know about them. An old doctor, accustomed for many years to see the unvarnished side of society, is not likely to be over-prudish and fastidious about corporeal exhibitions, but if Esculapius had lived until now, he would not have thought it proper to look at the phenomena of the polka as we saw them at Saratoga, except as a permitted study in animal physiology or moral pathology. The young ladies who were handled and swung about there night after night might have been perfectly innocent of all evil—we trust they were—but, if we were young, and marriageable again, we would no more think of seeking one of them for a wife than we would select the show cake in a confectioner's window for home consumption. It might be a very good cake—but then the association of the ideas of purity with public exposure, and irreverent handling, has a natural difficulty in it, so great, that from what we have heard fall from gay gentlemen, even the practice of the polka does not overcome it. We know the fence against this. We are entirely familiar with "Honi soit qui mal y pense." "The evil be to him who evil thinks," but this motto of the garter, is said to have originated under circumstances that contradicted its philosophy, and its use is commonly true to its origin. It is well to have a pure imagination, but to have one purged of common sense is not laudable. The mind that can perceive no evil tendencies in things not positive breaches of the commandments, is not only pure, but stupid.—The cordeliers have a legend that when St. Francis saw a young man stealthily kissing a maiden, he raised his hands to heaven and returned thanks to God that there was so much Christian charity in the world.—The saint was so pure that he could imagine no impulse to kissing but Christian sympathy, and discern no spirit in it but elevated religious devotion. Now, we confess we are not pure enough to be stone blind. We are not to be "honi soit" out of our senses, and knowledge of human nature. We do not think that polkaing has a power to steady the reason or that waltzing gives a paralytic vertigo to animal nature, or that the German shuffles in to a region of pure elevation inaccessible to the passions. We do not think that gross impropriety becomes harmless because they are "fashionable." We think of the Waltz much as Byron did, who was not a Puritan. The opinion of the Catholic Council derives great weight from the fact that it is based upon the information obtained in the Confessional from one end of the country to the other. The effect of these dances upon the mind and morals, with us is an inference; with them it is a disclosure; and we do not know how its weight is to be resisted by the votaries of the fashion. In the meantime, as the young Protestants, very properly decline to confess to us, we will help them to confess themselves by asking the lasses who tell us that they only waltz with their brothers. Why?

ECCLESIASTICAL INVASION.

The following article we take from a recent number of the St. Louis Christian Advocate:

On the first page of this paper may be found a statement as to the General Missionary appropriations of the M E Church (North), followed by some remarks thereon. After that statement was put in type there came to this office a paper containing a statement of the particulars of that appropriation, from which it is learned that there were appropriated under the head of "American Domestic Missions" the following sums—

Baltimore Conference, contingent at the discretion of the Bishop,	$22,000
Holston Conference,	23,000
Kentucky Conference	15,000
Contingent at discretion of B'p	2,000
Mississippi Conference	22,400
Contingent	5,000
Missouri and Arkansas Conference,	30,000
Contingent	20,000
South Carolina Conference,	25,000
Tennessee Conference	45,000
Texas Conference,	10,000
Contingent	6,000
Virginia and N. Carolina Conf.	20,000
For Church in New Orleans	25,000
For Churches elsewhere in South	45,000
Total appropriations in the South,	$315,400

This includes contingencies which may or may not be used, at the discretion of the Bishop. A pretty round sum to be given for the propagation of ecclesiastical radicalism. It will be observed that the largest appropriation, including contingent, has been made to the Missouri and Arkansas Conference, from which it may be inferred they regard the claims of this Conference as of a very pressing character. If this paper—the St. Louis Christian Advocate—were not published in the bonnds referred to, the demands on the missionary funds of the Northern Church might not be so great; but the paper cannot afford to stop in order to save them expense. They must bear that expense as best they can, while the paper will continue its honest efforts to do them justice, tho very thing, perhaps, they most fear. Meanwhile it will be seen whether money, on the one hand, or truth and righteousness on the other, will have the greater effect with the people of Missouri and Arkansas. This paper only asks an open road and fair play.

Is There no Truth in Them?

In the North-Western Christian Advocate of Nov. 21, there is the following statement:—

The Southern Book Concern looks much dilapidated, and within is not in good order. There is a small stock of books on hand, but the present management will do its utmost to build up and develop trade.

The above allusion to the Southern Methodist Publishing House is from the pen of a Rev. Mr. Eddy, a Northern Methodist preacher, who recently visited Nashville for the purpose of aiding in the dedicatory services of a Northern Methodist Church. It surely would have been modest for him to have said but little in reference to any of our interests here; yet if talk and write he must, he ought to tell the truth. He was not in the Book Room—he did not see the books on hand. He had no chance of deciding as to the order they were in, and hence would have acted wisely to have been as reticent about this interest of our Church as he states himself to have been in the room of the Editor.

His attack on Dr. Summers, who is at present absent, is of the same ultra character—exhibiting, in his own elastic language, a feeling that "shames virtue, imbrutes humanity, and defies God."

A. H. Redford Agent.

GEORGIA CONFERENCE.

SECOND DAY.

The Conference met at 9 o'clock this morning. Religious services conducted by Rev J C Simmons. Bishop McTyeire in the chair.

After some reports, which were referred to appropriate committees, the Conference took up the special order of the day, viz: the examination and passage of the character of Elders.

During the progress of business a question was raised with reference to parlor dancing. After some discussion, the following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That this Conference disapprove of Dancing in every form, public and private; and that we will prohibit it in members of our own family, and discourage it to the utmost of our ability in the families of our respective charges.

Whatever differences of opinion may exist as to the criminality of dancing under the parental eye, and surrounded by the most favorable circumstances, this Conference is decided and unanimous in the opinion that it should be strongly and uniformly discouraged.

Rev A T Mann, D D, an able minister of the New Testament, long identified with the institutions and enterprises of the church in Georgia, to whose solid fame he has contributed a large share, is about to sever his connection with that body. His services have been solicited out West, and Bishop Paine has transferred him to the Memphis Conference, and appointed him to Wesley Chapel, Memphis. The Georgia Conference testified their high appreciation of this their brother by going out in mass last night to hear him preach, though the weather was very inclement. His sermon on the occasion was one of great power and pathos, electrifying the audience, making them regret more and more his departure from them.

THIRD DAY.

Conference met at the usual hour. Religious services by Rev C W Key.

The examination of Elders was proceeded with. It was found that the following members had withdrawn from the M. E. Church South in order to adhere to the M. E. Church: J W Yarbrough, C W Parker, R H Waters, John Murphy, and Alfred Dorman—these and one more are all of that church that are resident among us; too many, but less than might have been reasonably expected. They have only one small white congregation in the State; they have a few colored congregations without houses of worship.

The question of the division of the Conference was taken up, but not disposed of.

Nothing of general interest transpired on the fourth day.

Next day was Sabbath. At our Annual Conference it is always a day of interest. To-day there were some points of special attraction. First, a new Bishop to preach at the morning hour. The crowd was great; the preacher, calm and self-poised, met fully the expectation of the audience. At the African Church, in the afternoon, the Bishop ordained eight colored Deacons and one colored Elder. The ordination gave great satisfaction to the colored members of the Church present. They expressed themselves as now confirmed in the opinion that the M E Church South means something by the resolutions expressive of favor to their race.

THE REMAINING DAYS OF THE SESSION.

The question of the division of the Conference was taken up, and occupied a large part of two days. The debate was conducted with remarkable moderation and good temper; and when finally decided, the line of division was fixed without the slightest manifestation of bad feeling. Considering the interests involved in the division, the claims and relations affected by it, and the almost equal division of sentiment on the subject, there being but seventeen majority for the division,—the harmony was beautiful. The new lines run from Pine Mountain, on the Chattahoochee, across the State to the lower edge of Richmond county, on the Savannah river. Columbus, Macon and Savannah are in the South Georgia Conference.

Upon Change of the Name of the Church, the vote stood: yeas 109; nays 3. On Lay Representation, yeas 116, nays 16. This vote will be changed somewhat before the close, as it is still open.

The Conference was favored for two days with the presence of their long-loved and venerated Bishop Andrew, who, on several occasions, addressed the Conference with great kindness and good sense. His health is as good as it has been for several months. He preached last night to the comfort and satisfaction of many old friends.

Bishop McTyeire, as a presiding officer, has given the body entire satisfaction. He is calm, clear-sighted, impartial, prompt and decisive. I think the Georgia Conference, without a single exception, regard him as fully equal to his position.

On the seventh day, the statistical report was read. The increase in membership during the year was 2,903 lay members, besides an addition of 19 white and 20 colored Local Preachers.

Rev J E Evans introduced a resolution suggestive of the best mode of appointing preachers to their work the coming year, and also allowing the two Conferences the privilege of changing their names at a future time, if desirable. The motion was laid on the table.

The action of the General Conference upon the subject of freedmen, was fully endorsed.

The action of the American Bible Society was favorably noticed and recommended, and Rev G J Pearce suggested as future Agent for the Society amongst us.

The following brethren were admitted on trial: A W William, Robert R Thomson, James Lewis, W M C Connelly, W F Robinson.

W F Smith, R Stripling, T A Farr, J Scaife, were re-admitted.

J L Pierce, R A Seale, H P Pitchford, M Calhoun and — Duncan, were superannuated.

RICHMOND.

Americus, Dec. 6th, 1866.

APPOINTMENTS.

Savannah District.—W Knox, Presiding Elder; Savannah, Trinity, T J Corley; Isle Hope and city mission, A M Wynn; Mariner's Church, C J Oaln; Springfield circuit, D R McWilliams; Sylvania circuit, J M Stokes; Bethel and col'd charge, T A Pharr; Waynesboro, J M Austin; Habersham, Bethany and Burke colored charge, T B Lanier; Louisville circuit, F E Reynolds; Concord co'd charge, H B Murphy; Millensville circuit, J E Scntell; Bryan circuit, W B McHan; Darien and McIntosh, S A Clark; Reidsville circuit, S B Payne, W F Conly, supernumerary; Ohoopie Mission, S S Simmons; Statesboro, to be supplied by W H Rogers.

Rome District.—A G Haygood, Presiding Elder; Rome, A M Thigpen; Cave Spring circuit, J W Aldly; Cedar Town, to be supplied; Manassas circuit, C A Evans; Kingston circuit, W P Rivers; Calhoun circuit, R M Jones; Spring Place circuit, to be supplied by Wm. Heath; Lafayette, W T Hamilton; Dalton, J T Norris; Whitfield, B J Johnson; Ringgold, J L Lupo; Summerville, W A Parks; Etowah, to be supplied by T M Pledger.

Milledgeville District.—J C Simmons, Presiding Elder; Milledgeville, W P Pledger; Eatonton, J W Hinton; Putnam circuit, J W Knight and R R Johnson; Monticello and colored charge, D Kelsey; Clinton circuit, W P Arnold; Jackson circuit, W C Rowland; Liberty Hill circuit, to be supplied by J R Smith; Forsyth station, S T Payne; Forsyth circuit, W G Allen.

Macon District.—D D Cox, P E; Macon, Mulberry street, J S Key and J W Burke; First street, W F Robinson; Knoxville circuit, J B Smith; Jeffersonville circuit, W S Baker; Irwinton and Gordon circuit, N D Moorehouse; Sandersville circuit, J D Anthony, one to be supplied; Snadersville colored charge, to be supplied by S Bell; Gibson circuit, W Lane; Dublin circuit, C A Moore; Jacksonville circuit, to be supplied by W D Busey; Mt. Vernon, W M C Conley; Swainboro, L P Neese; E H Myers, Editor S C Advocate; S M Bonnell, President of the W F College.

Elberton District.—D J Myrick, P. E. Elberton circuit, J H Grogan; Elbert, E G Murrah; Jefferson, M F Maisby, A W Williams; Madison Springs, W T Norman; Honor circuit, C H Ellis; Hartwell, Britton Saunders; Clarkesville circuit, F G Hughes; Clayton Miss., H Cranford; Gainesville circuit, W T Caldwell.

Augusta District.—W H Potter, Presid. Elder; Augusta, St. Johns, A Wright; St. James, G H Pattillo; Asbury, C W Key; Harisburg Miss. J S Hopkins; Trinity, to be supplied by Ned West; Richmond and col'd charge, J A Reynolds, D W Calhoun, sup.; Columbia and colored charge, S Rush, R A Bonnor sup.; Warrenton circuit, J M Dickey, J T Curtis, sup.; Hancock, Jos Lewis, sen; Sparta, A J Jarrail; County Line, J V M Morris; L Pierce, agent Sunday Schools North Georgia Conference.

Columbus District.—R B Lesten, Presiding Elder; Columbus, St. Luke, J E Evans; Girard and Wesley chapel Mission, J R Littlejohn; St. Paul, J O A Clark; Muscogee circuit, W W Oslin; Upatoi Mission, W W Tidwell; Butler circuit, G S W Anthony; Talbotton and colored charge, R W Dixon; Talbot circuit, C A Fulwood; Hamilton, A J Dean; Harris colored charge to be supplied by F W Brannon; Lanier circuit, W Brooks; Ellaville, R F Williamson.

Lumpkin District.—L J Davies, P. E.; Lumpkin and Green Hill, G Yarbrough; Cuthbert and Georgetown, J O A Cook; Randolph, J Scaife and one to be supplied; Fort Gaines, B J Baldwin; Stewart, G T Turner and one to be supplied; Buena Vista, J T Ainsworth, T F Tignor sup.; Cuseeta, to be supplied by W Hanson; Weston circuit, P O'Driscoll; Lawson, T T Christian.

Atlanta District.—H J Adams P. E.; Atlanta, Wesley Chapel, W G Harrison and W J Scott; City Mission, J B Payne, W P Patillo; Trinity, W M Crumley, J F Craven, sup.; Atlanta circuit, W J Wardlaw; Decatur, W A Dodge; Covington and Oxford circuit, J J Singleton and W Maloy, M W Arnold, sup.; Yellow River circuit, W A Florence and A Gray; Monroe, W H Evans; Alpharetta, J R Gaines; Marietta, W P Cook; Acworth, to be supplied; Powder Springs circuit, C Trussell, A J Deavers, sup.; Lawrenceville circuit, J M Lowrey; Jos. Lewis, jr. Prof. in Emory College.

La Grange District.—J B McGehee, P. E.; LaGrange, E W Speer; Lagrange and West Point colored mission, to be supplied by E H Harris; Troup and colored, Y S L Harwell; West Point and Long Cane, P M Ryburn; Whiteville circuit and colored charge, W J Cotter; Greenville circuit and colored charge, F A Kimball, J Rust and J W McGehee; Coweta circuit and colored charge, F Jones; Newnan, P A Heard; Newnan and Flat Shoals mission, to be supplied by C Bush; Palmetto and Grantville, J T Lowe; Franklin circuit and colored charge, T J Embry; Honston mission to be supplied by J C Wright; Carrollton circuit, W C Dunlap and one to be supplied; Carrollton and colored mission to be supplied; Harrolson mission to be supplied by M D Norton; C G Pearce, Pres't LaGrange Female College and Bible Agent.

Griffin District.—G C Clark, P. E.; Griffin, R W Bigham; Zebulon circuit, F B Davies, R A Soales, sup.; Piko circuit and mission, M Beliah; Thomaston colored charge, J W Reynolds; Barnesville circuit and colored charge, W F Smith; Fayetteville circuit, R Stripling, and one to be supplied; McDonough and colored charge, J M Bright; Jonesboro, G T Embry; Culloden and colored charge, M H White; Campbellton circuit and Sandtown mission, James Jones; W A Rogers, Pres't Griffin Female College.

Athens District.—W R Franham, P. E.; Athens, H H Parks; Athens colored charge to be supplied by J R McClusky; Watkinsville and colored, A G Worley, and one to be supplied; Factory mission, to be supplied; Madison, George Kramer; Morgan and colored charge, W R Foote, and J L Peirce, sup.; Greensboro circuit, J W Tally and A Means, sup.; Green circuit, T F Peirce; Lexington and colored charge, A Hollifield; Washington, M Calloway; Broad River circuit, L L Ledbetter; Little River circuit, to be supplied by G G Norman; Lincolnton circuit, R J Herwell.

Dahlonega District.—W A Simmons, P E.; Dahlonega and Aurelia, G Hughes; Lumpkin circuit, Jos. Chambers; Cumming, L Q Allen, J H Washburne, sup.; Charlana circuit, to be supplied by N H Palmer; Hallsville and Morgantown, M G Hamby; Elijah circuit, to be supplied; Canton, J R Parker; Gwinnette, to be supplied by J Bradford.

Brunswick District.—J W Turner, P. E.

Bainbridge District.—Ocloconee Mission, J W Simmons; Millen circuit, J B Wardlaw; Newton and Colquitt Station, T B Hudson.

Quitman District.—Marvin circuit, P C Harris; Groveaville circuit, Jas. Harris.

Americus District.—C R Jewett, P. E; sup.; Bethel, W M D Bond; Magnolia Springs, B E Breedlove; Oglethorpe and Montezuma, to be supplied; Fort Valley circuit, E A H McGehee; Perry Station, E P Burch; Hayneville circuit, J M Marshall; Vienna circuit, W M Watts; Hawkinsville Mission, J J Morgan and J W Traywick, sup.; Isabella, W T McMichael; Starkville circuit, G Bright.

S Anthony, Agent Sabbath School, South Georgia Conference.

R Arbogast, transferred to Holston Conference, President of the Martha Washington College.

R M Sanders and W S Turner, transferred to Mobile Conference.

A T Mann was transferred to Memphis conference, and stationed at Wesley chapel in Memphis.

Next conference, to be held for North Georgia Conference at Atlanta.

Southern Conference, Savannah.

REVIVAL IN SAVANNAH.

Rev. Bishop Andrew in a recent letter to the Baltimore Episcopal Methodist, written from Savannah, says: "I am present in this city of graves, assisting the preacher in a protracted meeting. Truly the Lord has been good to this Church; He has been graciously pouring out of His Holy Spirit abundantly upon them. Two weeks ago, forty were admitted into the Church, and on yesterday, between thirty and forty were received, or signified publicly to the Pastor, their purpose to unite with the Church.—There is a fine state of feeling in the community, mourners press to the altar wherever there is an opening, and many are finding the Lord in the church at home. Yesterday there was a most solemn and impressive scene in the church; it was the regular day for the Church meeting, which took place in the afternoon, and I understand they had a very gracious time. It is said that almost every member was in attendance, and all the business well attended to.—They will bring up all the financial affairs of the Station. I was not present at this meeting, for having preached in the morning, and being announced again to-night, I thought it best to remain at home at that hour; but I was present in the morning, and have rarely enjoyed an hour of richer feeling. The Pastor called up those who were to be received into the church, and administered baptism to several who were as yet unbaptized. This solemn ordinance, impressively administered, was a suitable preparation for the services which followed.—I looked over the group who were about to take upon them the vows of Church-fellowship. Among them were old, greyheaded men, who had been utterly regardless of God till very recently. Now they were about to range themselves under the banners of the Prince of Peace. And there, too, were the young men, and maidens, and those of middle age, and some who stood there were children, who were taking Christ's yoke upon them in life's early morning. Oh, if they live long, and are faithful, how much good can they accomplish before the Master calls them. The Pastor affectionately examined them and received them into the fellowship of the Church, and then the writer, at his request, addressed them upon their new responsibilities and prospects, and almost unbroken silence pervaded the whole assembly, and many a tear among those admitted, attested the deep feeling of their hearts. This has been a year of great revivals throughout Georgia.—Thousands have united with the Church. Will they be properly cared for? Oh Pastors of the flock, feed and care for these lambs. God help you.

James O. Andrew.

Rain Drops on Mt. Lebanon.

Mr. Editor: I sent you sometime since the names of the undersigned parties who had answered to the Bishop's call for money to Mt. Lebanon Church, but inasmuch as they have not been published, I forward them again, and hope that you will give them room in the columns of the Advocate. I suppose the former list did not reach you:

Rev. A E Goodwyn, Franklin, La.	$1 00
Mr John Cockerham, Sparta,	1 00
Rev. Wm. A. Smythe, "	1 00
Mr. Thomas Neal, "	1 00
James Allen, Sparta, La.	5 00
Believer in Heavenly Recognition, Benton, Miss.	2 00
Mrs. S Grounds, Minden, La.	1 00

Thos. J. Upton.

Christian England.—An English clergyman gives the following interesting statistics: "There are five millions of our fellow-countrymen who are living in open neglect of the means of grace. If all the people in what is called Christian England, who neglect the means of grace, were to be formed into a line standing shoulder to shoulder, they would stretch over fourteen hundred and fifty miles, or it would make nearly four rows reaching from London to Edinburgh; and it would take eighteen weeks for them to pass a given spot, at sixty a minute, six days of a week, of twelve hours each. Thus millions are, to all practical purposes, heathens. In Manchester there are 150,000 who habitually absent themselves from any place of public worship. In Birmingham there are 100,000 persons who never darken the doors of God's house. Look also at Liverpool. There we find a public house to every two hundred and sixty of the inhabitants; and apprehensions for crime are as one to every fifteen of the population. In Manchester there is a public house for every one hundred and fifty of the population, old and young, while there is but one sanctuary (including all sects, large and small, old and new) for every twenty-five hundred of the people. No fewer than fifty-four public-houses have sacred music on the Sabbath, and thus souls are lured to perdition to the strains of the 'Hallelujah Chorus' and 'The Heavens are Telling.' In that town 150,000 of the inhabitants never enter God's house, and Sabbath after Sabbath are living in the desecration of the Lord's day. Thus in Christian England we have a vast amount of heathenism, and, what is worse, practical atheism."

The Book Room of the British Conference reports that in circulation of books and in returns, the last year had been an advance of any former year. Several important works had been issued during the past year, and several interesting books were under consideration and in preparation for publication. The number of tracts circulated had been much increased, and the character and style of the works had been greatly improved. The total number of publications issued in the year had been 4,122,800. The number of periodicals circulated had been 1,732,000. Of hymn books 255,800. Of school and reward books upward of 500,000. The capital stock had been increased; and the Book Room in its several departments had been extended both at home and abroad.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

The following dispatches were received by the Times yesterday.

The Louisiana Radicals are persistent in efforts to have the State government set aside, and a territorial government substituted. Flanders, Durrant, Hiestand, Fish & Co, hold daily meetings on the subject, but there is little prospect that even the Radical Congress will heed such wild counsels. The only danger the South need apprehend come from Southern men.

The Committee appointed to investigate the New Orleans riots have been taking testimony here. Hiestand, Durant, Weed, Brooks, of the New York Times and others have been before them. The committee will leave on Monday for New Orleans, accompanied by Col. Ordway, the Sorgeant-at-Arms of the House.

Stevens to-day introduced a bill to establish civil government in North Carolina, which declares null the existing government, provides for a convention at Raleigh, on the 20th of May, 1867, of loyal delegates, to frame a Constitution to be submitted to Congress for approval, and gives negroes a vote in the election of delegates.

OBITUARIES.

ELLIOTT NORRIS HUTCHINSON, A. M., son of Rev J J Hutchinson, was born in Montgomery county, Ala, Dec 22nd, 1846, and died in Greensboro, Ala, Oct 6th, 1866. In the untimely death of this excellent youth, Alabama loses one of her most promising sons, Greensboro one of her brightest ornaments, and the Southern University her most distinguished Alumnus. He was eminent on account of his urbanity, his scholarship, his genius, and his piety. In early childhood, when only seven years old, he consecrated his life to Christ, by a profession of faith, and was admitted into the M E Church, of which he continued a consistent member until his death. In his intercourse with his fellow-students he was so courteous, and honest, and dignified, as to command their esteem and confidence. In his association with the Faculty of the University, he was lavariably respectful, attentive, and docile; so much so as to excite in all of them sentiments of profound esteem and admiration. In the family circle he was gentle, obedient, and affectionate. In the community he was so innocent in his life, so elegant in his manners, so useful in his influence, as to secure to himself the affectionate regards of all. On the 4th of last July, he completed his literary course, and was admitted to the degree of Master of the Liberal Arts; and the oration he delivered on that occasion to an admiring audience, will be remembered through many coming years. In August he was attacked by disease, and through a protracted illness of eight weeks he was devotional, patient, cheerful, and perfectly resigned to the will of God. His affectionate relations who nursed him, and his friends who visited him, will ever cherish refreshing recollections of what they saw and heard in his chamber. His death was as peaceful as an infant's sleep. He retained his reason to the last moment, and his expressions were full of instruction and comfort to his sorrowing friends.

The family of Rev J J Hutchinson has been deeply afflicted in the last three years by the death of three grown sons, all young gentlemen of liberal education and undoubted piety. James, the eldest son, an Alumnus of La Grange College, and an officer on the staff of Major General E. Rodes, was killed in the battle of Spattsylvania, C H. Joseph, the third son, an Alumnus of the University of Alabama, and a member of the 36th Alabama Infantry, was killed in the battle of Chicamauga. Now the family mourns the loss of the youngest son. But they do not mourn as those who have no hope: their loved ones are gone, but they are not lost.

E WADSWORTH.

Greensboro, Ala, Nov 14th, 1866.

Died, Nov 16th, 1866, near Macon, Noxubee Co, Miss. MRS MARY EILAND, daughter of the Rev L Massingale, of the Mobile Conference. The deceased was born January 18th, 1835, and professed faith in Christ, in the year 1850, at a meeting held at Soule Chapel, while her father was addressing a throne of grace in earnest faithful prayer, and remained a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, until the period of her death.

The life of our departed sister was marked by constant and energetic devotion to her duties, as wife, and mother, and the family circle from which she has been removed feel indeed, that a sad and painful vacuum has been made by her departure.

The death of our sister was calm and peaceful, and marked by a most unfaltering trust in her Saviour. With perfect composure, she gave directions concerning her death and burial, requesting her stricken husband, parents and relatives to restrain their grief, by the reflection that she was entirely prepared to meet the solemn change.

Calmly has she fallen asleep in Jesus, and the pure spirit of our sister rests in God.

Very truly may we say, with reference to the departed—

"Jesus can make a dying bed
Feel soft as downy pillows are,
While on his breast I lean my head,
And breathe my life out sweetly there."

J. BANCROFT.

DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.—The advertisement of this old established and favorite Southern College appears in our columns. It has been one of the institutions of New Orleans for a great many years; its able, persevering and indefatigable President—Rufus Dolbear—having founded it here in 1832, and steadily ever since, superintended its present enviable position. It has been working many years under a Charter from the Legislature of Louisiana, and its Trustees are among the oldest and most influential merchants of New Orleans. To the Dolbear College thousands of young men in the South and Southwest are indebted for a practical and useful education, obtained at a most moderate cost, as following exhibit from the pen of President Dolbear clearly explains:

"Cost of full Commercial Course at Dolbear College—Tuition, $145; board for three months, $90; contingent expenses, about $20—Total $225. After which the student is ready to go into business, and make $1,000, $2,000 or $3,000, annually.

Cost of Ordinary Library Colleges.—About $400 per annum, for four years, or $1,600; clothing for four years, $200, or $800—total $2,400—and four years of time expended. Our student will begin to work after three or four months, and make, say the first year, about $1,200; and two years and nine months at probably $1,800, or $6,150 he earns in the four years. Deduct $255 leaves $5895 net gain to our student; but to the other a net expense of $2,400, or $8,295 our student has gained over the the other. We suppose the students in both cases to have a good English education to begin with. We deem a business education that enables the student to learn $1,000, $2,000, or $3,000, annually, to be the best fortune parents can give their sons."

There are also Special Professors of Apartments for English, French, Spanish, German, Latin, Greek, the higher Mathematics, etc., etc.

KNIGHT & CO.,
Dealers in
PLANTATION, MILL, & WOOD-WORKING
MACHINERY,
And Agricultural Implements

Keep constantly on hand a large assortment of articles peculiar to our business, and through our agents in the North and East, can fill promptly, and at a small advance above manufacturer's prices, all orders for articles in our line not usually kept in this market

The great change in our labor system necessitates a corresponding change in the Implements used, and we have prepared ourselves to offer the latest improved

LABOR-SAVING MACHINES,

both for Agricultural and Mechanical purposes, at prices that will warrant their purchase.

Also, LEEDS & CO'S Sugar Kettles, Newell Screws, Gin Gearing, &c; and will contract for any kind of work done at their establishment, at their prices.

172 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
nl7 1y

A COUGH, A COLD, OR A SORE THROAT

Requires immediate attention, and should be checked. If allowed to continue,

Irritation of the Lungs, a Permanent Throat Disease, or Consumption

Is often the result.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES

Having a direct influence to the parts, give immediate relief.

For Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Consumptive and Throat Diseases,

Troches are used with always good success.

SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS

will find Troches useful in clearing the voice when taken before Singing, or Speaking, and relieving the throat after an unusual exertion of the vocal organs. The Troches are recommended and prescribed by Physicians, and have had testimonials from eminent men throughout the country. Being an article of true merit, and having proved their efficacy by a test of many years each year finds them in new localities in various parts of the world, and the Troches are universally pronounced better than other articles.

OBTAIN only "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," and do not take any of the Worthless Imitations that may be offered. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

DR. FURMAN,
PHYSICIAN & OBSTETRICIAN,
Residence and Office—199 Baronne,
Between Julia and Girod streets,
NEW ORLEANS.

References: Right Rev A Gregg, Bishop of Texas; Rev J C Keener, D D; Rev W H Bayliss D D; Hon J S Whitaker, Rev L Parker; Messrs Conrad & Son, and Rev J C Carpenter, New Orleans; Hon Geo Williamson, Shreveport; Dr D Yandell, Louisville, Ky. dec15 3m

CLOAKS!
F. ADAM,
(Formerly with C Yale, jun, & Co,)
MANUFACTURER & WHOLESALE DEALER
In Ladies' and Misses'
CLOTH AND SILK CLOAKS,
No. 76 Canal Street—Up Stairs.
NEW ORLEANS.

Don't trust to glaring advertisements in the newspapers, but go to THE FACTORY itself, if you want good Goods at fair prices. nl0 2m

LATEST FASHIONS.

Call for
J W BRADLEY'S
DUPLEX ELLIPTICAL
[Or, Double Spring]
SKIRT!

THEY WILL NOT BEND OR BREAK

Like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary Skirts are thrown aside as useless—hence are the CHEAPEST.

Each Hoop is made by braiding two springs together, edge to edge, forming the STRONGEST, most FLEXIBLE, and still the LIGHTEST Hoop made.

In fact, for promenade, or the house, or the church, the theatre, or for crowded assemblies, railroad cars, carriages, etc., they are superior to all others, affording COMFORT TO THE WEARER, with that ELEGANCE OF SHAPE which wins favor with all, and has made the

"DUPLEX ELLIPTIC"

The Standard Skirt of the Fashionable World.

For misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

For Sale Everywhere.

Manufactured exclusively by the owners of the Patent,

WESTS, BRADLEY & CARY,
97 Chambers, 79 and 81 Reade sts, New York.

CAUTION.

The Duplex Skirt will admit a pin being run through the centre of each hoop, thereby proving there are TWO SPRINGS braided together therein, which is the secret of their remarkable STRENGTH and FLEXIBILITY—a combination not possessed by any SINGLE-SPRING Skirt.

The red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. BRADLEY'S Duplex Elliptic Springs," will be found upon the waistband of every Skirt; none other are genuine. n24 6m

THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND FOR 1867.

PRICE REDUCED.

THE CHILDREN'S FRIEND is published Semi-Monthly, by the Presbyterian Committee of Publication, with the co-operation of the Sunday School Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church South of the city of Richmond and vicinity. The design is to make it a good, useful, and entertaining Sabbath School Journal for circulation in the Sabbath Schools of all Evangelical denominations.

TERMS:

From and after the 1st of January, 1867, the terms will be as follows:

1 copy for one year	$ 50
10 copies for one year, to one address	4 00
20	7 00
30	10 00
50	15 00

All over 50 copies at the same rate.

MONTHLY EDITION.

A monthly edition will be issued at the following rates:

10 copies for one year, to one address	$2 00
20	3 00
30	5 00
50	7 50

All above 50 copies at the same rates.

ORDERS FOR THE PAPER, should be addressed to W. HARGRAVE WHITE, Box 429, Richmond, Virginia. dec1, 2t;

CLOTHING. CLOTHING.

For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.

Now receiving and opening for inspection, at

R. PITKIN'S
FASHIONABLE
CLOTHING EMPORIUM,
Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,

The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior

READY-MADE CLOTHING,
AND
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS

Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:

Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,

Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.

A large assortment of superior French Clothe, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,

FOR CUSTOM WORK.

He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,

MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,

as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS

To his

Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing

suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.

Also a large assortment of

YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,
TRUNKS,
VALISES,
CARPET-BAGS,
UMBRELLAS, ETC.

A call from the public is respectfully solicited.

R. PITKIN,
Fashionable Clothing Emporium,
13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15
oct13 3m

ROBERT SLARK, ISAAC H. STAUFFER, WM. A. KENT, CHAS. MACREADY
SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,
No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsière St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.
Importers and Dealers in
HARDWARE:
Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws
MILL STONES,
INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND,
PLANTATION SADDLERY, Etc.
Constantly on hand a large assortment of
AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS
Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrett & Cottmnn, for Sugar and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert King, "Chrey," for Cotton; Peoria Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.
Agents for the Vieille Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. o13 1y

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES.
Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in EARTHENWARE,
GLASS, CHINA,
JAPAN WARE,
PLATED WARE,
SILVER WARE,
FINE TABLE CUTLERY,
WATER PURIFIERS,
HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.
All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.
No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.
L. ELKIN,
3, Carondelet Street, 3.
Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior
WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN
CARPETS,
RUGS,
WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,
And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damaske, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Commission and Forwarding Merchants,
122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row,
NEW ORLEANS.
E B Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. oc13 6m

H. P. ETHELL, New Orleans. NAT. H. THOMAS, Late of Alabama.
ETHELL & THOMAS,
FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.
Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.
No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.
Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country.
Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sep1 6m

J. W. BURNINGE. THOS. D. MILLER
J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
No. 199 CHARTER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep1 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. W M Owen. E Owen
LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 6m

B. S. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.
B. S. HARPER & CO.,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,
GROCER,
And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,
s16 6m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally, 53 Gravier street, New Orleans.
sep15 1y

H M WRIGHT. O W ALLEN (1st August, 1866) J HIDDLESTON
WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
169 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, Memphis, Tenn. JAMES M. ALLEN, PERRY NUGENT, New Orleans
T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,
(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 1y

P F FOLGER, L FOLGER, W H THOMAS
FOLGER & CO.,
Dealers in
Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,
37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
(Opposite the St James Hotel)

Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
27 Camp Street, New Orleans.
WM. EDWARDS.
EDWD. J. GAY. sep15 3m

W A VIOLETT. R Y BLACK. S H SNOWDEN.
VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
s15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. B. LOTT, Madison County, Miss. O. W. WOOD, Canton, Miss.
LOTT, WOOD & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers & Commision Merchants
65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Maj. G. C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E A BANKS, W W LORING, O W VENABLE
BANKS, LORING & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
26 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 6m

R ATKINSON & CO: New York. JAMES HEWITT & CO., Liverpool.
HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And Commission Merchants,
188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWIENER & CO., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,
(Successor to FELLOWES & CO.)
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
166 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., New York. LEWIS, NANSON & CO., St. Louis.
OBER, ATWATER & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
38 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep15 1y

S. M. SWENSON, N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. W. M. PERKINS, D. L. KERNION, Of Perkins & Co., N.O.
PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street.
NEW ORLEANS.

SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
20 Exchange Place, New York.
s29 0m

EDW'D NALLE, W. C. DAY.
NALLE, DAY & CO.
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,
108 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
o13 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,
Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants
186 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc13 6m

E S KEEP. I. CAULFIELD.
KEEP & CAULFIELD,
Western Produce,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.
oc13 1y

HENRY WARE, Of Texas. WM. H. WARE, Of Texas.
H. WARE & SON,
Cotton and Wool Factors,
AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 03 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
oc13

JOB PRINTING.
COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,
SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,
PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,
And everything else in the line of job printing, executed in
The Very Best Style, at Moderate Prices.
Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

J. H. MASSEY,
(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.,)
WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,
No. 100 Common Street,
Opposite City Hotel.

I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination, on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please any and all of my old friends and patrons, and also including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.
Very respectfully,
oc13 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,
Wholesale and Retail Dealer in
FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE
DRY GOODS.
Also, a large and varied supply of
HOUSEKEEPING and
PLANTATION GOODS,
Constantly on hand, at
126 Canal Street,
sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ST JAMES HOTEL,
MAGAZINE STREET,
Between Gravier and Natchez Streets,
NEW ORLEANS, LA.
CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.

This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.

It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof, Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquors equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, as far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.

The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expense to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.
n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,
Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of
TINWARE,
Also,
COOKING AND HEATING STOVES
Of all kinds, for sale.
25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,
Corner Customhouse street,
oct20 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co. JOHN W. MADDEN,
P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,
General Mercantile Stationers,
JOB PRINTERS, AND
BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,
No. 73 Camp Street.

We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.

We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 3m

D. H. HOLMES,
Direct Importation of
FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,
AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.
No. 155 Canal Street,
sep1 6m NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,
82..... Baronne Street,.....82
Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALEY,
Dealer in
PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,
GUITARS, VIOLINS,

And other musical instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper—in fact everything belonging to music trade.

The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. BURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.

Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.

Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.

Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.

Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.

Music neatly bound.

P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 6m

STOVES, GRATES, TIN WARE,
AND
HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.

The undersigned offer for sale an assortment of COOKING STOVES, embracing among the lot the well known Charter Oak, the Brilliant, the Peerless, the American Home, and others of the latest improvement.

Also, a large lot of HEATING and PARLOR STOVES, a large variety of GRATES, and of COUNTRY HOLLOW WARE, etc.

We manufacture all our own Tin Ware, and sell cheap.

CAMPMAN & CO.,
nl0 6m 115 Poydras st, bet. Camp & Magazine

CENTENARY COLLEGE,
Jackson, Louisiana,
was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845. It is now under the joint patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.

The College exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed, after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.

Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.

Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month

The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.

The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.

The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.

The old students, alumni, and friends of the Institution, are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.

W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,
GREENSBORO, ALA.
The exercises of this institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught.

TERMS:

Tuition fees per term	$40 00
Contingent fee	5 00

Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month
aug4ft W M WIGHTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.
The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.
The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.
TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $40.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March,
Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.
Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.
Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D., New Orleans, La.
As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.
W. H. N. MAGRUDER.
Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE
FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmer; Miss Jemima Constantine.
The Fall Session of this institution will open on the 26th day of September next.
This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattresses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.
The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.
TERMS:
For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—

Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00
Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.
The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.
After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.
For other information address
CHARLES B. STUART, President,
ang4ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M.,	President, Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal.
Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Maxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.
Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.
Board, with English Tuition, at $35 per quarter.
The next session commences 10th September.
Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to A. J. WRIGHT.
D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.
jy14 0m

GUSTAVE VOM HOFE,
Manufacturer of Upright Pianos,
807 MAGAZINE ST., NEW ORLEANS.
Pianos sold at moderate prices, with five years guarantee.
One of these Pianos has just been awarded a Medal at the recent Louisiana State Fair, for superior richness of tone and great durability.
dec1 1y

COAL OIL AND LAMPS.
HILL & VEAZIE,
Having removed from No 31 Chartres street to No 74 Camp street, have received large additions to their former stock, making their assortment of Coal Oil Lamps, and all the articles needful to use with them, very extensive; together with COAL OIL CHANDELIERS from two to six lights, suitable for lighting Churches, large Halls, Parlors, etc; and every variety of Lanterns from the small Hand to the large Station. FISH'S PATENT COOKING LAMPS for coal oil and gas, very useful and economical; also EDDIE'S COOKING STOVES, assorted sizes, heated by coal oil; with many other useful and convenient articles.
Always on hand the best Kerosene and Coal Oil manufactured.
Call and examine.
HILL & VEAZIE,
No 74 Camp street,
n1y Between Natchez street and Times Office

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.
Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 163 Camp street, New Orleans.
When was it established? 1850.
Who is its General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev W H Bayliss.
Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.
What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.
What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.
What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans: then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.
What are the terms of membership?
The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.
The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.
The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.
The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.
The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.
Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not: to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S: by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.
Our last thought is the heart cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a25 1y.

WHITWORTH COLLEGE,
FOR YOUNG LADIES,
Is located at Brookhaven, Miss. It is under the immediate care of Rev. Geo. F. THOMPSON, and under the supervision of the Mississippi Conference. The Board of Visitors consists of Rev. B. Jones, Rev. W. Millsaps, Rev. George H. Clinton, and Rev. William Price—all members of that Conference.
Its course of instruction is as complete as that of any other institution for the education of females in the State, and is sufficient to accomplish all that can be desired by the friends of our Church.
The exercises of the first term of its next session will begin on the first Monday in September 1866, and ends Jan. 31, 1867.
For further particulars apply to the Rev. G. F. Thompson, Brookhaven, Miss. a18ft

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp St, corner Natchez—open day and evening.
This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, Book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.
For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address
f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address
f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

TURNER & COHEN,
Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,
NO. 57 CAMP STREET.
Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.
These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.
The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of this city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER
And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,
61 Camp street, New Orleans.
Cartes de Visite,
Hallotypes, Ambrotypes,
Pictures on Porcelain,
And every description of Pictures known to the Art.
All kinds of Photographic Materials at the lowest price for cash. sep1 1y

THOS. B. BODLEY & CO.,
No. 9 Perdido Street, New Orleans,
Dealers in all descriptions of
MILL AND PLANTATION MACHINERY,
AND AGRICULTURAL INSTRUMENTS.
Sole Agents in the Southwest for the celebrated Wood & Mann Steam Engines, 4 to 35 horse power; Coleman's Corn and Wheat Mills; Straub's Corn and Wheat Mills, Smut Machines, Bolting Cloth; Todd's Circular Saw Mills; Wool Carding Machines, Flowery Machines; Stafford Sulky Cultivators; Stanley Gang Plows; Plows, W

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

The Sun's Work.

"What a master the sun is to be sure!" How he does keep things a moving! He makes the wind blow; he makes the water flow; he makes the grass grow; and—but I haven't told you how I found out about the grass.

One evening I went down cellar to get a slice of bread and a piece of meat for a "cold snack," as we call it. I had thin slippers on my feet, and as I walked across the floor in the dark, I trod on something long and round and slender; it crushed under my foot with a juicy sort of squirm, so that I thought I must have trodden on a nice, crisp little snake. Having eaten my bread and meat I went to bed. When morning came, I went down cellar, where my bath room is, to take a cold plunge, and then I saw what I had trodden on—a long white potato sprout. It had got out of the bin, and stretched out toward the window, long, pale, thin, and sickly. It had got half way to the light when I trod on it, and smashed all its hopes.

I pitied the poor straggler, and took up the bruised body, and laid it back tenderly in the bin.

As I did so, I noticed that the potatoes were holding a meeting, and consulting what to do. They were gathered up together in a pile, and every eye was turned anxiously toward the light.

"How plainly I can see it," said one; "if I cou'd only get there I know I should grow."

"But we can not get there, in the trouble," said a fat potato, who was on top of the heap, "no good comes of stretching out to get to the light."

"Well, I am sure I can't help trying; something in me makes me feel as if I should burst, every time I look over yonder toward the window. At any rate, I'm going to try it to-morrow. I'm going to open my eyes wide, and send out a feeler, and see what the chance is any how."

"Chance!" said a feeble voice, "chance I I felt so once; but look at me now." And all the potatoes turned their eyes to look at the speaker, who was too feeble to come to meeting, but lay off at the edge of the bin, all shriveled up, with a bruised and bleeding sprout coiled around her. She continued—"Yes, look at me. I am nearer to the light than any of you. I always have been. I have more eyes than any of you. I was the plumpest potato in all the bin. I slept soundly, and lay still. I was fat and contented till, one day I saw that light you are talking about. After that I couldn't shut my eyes. I felt as if every thing inside of me wanted to get out. I tried to roll over, but I couldn't, and so one day I let one of my eyes stretch wide open, and struck it out a little ways, to see plainly. But when it got started it couldn't stop. It kept pulling and sucking, stretching and growing, till it sucked out all my blood and used up all my flesh, but nothing came of it. This very morning it all came back to me, long, pale, blind, and bleeding, and I am a tired-out, used-up potato. Better shut your eyes, for no good comes from looking over yonder. I wish I could have found out what that light is, though, and where it comes from; but I can't, I'm too weak!" and the old lady closed her eyes light, but there was a little wet round every eye. My cook said, "Them taters is all a rottin." But I knew they were only weeping because they wanted to grow and could n't.

"There," said the big potato on top of the heap, "that is just what I told you. Better be contented. My eyes don't trouble me. Keep together in a heap and you won't see any thing."

"Hear! hear! hear!" called out a hundred thick voices down in the dark, and all the stupid potatoes thumped on the bottom of the bin, till it shook again.

"Keep in the dark, and you won't have any trouble; this meeting is adjourned."

Then the big potato settled down into the dark among the rest, whose eyes never trouble them. But as many as sixty or seventy rolled down on the outside of the heap, and began staring at the window till their eyes struck out an inch, and they said, "What is it? What shall we do?"

The next day I took a basket and went down cellar and picked over the potatoes. Those that had their eyes open I put in the basket. All the other ones, who had their eyes screwed up tight, I tucked away in the dark. And every day my cook goes down and gets a dozen of them to roast or boil. But all the watchful ones, which I put in the basket, I have brought up and planted in my garden.

And every still moonlight night now, I hear the green vines whispering to each other about their pretty purple blossoms with orange centers. "How different it is here!" "What fun it is to grow!" "I am big enough to cover a hen's nest with six eggs." And when I went to the hill where I planted the poor old lady who sprouted so in the cellar, I found the leaves soberly talking together about thirteen little potatoes that were hanging on their roots, and they were growing every day.

"Who feeds them?" asked I.

"We do," said the leaves.

"How do you get your own living?" asked I.

"When the sun shines the air feeds us, and we grow, and when it is night we keep a saying, the light is better than the dark. We love to grow in the sunshine; and, sir, do you know what has becomo of those other potatoes who kept their eyes shut?"

"They are all wasted," said I. "But what has made you grow so?" And every vine in the field, and every blade of grass, and all the corn, and the great hickory-tree around the garden, sang out together,

We are children of the light,
And the sun in its might,
Thrill us through with delight.

And the wind came along to listen, saying,

And the sun sent here;
To join your good cheer.

Then the gentle rain came down, patter, patter, patter.

Go up, go down, go here, go there,
The sun is working every-where.

The Living Link.

A Hebrew maiden was the living link between Naaman and the God of Israel. In almost every Sabbath-school there are some children of godless parents who scarcely keep a Sabbath, and never go to church. How may these children be the means of carrying the gospel into their homes? One way is to give them some questions to ask their parents. Little Mary asked her teacher, "Does God have eyes?" His reply was, "Suppose you ask your mother that question, and if she cannot tell, then get your Bible, and it will tell you."

"Mother, does God have eyes?" was soon asked in a godless house. "How should I know?" was the rude reply, "I never saw God." Mary thought of her lesson; and answered, "The Bible says God sees you."

"Where does it says so?" inquired the mother, quite startled. Mary took her Bible and found the words, "The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good." That mother began to think. In a few days she was an inquirer for salvation. Mary was a golden link between her and her God.

A heathen boy of about eight years was at a mission station in South Africa. His father came to take him away, wanting him to herd cattle. The child objected, saying, "There is nothing good where father lives." His father replied, "What can such a thing as you are learn here?" The lad looked him in the face and said, "Father, I have learned something." "Repeat it, then." "Father, it is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation, that Jesus Christ came into the world to save sinners." Does father know who Jesus is? He is the Son of God. Does father know who are sinners? All are sinners." The child was left and father went home, but returned in a few weeks a changed man, saying that he "had met with the precious Word of God."—S. S. Teacher.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Since the publication of our last issue the general market has disclosed a fair degree of animation, and several of the leading articles have undergone a material variation. Sugar and molasses have been active, although at declining rates, and the movement in Western Produce has exhibited considerable vitality, attended by increased improvement in flour, and a further weakness in corn and pork; while operations in our leading staple have been on an extended scale, at prices indicating an advance upon the rates obtained by factors in the early part of the week.

COTTON — On Yesterday the market opened with a restricted enquiry, but after the tenor of the news from Liverpool had become generally known, the movement became quite excited, and notwithstanding factors materially enhanced their pretensions, yet buyers came forward with increased spirit, the market closing with a strong upper tendency.

Low	— to —
Ordinary	26 to 27
Good Ordinary	28 to 29
Low Middling	30 to 31
Middling	32 to —

TOBACCO — The market is quiet but very firm:

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to 4	Currency.
Good do	4½ to —	— to 4½
Common Leaf	5½ to —	— to 6½
Fair	10 to —	— to 12
Good	12½ to —	— to 14
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec'e	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—There were sales on Saturday and Monday of 750 hogsheads at 8 to 8½c for Inferior, 8¾ to 9c for Common, 9¼ to 9¾c for Fair, 10¼ to 10¾c for Fully Fair, 11 to 11½c for Prime, 12c for Choice, 10½ to 11c for Seconds, 12c for Yellow clarified, 12½ to 13c for White. Yesterday there was a good demand and prices ruled more in favor of sellers.

MOLASSES — Have continued in good demand, and the receipts have sold readily at an decline in prices of about 9 to 10c per gallon. Yesterday there was a small demand, at 40c for inferior, 45c for Common, 50 to 52½c for Good, 58c for Prime and 60 to 61 for Choice.

FLOUR — The market opened with a good demand, within the range of the following quotations: Fine $9 50 to $10 25, Superfine $10 50 to $10 75, Single Extra $11 25 to $12 25, Double do at $12 50 to $13 12½, Treble do $13 25 to $14, Choice do $14 25 to $15 50 per barrel. Yesterday about 1500 barrels were disposed of at $10 50 to $10 75 for Superfine, $11 for Choice do, $11 87½ for Single Extra, $12 for Low double Extra, $13 for double do, and $14 75 for treble do.

PORK — There has been some demand, at $24 per bbl. Old Mess commands $25. Dealers are supplying the trade at $25 for the former, and $26 00 for the latter.

LARD—The market has been very dull, our quotations are as follows—Prime in tierces 12½c, do in kegs 13c per lb.

CORN—Yesterday there were sales of about 9000 sacks in lots at 90c for New, and $1 10 per bushel for Old.

OATS.—With an active demand and light supply, prices present a further improvement at 75c per bushel.

BRAN—The supply is only moderate, and we still quote at $1 40 to $1 45 per 100 lbs.

HAY—The demand is fair, at $27 50 per ton for Prime Ohio River, $28 for Fair St. Louis, and $29 for Prime do.

IRON COTTON TIES—The stock is greatly reduced, but the demand is very active at 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—The supply in first hands is fair, and is held at 30c per yard in bales. Dealers are supplying the demand at 32c for rolls, and 32½c per yard for bales.

GUNNY BAGS—The movement is of a very limited character. The last sales reported were at 28½c a piece.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—Choice Western and Goshen are scarce at 30 to 35c per lb for the former, and 42 to 47c for the latter. Western Cheese is in fair supply, and is selling at 16 to 17c. Skim do is scarce at 15c.

RICE—There is no Carolina in market. The stock of Louisiana is heavy at 9½ to 12c per lb, according to quality. The supply of India is ample, and is held at 9½ to 12c for Choice.

COFFEE—There have been only a few small sales from second hands on the basis of 19½c, gold, for Prime Rio.

SALT—Prices within the past few days have shown a downward tendency, and we now quote Liverpool at $1 85 fur fine, and $1 80 for Coarse in warehouse.

NAVAL STORES—There is a good supply on hand, common Rosin at $4 00 to $4 50, No. 2, do at $5 00, and No. 1 do at $5 75 to $7 per bbl. Spirits Turpentine would bring 75c per gallon.

STAR CANDLES—Dealers are furnishing the trade at 20c for 12 oz, and 24c per lb for full weight.

WOOL—There is a good demand at 13 to 15c for Louisiana Native, 19 to 20c for Texas, ¼ to ½ Merino, 23 to 25c for do ½ to ¾ Merino, 13 to 15c per lb for hurry, and 28 to 31c per lb for washed.

HOPS—There is a very good demand for the new crop at 65 to 70c. Bavarian is scarce at 80c per lb.

HIDES—Are in small supply, but the demand is slack, tanners being unwilling to pay the present high rates. Prices are ruling at 10 to 10½c for Green, 10½ to 11c for Kip Skins, 13c per lb for Dry Hides. Mexican Dry Hides command 18 to 21c per lb., and Pelts 20 to 25c per piece.

BEANS—Western are selling at $6 to $7, while Northern are in demand at $10 to $12 50 per bbl.

OILS—There is some demand for Linseed at $1 65 to $1 70, Crude Cotton Seed at $1 05 to $1 10 and do Refined at $1 45 to $1 60 per gallon. ESCULENTS.—Potatoes are selling at $2 40 to $2 75 in sacks, and $3 00 to $3 50 per bbl; Onions $2 60 to $2 80 in sacks, and $3 to $3 25 in barrels, Green Apples at $5 to $8 per bbl. Cabbages are dull at $14 to $16 per crate.

POULTRY AND EGGS.—Chickens sell on the landing at $5 to $6 for the young and $10 to $12 00 per dozen for the large; Geese at $10 to $12, and Turkeys at $20 to $24 per dozen. Western eggs are selling at $30 to $33 per bbl.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY,
Wednesday evening, Dec. 11, 1866.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to —
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	8 to 10
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 45
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$10 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	8 to 11
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50 to $3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100 to $150
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 5 to $12
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

MONETARY.

The movement in Coin market has been rather restricted, and rates have continued comparatively steady. Gold opened on Saturday at 139, and nothing transpiring to stimulate the demand, it closed firm at the opening rate; it opened on Monday at 138 to 138¼, but subsequently improved and closed steady at 137½ to 138; and opened yesterday at 137, and without having exhibited any material change, closed at 137½ to 138.

W. G. COYLE & CO.,
COAL MERCHANTS,
Office: 142 Gravier street.
Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.

Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,
On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,
(In the Spacious and Elegant Story Building,)
Is constantly in session under able Professors. It was founded in 1832, and is chartered by the State. Its former students may be found as Principals or Book-keepers in a large portion of the old houses of this city and over the Southern States. Ladies or gentlemen can attend the COMMERCIAL COURSE; or Book-keeping, Penmanship, Mathematics, English, French or Spanish, separately. A business education, that enables one to earn $1000, $2000, or $3,000 annually, is the best fortune parents can give their sons. A DIPLOMA from this College is a passport in all Commercial communities. Ladies and Gentlemen are invited to call. We have ample arrangements for 1000 students the present year. Liberal arrangements made for Clergymen or their sons and crippled soldiers. Catalogues sent to all who desire them.
RUFUS DOLBEAR,
nov 17 1y President.

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.
RICHARD ANGELL,
156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles
PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,
Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.
Chill Drops, the best curative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c.; Bardotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,
(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)
Has established himself at No 109 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lebanon, Tenn — CHAS. S. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La
STEWART & BROTHER,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors,
General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,
NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
oc27 1y

J. R. POWELL,
COTTON FACTOR,
AND
COMMISSION MERCHANT,
190 Common Street,
W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & James. } NEW ORLEANS
☞ Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Duck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. G. ELLIS. — W. O. CHAMBERLIN
ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,
Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jan20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,
46 Carondelet street, New Orleans,
COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,
General Commission Merchants,
And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,
Wholesale Grocer,
Nos. 8 and 10 Tchonpitonlas Street,
And 8 and 10 New Levee,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,
MUSIC PUBLISHER,
Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nunns," "Guild" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c
oc27 6m 167 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. — D. M. HOLLINGSWORTH
R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,
CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,
Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,
f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

E. K. WALKER. — THOS. M'KNIGHT. — J. F JOHNSON.
R. K. WALKER & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
an20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,
Importers and Wholesale Dealers in
DRY GOODS,
Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS
E PEET—R WILLIAMSON
P SIMMS—J BOWLING } aug25 1y

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.
HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.
Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.
Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jan20–1y

G & T. F. SEARING,
Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in
CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS
No. 29 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
oc13 1y NEW ORLEANS.

N. L. CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. — F. M. ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile
CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,
o13 No. 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

R. BLEAKLY & CO.,
Wholesale Grocers,
COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
Nos. 56, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,
Corner Poydras and Tchoupitoulas sts.,
NEW ORLEANS.
All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of MR. J. F. GIRAULT, (formerly with the house of Messrs Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

TEACHER'S CARD.—An experienced lady teacher, qualified to teach Music, Singing, and French, according to the best method, as well as Drawing and all the English branches, desires a situation in a country Academy or a private family, on low terms. The most respectable references given.
Address: MRS ESTE SHAW,
dec1 3t Mobile, Ala.

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,
Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
No. 100 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
aug18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. — JOS. HOY. — CHAS. HARDENBERGH
CARROLL, HOY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,
aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 1y

JOHN G. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. — BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.
PARHAM & BLUNT,
COTTON FACTORS,
Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,
No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans.
aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,
General Commission Merchants and
COTTON FACTORS,
57 Poydras street.
Cotton Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4 1y

SAM'L. BARRETT. — CHS. LESASSIER.
BARRETT & LESASSIER,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants
118 CARONDELET STREET,
aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. — A. H. MAY
STEVENSON & MAY,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY,
Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.
aug 18 3m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. — S. B. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.
HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.
aug18 6m

W. O. TOMPKINS. — H. R. ALSOBROOK.
WM. O. TOMPKINS & CO.,
WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,
No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. a18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,
Cotton Factors,
No. 32 Union Street,
NEW ORLEANS.
J. U. PAYNE, W. C. H. DAMERON, G. W. HUNTINGTON, H. M. PAYNE.
je23–1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. — SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.
TOM & SAM HENDERSON,
COTTON FACTORS
AND
General Commission Merchants,
53 CARONDELET STREET,
je9 1y New Orleans

J. O. M'ALLISTER — E. M'NAIR
M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,
WHOLESALE GROCERS,
No. 74 Common Street,
ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

GARY W. BUTT. — WM. FLASH. — THOS. T. A. LYON
BUTT, FLASH & LYON,
Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.
Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.
Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14–6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,
COTTON FACTORS,
And General Commission Merchants,
51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,
New Orleans.
J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. jnly7 1y

WATTS, OLVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. — WATTS, CRANE & CO. New York.
W. O. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.
GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool.
feh3–1y

W. A. BELL, FRED N. OGDEN, H. E. WITHERSPOON
WM. A. BELL & CO.,
General Commission Marchants,
And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,
41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30-1y

J. J WARREN — T. W CRAWFORD — F. B FLEITAS
WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
sep22 3m

THOS A HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. — JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.
HAMILTON & DUNNICA,
Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and
GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
42 Union street, New Orleans.
sep22 1y

ROBERT L. WALKER,
Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant
190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

STAFFORD & WILSON,
COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
No. 66, Magazine Street,
oc27 1y NEW ORLEANS.

F. G. BARRIERE — O. W. BABCOCK
F. G. BARIERE & CO.,
Importers and Dealers in
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
No. 135 Canal Street, New Orleans.
n10 6m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,
Wholesale Dealers in
Fancy Goods,
STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,
HOSIERY,
Furnishing Goods, etc.,
35 MAGAZINE STREET,
Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La
aug25 1y

PETER G. TAYLOR. — CHAS. H. CHURCHILL.
HARDWARE AND GUNS.
TAYLOR & CHURCHILL,
41 MAGAZINE STREET, and 20 BANK PLACE, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.
DIRECT IMPORTERS,
We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.
COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.
Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows. Hall & Speer's Cast (wood mould board) Plows.
GUNS, NAILS, SAWS, TIN WARE, AXES.
HOLLOW WARE,
Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations.
Orders from the country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832. aug25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,
Grocers and Commission Merchants,
95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of
CHAMPAGNE,
BRANDIES,
WHISKIES,
CLARET,
CORDIALS, Etc.
Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, suitable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the Most reasonable Rates.
☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.
W. H HENNING & CO,
a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans

WALLACE & CO.,
Importers and Jobbers of
FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,
BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and
PLANTATION CLOTHING,
No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET, (SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS
☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices. a18 1y

JAMES SYME, Wholesale Druggist,
139 CANAL STREET, (Tonro Buildings,) NEW ORLEANS.
Importer and Dealer in Fine
DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS,
DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES;
Fancy Goods and Perfumery.
Surgical Instruments,
French, English, and American, of every variety
Also—
Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags. aug25 1y

A. B. GRISWOLD. — W. M. GOODRICH
A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,
Corner of Canal and Royal streets,
[Late HYNE & GOODRICH],
Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!
MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,
Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.
The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

A. D. GRIEFF,
Wholesale Grocer,
COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE, 48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Blenville st.,
aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,
HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD
Established, August, 1861
Destroyed, May, 1863.
Re-established, January, 1866.
SALES ROOMS,
C. E. CATE & CO.,
18 CAMP STREET, 18
Under the City Hotel.
We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of
LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF, AND KIP BROGANS,
Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.
We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.
A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.
O. E. CATE & CO.
feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W O SHEPARD. A L ABBOTT. ROBT C HUTCHINSON
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,
Nearly opposite Picayune Office,
CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,
PLATED WARE,
House Furnishing Goods,
AND KITCHEN WARE.
We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.
Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.
SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!
BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY
Established in 1837.
VANDUZEN & TIFT,
Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W COFFIN & CO.,
102 & 104 East Second street,
Cincinnati, Ohio,
Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.
Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our improved Rotary Yoke.
All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.
Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
CLOTHING,
AND
GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,
No. 27 Magazine Street,
Corner of Gravier street,
sep22 3m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,
Wholesale and Retail Dealers in
FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS
Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.
☞ Special attention given to orders.
Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,
Corner of St. Andrew Street,
oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,
Successors to D. Genella,
112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,
Dealers in
CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,
Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,
PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.
Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.
J. P. WILSON,
BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,
77 Magazine Street,
oct6 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]
EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL
Hat Emporium,
No 62 CAMP STREET,
Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.
A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. a18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY.
DRAKE & MARKHAM,
Manufacturers of
Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Childrens'
BOOTS AND SHOES,
WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,
No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.
We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.
We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at a less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.
OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!
Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.
Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.
One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.
We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.
Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.
All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP STREET.
aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE
Is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family.
Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delays of your daily meals, may be saved by using the
CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.
Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.
The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top
has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.
The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.
The Reflector Gridiron, original with this Charter Oak, and used on no other stove—the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from meats during the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.
The Hot Closet, in which meats and pastry are kept warm for hours when there has been a delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and desserts, and place them hot upon the table.
The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.
Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Edge Tools, etc.
RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,
93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras,
and 565 Magazine street, near Magazine Market
sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN
PRICE'S
Patent Texas Tonic
PURELY VEGETABLE.
It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for
CHILLS AND FEVERS.
For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.
For sale at 59 Camp street, New Orleans,
THOS. K. PRICE, Vendor.
Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of
PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,
Or, Vegetable Medicine.
T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:
DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate use and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetable Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefitted.
Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,
We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City N. O.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Office
T. GREENFIELD, of house of Fellows & Co
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. HYNSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce.
New Orleans, June, 1863.

TERMS:
4 oz Bottles	$2 00
6 " "	2 50
8 " "	3 00
12 " "	5 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.
All orders will meet with prompt attention.
sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,
PAPER WAREHOUSE,
No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and St Charles streets, New Orleans.
Newspaper of the following sizes: 22 by 31, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 36 by 48.
Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Sons Type. sep7-1

J. B. JENNINGS. — J. W. WICKS. — M. J. WICKS.
JENNINGS, WICKS & BRO.
Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,
a1y 39 PERDIDO STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

G HORTER, Late of Magee & Kneass, N.O. — T K PETERSON, Late of Goff & Peterson, Philadelphia. — H C FENNER, Late Co. New York
HORTER, PETERSON & FENNER
(Sign of the Black Horse,)
MANUFACTURERS OF SADDLES HARNESS, AND TRUNKS.
Importers of Saddlery & Coach Hardware
7 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
s22 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,
17 Chartres Street,
Lately received Carpeting of all kinds and qualities; Floor Oil Cloth of all qualities,

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 49.
WHOLE NUMBER 615

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1866.

$3 00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.
OFFICE—118 CAMP STREET.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The Committee on Sunday Schools, supposing that the entire department of ministerial duties which results from our relations to the rising generation comes properly within the scope of their investigation, respectfully offer the following report:

Observation and reflection conspire to convince us, that neither Christian parents nor the ministry are duly conscious of the vast and solemn responsibilities devolving upon them in view of the spiritual demands of the children and youth of our land. Though the Sunday School is an agency of the first importance in its appropriate sphere, yet its functions should by no means supercede the duties of the Pastor to the children of the church.

If children baptized in infancy by our ministers, are really members of the church, they should be regarded and treated as such by us in our pastoral visitations. They should be carefully catechised and duly impressed with the idea that they are members of the Church until they publicly renounce their baptism. We are convinced that the practice of initiating children into the Church by baptism in infancy, and afterward ignoring the fact by expecting them to join the Church, should be abandoned. We have already lost thousands of members by it, and must continue to suffer fearful and irreparable losses from our numbers, until we awake to our duty on this point. Let those baptized in infancy be duly recognized as members of our Church, according to the Disciplinary direction given on page 102; and let them be taught that they do not then for the first time become members of the Church, but simply ratify publicly that dedication of themselves to God which had been previously made for them by others.

We regard the institution and maintenance of Sunday Schools for the benefit of the colored people within our bounds, as duty by no means to be neglected. If the gratuitous bestowment of the blessings of the gospel upon the poor was one of the most distinguished indications of the primitive establishment of the Saviour's kingdom, can we who rejoice in the meridian splendor of that kingdom, disregard the crying moral necessities of the poor African in our midst? It is true, that a strong opposition to the moral and intellectual advancement of the negro is very unjustly and unkindly felt, and very unreasonably manifested in limited sections of the country. Yet we should the more readily undertake the work of establishing Sunday Schools among them, since we would, at the same time, thereby not only demonstrate that deep interest in their spiritual welfare which we profess to feel, but would thus afford them privileges which would be most grateful, both to the parents and children, and have a powerful tendency to perpetuate their attachment to our ministry and our church.

With reference to the cause of Sunday Schools among the whites in our Conference, the statistics show, that though much has been done and is still being done in the organization and maintenance, yet yet some of our ministers do not fully appreciate the weighty obligations which the doctrines of our church and the teachings of the Holy Book, impose upon them in this work. Of at least one hundred and thirteen ministers in charge of the churches in this conference, only forty-three have reported Sunday Schools at all. We fear that this fact is evidence of negligence on the part of some in this most interesting branch of ministerial labor. That Pastor whose church is without a Sunday School, nurses a tree that bears no fruit, whose final is destined to extermination at the end of the first generation. If we as husbandmen desire the vineyard of our Lord to be kept full of flourishing and fruitful vines, we can not—we must not neglect the means from which alone reliable and hopeful scions can be transplanted. That church which neglects the care and moral culture of her children, must dwindle in numbers, and decline in power wherever it comes into competition with a church that believes and asks upon the faith that even little children should be brought unto Christ, because of such is the kingdom of heaven. This is indeed of all fields of labor the most promising. "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it." But, can the Ethiopian change his skin or the leopard his spots? then may he learn to do well who has been accustomed to do evil."

The annual statistics show 85 schools, 60 superintendents, 334 teachers, 3041 scholars, 6760 volumes in Libraries, and $403 00 collected for Sunday School purposes.

In view of the above considerations we offer the following resolutions:

Resolved, 1. That we as ministers should use all due care to retain baptized children as members of our church.

Resolved, 2. That we will be diligent and faithful in establishing Sunday Schools for colored children wherever practicable, and that we will solicit the co-operation of the white membership of our charges in this work.

Resolved, 3. That we should awake to double energy in organizing and maintaining Sunday Schools in connection with our several pastoral duties.

Resolved, 4. That in view of the great importance of the Sunday school cause in all its bearings, we respectfully recommend our presiding Bishop to appoint Rev. C. K. Marshall, General Sunday School Agent for the Mississippi Conference, that he may, if practicable, put in operation such instrumentalities as may arouse the church to the great interests involved in the proper edification of these nurseries of youthful piety.

WM. L. HUNNICUTT, Chairman.

COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION.—REPORT NO. I.

The cause of education, we are gratified to state, still receives the attention of the Church, although, as may be seen from the statistics we have obtained, our zeal in behalf of this cause is by no means commensurate with the importance of the subject. The founders of our Zion were among the most eminent patrons of learning. They recognized at an early period the relations of intelligence to true piety. In imitation of their noble example, their successors have endeavored to keep pace with the march of civilization and the progressive spirit of the age. Still much remains to be done; and there is just cause for humiliation when we reflect how much of the Lord's money that might have been judiciously expended to promote the cause of education, has been withheld or squandered. If it were possible to reach the hearts of our people, and make them feel as many profess to think in regard to the great educational enterprise, we could hope to accomplish a vast deal more than has been effected thus far by these Annual Reports. In order to impress the general mind as it ought to be, it is highly necessary that each preacher should feel himself obligated to do all that in him is for the upbuilding of our literary institutions. Heretofore only a few men felt sufficient interest in the matter of general education, to prompt them to every reasonable effort. Now, it is emphatically true that we must provide ways and means to educate the children of our people at home. We have theorized much on the subject of home education. The time has come for action for united vigorous effort.

We have two Colleges belonging to the Conference; one for boys, and the other for girls. Besides these we have several other schools, Academies, and Seminaries nominally under the patronage of the Conference. To all of them we have been accustomed to appoint visiting committees, and from most of them we shall present some report to the Conference. In this our first report we shall only mention the two Colleges belonging to the Conference, reserving for a second report such facts concerning the various other schools under the patronage of the Conference, as may be worthy of note.

CENTENARY COLLEGE, OF LA.—This noble institution is monumental to the centennial year of that form of Christianity which we believe was raised up of God, and ordained of him to "spread Scripture holiness over these lands." It is located at Jackson, La., and is the joint property of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conference. Previous to the war, Centenary College held high position among the Literary Institutions of the South, numbering as high as 250 students. It was officered with an efficient corps of professors, and was doing a great and good work. The Alumni of this College were fast filling up the ranks of our ministry, and were occupying enviable position in the various departments of society. The war came, and many of the young men of Centenary College entered the army. Not a few of them yielded up their lives in defence of their country. The results of the war left the survivors without means to resume and complete their collegiate course, and so impoverished the country, that many who desire it, are yet unable to defray the expense of educating their sons.

In view of those facts it is no marvel that the growth of Centenary College should be slow till it shall attain to its former prosperity. The almost universal bankruptcy of the country, has been fatal to the college, causing the loss of a great portion of its assetts in the form of bills receivable, and leaving it with a large debt due to professors and others, amounting to nearly $30,000, with no available means to pay. In this condition the first Board of Trustees and Visitors found the College at their annual meeting in July last. Notwithstanding the difficulties, the organization of the College has been kept up during the last five years, though the exercises were only of preparatory character. At the meeting of the joint Board in July last, measures were adopted whereby the College was relieved from embarrassment—reorganized and has started out again on its glorious mission to bless the Church and the world. We would fail to do justice if we passed unnoticed in this report, the fidelity and generosity of the Faculty who have devoted themselves so long and so earnestly to the interests of the College. Most of the debt of the College was due to those men who had not only toiled without pay, but some had even advanced from their private means to the amount of thousands of dollars to sustain this Institution, and with it the honor of this Conference. Those generous Christian men agreed to cancel their claims upon condition of a transfer of the very uncertain assets of the College, or so much thereof as would pay them, and they have taken the risk of collecting, assisted by the President of the College. Thus much they have done to relieve Centenary College from embarrassment. We have lost a valuable and meet indefatigable man from the Presidency of the College, in the resignation of Rev. J. C. Miller. But we are gratified to be able to state that his place has been filled by one altogether worthy of our confidence, and under whose auspices we may hope to see our cherished institution prosper gloriously, viz., Rev. W. H. Watkins, D. D. Rev. Dr. Keener, of La. Conference, is President of the Joint Board of Trustees and Visitors. Each of their names is a tower of strength in the Conference to which he belongs. With united effort, under the lead of these men, we can, we will succeed in this great enterprise, God helping us. There are now about sixty students at Centenary College, and the number increasing weekly. It is confidently expected the number will be increased to one hundred at least during the session. The sons of preachers are educated there free of charge. Now what is wanting at Centenary College is, first, means to secure some necessary repairs to the buildings, which have suffered materially during the last five years; secondly, we need an endowment at least adequate to one half, if not the whole of the salaries of a Faculty of eight professors. These things can be obtained if in God's name we will resolve, and then make the effort to do it. We will not venture to suggest a plan, but trust the Conference will be ready to co-operate with the Trustees, under whatever plan they may devise.

SHARON FEMALE COLLEGE still lives, and from the exhibit made to this Conference, by the Trustees and the report of the Visiting Committee, is in a more prosperous condition than for many years past. This College with land, tenements, &c., is the property of the Mississippi Annual Conference. It was founded in 1836, under other auspices, but did not succeed very well. In 1842, the entire property was sold for debt — purchased by a few noble men, and then given to this Conference. Since that time it has had, like almost all our literary institutions, to struggle frequently against adverse influences. But we rejoice to know that under the Presidency of Rev. S. D. Aiken, and with the persistent energies of a few preachers who stood by the College, through all the trials it has endured, still devoted to their work, it is now on a high way of usefulness. Sharon Female College is the only denominational school, north of Jackson, within the bounds of our Conference, and certainly ought to receive a liberal support. But there are difficulties in the way of success there. The chief one is that the people are not generally interested as they ought to be in its success. The buildings are by no means adequate to the wants of the College. Schools of this kind must have capacity for boarding. This is greatly wanted at Sharon. In glancing over the catalogue, we observe one fact worthy of note, especially as it is suggestive of another that ought to be more duly considered. Most of the pupils or a very large majority of them are from the immediate vicinity. This indicates that the people there are satisfied they have a good school, and that they are trying to sustain it. It is in fact to be lamented, that Protestants and even Methodists themselves, instead of sustaining their own schools, will send their daughters to Catholic schools and Convents, where their education is notoriously superficial, and where, in a majority of cases, their minds and hearts are alienated from the true "principles of the doctrine of Christ." The course of study in Sharon Female College is ample. Perhaps the most comprehensive of any like institution in the country. We have assurance undoubted of the ability and fidelity of the Faculty, and we do most earnestly recommend this institution to the patronage of the public. We may be allowed to express our sincere desire that preachers especially in that portion of our territory, will rally to the support of the College, build it up, make it an honor to the Church, and a blessing to the world. We adopt in conclusion as a part of this report, the following extract from the report of the Trustees to this Conference:

"The present session has opened with about sixty pupils, which, for the time may be considered encouraging — though not one half the number that ought to be in attendance at our institution. Could we get Protestants and Methodists interested as such in Protestant and Methodist schools, our institutions of learning would be more largely patronized than they are. Another thing operates against the public and chartered schools of our church and land, viz: the effort for private schools, which causes little schools of from 5 to 20 pupils to be in sight of them, or within a mile or so, very often. These persistently operate against the efforts of Trustees and teachers of our Academies and Colleges, and very often so cripples their efforts that only a very partial success attends them."

COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION.—REPORT NO. II.

In this report the Committee would present the condition and claims of the several schools and Academies under the patronage of the Conference, that have made any communication to this body.

CLINTON, (LA.,) FEMALE SEMINARY claims attention first, as having been longer under the patronage of the Conference than any other to which we may allude. The name of this Seminary determines its locality. Its geographical position as well as other facts we shall mention, merit consideration, and justify your committee in recommending it to the patronage of your people. Although not officered and directed by the Conference, this Seminary is, if possible, more thoroughly Methodistic in its operations and influences than many of the schools which are regarded denominational. The visiting committee were most favorably impressed with the truly religious turn given to the exercises of Clinton Female Seminary. Mrs. Sarah M. Wall, and Mrs. Dunbar, are associate principals. The former is the daughter of the lamented Winans. She has been long and favorably known as one of the most efficient and successful educators of her sex. The latter has had long experience as a teacher, and was well known in former years by many in this Conference, as Miss Chapman, and associated with Bro. Halsey, at Woodville, Miss., in a Female Academy at that place. These are truly both Christian ladies, devoted Methodists, and are laboring faithfully to improve the morals as well as enlighten the understanding of those committed to their care. Clinton Female Seminary might be made still more extensively useful, if the importance of its position was more fully appreciated. It is the only school we have of the kind in all that part of Louisiana embraced in the limits of this Conference. The community about Clinton, La., is intelligent, and will compare favorably in all respects with the citizens of any town or village in our bounds. The social and religious advantages to be realized there equal any other portion of the country. We would therefore recommend especially to those of our preachers laboring in what are called the Florida Parishes of Louisiana, to direct the public attention to this Seminary.

WOODVILLE FEMALE SEMINARY.—The Visiting Committee report that this Institute is doing a good work. "Because, say they," "the President, Bro. W. T. J. Sullivan, is fully up to his calling as an educator of youth, giving to his work the importance which religious duty demands. He and his assistants seem to us to have entered fully into the spirit of their mission, and adding some influences to serve literary labor, are making the institution worthy of public confidence. The Academy buildings are well arranged, and the whole economy of the establishment made a most favorable impression. During the session closing in July, there were 50 young ladies in attendance. There are now 64. It is a Methodist school—where bigotry is excluded, but the predominating religious influence is favorable to the doctrines and usages of our Church."

PORT GIBSON COLLEGIATE ACADEMY.—This institution was for some time past exclusively for Females. Now it is a mixed school. The report of the Visiting Committee presents the following exhibit of its condition, and we will only add that the facts given are a sufficient warrant for us to recommend this Academy to those who have sons and daughters to educate. The Visiting Committee say:

"We are glad to report the Port Gibson Collegiate Academy at this time in a prosperous and growing condition, numbers over 100 students, about 40 males, and 70 females. The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one, but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole, in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric." Mr. A. J. Wright, the President, is a competent, conscientious and enthusiastic instructor, and has associated with him a full corps of teachers. At the last annual examination, classes were thoroughly examined in all the branches pursued by each student, and your committee were satisfied with the proficiency of the scholars, and with the manner in which they had been taught."

MADISON COLLEGE was re-opened on the first Monday of October last, under the Presidency of Rev. H. F. Johnson, assisted by a competent corps of professors. There are fifty two students in attendance, and it is expected the number will be considerably increased after the Christmas holidays. One young man connected with the College, is being educated for the ministry in our Church. The Trustees have resolved to afford tuition gratis to indigent sons of deceased soldiers, and they extend the like privilege to young men preparing for the ministry without regard to denomination. They also intend so soon as they can relieve the College of some slight embarrassments to tender the whole property to the Mississippi Conference. They desire the appointment of Rev. H. F. Johnson to the Presidency, and also the appointment of a Visiting Committee. This College is located at Sharon, Madison co., Miss., and was once presided over by Rev. T. C. Thornton. Although not a denominational school, it has rendered great services to the Church in other days. There are witnesses now among our ministry. We hope to see it prosper, and recommend compliance with the request of the Trustees.

We deem it advisable still to use whatever influence we may exert for good by fostering the several literary institutions under our care, and as far as it can be done, consistently with the interests of the Church in other departments, to encourage our brethren of the ministry to continue in the work of educating the youth of our country. Some may be successful in the work of converting sinners. Others may be equally so in raising up Christians. Let each in the fear of God do with "all his might whatsoever his hand findeth to do."

The Committee on Education have had referred to them a communication from Rev. Thos. S. Abernethy, Jr., of the Mobile Conference, stating that he, with Rev. Jno. W. Harmon, and Rev. Orlando P. Thomas, of said Conference, has been appointed to confer with a like committee from the Mississippi Conference, upon the subject therein mentioned. It is proposed by the Mobile Conference, to co-operate with this Conference, in the establishment of a Female College, to be under their joint patronage at some point on the Mobile and Ohio Rail Road. The Mobile Conference propose that a committee of three be appointed by this body, to act with their committee on this subject, in the recess of the two Conferences, and that their action shall be subject to the future action of said Conferences. It is not proposed to take steps at this Conference to carry out this design, and we can only therefore recommend the appointment of said Committee, to consider, &c. We would nominate on said Committee, W. L. C. Hunnicut, B. B. Whittington, and Jas. English.

H. J. HARRIS, Chairman.

REPORT ON THE PURCHASE OF WHITWORTH COLLEGE.

Your Committee has ascertained, first, That the suit will be withdrawn and the property released, upon the payment of one thousand dollars to Rev. H. J. Harris, and the settlement of the fees which have accrued to lawyers.

Second, That the Rev. J. M. Whitworth will deed the property to a Board of Trustees, for the use of the M. E. Church, South; provided the College (retains its name) is continued to be used for school purposes, and allows him the perpetual right of the tuition of two pupils, and pays him the sum of one thousand dollars.

Your Committee recommend: first, That both these propositions be accepted; secondly, that a Board of Trustees be at once appointed to receive the property; thirdly, That the Presiding Elder of the Brookhaven District, be appointed Agent for the College, during the year to come, with instructions to solicit and receive donations to pay off these claims, and to put the buildings in repair.

BENJ. JONES, Chairman.

REPLY TO THE NATCHEZ QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.

To our Christian Brethren in the city of Natchez, Miss: We, the undersigned Committee, have been authorized to send to you the Christian greeting of the Mississippi Annual Conference, and express to you their profound regret, that any misunderstanding occurred in relation to the holding of this session of the body in your city, and to further say, that it shall be their pleasure to visit your city, and hold a session of our body at some future day among you, and partake of those generous hospitalities for which Church and community have ever been distinguished.

J. J. JONES, Chairman.

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That this Conference entertains the warmest feelings of brotherly affection for our very venerable senior Superintendent Bishop Soule. And we hereby, with one heart and one voice, give to him this expression of our sympathy and greeting, praying Almighty God, that his largest blessings and richest grace may descend upon him in his great infirmity and rapidly declining days.

Resolved, That we recognize our respected Bro. Rev. R. Abbey, as the protector of the property of the M. E. Church, South, in the city of Nashville, during the late war, and that but for his unremitting and wise effort, we believe that all the movable property would have been lost. That for these efficient and valuable services, our heartfelt thanks be and are hereby tendered him.

Resolved, That we hereby return to Rev. M. J. Whitworth, our sincere thanks for the liberal tender which he has made of Whitworth College to this Conference.

Resolved, That we hereby tender our thanks to the citizens of Brookhaven, for their generous hospitality; To the N. O. & Jackson Railroad, for the courtesy in transporting our members at half price; To the pastor and members of the Presbyterian Church, for the use of their house of worship during our session; and To the Masons for the use of their Lodge Room.

MOBILE CONFERENCE.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON DANCING.

The Committee appointed to consider certain resolutions referring to the subject of dancing, report that the transfer of the section of the Discipline in which the word dancing occurs to the Preacher's Manual, was made without any reference to this subject, and it is absurd to construe this transfer into an approval of dancing, of Sabbath breaking, bribery, going to circuses, and theatres, schisms, and other evils, which are denounced in the transferred section.

These were removed from their place in the Discipline, partly because the book was enlarged by an Appendix, containing a catechism, etc., and partly because the evils forbidden are interdicted in the General Rules, which proscribe such diversions as can not be used in the name of the Lord Jesus, and other Interdicts in that code. It is manifestly impossible to specify all the evils which come under these General Rules, and it is unwise to go much into detail, as many things which may be specified must be dealt with on their own particular merits, and dancing is of this sort.

No one recommends the sacred dances of the Hebrews, and yet no one proscribes them. Their festive dances in which the sexes danced apart, are, it is believed, seldom, if ever, taken into consideration as few practice, so few either commend or condemn them.

The dancing of the sexes together, in family or select social gatherings, where waltzes and the like are excluded, may not be wrong in its self, but by an easy transition it may degenerate into evil, and may prove a stumbling block to the ill-advised and unstable.

The Committee think that such dancing should be disapproved by the Church. The sending of children to dancing schools, the Committee consider highly reprehensible; for if persons acquire the art when they are children, they will generally practice it when they are advanced to a dolescence and riper age. It too frequently prepares for promiscuous dancing in large parties and public balls, which deserve strong reprobation.

To prevent and remedy the evils of this sort, which infest the churches, pastors should labor earnestly to show their people the inconsistency of such diversions with the stipulations of the baptismal vow; the evil which they do to both the good and the bad, making the hearts of the former sad, and strengthening the hands of the latter; and the necessity of acquiring such an amount of spiritual enjoyment, as will make them independent of all such trifling, equivocal and unsatisfying pleasures. Young persons especially should receive the attention of members, pastors and teachers, to guard them from frivolity, and to induce them to devote the early period to such books and work, and healthful play, "as befit their age and condition in the world."

The Committee inculcate the foregoing views, because they correspond with the teaching of God's Word, the more discipline of the primitive church, and the authoritative deliverances of nearly or quite all the sects into which the modern church has been divided — and, in particular, all the branches of the great Methodist family in the old world and the new. It is a great mistake to suppose that Mr. Wesley, and the fathers of Methodism, did not disapprove dancing because they did not see proper to put the word into the old Discipline. Incorrigible offenders in the premises were excluded from the Church before 1858, when the word was introduced into the Book, under the General Rule condemning diversions, as readily as they were in the eight years which succeeded, during which period it is thought the evil has been growing among us.

The Committee recommend the Conference to adopt the following Resolutions:

Resolved 1. That while the Church takes no cognizance of the inartificial dances of children, sacred dances, and those in which the sexes dance apart, it does discountenance all those social dances in which the two sexes unite, as they may readily run into improprieties, and result in scandal.

Resolved, 2. That the Mobile Conference deprecate the sending of children to dancing schools, and strongly denounces promiscuous dancing at balls and other gatherings of the sort, as tending to dissipation and immorality.

Resolved, 3. That it is the duty of pastors to teach the people of their charge from the pulpit, in catechetical lectures, in familiar conversation, and by the circulation of suitable treatises, the incompatibility of the diversion in question, as well as card-playing, visiting circuses, theatres and the like, with the baptismal vow; as also to arraign those who persistently disregard the pastoral counsel and reproof which may be administered to them on this subject.

Resolved, 4. That it is the duty of pastors to give all possible attention to the people of their respective charges, in reference to the development and cultivation of the spirit of piety, the improvement of the mind, and employment of time in laudable undertakings, whereby they may be kept from imbibing the spirit of the world, which leads to dissipation and folly.

T. O. SUMMERS, Chairman.

"Unto Jesus," and not to our weakness. Have we ever become stronger by lamenting our weakness? But if we look unto Jesus, his strength shall fortify our hearts, and we shall break forth into songs of praise. "Unto Jesus," and not to our own strength, for with that we can only glorify ourselves. To glorify God, we need the strength of God. "Unto Jesus," and not to what we are doing for him. If we are too much taken up with our work, we may forget our Master; we may have our hands full and our hearts empty; but if we are constantly looking unto Jesus, we cannot forget our work.

"People with Nothing in Them."

It is the usage to treat dullness and inability to appreciate great ideas as an unforgivable offence gainst which it is impossible to be too severe. Hence the wholesale contempt with which traditionally and in the mass a coxcomb is wont to regard women. Women, as a rule, are so badly educated, that they do not furnish to the world powerful reasoners or brilliant discoverers of truth or profound scholars. Therefore the conclusion runs, they have nothing in them;—for the capacity of moral patience, the instinctive desire to do beneficent works, the diffusiveness of sympathy, all count for as good as nothing. And it is not only the coxcomb that falls into this supreme blunder. It is the tendency of even the ablest men to suppose that there is no side of character of much value but that in which they themselves are strongest. They know how blank and dismally empty their own lives would be if robbed of the exercises of thinking and reasoning and balancing, and hence they attribute a like blankness and barrenness to every other life in which they do not see these faculties in constant and vigorous exercise. Just in the same way anybody who relishes the delights of books is apt to think the less studious mind must inevitably be wholly without savor. The truth is, that as innate shrewdness and mother wit in one case may compensate for lack of learning, so in the other gentleness and delicacy and depth of moral sympathy more than make up for the absence of intellectual acuteness. And even when only the blindest partiality could pretend to discover anything like this exquisite delicacy of perception and width of moral sympathy, there may still be a fund of kindly grace and honest good will. Is simply affectionateness of character no recommendation? Is it not a weightier quality and a larger social influence than any amount of second-rate cleverness? The broad course of public transaction is regulated, or ought to be, almost entirely by considerations that may not spring from, but are at least conformable to, the reasoning side of men. But the life of the family and the individual receives its choicest elements less from the intellectual than the moral side, and except in rare cases, from the moral side in its most grandiose aspect. Let the coxcomb or the man who insists on measuring everything by a narrow intellectual standard, and everybody by his intellectual height and grasp, reflect how much is contributed to the stock of happiness by poor, kindly old ladies and warm-hearted, impulsive men, who never reasoned a thing out in there lives, and have no notion how things are reasoned out. Even feather-headed sisters and old gray mothers may be worth more to a family than the brilliant son who likes to deplore that they are not clever and learned, and have so little in them, and are so incapable of taking interest in intellectual topics. The absence of intellectual brilliancy is not so much felt in a life, when good offices and encouraging, sympathetic words, and graciousness and geniality can diffuse such a glow of tender light over existence. Men and women who have nothing in them but these excellent qualities are not so badly off after all. It is the mark of a real high-mindedness to be able to tolerate intellectual commonplace when it is accompanied by these minor virtues. A man of ordinary thinness of nature coated over by means of a more or less learned training, is simply revolted and angry with people who cannot argue and will not enter into all the newfangled ideas of the hour. No amount of any other qualities will reconcile him to this mental defect. But the salt of character with those of richer nature or wider culture is not thought to dwell only in intellectual power or intellectual attainments.—London Saturday Review.

Former Civilization at the West.

There are many memorials in the Western States of a civilization that has perished; of nations advanced in the mechanic arts who have left no record in written history. An exchange refers to some of these relics:

A most interesting feature of these regions is the ancient Indian diggings.—Openings have been found in the earth, accompanied by other indications, which show conclusively that copper mining was carried on here long before the country came into possession of the present occupants. These excavations have to a great extent become filled up, and huge trees have since grown over them, a fact which sufficiently attests their great antiquity. In some instances immense masses of copper have been found cut out and bearing the deep imprint of rough implements used upon them. But their great weight, and the lack of mechanical skill necessary to manage them, seem to have necessitated their abandonment.—The stone utensils, earthen vessels, and other scanty remains still found scattered about, afford but meagre data for judging of the race, character and habits of these ancient miners. Certain it is, however, that they belonged to a race distinct from the savages, our immediate predecessors. There is nothing in the mode of life, customs or habits of the latter, which at all indicate that they ever possessed the tastes and degree of civilization manifested by the former.—Most probably they were a branch of that wide-spread people who once inhabited Mexico, the ruins of whose temples and cities are still objects of wonder: Their history, however, will doubtless forever remain unknown; and these dumb, unlettered monuments of bronze constitute the only memorials of their existence.

The North Pole.

Two French gentlemen recently explored the island of Spitsbergen in a manner never before done. They have measured the mountains, mapped the whole coast, examined the vegetable products, the geological composition, &c., of the island. They found that the long day, extended over several months, during which time the sun never sets, becomes intensely hot after a month or two by the unceasing heat from the sun. In this period vegetation springs up in great luxuriance and abundance. The North Pole is only a matter of six hundred miles from the island, and it is thought by the two explorers, and by others, that the Pole itself and the sea that is supposed to surround it, could be reached from Spitsbergen without any great difficulties being encountered. A singular fact noticed by the explorers in connection with this island, is the enormous quantity of floating timber which literally covers the waters of the bays and creeks. A careful examination of the character, condition and kind of the floating logs, would no doubt lead to a conclusion as to whence and how they came, and probably suggest new theories for the solution of geographical problems connected with the Arctic Sea.

The Twin Brothers.

A TRUE STORY OF THE SIEGE OF PORT HUDSON.

It is said that fact is stranger than fiction. How true this is exemplified in the following true story of two brothers, twins, which occured during the memorable seige of Port Hudson. Passing one day through the streets of that little town, we noticed two corpses lying upon the gallery of the carpenter's shop, awaiting their turn for the boxes dignified with the title of coffins, to consign them to their last rest: ing place. They were bodies of tall statures, stout and well built, betokening the hardy backwoodsmen of the South-West. Over the face of each was thrown a cloth, through which the blood was oozing, showing that they had received their death wounds through the head. It was no uncommon sight during the seige to see death in every form from the body pierced by the single bullet to the one shattered to atoms by the cannon ball or fearful mortar shell. Yet there was something in the apperance of those bodies which riveted our attention and induced the inquiry as to who they were. A rough grizzly, weather-beaten Confederate soldier was sitting by their side, whose arm, tied up, showed that for the present he was unfit for active service. The tears were trickling down his cheeks as he gazed mournfully upon the dead before him, while his quivering lip told better than words that they had been more to him than simple comrades of the tent and field.

He related their story in a few words: "They were my sons," said he, "and were twins. One of them joined at the same time I did. We came here with Gen. Beale and have done our duty to the best of our knowledge and I believe to the satisfaction of our officers.

"This morning, sir, while at the breastworks, one of my boys, in order to get good aim at the sharpshooters outside, thoughtlessly raised himself too high, when a rifle ball pierced his brain, and he fell dead at my feet. His brother, seeing him fall, sprang forward to pick him up, but in so doing, exposed himself above the line of defense, when he, too, received a ball through the brain, and he fell dead upon the still quivering corpse of his brother. As they came into the world, so they went out of it—together. In removing their bodies from the breastworks, I got this wound, which has shattered my arm. Would that I had died with them, sir, for I have no one now to love upon this earth."

"And their mother—your wife?"

"Died sir, in giving them birth."

One coffin received the remains of the twins, and a few days after, while sitting in front of his tent, an exploding shell gave a death wound to the heart-broken father. —West Baton Rouge Sugar Planter.

ANNIHILATION.—It is ascertained, and is capable of the clearest proofs, that the simple elements of which all substance is composed, can not, by any conceivable means, be destroyed. They may indeed be so changed as to present not the least resemblance to their previous forms; they may be so mingled with other bodies that their identity can not be traced; they may be dissipated into invisible vapor, and be apparently annihilated; but we learn from the science of chemistry that in every shape, the same elements remain inextinguishable and unaltered. The phenomena of solutions afford some of the most obvious illustrations of complete change produced in bodies without causing their annihilation. If a piece of silver be immersed in diluted nitre in a short time the silver will be entirely dissolved. Its hardness, its luster, its tenacity, its specific gravity, all the characteristics which distinguish it as a metal, are gone. Its very form has vanished, and the hard, splendid, ponderous opaque metal, which, a few minutes before, was immersed in the mixture, is apparently annihilated. The liquid, however, remains as limpid as before; it presents no difference in appearance to indicate a change. What, then, has become of the solid piece of silver which was placed in the liquid? Must we conclude, that it is annihilated? Put some pieces of copper into the solution, and the silver will reappear, and fall to the bottom of the glass in small brilliant metallic crystals. Though the solution is one of the simplest processes of nature, the limited faculty of man will not permit him to comprehend the mode in which it operates. There is not one phenomenon of nature that the mind of man can fully comprehend, and, after pursuing the inquiry as far as the mental capacity will admit, he is obliged to confess that there is an operating power beyond the reach of his comprehension.

CHRIST A REFUGE.—In one of the galleries of the old world hangs a picture representing a murderer, in whose rear the hot steps of vengeance press, falling exhausted within the doorway of God's house. The furious pursuers, with glaring eye, flashed obeck, and clenched swords, stand motionless, while over the cowering wretch the mitred priest stretches the shielding cross. Justice dare not seize or strike, for in those days of which the painting testified, the sanctuary of God was an asylum which retribution was forbidden to invade. Beautiful symbol this of that safety which the trembling sinner finds, when, pressed by an avenging law, he falls at Jesus' feet.

"But speak, my Lord, and calm my fear;
Am I not safe beneath thy shade?
Thy justice will not strike me here,
Nor Satan dare my soul invade."

Some men are behind their age, and these are the clogs upon the wheels of progress. Others are before their age, and their speculation may or may not be useful. But the real men of immediate use, are the men of their age, "serving their own generation according to the will of God." That's the phrase. It has a divine meaning. It exactly defines the practical philanthropist, the genuine citizen, whose life is a boon to his contemporaries.

Richest is he that wants least.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. M. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. B. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1866.

Notice to Subscribers.

On the printed direction which is pasted upon their papers, our subscribers will notice the date of the commencement of their subscriptions. This date indicates that the subscription year of many of them is about ended. All who wish to RENEW will please take notice.

Post Offices.—Notice to Preachers.

We have the addresses of Preachers of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences. Those of the Mobile and Montgomery Conferences will please forward. State distinctly from what to what place the change is to be made.

Brookhaven District, Miss. Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Brookhaven,.....Dec 22, 23
Hazlehurst circuit, Hazlehurst, Dec 29, 30
Wesson & Beauregard, at B'd, Jan 5, 6
Crystal Springs, at C. Springs, Jan 12, 13
Holmesville, at Magnolia,.... Jan 19, 20
Bogue Chitto, at Bogue Chitto Jan 26, 27
Meadville, at Meadville..... Feb 2, 3
Scotland, at Sweetwater, ... Feb 9, 10
Pearl River, at Sartin's Church Feb 16, 17
Bayou Pierre, at Rehoboth... Feb 23, 24

W. G. Millsaps, P. E.

Homer District, Louisiana Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Homer circuit,.....Feb 2, 3
Vernon circuit.....Feb 9, 10
South Bossier, at Belleview...Feb 16, 17
Farmersville.....Feb 23, 24
Haynesville, at Haynesville,..March 2, 3
Sparta & Bienville, at Sparta, March 9, 10
Mount Lebanon,.....March 16, 18
Minden, at Minden,.....March 23, 24
Lewisville.....March 30, 31

Where it is not mentioned above, the preachers will please let me know at once the places at which their Quarterly Meetings are to be held. Address me at Minden, La.

Each circuit is earnestly requested to send a Steward to attend a District Steward's Meeting to be held at Homer, Thursday, 7th Feb., at 11 a. m.

John A. Miller, P. E.

Change of Name and Lay Delegation.

We compile from our exchanges the following vote on these subjects, and will continue to add from time to time until all the Conferences are heard from.

Conferences.	Change of Name. For	Against	Lay Delegation For	Against
Missouri	28	30	40	19
St. Louis	26	12	19	19
Arkansas	24	19	16	29
Louisville	35	31	57	10
Kentucky	45	7	47	4
W. Virginia	15	7	21	1
Holston	51	2	47	7
N. W. Texas,	28	00	26	00
Tennessee	55	48	58	41
Memphis	78	43	65	51
N. Carolina	69	3	49	23
Pacific	37	8	40	1
Virginia,	64	47	73	26
Mobile	18	42	34	30
Mississippi,	36	52	32	45
Georgia,	109	3	116	16
Montgomery,	56	11	60	9
Louisiana	15	19	8	27

MOBILE CONFERENCE.—As yet we have received scarcely one of the reports of this Conference. If the Secretaries have forwarded anything to us, it has miscarried; if they have not, we would respectfully call their attention to the fact.

W. P. Strickland, D. D., has left the Northern Methodist Church and united with the Presbytery of Long Island.

A General Convention of preachers and delegates from the Scandinavian Methodist Episcopal Churches and Missions in the United States, met in Chicago, October 7th, to take into consideration the establishment of a Scandinavian school.

Dr. FURMAN, 199 Baronne street, has a card in our advertising columns.

LOUISIANA CONFERENCE.

FIRST DAY.

The Conference convened this morning in Baton Rouge. Bishop Paine read the 16th chap. Mark, and the Conference united in singing the 272d Hymn:

"And are we yet alive,
And see each other's face."

But few of the members are present. The sparsely settled, widespread territory of the Conference, has been devastated by war and flood during the past four years; and at present these Districts which stretch along the Red, Ouachita, and the Mississippi rivers, present scarcely more than a waste. It is not therefore surprising that poverty prevents many of our brethren from attending this annual meeting. We have, as a Church, the opportunity of beginning life over again—that which we often hear individuals wishing they could do. The Conference presents scarcely a single gray head. Yet here are men who have seen service. There is no more impracticable, difficult field in Southern Methodism than that of the Louisiana Conference. The population along its water-courses is imbued with French and Catholic elements. It calls forth all the baptized purpose of an itinerant to ride through prairies, immense pine forests, and cypress swamps, in order to meet a mere handful of faithful souls. The fertility and health of this country must eventually draw a large number of people from other States in the east and west. And with this influx we may expect a fair share of devoted ministers, men who can endure and work. The immense mass of negroes which has pressed so long this soil has given way, and to a considerable extent has disappeared, nobody knows where. Those labors which have been directed to the colored population will, in part at least, be now diverted to the building up of white congregations.

Two persons have been received ON TRIAL: John Wilkinson and Robt. A. Davis. Several ministers are added to the Conference: J. B. A. Ahrens and Joel T. Daves, both from the Texas Conference, and Benj. R. Duvall from the Virginia Conference. On the other hand, we are sorry to notice that several of the members of the Conference have been transferred to adjoining fields. We could ill afford to spare them. The Revs. W. E. M. Linfield, S. J. Hawkins, and Robert Parvin, have done good work in Louisiana. But one person was received into FULL CONNECTION: Rev. Chas. F. Evans.

Jacob Uber, Matthias Maas, Anthony W. Tucker, and John F. Bellamy, were elected LOCAL ELDERS. Thomas S. Collier, Charles Lewis, Thomas B. Reneau, Thomas M. Mason, were elected LOCAL DEACONS.—Also Billy Banks, a freedman, an old and tried minister of the Gospel, came up recommended by the Waterproof Quarterly Conference, and was elected to DEACONS' ORDERS.

SECOND DAY.

During the morning the name of Matthew D. Thomasson being called, the Conference was informed of his death. Grateful tributes were paid to his memory by Bishop Paine, Dr. Walker, A. E. Goodwyn, and others; and the Conference joined in solemn and fervent prayer, led by Dr. J. B. Walker.

The Revs. C. C. Gillespie, Anderson B. Fly, John H. Boult, and John F. Truslow, were located at their own request.

The Rev. Benj. R. Duvall, of the Virginia Conference, was introduced. He had just returned, with his family, from the Cordova settlement in Mexico, and gave a highly interesting statement of that confused country. He represented the opening for missionary labors among the Spanish as inviting, one which could be improved by a single man devoted to the work of the Master. In the course of his remarks he stated that the natural advantages and beauties of the country were greater than any representation of them he had ever seen. He thought that many of the troubles which Americans had encountered, were traceable to their own imprudent conduct—that at present it was not advisable for families to adventure into that Empire.

In the afternoon the Committee of the Whole on Missions met and adopted, with slight modifications, the form of constitution recommended by the Secretary of Domestic Missionary Society.

The work of the Conference among the colored people came in review. In some parts of it, our ministers report the greatest interest among our colored members, and a disposition to continue in connection with the Church South. In other places they have entirely separated from it: and in some, after having left its communion, they have returned with renewed devotion. It was resolved to carry out the plan adopted by the General Conference, as contained in the Discipline, for forming soon as practicable, separate charges and districts, and Quarterly Conferences for the colored people.

THIRD DAY.

Visitors from the Mississippi Conference, the Rev. Dr. Watkins, and Revs. Jas. A. Godfrey and J. Nicholson, were introduced. The Rev. Dr. Watkins is the President of the Centenary College. He gave a flattering account of the prospects of that Institution. The ministers engaged in our institutions are making large sacrifices to the cause of Christ. Their support is at present full as precarious, and their labor as arduous as that of regular circuit itinerancy. A large part of the discussions of the Committee of the Whole was upon the Cause of Education; and the Conference has settled down upon the policy of fostering only those schools which are purely and wholly Methodistic. That morbid Catholicity which has no preference between Romanists and Protestants, or between our branch of Protestantism and any other, will presently see none between the Church and the world. The Louisiana Conference is sectarian in the full sense of taking care of its own schools, and in seeing that its schools are what they profess to be, Methodist schools. The Colleges at Pleasant Hill, at Homer, and at Mansfield, came in for a full share of these deliberations.

The Centenary College presents the finest opening that we know of in the South-west for the establishment of a first-class college. Its grand buildings, its admirable position, and its freedom from debt are great elements of strength. It is a favorite with the Mississippi Conference, and justly so; she has it represented in some of her promising ministers, young men who, after they had been educated in its halls, were baptized into the call of a Christian minister. The high appreciation which the Louisiana Conference sets upon this College, and on the election of the Rev. Dr. Watkins to its presidency, will be seen in the Report on Education. The following resolution was offered and adopted:

Resolved, That the Louisiana Conference recommend and authorize the Board of Trustees of Centenary College to perfect and carry into operation some system of endowment which shall sustain the College, and render it efficient as an agency for good.

FOURTH DAY.

The Constitution of the Domestic Missionary Society was adopted by the Conference. It is like that adopted by the Mobile Conference, excepting ARTICLE VII, which reads: "During the year each preacher in charge shall as far as practicable ascertain how much each member will give for the support of the Domestic Mission, and collect the same in such manner as he shall think best.

The Conference resolved to constitute a Committee on Foreign Missions in place of a Society with its machinery. The Chairman of this Committee holds office during the pleasure of the Conference. He has in charge the whole matter. He calls a meeting of the Committee of the Whole on Foreign Missions, and controls that interest, makes a report of monies collected, of the condition of its affairs, just as the Chairman of the Committee on Ministerial Support does. During the year he is to have the subjects of Foreign Mission before him, to inform himself upon it, and to present to the Conference, at its sessions, the result of his year's observation and reflection. The Rev. Dr. Walker was nominated and elected Chairman of this Committee.

The Chairman of the Committee on Church Publications presented resolutions in favor of the Publish-House at Nashville, and the Book Depository at New Orleans, and the NEW ORLEANS CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE. The Conference determines to do "all in its power to place the ADVOCATE in every family." A Methodist itinerant preacher can do a great deal in overcoming the present want of mails. He can carry the ADVOCATE to such subscribers as live off of the mail routes, as the old school of "circuit preachers" used to supply the people with Methodist books.

That ancient institution,—the Preachers' Fund Society, made another report of the condition of its mass-covered notes. The war has not seriously affected its assets. The Conference voted on the General Conference changes without discussion. On changing the Name of the Church, 15 ayes to 19 noes.—On Lay Representation, 8 ayes to 26 noes.

New Orleans was elected as the place of the NEXT SESSION of the Conference.

At night the Missionary Society held its last anniversary under the old regime. Speeches were delivered by the Bishop, and the Rev. L. M Lewis. The speeches were excellent, the collection ordinary. When will the force of Christian zeal overcome all the inequalities of human fortune! What should "the times" have to do with the support of our Missionaries! That small pittance afforded by the Church for preaching the riches of the Gospel to the myriads of China, is a single wave in the great ocean of its wealth.

On SABBATH MORNING a Conference Lovefeast was held. At 11 o'clock the Bishop preached in all the force of his early strength, from "To whom shall we go, thou hast the words of eternal life." The audience was often thrilled by his clear and rapid conceptions of truth as it is in Christ. The effect was deep, and we doubt not will long abide in the memories of even the thoughtless ones who had been attracted by the occasion and were present rather to see than hear.

In the afternoon, Rev. L. Parker preached from: Cast thy bread upon the waters and thou shalt find it after many days. An evangelical sermon, developed with distinctness and strength, and with the unction of the Holy One.

At night C. W. Carter preached the Conference sermon, from "Whom we preach, warning every man" &c.—Christ as the proper and only theme of a gospel minister. It was a discourse replete with good sense and spiritual sentiment. After the sermon, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was celebrated. The Bishop consecrated the elements, and assisted by the Elders, ministered them to the preachers and the people. It was refreshing to the soul to be with these men of God, and partake with them of this passover.

The services of this delightful Sabbath were concluded by the joining of a number of young persons to the Church.

FIFTH DAY.

The report of the Committee on Ministerial Support gives SIXTY PER CENT dividend for the widows, orphans and superannuates of the Conference. After a short address the Bishop read out the appointments.

Seven members were transferred, six were located by their own request, one withdrew, and five were superannuated. The Conference was never large, it can therefore ill afford this depletion of its strength.

APPOINTMENTS.

NEW ORLEANS DISTRICT.—J. C. Keener, P.E.; Carondelet Street, J B Walker; Felicity Street, Linus Parker; Moreau Street, R J Harp; First German Church, J B A Ahrens; Second German Church, to be supplied; Lafayette and Carrollton, John Parloy; Jefferson City and Louisiana Avenue, Chas F Evans; New Orleans circuit; to be supplied; Wesley, Winans, and Soule Chapels, to be supplied; Baton Rouge, C W Carter; Plaquemine and Gross Tete, to be supplied; Centenary College, A G Miller; Thibodeaux circuit, P M Goodwyn.

OPELOUSAS DISTRICT.—A E Goodwyn, P E; Opelousas, John Wilkinson; Washington and Bayou Bœuff, J D Adams, J A Davis, sup; Bayou Mallet, J E Bradley; Plaquemine Brule, F T Rawson; Lafayette circuit, supplied by J H Mims; Vermilion and Junction, H B Frazee; New Iberia, A E Goodwyn; Franklin, Baxter Clegg; Pattersonville and Berwicks City, supplied by J Knight; Opelousas Female School, B F White; Grand Chenire, S J Graves; Calcasieu, to be supplied.

ALEXANDRIA DISTRICT.—J A Ivy, P E; Alexandria circuit, H O White; Harrisonburg and Columbia circuit, E W Yancey; Evergreen and Big Cane circuit, Robt. A Davis; Winfield and Atlantic circuit, J F Wyon; Spring Creek, F White.

SHREVEPORT DISTRICT.—B F Alexander, P E; Shreveport, R Trippott; North Bossier circuit, R R R Alexander; Caddo circuit, S B Surratt; Mansfield, J Pipes; Pleasant Hill, W H Moss; Manny, to be supplied by H L Smith; Anucoco, to be supplied by J M Franklin; Natchitoches, J L C Chapman; Springville, J C Reed; Compte, Jesse Fulton.

HOMER DISTRICT.—Jn. A Miller, P E; Homer circuit, N A Cravens; Vernon circuit, T J Upton; Lonisville circuit, C W Hodge; Farmersville circuit, R T Parish; Minden circuit, T B White, S S Scott, sup; Haynsville circuit, W C Haislip; Mt Lebanon circuit, W P Kimball; Sparta and Bienville circuits, R M Crowson; S. Bossier, N M Talbutt.

MONROE DISTRICT.—J L Wright, P E; Monroe and Trenton, to be supplied; Island and Wright's Chapel, Joel T Daves; Quachita circuit, S Armstrong; Bastrop, J F Scurlock; Bayou Bartholemew circuit, W E Stayton; Jefferson circuit, to be supplied by H T Lewis.

LAKE PROVIDENCE DISTRICT.—W G McGaughey, P E; Lake Providence circuit and Pecan Grove, T J Lacey; Carroll circuit, supplied by T Renau; Delhi circuit and Floyd, B R Duval; Oakley circuit, L A Reid and A W Moore; Sicily Island & Tensas Chapel, J H Stone; Waterproof and St Joseph circuit, F Bell; Ion circuit, T H McClendon; Wesley circuit, P H Diefenwerth.

TRANSFERRED.—Robert Parvin to Little Rock Conference; L M Lewis and Arthur W Smith, to Texas Conference; Samuel J Hawkins, to East Conference; Wade H Frost, to Memphis Conference; R A New, and W E M Linfield, to Mississippi Conference.

LOCATED.—J H Boult, C C Gillespie, W D Shea, Anderson B Fly, J F Truslow, Anthony Cameron.

WITHDRAWN.—Henry L Green.

SUPERANNUATED.—Thomas Samford, David Kinnear, Henry C Thweatt, Joel Saunders, Charles J Halliberg.

MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE.

MR. EDITOR: I intended giving the Advocate early notes from the Montgomery Conference, but a press of business prevented.

The Conference met in Jacksonville, Ala., Dec. 5th, Bishop Wightman presiding. Whoever has attended one of these Annual Meetings, can readily imagine and appreciate the scenes and greetings of the first day. The hearty passion: ate, "how do you do?" "Am glad to see you"—heard on every side, and the smile of recognition lighting up the faces of the preachers, give an interest to the occasion at once peculiar and striking. Such scenes are forever daguerreotyped on the minds of those who are actors in them.

We have good reports from our brethren this year. With a fidelity and devotion to the Church worthy of all praise, they have gone to the mountain and low lands—braving dangers, enduring hardships, and with but meagre support giving the gospel to the poor, and comforting those wasted bereavement and loss had saddened. Though many have had difficulties, undreamed of in more prosperous days, yet there is no flinching—but a general purpose is manifested still to suffer and work for Christ. A very few—compelled by the pressure of the times, have asked for a supernumerary relation for the ensuing year. But the main body is still active in the field.

Bishop Wightman has won all our hearts. His quiet dignity and urbanity, the grace and ease with which he presides, and his rapid dispatch of business, have made his visit highly agreeable and satisfactory. It is indeed wonderful that he has so readily adapted himself to the perplexing duties of his new position.

He opened the Conference with a very neat and appropriate address, in which he ventured the prediction that the year 1867 would be noted for a most gracious, widespread and powerful revival of the work of God in our land. May his prophecy be verified.

Dr. McFerrin, with his great Methodist heart—is here looking after the interests of Domestic Missions. At the Missionary Anniversary on Saturday night, he made one of his characteristic speeches, and took up a very handsome collection. He said we were the Banner Conference, and declared us to be far ahead of the sister conferences in our collections this year. The whole amount for both Foreign and Domestic Missions, is thirty-five hundred and eighty-five dollars, ($3,585.)

Our Conference Missionary Board determined to pay in three annual installments, if possible, the very liberal portion of the Missionary debt with which the General Conference was pleased to compliment us. Hence, fifteen hundred dollars were appropriated out of the collections of this year for that purpose.

The Conference collection, including the Bishops' claim, was forty-five hundred and eighty-three dollars. (1,583,00.) Fifteen hundred dollars were set apart for the Bishops, and the remainder was divided amongst the Conference claimants. Some receiving at least fifty per cent.

By the way, what is the matter with our whilom associates of the Mobile Conference?

At the division, the general impression was that the good brethren there got considerably the advantage in well-developed paying circuits and stations. Most of the cities too are in that Conference, and it was said they had the wealth. We have had a rap or two from some sources in that direction about being behind. It was a little unjust but we here let. What is the matter over there now? Brethren, can't we provoke you to good words? We feel sad to see you lagging by the way.

President Hargrove is here, as a fraternal messenger from the Mobile Conference. He is as genial, blood and smiling as ever, and carries home with him our prayers and best wishes, for his happiness and the prosperity of old Centenary over which he presides.

The question of lay delegation elicited a spirited and pointed debate—participated in by Cottrell, Sheppard, Hamill, Ross and Blue in the affirmative, and A. West and Walker in the negative. The Conference concurred with the General Conference resolution by a vote of sixty to nine.

The other question—the change of the name of the Church—was discussed by the Bishop, Dr. McFerrin and Cottrell. The Conference concurred by a vote of fifty-six to eleven.

The Church is reported in a good condition throughout our bounds. The nett increase during the year was over two thousand members.

The preachers resolved to sustain the N. O. Christian Advocate as the organ of the Conference. We trust to be able to give you substantial aid during the year.

The Conference adjourned this afternoon. I enclose a list of the appointments.

M. S. ANDREWS.

Jacksonville, Dec. 11th, 1866.

APPOINTMENTS.

MONTGOMERY DISTRICT.—M S Andrew, P. E; Montgomery, J Mathews; Heron st. J W Jordan; Auburn, Jesse Wood; E J Hamil, Agent, E A M College; Auburn colored charge, T H Withy; Tuskegee, O R Blue; Tuskegee circuit, B B Ross; Oak Bowery, E B Norton; Russell, W B Neal, J A Pace, sup.; Crawford, Jno. H Lochhart; Loachapoka, L F Dowdell; Opelika, J W Glean; E D Pitts, President Op. Academy; Opelika colored charge, F A Wardlaw; Mt. Meigs, to be supplied.

WETUMPKA DISTRICT.—D M Hudson, P. E. Wetumpka, C D Oliver; Wetumpka, colored charge, to be supplied; Prattville, A J Briggs; Prattville colored charge, Geo. R Tally; Autaugaville, Hardie Brown; Kingston, John G Walker, T L Dentzler, sup.; Sockapaloy, W A Edwards; Carolina, T M Lynch, one to be supplied; Dadeville, W J Davis, J F Dupree, sup.; Tallassee, R A Timmons; Lowndesboro & Hawneville, B F Perry, J M Jennings, sup.; Pleasant Hill, E A West, J A Spence, Sup., P R McCrary, sup.

GADSDEN DISTRICT—T Moody, P.E; Gadsden, P K Brindley; Gadsden colored charge to be supplied; Lobanon, W L Clifton; Van Buren, J A Neely; Sand Mountain, W D Nickelson; Centre, R Nickelson; Cedar Bluff, R N Scales; Cross Plains, to be supplied; Ashville, Robert E Cary; Springville, R J Sampler; M A Lenk, sup.

JACKSONVILLE DISTRICT.—L M Wilson, P. E.; Jacksonville, C A King; White Plains, Robert B Crawford; Alexandria, to be supplied; Coosa River, Henry Young; Harpersville, D S McDonald; Montevallo, R S Woodward; Montevallo circuit, C L Dobbs; Isabella Mission, J T Talley.

TALLADEGA DISTRICT.—J T Curry, P. E.; Talladega, W R Kirk; Talladega, W R Turner; Talladega colored charge to be supplied; Arbacoochee, J C A Bridges; Lineville circuit, E B McClelland; Blue Mt. Mission, C S D Lassiter; Lafayette circuit, E L Loveless; Roanoke to be supplied, J M Towles, sup.; Piackneyville, L R Bell, T G Slaughter, sup., C W Smith, sup; Hatchett Creek Mission, Geo. J Mason, W K Towles, sup.; Fayetteville, D Duncan, H C Stone sup.

EUFAULA DISTRICT.—W A McCarty, P. E; Eufaula, W Shapard; Glenville, T J Rutledge; Clayton & Lewisville, W H Ellison; Enon & Midway, W K Norton; Hamilet, M C Turrentine; Perote, A S Dickinson; Villula, J P Dickinson; Lawrenceville, J W Solomon; Clopton, to be supplied; L Patterson, sup.; Barbour colored charge, W H Wild.

UNION SPRING DISTRICT.—J B Cottrell, P. E.; Union Springs, W M Motley; Troy & Orion, W G Perry; Union, J W Shores & Hugh Gillis; Brundage, J F Dickinson; J J Lathram, sup.; Elba, to be supplied; Yellow River, to be supplied; Mount Ida, N T Leith; Greenville, circuit, B L Selmon; Millville, J K Armstrong; South Butler, H. J Hunter; Greenville and Ft. Deposit, T J F Brandon, W H Morris, sup; Rocky Mount, J A Wethers; Ramer, I I Tatum.

MARIANNA DISTRICT.—L G R Higgins, P. E.; Marianna, S A Polley; Greenwood, B F Blow; Calhoun, W R Talley; Campbellton, T H Timmons; Cerro Gordon Mission, to be supplied; Gordon, T Armistad; Haw Ridge, J A Parker; Sylvan Grove, J L Skipper; Geneva, H P Waugh; Big Creek Mission, to be supplied; Milton, A Dowling.

CAMDEN DISTRICT.—A West, P. E.; Camden; J M Parker; Black's Bend, J P Jones; Oak Hill, E S Smith; Saow Hill, W A Samoey; Farmersville, Neal Gillis; Sepulga, W W Graham; Evergreen, W D Miller; Beaver Mission, W H Carter; Monroeville, W B Donels, F Walker sup.; Mt Pleasant, to be supplied; Pensacola and Navy Yard, to be sup.

TRANSFERRED.

F X Foster to Miss. Conference, James W Brown to West Texas conference, James K Tansey to Texas conference, Thomas J Gooch to Memphis conference.

LARGE BEQUEST.—Mrs. Isaac Taylor, who died recently at Racine, Wis., by her will, after leaving numerous bequests to her relatives and friends, left $65,000 to Racine College, $5,000 to Nashota Seminary, in Waukesha County, and the residue of her property to Trustees to found an Orphan Asylum for the orphans of Racine County, to be named in honor of her husband.—The amount will be from $130,000 to $150,000.

CENTENARY METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, CHICAGO.—The N. W. C. Advocate says: Galleries extend around the sides and front of the main audience-room, sloping gracefully down at the right and left of the speaker to the pulpit platform. The audience room, including galleries, will seat about twelve hundred. A basement is divided into the usual apartments for the Sunday-school, for class-rooms, study, and library. A sub-basement affords a room for socials, with additional space for a dining-room, kitchen, pantry, and closets. Stained glass softens all the light so bountifully admitted. Air, too, will enter in blessed currents. Ventilating flues ascend every buttress, which, with seven other air vents in the ceiling, connect with a main ventilating duct at the summit of the build-ing. These provisions, together with the hot-air warming apparatus, will practically solve the question of "Ventilation and Warming." The estimated cost for the building, aside, we suppose, from furnishing, is $90,000. The basement is now about ready for use, and the entire structure will be ready early next summer.

IMPATIENT HEARERS. — One Sabbath morning the Rev. Richard Watson, when engaged in preaching, had not proceeded far in his discourse when he observed an individual in a pew just before him rise from his seat, and turn round to look at the clock in front of the gallery, as if the services were a weariness to him. The unseemly act called forth the following rebuke: "A remarkable change," said the speaker, "has taken place among the people of this country in regard to the public service of religion. Our forefathers put their clocks on the outside of their places of worship, that they might not be too late in their attendance. We have transferred them to the inside of the house of God, lest we should stay too long in the service. A sad and ominous change!"

Kansas is rapidly becoming the "stock State." The trade in cattle for Eastern markets only commenced this year, and already the Tribune estimates the sales of Douglas, Lyon, and Coffee counties at $300,000. The ferry between Elwood and St. Joseph has alone, since the 8th of June, taken 8,800 head of cattle across the Missouri River. Other ferries have been equally busy. The Lawrence Journal says Kansas must become one of the foremost wool-growing States. There are not less than thirty million acres of choice pasture-land in the State that will be open to public grazing for years to come. Probably from 75,000 to 100,000 head of sheep have been driven to the State this season. Several woolen-mills have already been established, and the home demand will continue to grow in ratio equal to the home production of wool.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—A petition from forty Germans, resident in the District of Columbia, was presented in Senate to-day, asking for the amendment of the District suffrage bill, in such a manner as to put all whites who are either citizens, or have declared their intention of becoming citizens of the United States, on an equal footing with the negroes. The petition was referred.

Secretary Stanton has not yet returned, but it is expected that he will be here to-morrow.

Judge Greer is to deliver the opinion of the Supreme Court on the test oath case. The opinion has been delayed in consequence of Judge Greer's illness. He is now engaged in writing it, and it will be delivered as soon as it is completed.

Another dispatch was received to-day from Gen. Sheridan in regard to Gen. Sedgwick's occupation of Matamoros. It recites nothing new, but presents more urgently the appeal of Escobedo for leniency towards Gen. Sedgwick.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—On the question yesterday to suspend the rules and take up Ashley's resolutions appointing a committee of seven, to inquire whether any officer of the Government had done any act which, in contemplation of the Constitution, are high crimes or misdemeanors, 88 voted in favor, 49 against and 14 did not vote, so the resolution will probably not come up until after vacation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The excursionists will leave on Friday morning on the Southern tour. Vice President Foster, Senators Ramsay, Lane, Norton, Parsons, Sharkey, Alcorn and Hendricks, and Congressmen Lawrence, Ketchum, Newell, Blow, Benjamin, Delano, Hubbell, Blair and Thomas will arrive at Chattanoogo on Sunday. The parties named go positively. Many others will probably dine in Memphis on Christmas.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The North Carolina Commissioners had a long interview with the President, who commonicated his decision both regarding Gen. Sickles' order, and the interference of the officials of the Freedmen's Bureau in annulling the indentures of colored children. The President decided that the officers were in error in both cases. Secretary Stanton has ordered Gen. Sickles to rescind his order prohibiting judicial punishments. Gen. Howard has also issued orders instructing his subordinates to cease interference with the laws of North Carolina, where they bear equally upon the whites and the blacks. Gov. Worth, armed with these documents, leaves for home to-night.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—At the session of the Southern Republican Association on the 18th of December, resolutions and a memorial to the following effect were adopted:

Whereas, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia, South Carolina and Florida, by warring with the United States were subjugated, Resolved. 1. That the Governments of the States named have ceased to exist.

2. That Congress having provided no Governments, the people have passed under the authority of the President, as Commander-in-Chief.

3. That the President's duty is limited to holding the people in control until the will of Congress is promulgated.

4. That in calling the bodies together for framing the Constitutions, the Commander-in-Chief has transcended his powers, and the governments thus instituted are invalid.

5. That it is the duty of Congress to substitute governments founded on republican principles, calculated to protect the life, liberty, property and national rights of the inhabitants, and restrain and punish the evil disposed enemies of the Government.

6. That among the principles for the new State governments are the right of suffrage, eligibility to office of all citizens, regardless of race or color, the exclusion, until relieved by Congress, from suffrage and from offices of trust, honor and profit, whether Federal, State, Territorial or municipal, of office-holders under Confederate or State power or authority, proclaimed by Congress or the Executive, as insurrectionary, whether said office was civil or military; also, all persons who voted for ordinances of secession, or gave it aid and comfort.

7. That the Association recommend an immediate call for State conventions, to frame Constitutions or the institution of preliminary establishments analagous to Territorial Governments.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec, 18, 1866.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson, Washington City, D.C.:

Is the test oath administered in the Supreme Court? WM. H. C. KING.

WASHINGTON CITY, Dec. 19, 1866.

Wm. H. C. King, New Orleans, La.:

Yes, but I hope and believe it will not be in a short time. REVERDY JOHNSON.

MARRIED.

At Dryades street German Church, December 6th, 1866, by Rev J B A Ahrens, MR DANIEL ZEIGLER to Miss KATE HUNNEMARK.

At the residence of the bride's father, New Iberia, La, by Rev A E Goodwyn, MR CHARLES MCVEA, of Clinton, La, to MISS LUCY R, daughter of Dr R C Hilliard of former place.

SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY of the SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY,

New Orleans, December 23, 1866.

AT REV. DR. PALMER'S CHURCH.

ORDER OF EXERCISES:

Opening prayer.....Rev Dr Leacock

HYMN.

Quartette—"Rock of Ages—Led by Miss Beach, (late Miss Anna McLean.)

Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee,
Let the water and the blood,
From thy side, a healing flood,
Be of sin the double cure,
Save from wrath and make me pure:

Should my tears forever flow,
Should my zeal no languor know,
This for sin could not atone,
Thou must save, and thou alone;
In my hand no price I bring,
Simply to thy cross I cling.

While I draw this fleeting breath
When mine eyelids close in death,
When I rise to worlds unknown,
And behold thee on thy throne,
Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in thee.

Reading Scriptures.....Rev Mr Hayles
Report of Society.....Mr Kidd
Anthem—Solo, "Consider the Lillies." Mrs Roach Address.....Rev Mr Mallard
Address.....Rev Dr Walker

HYMN.

Quartette—"Great God, with wonder and with praise."

Great God, with wonder and with praise
On all thy works I look;
But still thy wisdom, power and grace
Shine brightest in thy book.

Lord, make me understand thy law,
Show what my faults have been;
And from thy Gospel let me draw
Pardon for all my sin.

Here would I learn how Christ has died,
To save my soul from hell;
Not all the Books on earth beside,
Such heavenly wonders tell.

Then let me love my Bible more,
And take a fresh delight
By day to read these wonders o'er,
And meditate by night.

Closing Prayer.....Rev Dr Palmer

Anthem: "Glory be to God on High." Benediction. Rev Dr Palmer.

KNIGHT & CO.,

Dealers in

PLANTATION, MILL, & WOOD-WORKING

MACHINERY,

And Agricultural Implements

Keep constantly on hand a large assortment of articles peculiar to our business, and through our agents in the North and East, can fill promptly, and at a small advance above manufacturer's prices, all orders for articles in our line not usually kept in this market

The great change in our labor system necessitates a corresponding change in the Implements used, and we have prepared ourselves to offer the latest improved

LABOR-SAVING MACHINES,

both for Agricultural and Mechanical purposes, at prices that will warrant their purchase.

Also, LEEDS & CO'S Sugar Kettles, Newell Screws, Gin Gearing, &c; and will contract for any kind of work done at their establishment, at their prices.

173 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

all 1y

MASON AND HAMLIN,

MANUFACTURERS OF

Cabinet Organs,

ALSO PORTABLE ORGANS,

Adapted to secular and sacred music; for drawing-rooms, churches, Sunday and day-schools, lodges, &c.

Uniting to a considerable extent the capacity of the Piano-Forte with that of the Pipe-Organ, and costing much less than either.

They occupy little space; are elegant as furniture; not liable to get out of order, and are securely boxed, so that they can be sent anywhere by ordinary freight routes, all ready for use.

FORTY STYLES, PLAIN OR ELEGANT CASES; ONE TO TWELVE STOPS; PRICES, $75, $90, $110, $125, $130, $140, $150, $160, $170, $200, $225, $250, $300, $435, $500, $550, $600, AND UPWARDS.

The MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS were introduced four years since, and are a great improvement upon the Melodeon, Harmonium, and other reed organs, greatly excelling them especially in the excellent quality and variety of their tones; in power and quickness of action, and capacity for expression.

Their success has been entirely beyond precedent, and proves how greatly such an instrument was needed. Again and again the manufacturers have been compelled to double their manufacturing facilities, until they have been increased six-fold. From the most eminent of the musical profession, the most distinguished pianists, organists, composers, and musical directors, the MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS have received an amount and degree of commendation never before bestowed upon any similar musical instrument. More than two hundred and fifty of the most eminent musicians in the country have given written testimonials to the value of the improvements contained in them, and that they excel all other instruments of this class.

FIFTY-TWO GOLD ORSILVER MEDALS, or other highest Premiums, have been awarded to MASON & HAMLIN for the important improvements effected by them, and for the SUPERIORITY OF THEIR INSTRUMENTS TO ALL OTHERS.

Constantly exhibiting their Instruments in competition with others, they have been awarded the highest premium in every instance, but three or four.

For churches, sunday-schools, &c., the MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS are the instruments long wanted,—of the very best quality, abundant power, not too expensive, nor liable to get out of order.

For private use, in drawing-rooms, &c, they are not less desirable, and are finding a place in the musical families of the principal cities.

They are adapted to a wider range of music than the piano, being better fitted for all sacred music and for much secular music, while their quickness of action is such that the most lively, rapid music, can be played on them. Then their cost is greatly less, as well their liability to get out of order.

BRIEF EXTRACTS FROM OPINIONS OF DISTINGUISHED MUSICIANS: "I should think they would become very much sought after as parlor instruments as well as for public performance.—SIGISMOND THALBERG, the world-renowned Pianist. Sure to find its way to every household of taste and refinement that can possibly afford its moderate expense. * * * Far superior to everything of its class I have seen.—L M GOTTSCHALK, the eminent Pianist. Such pure musical tones, promptness and smoothness of action and fine variety of effect, I have not found in any other instrument of the class.—S B MILLS, the eminent Pianist. Really so excellent that there can be hardly be much difference of opinion respecting them. —WILLIAM MASON, the eminent Pianist. The best instrument of its class with which I am acquainted, and worthy a place in every drawing-room.—HARRY SANDERSON, the eminent Pianist. In every respect far superior to everything I have ever seen of the kind, whether in Europe or America.—GEO WASHBOURNE MORGAN, the eminent Organist, N Y. I can only reiterate what so many in the musical profession have said, that for equality, promptness and exquisite tone, they are unequalled—JOHN H WILCOX, the eminent Organist, Boston. Surpasses everything in this line I have ever seen, whether French or American.—JOHN ZUNDEL, the eminent Organist, New York. The best reed instruments in the United States, and your Cabinet Organs are greatly superior, and by far the best made here. —MAX MARETZEK, Musical Conductor, New York. Far surpasses all other similar instruments which have come under my observation. CARL ZERRAHN, Musical Conductor, Boston. Exceeds in my estimation every other instrument of this general class.—THOS HASTINGS. I can recommend them with confidence.—LOWELL MASON. As soon as the public become acquainted with the superior merits of your instruments, your only trouble will be to supply the demand.—WILLIAM B BRADBURY. I have never seen anything of the kind which interested me so much.—GEO F ROOT. Exciting much interest in musical circles, and already becoming the fashion.—N Y Journal. The highest accomplishment of industry in this department. This is not only our opinion, but the unanimous verdict of the organists.—Boston Advertiser. A glorious instrument for the temple service, so readily secured as to be available for any congregation, and effective and beautiful as to meet the desires of the most refined and fastidious.—New York Observer.

The MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS most not be confounded with other reed instruments, from which they vary essentially, their superiority being largely derived from PATENTED IMPROVEMENTS, which cannot be employed by other makers. Among them are:

The AUTOMATIC BELLOWS SWELL (patented,) a most important invention, and greatly the best swell ever devised: being much more effective and easily used than any other. The variety and beauty of effect of which it is capable, cannot be appreciated except from actual use. The many attempts to imitate or find a substitute for this swell, prove its value. None of them, however, approach it in excellence and simplicity.

IMPROVED SELF-ADJUSTING VALVES (patented), secure much more perfect action, durability, and freedom from liability to get out of order.

WOOD'S OCTAVE COUPLET (patented), in effect nearly doubles the power of the instrument in which it is used.

NOISELESS SAFETY VALVES (peteat), prevent the hissing sound often heard.

The IMPROVED COMBINATION REGISTER (pateeted), gives great facility in drawing stops.

Circulars, with full particulars, and list with illustrations of styles and prices, sent free to any address:

Warerooms, 596 Broadway, New York; 274 Washington St. (after Nov. 1st, 154 Tremont St.,) Boston. dec 22 3teow

---

G & T. F. SEARING,

Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in

CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS

No. 29 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

oct3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

D. L CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. F M ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Wenver, Mobile

CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,

oct3 No. 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

RANDOLPH MACON COLLEGE, VA.,

IN FULL OPERATION.

THIS TIME HONORED INSTITUTION IS once more in successful operation, with a FULL CORPS OF PROFESSORS. The chairs of the several schools are filled by able and experienced men. There are five literary and scientific schools, viz: OF ANCIENT LANGUAGES, CHEMISTRY and NATURAL PHILOSOPHY, MORAL PHILOSOPHY and MODERN LANGUAGES. In addition to the above the Board of Trustees have established a school of COMMERCIAL SCIENCE, with the view of giving to the young men of the country a BUSINESS EDUCATION.

To graduates in all these schools, Diplomas are granted and the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts are conferred upon students who accomplish a certain course. The high grade of scholarship formerly required is still maintained. We have a full CHEMICAL and PHILOSOPHICAL APPARATUS for the illustration of the subjects taught.

The location of the College is unsurpassed for health and geniality. It is situated midway between the mountains and the seaboard; and during a career of thirty-three years, and with thousands of young men in attendance, there has never been a death arising from malaria or other local cause. We profess to educate young men not only mentally but physically also.

BOARD IS SIXTEEN DOLLARS PER MONTH. Tuition from $40 to $90, according to the number of schools attended. $250 will cover expenses of board, tickets for three schools, matriculation and contingent fees for ten months.

Rooms in the college free of charge, but the student provides his own furniture, fuel and lights. Young men who are preparing for the ministry and those disabled by the late war who are unable to pay their tuition, will be allowed to attend any or all of the schools free of charge.

This College is situated near Boydton, the county seat of Mecklenburg county, Va.

Arrangements are made to transport students from Ridgway Depot, on the Raleigh and Weldon Railroad, whilst a conveyance leaves Roanoke station, on the Richmond and Danville Railroad, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and the Wolf Trap Depot, on the same road, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

We solicit a liberal patronage from Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina, from the West, South and South-west.

Students will be received at any time. The second term will commence on the 4th day of February next. Young men will be received and prepared for the College proper. For further particulars address the undersigned at Boydton, Mecklenburg county, Va.

THOS C JOHNSON,

Dec22 3t President R M College.

A COUGH, A COLD, OR A SORE THROAT

Requires immediate attention, and should be checked. If allowed to continue,

Irritation of the Lungs, a Permanent Throat Disease, or Consumption

Is often the result.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES

Having a direct influence to the parts, give immediate relief.

For Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Consumptive and Throat Diseases,

Troches are used with always good success.

SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS

will find Troches useful in clearing the voice when taken before Singing, or Speaking, and relieving the throat after an unusual exertion of the vocal organs. The Troches are recommended and prescribed by Physicians, and have had testimonials from eminent men throughout the country. Being an article of true merit, and having proved their efficacy by a test of many years each year finds them in new localities in various parts of the world, and the Troches are universally pronounced better than other articles.

OBTAIN only "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," and do not take any of the Worthless Imitations that may be offered. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

DR. FURMAN,

PHYSICIAN & OBSTETRICIAN,

Residence and Office—199 Baronne,

Between Julia and Girod streets,

NEW ORLEANS.

References: Right Rev A Gregg, Bishop of Texas; Rev J C Keener, D D; Rev W H Bayliss D D; Hon J S Whitaker, Rev L Parker; Messrs Conrad & Son, and Rev J C Carpenter, New Orleans; Hon Geo Williamson, Shreveport; Dr D Yandell, Louisville, Ky. dec15 3m

---

LATEST FASHIONS.

Call for

J W BRADLEY'S

DUPLEX ELLIPTICAL

[Or, Double Spring]

SKIRT!

THEY WILL NOT BEND OR BREAK

Like the Siegle Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary Skirts are thrown aside as useless—hence are the CHEAPEST.

Each Hoop is made by braiding two springs together, edge to edge, forming the STRONGEST, most FLEXIBLE, and still the LIGHTEST Hoop made.

In fact, for promenade, or the house, or the church, the theatre, or for crowded assemblies, railroad cars, carriages, etc., they are superior to all others, affording COMFORT TO THE WEARER, with that ELEGANCE OF SHAPE which wins favor with all, and has made the

"DUPLEX ELLIPTIC"

The Standard Skirt of the Fashionable World.

For misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

For Sale Everywhere.

Manufactured exclusively by the owners of the Patent,

WESTS, BRADLEY & CARY,

97 Chambers, 79 and 81 Reade sts, New York.

CAUTION.

The Duplex Skirt will admit a pin being run through the centre of each hoop, thereby proving there are TWO SPRINGS braided together therein, which is the secret of their remarkable STRENGTH and FLEXIBILITY—a combination not possessed by any SINGLE SPRING Skirt.

The red ink stamp, viz: "J. W BRADLEY'S Duplex Elliptic Springs," will be found upon the waistband of every Skirt; none other are genuine. n24 6m

---

CLOAKS!

F. ADAM,

(Formerly with C Yale, jun, & Co,)

MANUFACTURER & WHOLESALE DEALER

In Ladies' and Misses'

CLOTH AND SILK CLOAKS,

No. 76 Canal Street—Up Stairs.

NEW ORLEANS.

Don't trust to glaring advertisements in the newspapers, but go to THE FACTORY itself, if you want good Goods at fair prices. n10 2m

---

CLOTHING. CLOTHING.

For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.

Now receiving and opening for inspection, at

R. PITKIN'S

FASHIONABLE

CLOTHING EMPORIUM,

Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,

The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior

READY-MADE CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS

Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:

Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,
Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.

A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,

FOR CUSTOM WORK.

He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,

MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,

as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS

To his

Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing

suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.

Also a large assortment of

YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

TRUNKS,

VALISES,

CARPET-BAGS,

UMBRELLAS, ETC.

A call from the public is respectfully solicited.

R. PITKIN,

Fashionable Clothing Emporium,

13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15

oct13 3m

ROBERT SLARK, WM. A. KENT,
ISAAC H. STAUFFER, CHAS. MACREADY

SLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,

No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dorsiere St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.

Importers and Dealers in

HARDWARE:

Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes, Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Paints, Oils, Glass, Hollow-Ware, Circular Saws

MILL STONES,

INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND,

PLANTATION SADDLERY, ETC.

Constantly on hand a large assortment of

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS

Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrett & Cottman, for Sea and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkieson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert King, "Carey," for Cotton: Peoria Premium Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.

Agents for the Vieille Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. oct3 1y

---

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES.

Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in

EARTHENWARE,
GLASS, CHINA,
JAPAN WARE,
PLATED WARE,
SILVER WARE,
FINE TABLE CUTLERY,
WATER PURIFIERS,
HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.

All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.

No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.

L. ELKIN,

Carondelet Street,

3. 3.

Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior

WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN

CARPETS,

RUGS,
WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,

And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as Brocatelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Commission and Forwarding Merchants,

122 Carondelet street, Davidson's Row,

NEW ORLEANS.

R B Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. oct13 6m

H. F. ETHELL, Now Orleans. NAT. H. THOMAS, Late of Alabama.

ETHELL & THOMAS,

FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.

Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.

No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.

Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sep1 6m

---

J. W. MUNNIKHOF. THOS. D. MILLER

J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

No. 190 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep1 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. WM Owen. E Owen

LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 6m

B. S. HARPER. N. J. THAXTON.

B. S. HARPER & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,

GROCER,

And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,

s15 6m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally,

53 Gravier street, New Orleans.

sep15 1y

U M WRIGHT O W ALLEN J HIDDLESTON

WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,

(1st August, 1865)

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

169 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 1y

THOS. B. ALLEN, Memphis, Tenn. JAMES M. ALLEN, PERRY NUGENT, } New Orleans

T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,

(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 1y

P F FOLGER, L FOLGER, W H THOMAS

FOLGER & CO.,

Dealers in

Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,

37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

(Opposite the St James Hotel)

Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

---

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

27 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WM. EDWARDS. } EDWD. J. GAY. } sep15 3m

W A VIOLETT. R Y BLACK. S H SNOWDEN.

VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS

And General Commission Merchants,

s15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. B. LOTT, Madison County, Miss. C. W. WOOD, Canton, Miss.

LOTT, WOOD & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants

65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS., NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Maj. G. O. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

---

E A BANKS, W W LORING, G W VENABLE

BANKS, LORING & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants.

26 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 6m

R ATKINSON & CO: New York. JAMES HEWITT & CO., Liverpool.

HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And Commission Merchants,

188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWISHER & CO., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

---

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,

(Successor to FELLOWES & CO.)

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., New York. LEWIS NANSON & CO., St. Louis.

OBER, ATWATER & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

33 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep15 1y

S. M. SWENSON, N. Y., late of Austin, Tex. W. H. PERKINS, D. I. KERNION, } Of Perkins & Co., N.O.

PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street,

NEW ORLEANS.

SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

26 Exchange Place, New York.

EDW'D NALLE, W. O. DAY.

NALLE, DAY & CO.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,

168 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oct13 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

186 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oct13 6m

E S KEEP. I. CAULFIELD.

KEEP & CAULFIELD,

Western Produce,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.

oct13 1y

HENRY WARE, Of Texas. WM. H. WARE, Of Texas.

H. WARE & SON,

Cotton and Wool Factors,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

oct13

JOB PRINTING.

COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES,

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,

PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,

And everything else in the line of job printing, executed in

The Very Best Style, at Moderate Prices.

Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans

---

J. H. MASSEY,

(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.,)

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 100 Common Street,

Opposite City Hotel.

I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please any and all of my old friends and patrons, and also including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.

Very respectfully,

oct13 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GIQUEL,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

Also, a large and varied supply of

HOUSEKEEPING and

PLANTATION GOODS,

Constantly on hand, at

136 Canal Street,

sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ST JAMES HOTEL,

MAGAZINE STREET,

Between Gravier and Natchez Streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.

This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.

It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof. Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquors equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, as far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.

The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expence to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.

n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,

Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of

TINWARE,

Also,

COOKING AND HEATING STOVES

Of all kinds, for sale.

25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,

Corner Customhouse street,

oct20 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co. JOHN W. MADDEN,

P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,

General Mercantile Stationers,

JOB PRINTERS, AND

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

No. 73 Camp Street.

We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.

We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. oct20 3m

---

D. H. HOLMES,

Direct Importation of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,

AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

No. 155 Canal Street,

sep1 6m NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

82.....Baronne Street,.....82

Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALEY,

Dealer in

PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,

GUITARS, VIOLINS,

And other musical instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper —in fact everything belonging to music trade.

The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. BURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department —charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.

Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.

Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.

Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.

Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.

Music neatly bound.

P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oct20 6m

---

STOVES, GRATES, TIN WARE,

AND

HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.

The undersigned offer for sale an assortment of COOKING STOVES, embracing among the lot the well known Charter Oak, the Brilliant, the Peerless, the American Home, and others of the latest improvement.

Also, a large lot of HEATING and PARLOR STOVES, a large variety of GRATES, and of COUNTRY HOLLOW WARE, etc.

We manufacture all our own Tin Ware, and sell cheap.

CAMPMAN & CO.,

n10 6m 115 Poydras st, bet. Camp & Magazine

CENTENARY COLLEGE,

Jackson, Louisiana,

was established by the State of Louisiana in 1825, and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal Church South in 1845. It is now under the joint patronage of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.

The College exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed, after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.

Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.

Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month

The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.

The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.

The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.

The old students, alumni, and friends of the institution, are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above.

W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALA.

The exercises of this Institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught

TERMS:

Tuition fees per term,	$40 00
Contingent fee,	5 00

Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month

aug4ft W M WIGHTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.

The 4th session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.

The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.

TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $40.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March,

Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in July, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.

Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.

Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D D, New Orleans, La.

As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.

W. H. N. MAGRUDER.

Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE

FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmer; Miss Jemima Constantine.

The Fall Session of this institution will open on the 26th day of September next.

This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattresses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.

The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.

TERMS:

For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—

Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of Instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00
Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.

The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.

After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.

For other information address

CHARLES B. STUART, President,

aug4ft Mansfield, La.

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M.,	President, Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal.
Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Maxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.

Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.

Board, with English Tuition, at $85 per quarter.

The next session commences 10th September.

Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to

A. J. WRIGHT.

D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.

jy14 6m

GUSTAVE VOM HOFE,

Manufacturer of Upright Pianos,

807 MAGAZINE ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Pianos sold at moderate prices, with five years guarantee.

One of these Pianos has just been awarded a Medal at the recent Louisiana State Fair, for superior richness of tone and great durability.

dec1 1y

COAL OIL AND LAMPS.

HILL & VEAZIE,

Having removed from No 31 Chartres street to No 74 Camp street, have received large additions to their former stock, making their assortment of Coal Oil Lamps, and all the articles needful to use with them, very extensive; together with COAL OIL CHANDELIERS from two to six lights, suitable for lighting Churches, large Halls, Parlors, etc; and every variety of Lanterns from the small Hand to the large Station. FISH'S PATENT COOKING LAMPS for coal oil and gas, very useful and economical; also EDDIE'S COOKING STOVES, assorted sizes, heated by coal oil; with many other useful and convenient articles.

Always on hand the best Kerosene and Coal Oil manufactured.

Call and examine.

HILL & VEAZIE,

No 74 Camp street,

n1y Between Natchez street and Times Office

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 163 Camp street, New Orleans.

When was it established? 1850.

Who is its General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev W H Bayliss.

Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.

What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.

What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.

What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans; then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.

What are the terms of membership?

The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.

The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.

The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.

The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.

The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.

Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not: to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S.; by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.

Our last thought is the mercy of the Great Reformation and forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a25 1y.

SOULE'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp corner Natchez—open day and evening.

This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.

For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address

f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address

f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

TURNER & COHEN,

Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,

NO. 57 CAMP STREET.

Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.

These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.

The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of this city. o13 1y

---

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER

And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,

61 Camp street, New Orleans.

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

An Angel in the House.

Our little Johnny, whose second birthday occurred last summer, invariably, at meal times, holds his appetite in check till "grace" is said; and his reverential attitude at such times is strikingly devotional. We recently received a visit from his uncle, who, though seriously inclined, is not a church member. One day during this visit Uncle came punctually to dinner, but Papa was detained; and the time of his return being uncertain, it was deemed best not to postpone the meal. Chairs were drawn up, and the family seated, Uncle taking Papa's place, when little Johnny, with closed eyes, bowed head, and folded hands, awaited the usual blessing. An embarrassing pause ensued, and Uncle whispered to the child: "We won't ask the blessing to day, Johnny." The little fellow but shook his head, maintaining his devotional attitude. Nobody could think of touching dinner under the circumstances, and finally Uncle yielded to the mute but eloquent persuasion of the child, asked the blessing, and dinner at once progressed.

Who will say that such a child is not an angel in the household?

VIOLET.

New Orleans, Dec., 1866.

The Door of Heaven.

It was a fearful time when the steamboat Tyro was lost. It was a long time ago, and almost every one has forgotten it, except the few who had friends on it, and they are almost gone. The Tyro was a small boat, and the passengers were few and poor, so it has passed from the public mind. All the day the bright sun had shone down on the peaceful lake, and everything seemed safe and secure. The passengers had no thought of danger as the night came on.

A little boy kneeled down to say his evening prayers, and as he looked out and saw the western sky all aglow with the glory of the going day, he asked:

"Mamma, is that the door of heaven with bright curtains around it?"

"Yes, my boy," said the mother, "heaven's doors are all around us."

"Well, that is the one I want to go in at, because it is the prettiest." And the child prayed his prayer and went to sleep.

It was never known how, whether the pilot fell asleep at his post, or the lights went out, but when midnight came there was a crash, a shiver, and cries of terror. The steamer had come in collision with a schooner and was sinking.

The little boy awoke. He cried "Mamma, where are you?" and his mother's arms held him fast, even while they sank together in the dark waters.

They came to the surface, and the mother caught something floating and held fast to it.

"Jamie! Jamie!" she said, "hold me very tight."

"Mamma, are we going to heaven? I don't like the way—I'm afraid."

"Never fear, child, God will meet you;" and with all her strength the mother lifted the child upon the floating bale, then dropped it, and went home through the floodgates below.

"Mamma, mamma, where are you?" cried Jamie, but there came no answer. No one noticed the child afloat, for every one sought to save his own life; and the day was born, ran its race, and were dying again, when Jamie floated on shore. The little fellow was hungry, but there again was the glorious gate of heaven, and Jamie thought it was wider open than it was the night before, and as soon as he could crawl off from the bale to the land, he began to run as fast as he could, straight toward the west.

Jamie's feet tottered. He was too weak to run, so he walked straight on a long long way, until the west began to grow dim in his sight.

Jamie saw a man coming toward him, but he did not stop. The man noticed that the child's clothes were wet, that he had been in the water, and he tried to stop him.

"Little boy, where are you going?" he asked.

"I can't stop now," said Jamie; "I'm afraid I shall be too late."

"Too late! where are you going that way? there is no house there," the man cried after him, for Jamie did not stop an instant.

"Yes, there is," said Jamie: "I'm afraid the doors will be shut."

"Whose house, boy?"

"Why, God's beautiful house, to be sure. Don't you know it? It is in heaven. See it grows dark;" and Jamie made one more effort, and fell to the ground, fainting with hunger.

The man lifted him up in his arms, and Jamie sighed, "Mamma said God would come to meet me;" and then he fell asleep. When he awoke he found himself in a strange place, with strangers about him.

"Come, my darling, you must eat some of this," said a soft voice, and the light of the candle was carefully shaded from Jamie's eyes.

Jamie's last thought was of heaven, and his first question was, "Did I get there? Did He meet me?"

And a little girl standing by the bed answered,

"Yes, little boy, father met you and brought you home."

"God's your father, too, is he?" asked Jamie, not yet fully conscious of his present state, "then we'll go home together."

Jamie recovered and grew to manhood—grew to a good and glorious manhood, and to the time when his Redeemer called him home. Jamie never forgot the western door for which he had striven. He never looked upon the gorgeous purple, golden and crimson glory of the sunset without hearing again, in his mind, the words of his mother, "Yes, my boy, heaven's doors are all about us." And Jamie's wish was granted him. One night the shining light came through the curtains, and Jamie went home with the day, and Jesus met him. Jesus who long years before had gone down to the dark flood-gates below to meet Jamie's mother—Jesus who always watches and waits to hear the coming feet of those who seek the gates of heaven.

The Lost Camel.

Some boys, and men too, do not use their eyes. They see, and yet they do not see. Others are wise, and take note of what they see, and the more they do this, the more they can do it.

I will tell you a story of a lost camel, which will show you what I mean. Try to get this way of looking at what you see, and of thinking of it.

This is the story. A man was going over a sandy desert. He met two traders, and he spoke to them.

"Have you lost a camel?" said this man to the traders.

"Yes, we have," they said.

"Was the camel blind in his right eye, and lame in one of his legs?"

Again the traders said, "Yes."

"But," said the man, "had he lost a front tooth?"

"He had," was their reply.

"And was he not loaded with wheat on one side and honey on the other?"

"Yes, he was," they said. "As you have seen him so lately, you can tell us where he may be found."

Then the man said, "My friends, I have neither seen the camel, nor have I heard of him, except from you."

Then the traders were angry, and took the man before a judge. The judge could not find any cause against the man why he should be charged either with lying or thief. Then the traders thought he dealt in magic; and as they did not like magic in that country, they now thought they should get the judge to put the man in prison.

Then the man spoke out for himself. And this was what he said:

"I will tell you all I know, then you will see if I have said the truth. I have lived long in the desert, and even here I see much to think about. I saw the track of a camel; and I knew it had come away from its owner because there were no men's feet after the feet of the camel. I thought the camel was blind in one eye, because he had only cropped off the grass on one side of the path. I know it was lame because of the faint marks one of its feet made on the sand. I thought it had lost a tooth, since the grass was left unbitten in the middle where it had been touched. And as to what the camel carried, I had only to look at the ants carrying away the wheat on one side, and the swarm of flies eating the honey on the other.

So the judge smiled, and the traders, and the man was let go.

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Since our last the general market has been less active, notwithstanding some of the leading articles have disclosed an improvement. Sugar and Molasses have disclosed less movement, the latter evidencing an advance, and Western Produce has been attended with the usual vitality, a better feeling characterizing corn and flour; while operations in our leading staple have exhibited a fair degree of animation and although prices suffered a decline, under adverse advices from Liverpool, yet under more favorable intelligence factors succeeded yesterday in recovering the previous loss, the market closing firm at our quotations.

COTTON—On Yesterday the movement was liberal, and although factors were quite stringent, and the limited assortment on sale, afforded little scope to buyers, yet a large business was done, at prices indicating a reactionary feeling.

Low	— to —
Ordinary	26 to 27
Good Ordinary	28 to 29
Low Middling	30 to 31
Middling	32 to —

TOBACCO—There are several buyers on foreign account in the market, but very little business is doing. Factors are very firm in their views and refuse to make the concessions sought for by buyers.

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to —	Currency.
Good do	4½ to —	— to 4½
Common Leaf	5½ to —	— to 6½
Fair	10 to —	— to 12
Good	12½ to —	— to 14
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec'n	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—The receipts are small but quite sufficient for the demand which is moderate, and the market has been quiet but steady. The sales on Saturday and Monday embraced about 900 hogsheads at 7¾ to 8c for Inferior, 8¼ to 8¾c for Common, 9¼ to 9¾c for Fair, 9¾ to 10c for Good Fair, 10¼ to 10½c for Fully Fair, 10¾ to 11c for Prime, 11¼ to 11½c for Choice, 10½c for Seconds, and 12 to 12½c for Yellow clarified.

MOLASSES—Has been in good demand, receipts have sold readily and prices have advanced 3 to 5c per gallon. The sales on Saturday and Monday embraced 1900 barrels at 40 to 45c for Inferior, 50 to 55c for Common, 55 to 60c for Good, 60 to 63 for Prime, 65c for Strictly Prime, and 64 to 68 per gallon for Choice, the inside prices ruling mostly on Saturday.

FLOUR—The stock on hand is small. Fine and Superfine, the grades most in request, are scarce and prices have ruled in favor of sellers. There were sales on Saturday and Monday of about 5000 barrels, mostly in small lots at $9 for Common, $11 to $11 25 for Superfine, $11 40 for Single Extra, $12 25 to $12 50 for Double Extra and $14 25 to $14 50 for Choice Extra.

PORK—Is in small supply. It is in good demand, but only in a small way. The sales have been confined to small lots to dealers at $23 50 per bbl for Mess.

BACON—Only a small retail business is doing, the demand being confined to dealers who have been supplied at 13c for Shoulders, 13½c for Ribbed Sides and 15½ for Clear Sides.

LARD—The market is quiet, with a fair demand for small or retail lots only, at 12½c for tierces, and 12¾c for kegs.

CORN—Is in fair supply and in good demand at fair prices. About 10,000 sacks were sold on Saturday and Monday at $1 05 for Mixed, and $1 10 per bushel for Yellow and White.

OATS—With a bare market, small receipts and an active demand, prices have advanced 5c per bushel. Their sales on Saturday and Monday of 6000 sacks at 80 to 82 and 85c per bushel.

BRAN—Is scarce and in good demand, and prices have advanced 15c per 100 lbs. The sales on Saturday and Monday comprised 3500 sacks at $1 45 to $1 50 and $1 60 per 100 lbs.

HAY—Is in good supply, but the demand is very limited and only to a small way at $25 to $26 per ton for Ordinary, $26 50 to $27 for Prime and $28 for Choice Ohio River and St. Louis.

BALE ROPE—The business is confined to dealers, who are doing a very small business at 12c per lb.

JEON COTTON TIES—Command 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—The market is extremely dull. The demand for the country has been pretty much supplied, and only a few and small retail sales are making at 24 to 25c per yard in lots, and 25 to 26c lb bales.

GUNNY BAGS—They are selling slowly at 28c a piece.

BUTTER—Northern is in good demand at 40 to 45c per lb sales in retail. Western is in fair demand at 20 to 25c for Common, and 30 to 35c for Choice.

CHEESE—Western is in good supply and in fair demand, and is selling at 16 per lb in lots, and retailing at 17c. Northern is in fair demand and is selling in lots at 15c for Skim, 21 to 22c for Cream, and 20 to 23c for English Dairy.

RICE—The stock of Louisiana is small. The demand is good, especially for the better description. It commands 9½ to 11c per lb, as to quality. Carolina is scarce, and is held at 12c. India is quoted at 9 to 10c.

COFFEE—The stock in the city is light, and the demand is quite active in a retail way, at 25c to 27c per lb, currency, for Fair Prime.

NAVAL STORES—The market is well supplied, but is dull. Spirits Turpentine is selling in small quantities at 62c per gallon. Rosin is held at $7 for No. 1, $5 to $5 50, No. 2, and $3 50 to $4 for No 3.

STAR CANDLES—The trade is being supplied with the very best brands at — to 19c for 12 oz, — to 20c for 13 oz, and — to 23c for full weight.

WOOL—Is in moderate supply and in fair demand. It is held at 12½ to 17c for burry, as to quality, 17 to 25c for unwashed of burs, and 30 to 35c for washed.

HOPS—There is a very good demand for the new crop at 65 to 70c. Bavarian is scarce at 80c per lb.

HIDES—Have not been much in demand, and prices have been drooping. The butchers are asking 9 to 9½c for Cresc, and Dry are selling at 12½ to 14c per lb, as to quality and quantity.

ESCULENTS—Potatoes are selling at $2 75 to $3 00 per bbl. Onions at $2 75 to $3 25; Green Apples at $4 to $7 per bbl, and Cabbages at $5 to $25 per crate.

EGGS—Sell on the landing at $40 to $44 per bbl.

POULTRY—Chickens sell on the landing at $6 to $9 per dozen. Geese at $10 to $12, and Turkeys at $22 to $24.

MONETARY.

The movement in Coin market has been of a restricted character, and rates have continued comparatively steady. Gold opened on Saturday at 137½, and after the transaction of a moderate business, closed weak at 137¼ to 137½, and nothing transpiring to stimulate the demand, it closed drooping at 137¼ to 137½; and opened yesterday under favorable news from New York at 138 to 138¼, and without evincing any material irregularity, closed at 137¾ to 138.

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY,
Wednesday evening, Dec. 18, 1866.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to 12¼
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	8 to 10
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 45
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$7 50 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	7 to 8
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50 to $3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100 to $150
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 5 to $12
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

HORSE AND MULE MARKET.

Saddle and light harness Horses	$250 to $400
Heavy draft Horses	200 to 400
Common do	60 to 125
Mules, 1st quality, broke	250 to 300
Do 2d do do	175 to 210
Do 1st do unbroke	200 to 245
Do 2d do do	150 to 180
Mexican Mules	40 to 80

DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,

(In the Spacious and Elegant Story Building,)

Is constantly in session under able Professors. It was founded in 1832, and is chartered by the State. Its former students may be found as Principals or Book-keepers in a large portion of the old houses of this city and over the Southern States. Ladies or gentlemen can attend the COMMERCIAL COURSE; or Book-keeping, Penmenship, Mathematics, English, French or Spanish, separately. A business education, that enables one to earn $1000, $2000, or $3,000 annually, is the best fortune parents can give their sons. A DIPLOMA from this College is a passport in all Commercial communities. Ladies and Gentlemen are invited to call. We have ample arrangements for 1000 students the present year. Liberal arrangements made for Clergymen or their sons and crippled soldiers. Catalogues sent to all who desire them.

RUFUS DOLBEAR,
nov 17 1y President.

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.

RICHARD ANGELL,

156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles

PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,

Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.

Chill Drops, the best curative known for Ague, Bilious Fever, &c.; Bardotte's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)

Has established himself at No 109 Carondelet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the month and teeth. oc27 1y

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lebanon, Tenn — CHAS. G. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La.

STEWART & BROTHER,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,

NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
o27 1y

J. R. POWELL,

COTTON FACTOR.

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

190 Common Street,

W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & James. } NEW ORLEANS

Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Duck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. G. ELLIS. — W. O. CHAMBERLIN

ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugar, and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jan20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,

46 Carondelet street, New Orleans,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,

General Commission Merchants,

And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,

Wholesale Grocer,

Nos. 8 and 10 Tchoupitoulas Street,

And 8 and 10 New Levee,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,

MUSIC PUBLISHER,

Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nunns," "Guild" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c

oc27 6m 167 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. — D. M. HOLLINGSWORTH

R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,

CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,

Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,

f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

S. K. WALKER. — THOS. M'KNIGHT. — J. F JOHNSON.

R. K. WALKER & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

ao20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

DRY GOODS,

Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS

E PEET—R WILLIAMSON
P SIMMS—J BOWLING } aug25 1y

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.

HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.

Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.

Shipping Furs and Wool bought. jan20-1y

W. G. COYLE & CO.,

COAL MERCHANTS,

Office: 142 Gravier street.

Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.

Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.,

Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

No. 190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. — JOS. HOY. — CHAS. HARDENBERGH

CARROLL, HOY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,

aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 1y

JOHN O. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. — BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.

PARHAM & BLUNT,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,

No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,

General Commission Merchants and

COTTON FACTORS,

57 Poydras street.

Cotton Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug4ft

SAM'L. BARRETT. — GEO. LESASSIER.

BARRETT & LESASSIER,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

118 CARONDELET STREET,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. — A. B. MAY

STEVENSON & MAY,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY,

Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug 18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. — C. B. BRUKNER, Of Kentucky.

HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 142 Grevier Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. — H. R. ALSOBROOK.

WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. al8 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

No. 33 Union Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE. — G. W. HUNTINGTON,
W. C. H. DAMERON. — H. M. PAYNE.
je23-1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. — SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.

TOM & SAM HENDERSON,

COTTON FACTORS AND

General Commission Merchants,

53 CARONDELET STREET,

je9 1y New Orleans

J. C. M'ALLISTER — E. M'NAIR

M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,

WHOLESALE GROCERS,

No. 74 Common Street,

ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

CASY W. BUTT. — WM. FLASH. — THOS. T. ALLTON

BUTT, FLASH & LYON,

Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Carondelet and Union streets, New Orleans.

Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.

Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,

COTTON FACTORS

And General Commission Merchants,

51 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,

New Orleans.

J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. jnly7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. — WATTS, CRANE & CO. New York.
W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.

GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool. feb3-1y

W. A. SELL, — FRED'K. OGDEN, — H. E. WITHERSPOON

WM. A. BELL & CO.,

General Commission Merchants,

And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,

41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30-1y

J. J. WARREN — T. W. CRAWFORD — F. B. PLEITAS

WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

se022 6m

THOS. A. HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. — JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.

HAMILTON & DUNNICA,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

42 Union street, New Orleans.

se022 1y

ROBERT L. WALKER,

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

STAFFORD & WILSON,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 66, Magazine Street,

oc27 1y NEW ORLEANS.

F. O. BARRIERE — O. W. BABCOCK

F. G. BARRIERE & CO.,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

No. 135 Canal Street, New Orleans.

n10 6m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,

Wholesale Dealers in

Fancy Goods,

STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,

HOSIERY,

Furnishing Goods, etc.,

35 MAGAZINE STREET,

Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La

aug25 1y

CHAS. H. CHURCHILL. — PETER G. TAYLOR.

HARDWARE AND GUNS.

TAYLOR & CHURCHILL,

41 Magazine Street, and 20 Bank Place, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) New Orleans, La.

DIRECT IMPORTERS,

We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Planters' Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Novelty Iron Works; Files, English and American.

COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRIND STONES, PLOWS.

Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.

HOLLOW WARE, SAWS, TIN WARE, AXES.

GUNS, NAILS, All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations.

Of all patterns and brands. Country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1832. ang25 1y

WALLACE & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and

PLANTATION CLOTHING,

No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET,

(SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS

Sales guaranteed at New York prices. a18 1y

JAMES SYME,

Wholesale Druggist,

139 CANAL STREET, (Touro Buildings,)

NEW ORLEANS.

Importer and Dealer in Fine

DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS,

DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES,

Fancy Goods and Perfumery.

Surgical Instruments,

French, English, and American, of every variety

Also—

Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags. aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF,

Wholesale Grocer,

COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,

48, 50 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st., aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

A. B. GRISWOLD. — W. M. GOODRICH

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.

Corner of Canal and Royal streets,

[Late HYNE & GOODRICH],

Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!

MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE,

Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.

The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,

HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD

Established, August, 1861

Destroyed, May, 1863.

Re-established, January, 1866.

SALES ROOMS,

C. E. CATE & CO.,

18 CAMP STREET, 18

Under the City Hotel.

We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of

LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF,

AND KIP BROGANS,

Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.

We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.

A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.

C. E. CATE & CO.
feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W. O SHEPARD. — A. L ABBOTT. — ROBT D HUTCHINSON

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,

No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,

Nearly opposite Picayune Office,

CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,

PLATED WARE,

House Furnishing Goods,

AND KITCHEN WARE.

We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.

Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Established in 1837.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,

Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W COFFIN & CO.,

102 & 104 East Second street,

Cincinnati, Ohio,

Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.

Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our improved Rotary Yoke.

All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.

Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

No. 27 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS

Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices.

Special attention given to orders.

Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,

Corner of St. Andrew Street,

oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,

Successors to D. Genella,

112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,

Dealers in

CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,

Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,

PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.

Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,

77 Magazine Street,

oct6 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]

EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL

Hat Emporium,

No 62 CAMP STREET,

Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. al8 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY.

DRAKE & MARKHAM,

Manufacturers of

Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Children's

BOOTS AND SHOES,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

No. 50 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.

We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at no less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.

OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!

Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted wnterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.

Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.

One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.

We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.

Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.

All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of

DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP-STREET.
aug18 1y

A GOOD COOKING STOVE

is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family.

Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delays of your daily meals, may be saved by using the

CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.

Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.

The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top

has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.

The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.

The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove—the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from meats during the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.

The Hot Closet, in which meats and pastry are kept warm for hours when there has been a delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and desserts, and place them hot upon the table.

The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.

Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Edge Tools, etc.

RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,
93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras,
and 565 Magazine street, near Magazine Market
sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN

PRICE'S

Patent Texas Tonic.

PURELY VEGETABLE.

It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels; Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for

CHILLS AND FEVERS.

For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.

For sale at 59 Camp street, New Orleans,

THOS. K. PRICE, Vendor.

Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of

PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,

Or, Vegetable Medicine.

T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:

DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate use and experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therfore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefited.

Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,

We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLON, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City N. O.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Office
T. GREENFIELD, of house of Fellows & Co
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. HINSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce,
New Orleans, June, 1863.

TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$2 00
6 " "	2 50
8 " "	3 00
12 " "	5 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.

All orders will meet with prompt attention.
sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,

PAPER WAREHOUSE,

No. 140 Poydras street, between Camp and St Charles streets, New Orleans.

Newspaper of the following sizes: 22 by 32, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 36 by 48.

Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams' Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Sons Type. sp7-1

J. B. JENNINGS. — J. W. WICKS. — M. J. WICKS.

JENNINGS, WICKS & BRO.

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

aly. 39 PERDIDO STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

G HORTER, Late of Magee & Knease, N.O. — T K PETERSON, Late of Goff & Peterson, Philadelphia. — E O FENNER, New York

HORTER, PETERSON & FENNER

(Sign of the Black Horse,)

MANUFACTURERS OF SADDLES HARNESS, AND TRUNKS.

Importers of Saddlery & Coach Hardware

7 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

a23 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,

17 Chartres Street,

Lately received Carpeting of all kinds and qualities; Floor Oil Cloth of all qualities, which we cut to suit rooms; Curtain Materials, Lace Curtains, Cornices and Bands in great variety; Window Shades, Hair Cloth, Crumb Cloths, Table and Piano Covers, China and Cocoa Mattings of all widths.

oct3 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.

The New Orleans Christian Advocate.

ORGAN OF THE METHODIST E. CHURCH SOUTH FOR THE MOBILE, MONTGOMERY, MISSISSIPPI AND LOUISIANA CONFERENCES.

VOLUME XII.—NUMBER 50. WHOLE NUMBER 616

NEW ORLEANS, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1866.

$2 00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE. OFFICE—112 CAMP STREET.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

THE FUNDAMENTAL TRUTHS OF CHRISTIANITY.

From the German, by Prof. J. B. Aikens.

A PERSONAL GOD.

The momentous question relating to the personal being of God, determines all other questions. But in fixing the true solution of the same, not only the head, but also the conscience and the heart must make their voices heard. For notions rest upon indirect assent of the feeling, and only theorems require ratiocination for a basis.

There dwells in the soul of a man an indirect certainty of the personal being of God. Under no circumstances could this certainty be eradicated. No people was ever without such consciousness. Tribes of the human family may indeed be beclouded, and sink to the lowest grades of animal existence; but then they are in a state of morbid state. Now, what is such a general conviction among all men, to not be untrue. "Many," says Cicero, may have mistaken views of the gods; but all nations as an inalterable law of nature." It follows hence, that atheism is not the necessary product of man's belief, but rather of his arbitrary will. The reasons given in its support, are given to hide the real reason.

Down from the first Nimrod to to-day, have the learned and the good always produced arguments with which to prove the personal being of a God. They did indeed not attempt to prove what was not yet believed, but simply justified this intuitive consciousness to man's adjudging reason. Nature, all around, declares God. However, the proof from nature is not so very direct. God hides himself beyond the law of necessity, which universally exists in nature. Nature hides God as much as it reveals him.

Above all other proofs, does the existence of the world itself declare God. The material nature could not produce the personal spirit, the spirit of man could not produce matter. The design in nature, no less, proves God. Nothing in it is superfluous, nothing without design. Whence is this harmony? By chance? Chance is an empty word, and proves nothing. If a shipwrecked sailor on an ocean's desert isle, saw a geometrical figure drawn in the sand, would he not conclude that some intelligent man had drawn it? Now, the world is more than a geometrical figure. Throughout the universe we observe a divine Intelligence, ruling with wisdom and love. Again, we see God in the history of man. An exalted principle of justice extends throughout the histories of all nations—a moral government is everywhere discerned. Slowly, but steadily, the human family approaches its goal. Even philosophers, who ignored a personal God, such as Fichte and Strauss, acknowledged the existence of a moral government of the world. But is that not simply another name for God?

We find God in our own soul. In it dwells the idea of God in connection with other intuitive truths. We do not create in us the ideas of the truth, of the good, and beautiful; we simply think them. They are not our productions, but are the productions of truth itself. The fact of man's idea of God, is a sound proof of His being.

God is a necessity to man's moral nature, conscience. It is useless to say that conscience is but a certain habit of thinking. Even in the assertion gives the conscience, the asserter, the lie. Conscience is a majesty; her mandates may be disregarded, but she will make herself heard. Conscience is not dependent on man's will. We cannot command her—she commands us. She stands not beneath, but above us. She is the offspring of the divine Lawgiver. The fact of man's conscience is a solid argument for the personal being of God.

Pantheism ignores the God of Christianity, and places something else in His place. Its fundamental idea is: A universal, consolidating, and perfecting principle animates the whole and minutest parts of the world. This principle is called God. But that is not a conscious, personal God; it is the universal life in all living—the universal being in all living—the soul of matter. God exists not personally; He is in the world—the world is His realization, and He the world's principle.

The contradiction of Pantheism lies in its practical consequences. It destroys all religion; for all religion is grounded in love, and love requires personality. But Pantheism, likewise, uproots all moral laws; for it abolishes the distinction between good and bad. So also does Pantheism blast man's hope; for it denies the personal continuance of man's spirit.

Pantheism is a threefold contradiction: to man's reason, conscience, and heart. To man's reason: Nature is conscious, spirit conscious. How then could the unconscious create the conscious? It is an old rule of logic that the effect cannot contain anything that was not contained in the cause. Through all the gradations of being, we discover a personalizing principle. In man, that principle is personified. But whence such universal principle, if it is not one of the world's unalterable laws? And whence these laws, if the principle of the world is not a personal one? To man's conscience: Our conscience demands the dominance of a moral law; but moral law requires a personal God. For law prerequires will, and will prerequires design, and design prerequires consciousness and personality. Lastly is Pantheism a contradiction to man's heart. The world, in its rapid flight, with its constant changes—man with his imperfections, can not be the highest objects of our love and hope. Only in the love to our Maker our heart's are fully satisfied—only that love gives to our frames a healthy pulse. But love is a personal relation. Man's love to God demands the existence of a personal God.

MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

REPORT OF COM. ON VICKSBURG DEPOSITORY.

The Committee appointed by the last Annual Conference, which met at Lexington, Miss., to inquire into the Book and Tract Depository, have had the matter under consideration, and beg leave to make the following report, viz:

When the Federal army attacked the city of Vicksburg, in May, 1862, the whole stock of books, stationary, and store fixtures, was placed in the upper room of a large brick house in that place.

The accounts, notes, business correspondence and books were all deposited by the undersigned agent, with his private papers, in the Court House, when he left with his family to escape from the siege then threatened.

After the city surrendered to the Federal army, the agent visited the place to protect, if possible, his own property, and that of the depository. He then found, that all was either destroyed, removed or appropriated to the uses of the powers in authority there.

The assetts were, as far as recollected,

Books, stat. and store fixtures,	$10,000
Debts due (some unsett and disp),	5,000
Cash loaned Rev. W. Harrington,	1,800
Cash invested in bonds (Conf.)	1,300
Due agent and retained	1,500
Total,	$19,600

The Chaplain of the Federal army, Rev. W. Warren, states that the books were in good condition, when captured and thinks that A. Mygatt claimed ownership of them, and gave them to the Christian Commission of the army; this can be proven doubtless, and that they were carried away as trophies of the surrender of the city of Vicksburg, on the 4th of July 1863, by individuals of the army, to send to their friends at home.

The notes, accounts and Confederate bonds are all lost, supposed to be destroyed when the order was given to remove the contents of the desk, in order that the army officer could use it.

The amount loaned Rev. W. Harrington, was so disposed of to invest Confederate money in something that would be secure and return interest. The bonds, (one of $1000 and three of $100 each) were bought at the suggestion of the President, Wm. Crutcher, Esq.

The cash on hand was retained, as being the amount which would be allowed to the clerks and agent, for services for about fifteen months. There had been no meeting of the board for more than a year when the loss occurred.

Money was offered to the agent during the war, but declined as he had no purpose to which he could appropriate it, no debts to pay, nor could books be bought.

The Agent will not collect from any one now, as he knows of no use to which he could appropriate it. All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. G. Cook, Agent of Depository.
W. F. Camp, Chairman.

MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

The Committee to whom was referred the Sunday School interest have given the subject careful and paticat attention. That they might the more correctly judge of the efficiency of the Sunday School as an agency for good, a survey of the condition of the Church, of society generally, was absolutely necessary. The survey was, of course, quite brief, but was at the same time very thoughtful. Such examination impressed the committee with the conviction that the following propositions will be found true:

I. The religious instruction is sadly neglected.

2. In many instances the homes of professed Christians present few signs of "family religion."

3. Large numbers of the children of Methodist parents join other churches.

4. Many who were baptized in infancy, do, upon joining the church, ask and claim rebaptism by immersion.

5. Of the hundreds gathered annually into the church scores soon fall away.

6. Of those who are savingly converted, a large majority are converted in childhood and youth.

7. There is among the stable members of the church, too little doctrinal knowledge and religious culture.

The committee believe that Sunday school labor will promote whatever is good, and abate whatever is evil, in the condition of the church and society.

Success will depend upon two conditions

(A.) That parents be aroused, quickened, energized, and brought by a sense of highest obligations, to give the institution the heartiest endorsation and support.

(B.) That Pastors come to understand and realize that the richest, most promising field upon which they can enter—a field white unto the harvest, is the Sunday school, and, in humble imitation of the lowly Jesus, shall love the children, and teach them the Scriptures, and lead them to the kingdom.

The Committee feel profoundly that the changed social condition of the country demands that the Sunday school be put forward very prominently. For years to come thousands of children in this smitten and can look alone to this source for the rudiments of education. Shall the source fail them?

Where other and more extended educational advantages are enjoyed, the school is still needed as a conservator of public morals, and a potent auxiliary in the production and maintenance of a public sentiment in harmony with the doctrines and claims of a pure Christianity.

Meeting the wants of the country, fostering the best interests of society, promoting the spiritual development and growth of the church, and leading multitudes of children to the cross and to heaven, the Sunday school should be established everywhere, and every child be brought under its ennobling, saving influences.

With these views the committee recommend, first, That each pastor be urgently requested to organize a Sunday school in each congregation in his charge.

2nd, That each Sunday school be organized into a "Sunday School Association," to be auxiliary to a Quarterly Conference Sunday School Union.

3rd. That each Sunday School Association, so formed, be missionary in its character, and secure to all the territory within its reach, as far as practicable, Sunday school privileges.

4th. That each Sunday school association in each station or circuit, send delegates to each Quarterly Conference of the station or circuit, and these delegates form in connection with the members of the Quarterly Conference, a "Quarterly Conference Sunday School Union" for the station or circuit.

5th. That the Quarterly Conference Sunday School Union supervise all the Sunday school operations of the station or circuit; and incorporate the Missionary element to such extent as to provide Sunday schools for all the territory of the station or circuit.

6th. That each Quarterly Conference Union send Delegates to the District meeting, and these Delegates in connection with the members of the District meeting form a "District Sunday School Union," and take in charge the Sunday school interests of the whole District.

7th. That each Sunday school Association adopt at the recommendation of the District Sunday School Union, a general constitution, subject to such modifications as local causes require.

8th. That the General Constitution prescribe course of study, text-books, and plan of exercises.

9th. That each Sunday school be fully supplied with Text-books, Reading books, Periodicals, Pictures, and apparatus for object lessons.

10th. That the Methodist catechisms be taught constantly, and the children be thoroughly indoctrinated in the principles of Wesleyno theology, and in the Discipline of the M. E. Church, South.

11th. That very special efforts be made to teach the children to sing.

12th. That tune books and instruments be introduced wherever practicable, in order to improve the singing.

13th. That all Sunday schools be prompted by one Spirit and directed to one end: That spirit, the spirit of love, and that end the salvation of souls.

E. D. Pitts, Chairman.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

BROAD AND NARROW TIRES.

Said a Presiding Elder recently, in representing one of his preachers, "Bishop, he's a good man, and gets on pretty well for a year or so, but after that he seems to stick in the mud and can't go forward." Said a preacher who was listening, to one who was sitting by him, "his tire is too narrow." The narrow tire makes the road worse, cuts up and deepens the mud until it is impossible to pull through it. The narrow tire preacher, if he has mind, (and he often has,) won't improve his gifts, he neglects to read, to observe, to write, to think, his range of information is limited, he has no variety of matter or illustration He soon grows monotonous and wearisome, and by dullness exhausts patience, and disperses the congregation.

The narrow tire preacher does not visit the people, does not know the children, takes no hold upon outsiders. He exerts no social and pastoral power to draw to himself the affections of the people, does nothing to kindle and maintain the love that would hide a multitude of his faults. The narrow tire preacher so fills or rather fails to fulfill the duties of his office, that the state of things on his field of work grow steadily worse, congregations grow smaller, social meetings less interesting, Sunday schools decline, and ministerial support more and more meagre, until the road is so cut up by his narrow tire that further travel on that road becomes impossible to him, it requires greater strength than he possesses to pull through. The result is, he must be moved to another less cut up road where he can go forward, but here he begins the same destructive work. My unhappy narrow tire brother, put on something broader, or else you will always be ruining roads in this swampy country, and always be sticking by the way.

The broad tire preacher improves any road he travels on, he levels, crushes, and smooths. He cultivates his gifts, stores his mind with knowledge, he always instructs, admonishes or comforts you. His last sermon seems the best, he is ever looking about, and from nature, the times, or state of his people gathers various and apt illustrations. His congregations grow from month to month, and from year to year. He visits the people, and especially the poor, and those most likely to feel themselves slighted; he seems to extend acquaintance and draw about himself, (that he may draw to Christ,) an ever increasing and widening circle. He is known of the children, they feel that he is their special friend. They learn to love the Sabbath, and the house of God, through their love of seeing the pastor's familiar and kindly face. All social occasions of piety are cheered by his presence, and encouraged by his words and example. Under his well-applied labors, the membership increases, the finances improve, the longer he stays the better he is loved, the more he is wanted. When he is removed, his successor finds the road smooth and easy of travel. Oh that such may increase a hundred fold.

W.

The Foreshadowing of Rain.—Just before rain flowers smell stronger and sweeter because the vapors of the air prevent the scented particles of their perfume from ascending, as they would in a drier atmosphere. Instead of rising above the earth, the odor is disseminated by the moisture. Because the plants are stronger in fragrance just before a fall of rain, we see horses stretch out their necks and sniff the air in a peculiar manner. Animals are more observing than men, and nature speaks to them in a silent manner. They thus are able to prognosticate the coming storm with unerring signs, while man stands bewildered and lost in doubt. — Turf, Field and Farm.

Keeping Bacon Hams.—Make a number of cotton bags, a little larger than your hams; after the hams are well smoked, place them in the bags; then get the best kind of sweet, well-made hay, cut it with a knife, and with your hands press it well around the hams in the bags; tie the bags with good strings, put on a card of the year to show their age, and hang them up in a garret or some dry room, and they will keep five years, and be better for boiling than on the day you hung them up. This method costs but little, and the bags will last forty years. No flies or bugs will trouble the hams if the hay is well pressed around them; the sweating of the hams will be taken up by the hay, and the hay will impart a fine flavor to the hams. The hams should be treated in this way before hot weather sets in.

THE CHINA MISSION.

Mr. Editor:—In a previous letter, I promised you some particulars as to the Mission work in China. Since then, we have received a communication from Dr. Schon, Sec'y Board For. Missions, in which he assures us of increasing interest in the China Mission, but says, "we are heavily pressed with debt, and the future is dark and gloomy; but I am determined under the divine blessing to spare no effort for the full support of your Mission, and will, as soon as possible, make you another remittance."

In view therefore of the pressing wants of this work and an earnest desire to arouse and encourage the Church to meet them, as far as possible, by yet greater zeal and liberality, I propose to give you some statistics as to what the native converts, themselves, are doing to help forward the great work begun in their midst.

By reference to the general statistics forwarded you sometime since, you will see that the whole number of converts to Christianity in connection with the several Protestant Missions here, amounted in the aggregate to two thousand six hundred and seven, (2,607) and the amount of their contribution to $2,988, for the year 1864, or more than one dollar for each member—the membership and contribution of each respective station being as follows:

	Membership.	Contrib'ns.
Canton	160	Not noted.
Hong-Kong	340	$1,000
Sun-tow	68	100
Amoy	924	1,236
Foh Chow	197	125
Ningpo	482	142
Shanghai	273	209
Han Kow	36	30
Cheefoo & Tung Chow	54	107
Tien Tsin	27	35
Pekin	46	4
Total	2607	$2,988

Several Missions did not report the amount raised by their converts; otherwise the sum might have been been larger still.

Now, when it is remembered that the class of people most generally represented in our Churches are many of them poor indeed, and the most, if not all of them, dependent on their daily earnings for the necessaries of life, their liberality will appear as surprising as it is large; and viewed in reference to future operations and success here, is encouraging in the extreme.

Already, several Churches supply their native pastors and support them by their own contributions. Sometimes the converts express a desire and willingness to aid in support of the gospel which has brought glad tidings "without money and without price," and to extend its blessing to others in their midst and even beyond them; but they complain that they are not able. Convince them, however, of the possibility of economizing for that purpose, and they readily make the effort, and sometimes with surprising results.

This statement has been proven and beautifully illustrated in our own native Church, and as it may prove a valuable suggestion, perhaps reproof, to some of our brethren and members at home, I will tell them how our poor, (may I not call them rich too?) Church members managed to make a liberal monthly subscription for the promotion of the gospel, by helping to sustain a native assistant, during our severe trials, while separated from you and from all assistance from home.

I had just been spending an hour in conversation and prayer with two of our young men, one of whom we had recently set to work as an assistant, and before separating the condition of the Mission at that time (1864) was mentioned, and I told them I thought it would be well for them and their members generally to take more interest in its support, and especially in sustaining the native agency, which, at that time, I was exceedingly anxious should not feel the necessities and burdens that came upon us, lest it might cause faintness of heart or confusion of purpose. They mutually expressed themselves willing to make any contributions in their power, but seemed at a loss to ascertain their ability. After hesitating a moment, I inquired if either of them smoked, for nearly all Chinamen smoke, to which they responded in the affirmative, whereupon I proposed to relieve them of their embarrassment in reference to assisting the Mission, by suggesting that I smoked, also, (having contracted the habit in 1-62-3 as a sort of disinfectant, during the cholera season when I was in daily contact with it, and the fatal malaria of the filthy Chinese city)—but that I would be willing to leave it off now, as not necessary or indispensable as rice or tea, and asked if they would consent to do the same.

They evidently had not thought of such a method of giving aid as that; yet they consented cheerfully and we immediately proceeded to enroll our names and pledge the several amounts each was to pay per month, which resulted as follows: —I smoke segars, thought not constantly, hence I headed the list with two dollars per month as my subscription. They smoke the Chinese pipe, with very mild tobacco, which cost ten cash or mills per day, or thirty cents per month, which amount they each placed opposite their names. I then told them, it was perfectly optional whether they continued to smoke or left it off altogether, that if they continued they would have to economize, where they previously thought economy impossible, where help to the Mission was the object.

I afterwards brought the matter before the Church publicly, and acquainted them with the facts above noted and solicited their voluntary co-operation. I was not disappointed, but encouraged beyond measure. Those who formerly smoked thirty cents per month contributed that amount and learned to economize fifteen cents from other sources, wherewith they still indulged the luxury of the pipe.

Now, Mr. Editor, though I would not claim for myself or those above mentioned the character of the good Samaritan yet I hope the circumstances and the example may prove as no levites or pharisees, but challenge all whom it may concern to "go and do likewise." We have struggled hard to outlive our adversities and have so far succeeded, that should the Church come to our rescue at once, not only the life of the Mission will be preserved, but future usefulness and success will crown your gifts and our labors. Dr. Schon encourages us to believe that you have not and will not forsake us. The country is wide open now for the operation of native agents. There is a pressing demand for labors and laborers—the field is white unto the harvest. The country is old and decaying, superstition infests it; the people rush madly on to destruction and there is no hope, unless the Church claim the country as the Lord's possession and this heathen people for his inheritance.

SHALL I TELL THEM YOU ARE COMING?

This haughty land convulsions shake,
And revolution's direful change;
Contract, o'erturn and break:
Confusions rampant range;
Wild rumors of ten thousand ills
Spread consternations wide around;
The trembling nation reels,
'Tis toppling, falling —— down.
Shall I tell them you are coming,
That the signs of promise dawning
Reveal a better day?

Fast on this prostrate Empire feeds,
The stealthy monarch of decay;
Corruption sows its seeds;
Its life-blood ebbs away.
The "Son of Heaven" o'er it broods,
And strives in vain that power to stay,
To stanch the crimson floods,
Or pluck death's seeds away.
Shall I tell them you are coming?

More dark than Egypt's grossest night
The blindness of this heathen place,
Where goblin ghosts affright
And haunting horrors chase,
Gliding shades of superstition
Steal o'er each person, place and thing,
Nightly to their vision
Pale apparitions cling.
Shall I tell them you are coming?

The priests of Buddha and of Tow,
Prophets of Sinim's ancient race,
Before their dumb gods bow,
And vainly seek for grace,
And all these people everywhere,
As vainly bow to wood and stone;
They perish in despair,
For hope they can have none.
Shall I tell them you are coming?

Where the gulf of hell is yawning,
And its sulphurous currents flow;
Down, down without a warning,
These helpless heathen go.
Yea unsubstantial all their hope,
And all their aspirations vain,
They still la darkness grope,
Down —— but I must refrain,
And go tell them you are coming
That the signs of promise dawning
Reveal a better day.

Economize your treasures now,
Increase your faith and hope and prayer,
With richest gifts endow,
And aid Christ's Kingdom here,
Suffice the past for the flesh to've wrought,
Henceforth the senses' sway disown;
He labors not for naught,
Who prays "thy Kingdom come.'
And I'll tell them you are coming
That the signs of promise dawning
Reveal the better day.

More anon.

Yours truly,
Young J. Allen.

P. S.—You may say to the numerous friends of "Emory College" and the "China Mission" that I am now collecting a variety of articles, illustrative of Chinese art, ect., also a number of Chinese books, which I propose to send as contributions to the cabinet and library of my beloved Alma Mater, to arrive before the Commencement in July, 1867.

When ready for shipment, I will furnish you with a list of the articles and the name of ship, etc., by which they are forwarded.

Y. J. A.

Shanghai, Aug. 28, 1866.

THE LATE WM. M. BUNTING.

The following paragraphs, which we select from the funeral address delivered by Rev. William Arthur, President of the British Conference, will be read with interest.

HIS PERSONAL GIFTS.

Every one of us who has intimately known him that is gone must feel as if the world was somewhat less beautiful, the Church somewhat less lovable; as if there was one figure gone upon which our eye was accustomed to rest with a combination of blessed, gentle, profitable, brotherly feeling, that had in its total an individuality which will not be reproduced for us. We come to bury a man who bore God's mark in his person and his life. Providence put a stamp upon him, showing that he was not sent into the world merely to be a common man, or make upon his fellow-men an ordinary and average impression. We have known many, yet there are few whose personal communion will remain so distinctly outlined upon our recollections as that of our brother, now gone. The fragile grace of the form, the finished beauty of the head, and the well-lighted face, the voice so completely in harmony, always striking, in your own heart the three-fold chord—talent, culture, feeling; something there was in the whole that we know is not common, and that we must ever recognize, wherever it is found, as a token of the sovereign will of the Master who gives to his servants—to one man one pound, to another two, and to another five—just as he will, but who, whatever he gives, will require an account according.

HIS SPIRITUAL ENDOWMENT.

What would those gifts that he had have turned to without grace? Conceive him with all his literary taste, with all his poetical powers, and all his tendency to ruminate in thought, with his love of beauty and of solitude, his love of society and of man; conceive of him with all those contradictory qualities which were most strikingly combined in his nature, adrift upon the world of imagination and of impulse, without the saving grace of Christ! You might have had literary characteristics with a moral failure as complete as that of Hartley Coleridge, or some such other name. And if the result has been totally different, to God's great grace be the glory of all. Early the Lord converted him and brought him to himself. What gifts could never have done, grace added to what the gifts did, made that which by nature was intended to be beautiful, really beautiful. O how small a thing is the light of genius when it lights up nothing that is immortal! You pass down a stream on a dark night and see two ships floating in the darkness; one is all dark, but out of the other there is a brilliant light shining from the stern window. But both sink. One goes down with the light shining, the other does not. What is the great difference? Only that the wreck is a little more melancholy in the one case; that is all. But when the grace of God enters a soul that has natural illumination within it, then grace and nature do combine to make a total that is extremely beautiful.

HIS TRIALS.

He was appointed years of feebleness—very, very frequent suffering, great pressure, and much trial. One sometimes wondered how it was that powers such as he carried were not placed in a frame that could have wielded them with greater effect; but, in all that, the Master's will again appears, and those long years of constant feebleness and of frequent and intense pain, had in them a blessing, not only to himself, but for many others. We know that in sorrow he learned to think of the sorrowful; in sickness, to remember the sick; in pain, to feel for those hearts that were bleeding; and, if all the letters he wrote to comfort the bereaved, all the prayers he offered up on behalf of those who were troubled, all the counsels and visits and care that he gave, with a view, as God's minister, to comfort some in distress, could be put together, they would make a wonderful sum of lovely labor—labor carried on under a heavy weight, but under the animation of a blessed spirit, a spirit ever urging him on by its own comforts within to be the comforter of all that were suffering by his side.

HIS ESTIMATE OF RITUALISM.

I oftentimes thought he seemed near death, but the last time I saw him the impression on my mind was that he seemed as likely for life as I had ever seen him. It was at his own table, in company with Mr. Spurgeon and some other dearly beloved friends. He seemed happy, and, as I say, my impression was that he looked rather more likely for life than usual; and yet how very near he was to eternal life, to the full experience of that Scripture, "He hath abolished death, and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." I was very much struck that day with one thing he said in conversation. I have a vivid recollection of the first discussion that ever passed between him and me in former conversation. It was at the house of a friend whom I see now present I was objecting to some practices which he saw no danger in, and which no one who had not been practically connected with Romanism would see danger in. I remember the discussion as well as if it had taken place yesterday. But in that last conversation some allusion was made to the state of vital religon among our own people and in our own families. He used some very strong expressions as indicating his own feeling that real religion was decaying in many quarters, and, turning to me, he said, "And especially where Ritualism is getting in among us."

I said, "Do you say that?"

"Yes," he said, "your speech at conference was directed to the opposite conclusion; but I say it is so; wherever Ritualism is coming in, living power in religion is decaying."

I do not pledge myself to the words, but I do to the sense. It made a deep impression on my own mind. I said to him, "I am glad to hear you say so." It marked a progress in his conviction on that point which I had been sensible of in my experience. Things that, twenty years ago, I thought were trifles; and they who set themselves against Popery were right in knowing that a form, a name, and a word have greater power for propagating an opinion and an impression than any mere abstract article of faith. I never received a deeper impression in my life than from that passing word, that it becomes more and more our duty, in the present state of our country and its Churches, to stand upon God's Book alone, and reject tradition of every kind that would interfere with that Book in any way. Whether they be ancient or modern, or however else they be accredited, the only institutions by which we can really stand, I feel, are those which are immortal by being founded upon the eternal Rock.

EVANGELICAL PREACHING.

I ought also to say that one of his last utterances had reference to the pain he had felt in preaching, and preaching in Methodist pulpits, in which there was comparatively little of the saving Gospel, little of Christ crucified, little of the grace of God in its practical aspects to the soul of man. I would take that sorrow, expressed by such a man as he, to my own heart, and would testify of it that every brother everywhere may take it to his. God give us grace to feel as if we were each one marching, we know not how rapidly, toward that moment when we shall stand before the great Master; when of all our work in the Church, whether as people or as ministers, nothing will remain but that which had in it Christ and Him crucified.

HIS NOBLE CHARITY.

The Lord never removes a man such as has been just taken, without meaning that the loss should be made up to the Church, and I should not do my own duty if I did not mark one particular part of his character in relation to us as a body. He stood a connecting link, aye, and a silken link, between us and other bodies. He had a permanency of residence in London, which gave him particular facilities for that. He loved his own, but he loved all who were Christ's, not with a love that is in word or in tongue, but in deed and in truth. I know there are people calling themselves Methodists, who think they are the better Methodists for scowling upon other bodies. The only thing to say to them is, that so far as that temper goes they are no Methodists at all. Time was when love to a man's own family and name showed itself by hatred of those bearing another name. As Christian influence pervades the land, the better a man loves his own family, the better he loves the family of his neighbor, and that is the spirit among the denominations of God's Church. The man who makes friends to his own body by true friendship to every one that loves Christ, is a better friend to that body than the man who narrowly scowls upon every one else. Our friend's departure is to all of us a whisper of charity, and a call of concord, to lead us to delight in whatever is admirable, to love whatever is lovely, to praise whatever is worthy of praise, to seek communion with whatever has communion with Christ and his truth; and, not merely in secret places of the heart, but in open places, or anywhere, to acknowledge the oneness of the body of Christ.

Gratitude for graces received, is one of the best ways of receiving new graces.

Small faults indulged, are little thieves that let in greater.

The Living Jewel Case.

There has recently arrived in Paris, a Pole whose life has been a long succession of misfortunes. His odysee would fill a volume, and its denouement is not the least remarkable feature.

This man—now fifty-eight years of age—was, in 1830, exiled to Siberia for political crimes, from whence he succeeded, after many hair-breadth escapes, in embarking at Okohtsk for Montreal, where he arrived in a state of complete poverty. He led a miserable life in Canada for eight years, then sailed for Brazil, where he obtained employment in the diamond mines of Tejuco; from thence he went to California, where he collected a small fortune in gold mining, and returned to Europe where he lived in comparative affluence until 1863, the year in which his compatriots endeavored to throw off the galling yoke of Russia.

Notwithstanding his advanced age, he returned to his native land, and joined in the struggle for its independence. Being captured, he was tried by a military commission and sentenced a second time to transportation for life. Nertchinsk, one hundred and eighty leagues north of Tobolsk, was fixed upon as his place of exile, and a small plot of land on the borders of a stream was given him from which to obtain his sustenance. During the summer of 1865, the river becoming nearly dry, he was not a little astonished to find one day in its bed, rounded masses of quartz, mixed and melted with iron ore. He knew this conglomerate, as a substance with which he had become familiar in the mines of Brazil, known there by the name of Cascalhao, and which indicated the vicinage of precious stones!

Improving his knowledge of this fact, he continued his explorations in the bed of the stream. Eight days of fruitless labor, but on the ninth, he discovered in a mass of quartz and oxide of iron, a single diamond—then ten more—and in the short space of two months had collected a number of the precious stones, weighing in the aggregate 180 carrats, and representing a value of $40,000 (forty thousand dollars.) Summer was drawing to a close and he determined to make his escape from his frigid prison. While waiting a favorable opportunity, he continued his search; and on the eve of the day fixed for his departure he picked up an enormous diamond, weighing 75 carrats, and in the form of an almost perfect octahedron. His joy at this good fortune overpowered his weary nature and he fell senseless to the ground.

No wonder, when we reflect that the value of the little toy was near $250,000 (two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.) On a return to consciousness, his great distress was what to do with this valuable stone, a fortune in itself. To escape himself from the country was next to impossible, but to attempt to pass through the Celestial empire—his only means of exit—with such a treasure concealed upon his person, would be sheer madness. But after long hours of anxious thought, his ingenuity found a hiding-place for his precious jewel. He forced out one of his eyes, and in the vacant orbit, carefully placed the more highly prized brilliant concealing it from sight by dropping the upper lid over it.

He then concealed the smaller stones in a belt about his person, and started on his weary journey across the immense steppes and over the road to Semipolatinsk, and reached the borders of the Celestial empire where he was searched and rubbed of his belt of diamonds by the Kirghiz—a wild and savage tribe inhabiting the steppes, who by their habits and indomitable courage, have more than once put in affinity with the Caucasians. The Kirghiz returned a few of the smaller diamonds to him, which he sold at Sonk-Tcheou, the Venice of China, to procure the necessaries of life.

After many dangers and escapes, he reached Shanghai, where he embarked as a seaman on a Swedish ship; and after touching at Hong-Kong, Macao, Touraine, Calontta, and Suez, finally arrived at Marseilles. He is to-day in Paris, and in the greatest misery and poverty, seeking to dispose of the gem, which, at much expense, he has caused to be properly cut. This poor man, who seems to have been the plaything of misfortune through his whole life, cannot find a purchaser at any price, as in developing the brilliant, it proved to be filled with crapuds—small black spots—which render it almost worthless.

The Confession of Surratt.

The statement which we published yesterday from our Montreal correspondent fully bears out the views which we recently expressed regarding the alleged complicity of Jeff. Davis and his Cabinet with the assassination plot. We never entertained a doubt of the falseness of the charge. No man in Mr. Davis position could possibly have lent a moment's attention to the consideration of such a plan, for the simple reason that it would have ruined him in the esteem and confidence of the very people whom it was intended to serve. The idea could only have originated in the brain of a fanatic, and been worked out by characterless and depraved instruments. The statements made by Surratt in Montreal, before his departure for Europe, are consistent with the conclusions of all unprejudiced minds, and are more to be relied on than any that he may have made since his arrest, seeing that the latter are, in all probability, influenced by the hope of pardon. His account of the original scheme was that it was intended to seize and carry off Mr. Lincoln to Richmond; and hold him as a hostage there for Southern prisoners. It was among the rebel conspirators stopping at St. Lawrence Hall, in Montreal, that the plan was changed to assassination, Wilkes Booth offering to perform the deed. Neither the names of Jefferson Davis nor Andrew Johnson were mentioned in connection with the plan, and Surratt protested that neither of them knew anything of their intentions. It seems absurd in couple Mr. Johnson's name with this statement; but such efforts have been made by his radical enemies to involve him in a previous knowledge of the conspiracy, that it is but right that this emphatic contradiction from one of the chief actors in the plot should have as wide a circulation as possible. For our own part, we repeat that the complicity of Mr. Davis was impossible.—Herald.

N. O. Christian Advocate.

Official Organ of the Montgomery, the Mobile, the Mississippi, and the Louisiana Conferences of the M. E. Church South.

OFFICE: 112 CAMP STREET.

Three Dollars a Year, in Advance.

Address: Rev. J. C. Keener, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans.

Agents.—All the members of the patronizing Conferences.

CONFERENCE PUBLISHING COMMITTEES.

FOR MOBILE CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. Hamilton, D.D.,
Rev. A. H. Mitchell, D.D.,
Rev. Thos. W. Dorman, D.D.

FOR MONTGOMERY CONFERENCE:
Rev. H. N. McTyeire, D.D.,
Rev. M. S. Andrews,
Rev. William A. Shapard.

FOR MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE:
Rev. W. H. Watkins, D.D.,
Rev. H. H. Montgomery,
Rev. William P. Barton.

FOR LOUISIANA CONFERENCE:
Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D.,
Rev. J. E. Walker, D.D.,
Rev. Linus Parker.

NEW ORLEANS:
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29, 1866.

Notice to Subscribers.

On the printed direction which is pasted upon their papers, our subscribers will notice the date of the commencement of their subscriptions. This date indicates that the subscription year of many of them is about ended. All who wish to RENEW will please take notice.

Post Offices.—Notice to Preachers.

We have the addresses of Preachers of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences. Those of the Mobile and Montgomery Conferences will please forward. State distinctly from what to what place the change is to be made.

Vicksburg District — Miss. Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Port Gibson station, ...Dec 29, 30
Rocky Springs, ...Jan 12, 13
Fayette circuit, at Fayette. ..Jan 19, 20
Vicksburg station, ...Jan 26, 27
Warren circuit, at Bethel, ...Feb 2, 3
Cayuga circuit, at Bear Creek, Feb 9, 10
Raymond, ...Feb 16, 17
Bartonton circuit, at Zion....Feb 23, 24
North Warren circuit.....Mar 2, 3

A full attendance of the Official Board in each charge is earnestly requested.

Geo. H. Clinton, P. E.

Brookhaven District, Miss. Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Brookhaven, ...Dec 22, 23
Hazlehurst circuit, Hazlehurst, Dec 29, 30
Wesson & Beauregard, at B'd, Jan 5, 6
Crystal Springs, at C. Springs, Jan 12, 13
Holmesville, at Magnolia, ...Jan 19, 20
Bogue Chitto, at Bogue Chitto Jan 26, 27
Meadville, at Meadville.....Feb 2, 3
Scotland, at Sweetwater, ...Feb 9, 10
Pearl River, at Sartin's Church Feb 16, 17
Bayou Pierre, at Rehoboth... Feb 23, 24

W. G. Millsaps, P. E.

Homer District, Louisiana Conference.

FIRST ROUND OF QUARTERLY MEETINGS.

Homer circuit, ...Feb 2, 3
Vernon circuit. .....Feb 9, 10
South Bossier, at Belleview...Feb 16, 17
Farmersville.....Feb 23, 24
Haynesville, at Haynesville,..March 2, 3
Sparta & Bienville, at Sparta, March 9, 10
Mount Lebanon, ...March 16, 18
Minden, at Minden, ...March 23, 24
Lewisville.....March 30, 31

Where it is not mentioned above, the preachers will please let me know at once the places at which their Quarterly Meetings are to be held. Address me at Minden, La.

Each circuit is earnestly requested to send a Steward to attend a District Steward's Meeting to be held at Homer, Thursday, 7th Feb., at 11 a. m.

John A. Miller, P. E.

Change of Name and Lay Delegation.

We compile from our exchanges the following vote on these subjects, and will continue to add from time to time until all the Conferences are heard from.

Conferences.	Change of Name. For	Against	Lay Delegation For	Against
Missouri	28	30	40	19
St. Louis	26	12	19	19
Arkansas	24	19	16	29
Louisville	35	31	57	10
Kentucky	45	7	47	4
W. Virginia	15	7	21	1
Holston	51	2	47	7
N. W. Texas	28	00	26	00
Tennessee	55	48	58	41
Memphis	78	43	65	51
N. Carolina	69	3	49	23
Pacific	37	8	40	1
Virginia,	64	47	73	26
Mobile	18	42	34	30
Mississippi,	36	52	32	45
Georgia,	109	3	116	16
Montgomery,	56	11	60	9
Louisiana	15	19	8	27
Florida	41	2	40	2
East Texas,	36	6	36	6
Texas,	27	0	26	1
West Texas,	23	0	23

MARRIED.

On December 11th, 1866, by Rev John F Wynn, Rev W W Drake, of the Mississippi Conference, to Miss Allos, daughter of Joseph Gorton, Esq, of Waterpro

CHRISTMAS AMONG THE CHILDREN.

On Christmas eve the Moreau Street Sabbath School held a festival enlivened by speeches, songs, and gifts. We hear a good account of the performance of the children, that the whole affair was a delightful prelude to the time honored holiday.

Not capable of two celebrations at one time, we enjoyed that which transpired on the same eve at the Caronpelet Street Church. We had a grand time. There a stage was erected, and upon it a Christmas tree planted. A curtain stretched before the tree until after the speaking, lest the fruit thereof should distract the eyes and ears of the interested audience. At 7 o'clock the singing and speaking began, and as these alternated we highly commended the industry of the officers and teachers who had trained the children so well. The songs were for the most part new, and delightfully sung. There were several dialogues spoken. This had the advantage of giving life to the occasion; and we made a note, that action is more important than words when little children appear before a large audience. It is a pretty sight to see very little girls, all in white and pink, talking about the Savior.

A goodly number of lads represented Jacob and his sons, and acted the story of Joseph. They went through the whole without a single mistake or correction. The audience was deeply interested in that inimitable and pathetic history. We never had before reflected upon the great affluence and fitness of it for stage representation, and could but imagine it produced with all the proper accessories of scenery and costume. It is a wonder that some modern manager has not attempted to bring upon the stage this greatest story of human life—though we would not go to the theatre to see it, if it had a run of a thousand nights.

It was our misfortune to be compelled to leave this entertainment at the most critical moment, when the presents were distributed to the school. The teachers and children had prepared an agreeable surprise for the Pastor and the Superintendant; to one they gave some choice silver ware, and to the other an elegant writing desk. We were to have made a suitable speech on the occasion, but, not knowing the honor intended, left too soon. Else should have tried very hard to "find words to express" the good will embodied in those shining gifts.

The Dryades Street German Sabbath School and the Crap's Street German Sabbath School had their festivals on Christmas night. We had received a hearty invitation, and with a number of American ladies and gentlemen, visited Dryades street, and witnessed, at fountain head, a genuine Christmas "Fest." Germany has always seemed to us to be the great source of Christmasses. There all the toys are made, without which many of our readers will agree that Christmas would have been a very common place thing. The German imagination delights in the evergreens and holy traditions which belong to this venerable feast-day.

Upon entering the church we found the Sabbath school seated, and quite absorbed in gazing at the grandest Christmas tree one ever saw. It was belted with five rings of candles, rising from the lower limbs to the very top, which was surmounted by a single wick, while all over the tree were hanging a vast variety of cakes, fruits, frosted sweet meats and plums. Floating under its shade were birds with open wings depending by almost invisible elastic threads. All around the platform was a vast quantity of German toys duly numbered and arranged.

We shall not be able to convey to the reader any notion of the excellent singing which we heard during the evening. All the parts of a piece were sung with distinctness and in perfect harmony. The little children sang with propriety and spirit, while old ladies and gentlemen, wearing spectacles, sat with note book in hand and swelled in rich and varied tones the holy anthems. An organ would have disturbed the effect, certainly would have impaired the music. These old-country people have got entirely beyond the instrumental period in church music. An instrument is a great help, and valuable, where the congregation do not generally understand the art of singing; but so soon as that is acquired, the organ becomes a hindrance. No artificial sound can equal in freedom, sweetness, and soul stirring notes the human voice, especially when a thousand souls of Asaph unite as by a single inspiration in sacred hymn. When will our people imitate the Germans, and make their boys learn music. Why whip grammar into a boy that he may talk: why not rather whip music into him that he may sing! One is certainly as suitable as the other. And then as to grown-up people sitting in church without ever so much as attempting to sing—we doubt if one ought to be allowed to go to church more than once on Sabbath, who will not sing.

After the speaking and the singing, the toys and the good things were distributed to the children, and congregation. All came in for a share of "happy christmas."

At Craps street we hear everything went off grandly. The audience was large, the speaking good, the singing delightful, and all the surroundings were admirably adapted for impressing christmas upon both eye and ear, and the palate.

Thus in innocence among the children passed this festal day. A day which by common consent of christendom signifies the period of the divine birth, may, without Romish superstition, be observed profitably. The wonderful fact that God was "with us" is enhanced by the form in which he first appeared. The Savior thereby forever hallowed infancy—that sweet expression of dependent life, typing the true spiritual child of God. To little children the Holy Spirit revealed the King, and tuned their lisping tongues with hosannas. The children of his people came up before the mind and heart of the risen Savior in his last Episcopal charge. Our Heavenly Father has ordered that the angel's song over Bethleham shall be caught up by children, and by them be wafted to every plain and clime, and age: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

ROME.

After holding Rome against Italy for sixteen years the French troops evacuated the Eternal City on the 11th of this month. We suppose that a form of power still remains with His Holiness—the black and yellow striped Papal Guard. The charmed circle of this "Vice Gerent" has been invaded by mortal bayonets, and "My Lord Pope" has been outwitted at his own game. It is high time, for the Society of Jesus now holds the Church of Rome by the throat. She falls down before the Virgin Mary as before God; and declares that not the Holy Scriptures, but the Church is the voice of God.

WITHDRAWAL OF THE FRENCH TROOPS.

The territory of Rome was thus left out of the realm of Victor Emanuel, as a sort of compromise made by Napoleon to allow the Pope an undisturbed possession of the "Eternal City," instigated to this act principally by the Empress Eugenie, who was deeply sympathetic with the interests of Papacy. The people of Italy were dissatisfied at this compromise, as they were anxious to have Rome as their capital, both on account of its natural adaptability to that purpose, and because of the halo which hovers around its record, bleuding as it does its ancient renown with most of what is glorious in Italian history. England remonstrated with the Pope, and Lord Palmerston, in behalf of England, urged the Emperor of France to evacuate Rome, on the ground that its further occupation was a violation of the existing and necessary balance of power in Europe. A secret convention was accordingly made and signed at Paris on September 15, 1864, between France and the Kingdom of Italy, concraing the evacuation of Rome by the French troops. The Italian Government engaged to respect the actual territory of the Holy See, and to prevent by force every outside attempt which might be made against it. France engaged to withdraw gradually its troops and to complete the evacuation of Rome within two years. The Roman Government was authorized to recruit the troops requisite for maintaining the authority of the Holy Father. The Kingdom of Italy declared its readiness to assume a portion of the debt of the Roman States; and the King of Italy, in a special protocol, pledged himself to transfer the seat of his government from Turin to some other city within a delay of six months from the conclusion of the treaty. Thus Florence became the capital of Italy, and Napoleon, according to his part of the contract, has been lately withdrawing his troops from Rome. The temporal power of the Papacy, no longer supported at Rome by French bayonets, seems to be on the verge of downfall in Italy. Church and State are virtually divorced. In recent issues of the Herald the specific facts of the evacuation of Rome have been given in cable dispatches from time to time, as the various regiments have been withdrawn from the garrisons of that city. And the cable dispatch of yesterday, Dec. 11, announced that the evacuation of Rome by French troops will be virtually completed to-day.

Meanwhile, "St. Peter's successor" opens his mouth and speaks great things:

The Pope has distributed to the cardinals two additional allocutions. In the first he deplores the persecutions of the Church by the Italian Government, the suppression of the religious orders, the secularization of the ecclesiastical property, and the law of civil marriage. All these acts he condemns, and declares to be null and void, and repeats the censures of the Church against their authors. Nevertheless, his holiness declares he records his benediction to Italy. The Pope further protests against the invasion and usurpation of the pontifical provinces, and against the revolutionary project of making Rome the capital of the new kingdom. He states that the temporal power is indispensable to the independence of the spiritual power, and declares that he is ready even to suffer death for the maintenance of the sacred rights of the Holy See, and if necessary to seek in another country the requisite security for the better exercise of his apostolic ministry. Finally, his holiness prays that Italy may repent of the evils which she has brought upon the Church.

BRITISH HONDURAS.

We shall publish, from time to time, extracts from some valuable letters which have appeared in the N. O. Crescent. We are acquainted with Mr. Putnam, and estimate highly his opinion of the resources and desirableness of Honduras. We saw specimens of cane, coffee, cacao and other products brought by him, and they fully confirm all that he says of that fertile region. Vessels leave here every few weeks for Balize. The voyage is about equal to twice the distance to Havanah, and costs $30 in gold. The country is entirely under the government of Great Britain, and has been exempt from the civil wars which, for more than quarter of a century, have distracted Mexico. Lands, fifty cents per acre. Mr. Putnam is at present in the city, and is busy answering the many letters of inquiry which pour in upon him daily.

Belize, British Honduras, Nov. 5, 1866.
Col J O Nixon, Editor N O Crescent.

Dear Sir—My last communication to you was under date of August 3d, (giving you little else than full copy of the laws of this colony,) since when I have enjoyed better opportunities of examining the different sections of this country, and consequently am much more competent to express an opinon as to, its climate, agricultural and other resources, people, etc., and the advantages it offers to immigrants.

It is not my purpose to enter into details in this letter; those I must reserve for subsequent communications; but I will briefly state my conclusions as to the leading points which have come under my observation.

First: The soil, varying in extent and depth in different sections of the country according to its geological conformation, is of almost inexhaustible fertility, and produces indigenously, sugar cane of most superior quality, two crops of rice per annum, two to three crops of corn per annum, (there being three different varieties, each maturing respectively in two, three, and four months from date of planting), coffee, tobacco, indigo; every variety of esculent and tuberous plants; every kind of vegetable ordinarily grown and used in the Southern States; every species of animal and fowl requisite for the agriculturalist, thrive and increase with the most ordinary care, particularly poultry of all kinds, which propagate with astonishing rapidity. Most of the woods valuable in commerce, mahogany, logwood, fustick, etc., etc.; and over fifty different kinds of tropical fruits, prominent among which are the orange, lime, lemon, pineapple, bananas, plaintains, pomegranates, etc., etc. Since the 9th of July last I have been in different parts of the country, exposed to all the changes of weather, and can say most truthfully, that I have not suffered as much from the heat as I have done in New Orleans or in New York in former days; while the prevalence of a sea breeze has made the weather more pleasant than I ever experienced in New Orleans at the same season of the year.

From the appearance and statements of the inhabitants in the localities which I have visited, I am convinced they are equally as healthy, if not more so, than those of the interior of Louisiana or Mississippi, which I have been in the habit of visiting in former years.

But, upon this or any other material point, I have been unwilling to rely upon my own judgment, and have sought that of others more competent, who have had greater experience and more thorough opportunities upon which to predicate a correct and impartial opinion, and will, therefore, refer to the letter of Dr. W. A. Howard (an experienced and successful physician of high professional skill and attainments, who has practiced several years in the United States), in response to one from me, asking his opinion upon this subject, especially:

Belize, British Honduras, Aug. 21, 1866.

James M. Putnam, Esq.—My Dear Sir:—Your note of the 18th inst., is at hand, and I take much pleasure in replying to your inquiries. In answer to your question "as to how the health of this place compares with that of places where I have resided in the United States?" I can answer very favorably. I have practiced medicine three years in Jackson county, Georgia; seven years in the parish of St. Mary, at Berwick's Bay, La., and two years and a half in Belize, British Honduras; and my experience is that the mortality from all causes in proportion to the number of cases is much less here than it is in the United States. In reply to your question as to "what character of diseases prevails here?" I may say that the prevailing diseases here are bilious, intermittent and remittent fevers, diarrhea, dysentry and rheumatism, prevail, to a certain extent, at some seasons of the year; billous and remittent fevers may be said to be endemic, as they prevail at all seasons more or less. As to the virulence of the diseases of this country compared with the same class in the United States, my experience is that they are much milder and consequently more amenable to treatment. I may mention that I have not seen typhus or typhoid fever here, nor that malignant form of bilious fever known in the Southern and Western States as congestive or pernicious fever. So far as I have been able to observe the climate and salubrity of this place will it compare favorably with any part of the Southern States where I have resided. I remain, very truly, your most obedient servant, (Signed,) W. A. Howard, M. D.

It is my intention to furnish you with the meteorological tables for this season since July last, which are kept here with much care, by which it will be shown, that while the residents of New Orleans, New York, and even St. Paul, Minnesota, were sweltering under the influence of oppressive heat, with the thermometer at ninety-six to one hundred degrees Fahrenheit in the shade, and the New York papers brought us accounts of some seventy odd cases of sun stroke per day, we were enjoying the balmy and invigorating influences of a sea breeze, with the thermometer not higher than eighty-seven to ninety degrees Fahrenheit at midday. During the months of July, August, September and October, I found it requisite for my comfort to use a blanket covering every night, with the exception of ten or twelve nights, when the land wind prevailed and brought with it mosquitoes, sandflies and heat: nor have I had occasion to use a musquito-bar at any time, excepting on those occasions. Nowhere, or at any time, have I found the annoyance from musquitoes or the disgusting house fly, with which I have been so steadily molested in Louisiana and Mississippi during the spring and summer months.

March—Dry from about the 15th; wind east, or east by north.

April Dry; wind east or east by north.

May Dry to the 15th, 20th, then light rains; wind east, or east by north, land winds at night, atmosphere charged with electricity.

August 15th—Like July from the 15th (sometimes) fine and dry, very hot; wind east, or east by north, land winds at night, atmosphere charged with electricity, squalls from all quarters.

August 15th to September—Light rains and dry days; wind east, or east by north, land winds at night, atmosphere charged with electricity—no more thunder storms.

October—Heavy rains and floods; wind N. and N. E., land winds at night.

November—Rains frequent but light; wind N. and N. E., land winds at night.

December—Light winds and fine days; wind N. and N. E., land winds at night, squally.

January—Light rains and fine days; wind N. N. E. and E.

February—Light rains and fine days; wind N. N. E. and E.

First half of March—Light rains and fine days, wind N. N. E. and E.

March, April, May, June—Dry season.

July, August—Rainy season.

October, November, December, January, February, first half of March—Middle season.

Notwithstanding the very many advantages which this colony offers in its almost primitive state to the industrious poor man, (for whom I can conscientiously say it is the best country I ever saw,) no one should come to it expecting to find an Elysium or Eldorado paved with gold and silver. On the contrary, they must make up their minds to find some things distasteful to them, (which I will certainly point out in subsequent numbers of my correspondence,) and that if they would attain independence and affluence, they can only do so by the same perseverance and industry, and overcoming of difficulties (which, owing to the bountiful gifts of nature, are much fewer than anywhere else I have ever been,) that they would exercise elsewhere. This is no place for the sluggard, but an industrious man will be a thousand fold repaid for his labor.

I am not attempting to induce any one who has a comfortable home to leave it, or to leave their country. My labor is given for the dissemination of intelligence, which is eagerly sought by thousands, who may be in search of a place wherein to build a new home for their families. Will write you again at first leisure.

Very respectfully your obedient servant,
Jas. M. Putnam.

NEW BOOKS.

Brazil.—The Home for Southerners. A Practical Account of what the Author and others who visited that country for the same objects, saw and did while in that Empire. By Rev. Ballard S. Dunn. New York, Geo. B. Richardson. Bloomfield & Steel, New Orleans, 1866.

Mr. Dunn seems to have possessed unusual facilities for visiting the Empire in the neighborhood of Rio. Juneiro. After several excursions he selected a tract of land on the Jugnia River in the Province of Jan Paulo. We cannot do better than present to our readers an extract, to give some idea of what he has accomplished:

The following is a literal translation from the Portuguese, of the terms upon which this land has been given into my hands.

Rio de Janeiro, June 30, 1866.

Directory of Public Lands.

By order of His Excellency, The Minister of Agriculture, I have to declare to Rev. Ballard S. Dunn, the following:

1st. The price of the land selected, is one real per square brace, (footing up forty-one and three-quarter cents per acre,) inclusive of the expenses of measuring and marking.

2d. The quantity of land that each emigrant can take, will be regulated by him, and the said Rev. Ballard S. Dunn, who will be held responsible for the respective payments to the government.

3d. The lands being selected, the said Rev. Ballard S. Dunn will receive a provisional title clearly indicating the respective limits; and this title will be exchanged for another definite one of the property, so soon as the value of the lands occupied is paid into the treasury.

4th. All implements of agriculture, manufactures, machines, and utensils which the emigrants bring with them, for their own use, will be exempt from import duties.

5th. The government will immediately make provisional housing, for the reception of the emigrants.

6th. As to transport, the government will pay the freightage of one vessel, for every two vessels freighted by Rev. Ballard S. Dunn, and bringing emigrants; or will advance the cost of the passage of such emigrants, after their arrival in Brazil, the said gentlemnn (Duan) becoming responsible for the reimbursement of the money within the term of three to four years. This responsibility will be made effective by a mortgage of the lands that he may purchase in the Empire.

7th. The emigrants will be able to disembark at Iguape, without passing through Rio de Janeiro, if the government receives a communication, through the intermediacy of the Brazilian consul, or vice consul, of their coming, in a mode to afford time to transmit orders for that purpose, seeing that said port has no custom house.

God have you in care.

[Signed]

Bernardo Augusto Nacente Azamurja
Reverendo, Ballard S. Dunn.

Life of Stonewall Jackson—From Official Papers and Personal Acquaintance. By a Virginian. New York, Charles B. Richardson. 1866.

The writer of this volume confines himself to the official Reports and newspaper narratives contemporaneous with the campaign of the illustrious Jackson. A large amount of valuable information is compressed in this twelve mo. book. For sale by Messrs. Bloomfield & Steele, No. 60 Camp street, New Orleans.

Fire at Vicksburg.—News of a terrible fire occurring in this doomed city, states that 12 lives were lost, 108 houses burned, $1,500,000 of property destroyed. The principal business street of the place lost 34 large stores by it.

THE FLORIDA CONFERENCE.

The Florida Annual Conference held its twenty-third session at Quincy, Florida, beginning Dec. 13th, 1866.

Bishop H. N. McTyeire was present, and by the dignity, kindness, and impartiality of his manner, impressed the Conference as favorably as any of those to whom the Church has committed the responsible office of Bishop, and whom it has been our pleasure to have with us heretofore. Indeed, none in the Conference speak of him but in terms of the highest praise.

We have lost our esteemed brother, S. P. Richardson, who was transfered to the Mobile Conference, and is appointed Agent for the American Bible Society in the State of Alabama. Our best wishes and prayers go with him.

We have also lost, by death, Dr. Thos. H. Capers, Francis M. Wilson, and Malton Bedell. The first named had been with us only three years, but in that short time had won the confidence and affection of all who knew him, both preachers and people, and who mourn his death as an irreparable loss to the Church and Conference.

We admitted on trial Nathan Talley and Ernest Crum. There remain on trial, John M Potter and Elijah S. Tyner. Alfred Holcombe, William S. Rice, Americus V. Mann and David L. Branning, were discontinued at their own request.

J. O. A. Sparks was admitted into full connection and ordained deacon.

Robert H. Rogers was readmitted on a certificate of location granted by the Georgia Conference.

The deacons of one year are Robert F. Evans, Oscar A. Myers and Marshall G. Jenkins.

Wm. C. Jourdan was elected and ordained elder.

There were ten white and two colored local preachers elected to deacon's orders of whom the Bishop ordained eight whites, and one colored.

There were six local preachers elected to elder's orders, and four were ordained.

Wm. F. Roberts, Joshua A. Carraway and George S. Johnston, were located at their own request.

Marshall G. Jenkins, Aaron W. Harris, John Peany, James M. N. Lowe, Andrew R. Byrd, George W. Fagg, Stephen W. Carson and G. W. Pratt, were granted a supernumerary relation.

The supernumerated preachers are—Wm. W. Griffin, Edwin L. T Blake, Thos. Taylor, Thos. C. Coleman, David Roberts, and Capel Raiford.

The name of Alexander Graham, who has gone to the Northern Methodist Church, was stricken from the roll. With this exception the characters were passed.

The condition and relation of the colored people to our Church received proper attention, and elicited many remarks from the preachers, who are earnestly desirous to aid them in all possible ways to improve their condition intellectually and religiously. The following resolution was adopted.

That for the present the preachers in charge be instructed to report their colored membership, and those who are sent to places where there have been apparent secessions, use their utmost endeavors to secure their fidelity to our Church.

The Conference concurred in the change of the name of the Church by a vote of 41 against 2. And on the question of lay-delegation the vote was 40 ayes to 2 nays.

The report of the committee on statistics shows a decrease of 857 whites, 16 local preachers, and 2,876 colored, which is accounted for by the fact that many appointments were set down in the report of last year at the figures reported the year before the war begon.

The Conference Stewards reported that they had settled with the claimants at 47 cents on the dollar.

The Bishop's assessment on this Conference was not quite paid up, but arrangements were made by which it will be met in full in a short time.

J. Blakely Smith was with us, and urged the claims of the Advocate, Macon Depository and the Wesleyan Female College with a warmth and earnestness evincing the deepest interests in those enterprises. We hope to meet him again in Florida. Our next session is to be held at Monticello, Fla.

APPOINTMENTS.

Brunswick District.—J M Hendry, P.E; Brunswick circuit, J L Williams; M G Jenkins, supernumerary; Centreville and St. Marys circuit, Jno W Simmons; Waresboro circuit, S G Childs; C P Jones, sup'y. Holmesville circuit, to be supplied by J A Lane; A R Byrd, sup'y; Doctortown mission, Matthew H Fielding; Ocmulgee circuit, J D Mauldin; Irwin circuit, to be supplied by——Jewell; Holmesville circuit, to be supplied by J H Wilkins; Milltown circuit, Nathan Talley; Quitman station, O L Smith; Grooversville circuit, Jas Harris. Valdosta circuit, J J Giles; G G Smith jr., sup'y; Grand Bay circuit to be supplied by E B Fendley; A W Harris; Moultrie circuit, to be supplied by Dr B Watkins; Little River circuit, to be supplied by John Ross.

Bainbridge District.—J W Mills, P. E.; Bainbridge and Fowlstown station, W A Parks; Decatur circuit, R H Bowren; Spring Hill circuit, R W Flournoy; Thomasville station, N B Ousley; Ochlockonee mission, to be supplied; Camilla circuit, M Kennedy; R F Evans, sup'y; Newton and Colquitt station, T B Harbin; Albany station, H D Moore; G W Fagg, sup'y; Flint River mission, to be supplied by R N Andrews; Morgan circuit, J M N Lowe, sup'y; Trinity and Blakely circuit, J G Worley, one to be supplied by G W Swan; Colquitt circuit, J B Wardlaw; Newton colored circuit to be supplied by Peter Colquitt and Conner Colquitt.

Ocala District—M A Clontz, P. E.; Ocala circuit, E S Tyner; Orange circuit, W P O'Calu; Volusia mission, to be supplied; Palatka and St. Augustine, to be supplied by D L White; Micanopy circuit, W K Turner; Crystal River circuit, F R C Ellis; Cedar Keys circuit, to be supplied by E J Knight; J Penny, sup'y; Gainesville circuit, J O A Sparks; Newnansville station, J J Sealy.

Tampa District.—Wm E Collier, P. E.; Key West station, S Gardner, Wm Davies; Manatee station, E F Gates; Pense Creek circuit, to be supplied by R Parson; Hillsboro circuit, W C Jourdan; Tampa station, R E Wiggins; Clear Water circuit, Josiah Bullock; Hernando circuit, E H Giles; Sumter circuit, W H Thomas.

Jacksonville District.—J B Jackson, P. E; Jacksonville station, F A Branch; Fernandina station, O A Myers; Woodsloch circuit, Ernest Crum; Nassau and Duval missions, to be supplied; Middleburg circuit, T R Barnett; Lake City station, J P DePass, to be transferred from S C Conference; Hamilton circuit, Wm Williams; Columbia circuit, J W Jackson; Houston circuit, Isaac Munden; Suwanee mission, A Johnson; Madison station, R H Rogers; Madison circuit, C P Murdock; Taylor and Lafayette mission, to be supplied.

Tallahassee District.—Wm F Easterling, P. E.; Tallahassee station, J O Branch; Tallahassee colored charge, to be supplied by James Smith; Leon circuit and colored charge, S Woodbery; Gadsden circuit, J C Ley; Wakulla circuit, R I McCoak; Liberty circuit, to be supplied by John Vallandingham; Wankenah circuit, McK Tydings; Aucilla mission, to be supplied; Union circuit, to be supplied by D Bryan; Monticello station, J Anderson; Apalachicola station, G H Bernheim; G W Pratt, sup'y; Quincy station, A J Woldridge; R H Luckey Agent of the American Bible Society, in Florida and South Georgia; E B Duncan, Superintendent of Freedmen's School in Florida; S P Richardson, transfered to Mobile Conference.

OREGON CONFERENCE.

Rev. L. B. Stateler writes as follows to the St. Louis Christian Advocate, from Albany, Oregon, under date of Nov. 13th, 1866: "We are sojourning here for the present, and expect early in the spring to return to our mountain home in Montana, and enter again on the duties of our mission. We arrived here just in time to be present at the Columbia Annual Conference, where we met Bishop Kavanaugh, and made the acquaintance of the preachers. They are a small band of earnest, faithful ministers of Christ. How greatly they need reinforcements. They have two districts, employing fifteen preachers. They ought, I think, to have double that number. At the earnest solicitation of the Bishop and Presiding Elder, I consented to take charge of a circuit during the winter, and in the spring return to my mission in the Rocky Mountains."

APPOINTMENTS.

Oregon District.—Arthur E Sears, P. E.—Oregon City mission, R D Ogilsby; Lafayette circuit to be supplied; Independence circuit, D C McFarland; Albany circuit, B Stateler; Brownsville, Thomas Brown; Eugene City Mission, R C Martin; Corvallis station, James Kelsay; Corvallis college, A Finley, President; College Agent, J Short, and member of Albany Quarterly Conference.

Jacksonville District.—C H E Newland, P. E.; Jacksonville circuit, D M Rice; Winnisburgh, A C Howlett; Roseburgh circuit, J W Craig; Oakland Mission, Lewis Vaoslyke.

South Western Bible Society.—The 17th anniversary of this society was held in Dr. Palmer's church on Sabbath night last. The Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, and Methodist churches were closed and their congregations united in this annual celebration.

The speakers were Rev. Mr. Leland of the Presbyterian church and the Rev. Dr. Walker of the Methodist. The addresses were excellent in matter and manner, and were not too long. The collection amounted to nearly $800. The whole affair was successful, and we suppose satisfied the Board of Managers. If there was an exception it was in the singing. On such an occasion every soul that hath breath should praise God. It certainly was not the time for solos, in any form, or for sequestering holy song from the devout multitude.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

Vicksburg, Miss., Dec. 27.—The Steamer Fashion from Vicksburg, bound to New Orleans, was destroyed by fire this evening about twelve miles above Baton Rouge. Twenty lives were lost. The officers were saved. Her cargo consisting of 2600 bales of cotton was lost.

Washington, Dec. 26.—It is stated that the majority opinion of the Court on the test oath, as applied to lawyers, is based upon the principle that the profession of law is a trade, and, therefore, an inalienable right not to be given by the Government, or taken away by the act of rebellion.

St. Louis, Dec. 26.—Christmas was generally observed by the Catholics. The services were very imposing.

The newspapers suspended to-day's publication.

Some mysterious influence has induced Gen. Grant to withdraw the troops sent to Lexington to protect the citizens, for the militia troops have returned to Leavenworth, and the outrages committed have been doubled. The Governor has sent another company to the town, and also a raid into Ray county has occurred. The editor of the Freeman being compelled to sign a humiliating retraction of the charge against the despoilers of his office.

U. S. Marshal Wallace, fearing resistance in serving warrants on the militia commander, has gone to Leavenworth to confer with Gen. Hancock.

Several leading Lexington citizens are exiles because of the threats of the militia.

It is reported that President Johnson refuses to interfere on the ground that the State government must regulate its own police, unless the United States laws are infringed.

There is considerable excitement concerning these movements in Lafayette and adjoining counties.

Washington, Dec. 26.—The Government has received no official information of the reported killing of Escobedo, nor is the story believed in official circles.

The Campbell-Sherman mission has not yet been abandoned. Owing to the delay in the departure of the French troops, it became necessary to delay the contemplated action.

Mr. Sherman goes to New Orleans for a few weeks, to await. At a proper time he will rejoin Mr. Campbell, and proceed to execute the duties of the mission.

The reported interview between Eggert and the President, is entirely misstated. The interview lasted but a very few minutes, and was confined mainly to mere commonplaces. The President made none of the admissions or concessions attributed to him in the report.

Paris, Dec. 24.—Ex-Minister Bigelow presented his successor, Gen. Dix, to Emperor Napoleon, yesterday. Minister Dix, on presenting his credentials, referred to the ancient amity existing between France and the United States, and expressed in the name of his Government, his wish in the same continuance.

Emperor Napoleon thanked Gen. Dix for his agreeable manner of opening his mission, and added: "The historical reminiscences to which you allude as having, from early date, existed between France and the United States, constitute a sure guarantee that no misunderstanding will disturb the friendly relations which prevail between the two countries.

"The continuance of a loyal and sincere understanding between the Governments will advance industry and commerce in both countries, the inhabitants of which already astonish the world by marvels of enterprise."

The Moniteur says this morning: "Secretary Seward's dispatch, of the 23d of December, to which the action of the Emperor in evacuating Mexico is declared inconvenient and exceptionable, has never reached the Government of France."

ROME, Dec. 24, P. M.—The relation between the Italian and Papal governments continue in a critical condition, and M. Tarrell, the Italian ambassador, makes little progress in his negotiation with the Pope.

PARIS, Dec, 24, P. M.—The Empress Eugenie, contrary to all expectations, will not go to Rome.

FLORENCE, Dec. 24, P. M.—The budget submitted to the Italian Chambers by the Finance Minister, shows a large deficit in the receipts as compared with the expenditures.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—The trades' unions have agreed to place their organizations at the disposition of the Reform party, in the ensuing political contest

SUNDAY SCHOOL VISITOR.

112 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Our readers will be delighted to learn that this beautiful Sunday School Paper is to be resumed the first of January. It will be published by the S. M. Publishing House Nashville, Tennessee, and simultaneously at 112 Camp st., in this city.—THOSE DESIRING THE NEW ORLEANS EDITION should forward immediately to Rev. ROBT. J. HARP, Agt., Lock Box 814, New Orleans.

SUBSCRIPTION PRICE FOR ONE YEAR.

For Single Copies.....each 50c
For any number less than 5..... " 50c
For any number over 5, and less than 25, to one address..... " 40c
For any number over 25..... " 30c

Will ship by Boat, Express or Mail as directed.

☞ Cash in Advance.

KNIGHT & CO.,

Dealers in

PLANTATION, MILL, & WOOD-WORKING

MACHINERY,

And Agricultural Implements

Keep constantly on hand a large assortment of articles peculiar to our business, and through our agents in the North and East, can fill promptly, and at a small advance above manufacturer's prices, all orders for articles in our line not usually kept in this market

The great change in our labor system necessitates a corresponding change in the Implements osed, and we have prepared ourselves to offer the latest improved

LABOR-SAVING MACHINES,

both for Agricultural and Mechanical purposes, at prices that will warrant their purchase.

Also, LEEDS & CO'S Sugar Kettles, Newell Screws, Gin Gearing, &c; and will contract for any kind of work done at their establishment, at their prices.

172 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

n17 1y

NEW SOUTHERN MUSIC BOOK.

Just published

TABOR;

Or the Richmond Collection of Sacred Music.

By R. McINTOSH, of Virginia.

The attention of Choirs and Musical Societies generally is respectfully asked for this new and popular collection of Church Music. Its author for four years an officer in the Confederate Army composed many pieces in moments snatched during its marchings and counter-marchings. The dirge at the funeral of Gen T J Jackson (Stonewall) May 17, 1863, was from his pen, and is included in this collection.

Says the Richmond Whig: 'The writer is well known throughout the South as an author of finished excellence; a musical reputation rarely attained—at the head of Church Music, no one disputing the position with him, and besides is, and ever has been, one of us.'

Says the Spartansburg (S C) Express: 'After a careful examination of TABOR, we have no hesitation in pronouncing it a Musical Gem. Its original compositions give the work a distinctive character, while the selections embrace those good old tunes which have come down from our fathers as an invaluable legacy. Here, also, may be found a number of traditionary melodies, which, for half a century or more, have been sung throughout the South and Southwest, and never before in print. We can heartily recommend it to Classes, Choirs, and all lovers of Sacred Music.'

It has been largely introduced and highly recommended by many of the Churches in Richmond and Petersburg, where the author is best known. It embraces all the metres in use, in every key and variety of measure, with a full elementary department and fine collection of new anthems, set pieces, and sentences It contains nearly 300 closely printed pages, neatly and tastefully gotten up, well printed and bound

Price—retail, $1 33; $12 00 per dozen

Can be obtained through all booksellers, or will be mailed by the Publishers to any of the the United States, post free, on receipt of retail price

F J HUNTINGTON & CO,
Publishers and Booksellers,
459 Broome street, New York

☞ Send for circulars dec29 3t

MRS. READ'S SCHOOL,

Baton Rouge, La,

Will reopen January, 1867 Parents desiring to place their daughters in this school will find it to their advantage to do so immediately, so that the Classes may be arranged and filled with out further loss of time.

dec29 3m M W READ, Principal

R BLEAKLY & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers,

COTTON FACTORS AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 56, 58, 60, 62 and 64 Poydras street,

Corner Poydras and Tchoupitoulas sts.,

NEW ORLEANS.

All cotton consigned to us will receive the personal attention of Mr. J. F. GIRAULT, (formerly with the house of Mossra Wright & Allen) who is specially charged with that department of our business. sep22 1y

G & T. F. SEARING,

Manufacturers and Wholesale Dealers in

CLOTHING & PLANTATION GOODS

No. 29 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

oct3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

D L CAMPBELL, Of Mobile. F M ECKFORD, Late Eckford & Weaver, Mobile

CAMPBELL, ECKFORD & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding & General Com'n Merchant,

oct3 No. 58 Camp street, New Orleans. 1y

RANDOLPH MACON COLLEGE, VA.,

IN FULL OPERATION.

THIS TIME HONORED INSTITUTION IS once more in successful operation, with a FULL CORPS OF PROFESSORS. The chairs of the several schools are filled by able and experienced men. There are five literary and scientific schools, viz: OF ANCIENT LANGUAGES, CHEMISTRY and NATURAL PHILOSOPHY, MORAL PHILOSOPHY and MODERN LANGUAGES. In addition to the above the Board of Trustees have established a school of COMMERCIAL SCIENCE, with the view of giving to the young men of the country a BUSINESS EDUCATION.

To graduates in all these schools, Diplomas are granted and the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts are conferred upon students who accomplish a certain course. The high grade of scholarship formerly required is still maintained. We have a full CHEMICAL and PHILOSOPHICAL APPARATUS for the illustration of the subjects taught.

The location of the College is unsurpassed for health and geniality. It is situated midway between the mountains and the seaboard; and during a career of thirty-three years, and with thousands of young men in attendance, there has never been a death arising from malaria or other local cause. We profess to educate young men not only mentally but physically also.

BOARD IS SIXTEEN DOLLARS PER MONTH. Tuition from $40 to $90, according to the number of schools attended. $250 will cover expenses of board, tickets for three schools, matriculation and contingent fees for ten months.

Rooms in the college free of charge, but the student provides his own furniture, fuel and lights. Young men who are preparing for the ministry and those disabled by the late war who are unable to pay their tuition, will be allowed to attend any or all of the schools free of charge.

This College is situated near Boydton, the county seat of Mecklenburg county, Va.

Arrangements are made to transport students from Ridgway Depot, on the Raleigh and Weldon Railroad, whilst a conveyance leaves Roanoke station, on the Richmond and Danville Railroad, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and the Wolf Trap Depot, on the same road, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

We solicit a liberal patronage from Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina, from the West, South and South-west.

Students will be received at any time. The second term will commence on the 6th day of February next. Young men will be received and prepared for the College proper. For further particulars address the undersigned at Boydton, Mecklenburg county, Va.

Dec22 3t THOS C JOHNSON, President R M College.

A COUGH, A COLD, OR A SORE THROAT

Requires immediate attention, and should be checked. If allowed to continue,

Irritation of the Lungs, a Permanent Throat Disease, or Consumption

Is often the result.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES

Having a direct influence to the parts, give immediate relief.

For Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Consumptive and Throat Diseases,

Troches are used with always good success.

SINGERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS

will find Troches useful in clearing the voice when taken before Singing, or Speaking, and relieving the throat after an unusual exertion of the vocal organs. The Troches are recommended and prescribed by Physicians, and have had testimonials from eminent men throughout the country. Being an article of true merit, and having proved their efficacy by a test of many years each year finds them in new localities in various parts of the world, and the Troches are universally pronounced better than other articles.

OBTAIN only "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES," and do not take any of the Worthless Imitations that may be offered. SOLD EVERYWHERE.

DR. FURMAN,

PHYSICIAN & OBSTETRICIAN,

Residence and Office—199 Baronne,

Between Julia and Girod streets,

NEW ORLEANS.

References: Right Rev A Gregg, Bishop of Texas; Rev J C Keener, D D; Rev W H Bayliss D D; Hon J S Whitaker, Rev L Parker; Messrs Conrad & Son, and Rev J C Carpenter, New Orleans; Hon Geo Williamson, Shreveport; Dr D Yandell, Louisville, Ky. dec5 3m

LATEST FASHIONS.

Call for

J W BRADLEY'S

DUPLEX ELLIPTICAL

[Or, Double Spring]

SKIRT!

THEY WILL NOT BEND OR BREAK

Like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary Skirts are thrown aside as useless—hence are the CHEAPEST.

Each Hoop is made by braiding two springs together, edge to edge, forming the STRONGEST, most FLEXIBLE, and allll the LIGHTEST Hoop made.

In fact, for promenade, or the house, or the church, the theatre, or for crowded assemblies, railroad cars, carriages, etc., they are superior to all others, affording COMFORT TO THE WEARER, with that ELEGANCE OF SHAPE which wins favor with all, and has made the

"DUPLEX ELLIPTIC"

The Standard Skirt of the Fashionable World.

For misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

For Sale Everywhere.

Manufactured exclusively by the owners of the Patent,

WESTS, BRADLEY & CARY,
97 Chambers, 79 and 81 Reade sts, New York.

CAUTION.

The Duplex Skirt will admit a pin being run through the centre of each hoop, thereby proving there are TWO SPRINGS braided together therein; which is the secret of their remarkable STRENGTH and FLEXIBILITY—a combination not possessed by any SINGLE-SPRING Skirt.

The red ink stamp, viz: "J. W BRADLEY'S Duplex Elliptic Springs," will be found upon the waistband of every Skirt; none other are genuine. n24 6m

CLOAKS!

F. ADAM,

(Formerly with C Yale, jun, & Co,)

MANUFACTURER & WHOLESALE DEALER

In Ladies' and Misses'

CLOTH AND SILK CLOAKS,

No. 76 Canal Street—Up Stairs.

NEW ORLEANS.

Don't trust to glaring advertisements in the newspapers, but go to THE FACTORY itself, if you want good Goods at fair prices. n10 2m

CLOTHING. CLOTHING.

For the Fall and Winter of 1866-67.

Now receiving and opening for inspection, at

R. PITKIN'S

FASHIONABLE

CLOTHING EMPORIUM,

Nos. 13 and 15 Camp Street,

The Largest, best selected and most Fashionable Stock of Superior

READY-MADE CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS

Of the season, all of which were manufactured under his personal supervision, and selected with the utmost care and taste, expressly for the Southern market. His stock consists of every article in his line of business, viz:

Superior Dress Frocks,
Sacks, Overcoats, Shawls,
India Rubber Goods,
Business Suits,
Walking Coats,
Black and Fancy Dress Pants,
Vests, Drawers,
Undershirts,
Collars,
Gloves,
Cravats,
Suspenders,
Pocket Handkerchiefs,

Linen and Linen Bosom Shirts of every description.

CLOTHS, CASSIMERES AND VESTINGS.

A large assortment of superior French Cloths, Cassimeres and Doeskins, Black and Fancy Vestings of the most fashionable styles,

FOR CUSTOM WORK.

He takes great pleasure in informing the citizens of New Orleans, and the public, that he has secured the services of that consummate Artist, and gentleman of skill, taste and experience, so favorably known in this community,

MR. E. M. HOUGHTON,

as Principal Cutter, who will superintend the manufacture of goods ordered from measure—a Perfect Fit Warranted.

WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT.

Merchants from the country visiting the city, will find his Wholesale Department well fitted up, and replete with the most desirable articles adapted to their trade. He would especially call the attention of

MERCHANTS AND PLANTERS

To his

Very Large Stock of Cheap Clothing

suitable for the laboring classes, made of strong material, with neatness and durability.

Also a large assortment of

YOUTHS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

TRUNKS,

VALISES,

CARPET-BAGS,

UMBRELLAS, ETC.

A call from the public is respectfully solicited.

R. PITKIN,

Fashionable Clothing Emporium,

13 and 15 .... CAMP STREET, ... 13 and 15

oct3 3m

ROBERT CLARK, ISAAC H. STAUFFER, WM. A. KENT, CHAS. MACKRADY

CLARK, STAUFFER & CO.,

No 71 Canal St., No 11 to 23 Dersiere St., and 52 to 56 Customhouse Street.

Importers and Dealers in

HARDWARE:

Iron, Steel, Nails, Hoes, Axes. Rope, Tin Plates, Copper, Block Tin, Spelter, Lead, Shot, Points, Oils, Glass, Hollow Ware, Circular Saws

MILL STONES,

INDIA RUBBER GIN BAND,

PLANTATION SADDLERY, Etc.

Constantly on hand a large assortment of

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS

Comprising PLOUGHS of the following celebrated makers: James H. Hall & Co., for Sugar and Cotton; Garrett & Cottman, for Sugar and Cotton; Calhoun and Atkinson, for Cotton; Hall and Speer, Wrought and Cast, for Cotton; B. F. Avery, Cast, for Cotton; John and Albert King, "Carey," for Cotton; Peoria Prewlun Steel, or "Prairie Plough;" Yost's Patent Ploughs and Scrapers.

Agents for the Vieills Montagne Co.'s SHEET ZINC and ZINC PAINTS, of Belgium. oct3 1y

GAINES & RELF, (Successors to HENDERSON & GAINES,)

Importers and Dealers, Wholesale and Retail, in

EARTHENWARE,
GLASS, CHINA,
JAPAN WARE,
PLATED WARE,
SILVER WARE,
FINE TABLE CUTLERY,
WATER PURIFIERS,
HOUSEKEEPING ARTICLES.

All articles carefully packed for shipment to the country.

No. 100 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

NEW CARPETS.

L. ELKIN,

Carondelet Street, 3.

3, Has just received from England, per steamship Luxor, a large assortment of superior

WILTON, BRUSSELS, TAPESTRY & INGRAIN

CARPETS,

RUGS,
WINDOW SHADES,
CORNICES,
OIL CLOTHS,

And a complete assortment of Curtain Material such as fireonelles, Satin de Laines, all-Wool Damasks, etc., with corresponding Trimmings.

HARVEY, M'MAHON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

Commission and Forwarding Merchants,

122 Carondelet street, Duvidson's Row,

NEW ORLEANS.

R H Harvey, New Orleans.
Thomas M'Mahon, Madison county, Miss.
Wm. Forstall, New Orleans. oct13 6m

H. F. ETHELL, New Orleans. NAT. H. THOMAS, Late of Alabama.

ETHELL & THOMAS,

FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

For sale of Bagging, Rope and Twine, Pork, Lard, Beef, Flour, Grain, Hay and Western Produce generally.

Sole Agents for the celebrated brand, "Grey Jacket" Flour.

No. 105 Poydras street, New Orleans.

Will give personal attention to the purchase of Merchandize and Groceries for the country. Cash orders solicited. Instructions strictly obeyed. sep1 6m

J. W. BURBRIDGE. THOS. H. MILLER

J. W. BURBRIDGE & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

No. 100 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep1 6m

Gen. James Longstreet. W M Owen. E Owen

LONGSTREET, OWEN & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

37 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 6m

B. S. HARPER. N. J. THANTOM.

B. S. HARPER & CO.,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

AND GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 81 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

aug18 1y

JACOB BURCKETT,

GROCER,

And Dealer in Fine Wines & Liquors,

a15 6m 110 CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

CHENOWETH, CASEY & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

For sale of Pork, Bacon, Beef, Flour, and Western Produce generally,

53 Gravier street, New Orleans.

sep15 1y

H M WRIGHT C W ALLEN J HIDDLESTON (1st August, 1865)

WRIGHT, ALLEN & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

169 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug25 1y

THOS. H. ALLEN, Memphis, Tenn. JAMES M. ALLEN } PERRY SCANT, } New Orleans

T. H. & J. M. ALLEN,

(Successors to ROBSON & ALLEN),

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

192 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 1y

F. FOLGER, L. FOLGER, W. H. THOMAS

FOLGER & CO.,

Dealers in

Hardware, Iron, & Ship Chandlery,

37 & 39 MAGAZINE STREET NEW ORLEANS.

(Opposite the St James Hotel)

Nails and Castings; Hoop, Sheet and Bar Iron, Shovels and Spades; Sheet Copper and Zinc; Plows, Axes and Hoes; Lead Pipe and Sheet Lead; India Rubber Belting, Hose and Packing; Circular, Mill and Cross Cut Saws. aug25 1y

WM. EDWARDS & CO.,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

27 Camp Street, New Orleans.

WM. EDWARDS } EDWD. J. GAY. } sep15 3m

W A VIOLETT. R Y BLACK. S H SNOWDEN.

VIOLETT, BLACK & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

a15 6m 138 Gravier street, New Orleans.

W. S. LOTT, Madison County, Miss. C. W. WOOD, Canton, Miss.

LOTT, WOOD & CO.,

Wholesale Grocers & Commission Merchants

65 COMMON & 46 CANAL STS, NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Maj. G.C. Sebastian has charge of our sales Department. sep15 1y

E A BANKS, W W LORING, G W VENABLE

BANKS, LORING & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

20 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 6m

H ATKINSON & CO: New York. JAMES HEWITT & CO., Liverpool.

HEWITT, NORTON & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And Commission Merchants,

188 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

☞ Cash advances made on consignments to us by HEWITT, SWISHER & Co., Galveston, Texas. sep15 1y

WILLIAM FELLOWES, JUN.,

(Successor to FELLOWES & Co.)

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

186 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

DAN. P. LOGAN, Agent. sep15 1y

OBER, NANSON & CO., New York. LEWIS, NANSON & CO., St. Louis.

OBER, ATWATER & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants

38 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep15 1y

S. M. SWENSON, N.Y., late of Austin, Tex. W. M. PERKINS, H. L. KERNION, } Of Perkins & Co., N.O.

PERKINS, SWENSON, & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 48 Carondelet, corner of Union street,

NEW ORLEANS.

SWENSON, PERKINS & CO.,

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

26 Exchange Place, New York.

a29 6m

EDW'D NALLE, W. C. DAY.

NALLE, DAY & CO.

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants,

158 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oct3 1y

S. H. ABY & CO.,

Cotton Factors, Commission Merchants

186 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

oct3 6m

E S KEEP. L. CAULFIELD.

KEEP & CAULFIELD,

Western Produce,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

Nos. 77 & 79 Poydras street, New Orleans.

oct3 1y

HENRY WARE, Of Texas. WM. H. WARE, Of Texas.

H. WARE & SON,

Cotton and Wool Factors,

AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 63 Carondelet street, New Orleans.

oct3

JOB PRINTING.

COLLEGE CATALOGUES, CONFERENCE MINUTES

SUNDAY SCHOOL REPORTS,

PAMPHLETS, CIRCULARS, CARDS,

And everything else in the line of Job printing, executed in

The Very Best Style, & Shortest Notice,

Send your orders to J. WILKINSON, Christian Advocate Office, 112 Camp Street, New Orleans.

J. H. MASSEY,

(Formerly of Joseph H. Palmer & Co., and for the last ten years in the House of Townsend, Tompkins & Co.)

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 100 Common Street,

Opposite City Hotel.

I am now receiving my Fall and Winter stock and respectfully solicit an examination, on your next visit to the city. Having twenty years' experience in my line in this city, I flatter myself it will not be hard for me to please my and all of my old friends and patrons, and also including new ones. My stock is new and fresh, and I will be in frequent receipt of all the new and desirable styles.

Very respectfully,

oct13 3m J. H. MASSEY.

E. GRUEL,

Wholesale and Retail Dealer in

FOREIGN, FANCY AND STAPLE

DRY GOODS.

Also, a large and varied supply of

HOUSEKEEPING and PLANTATION GOODS,

Constantly on hand, at

120 Canal Street,

sep1 1y NEW ORLEANS.

ST JAMES HOTEL,

MAGAZINE STREET,

Between Gravior and Natchez Streets,

NEW ORLEANS, LA.

CHAS. E. SMEDES.....Manager.

This establishment is now open for the reception of guests.

It is newly furnished from the Kitchen to the roof. Spring Beds, Hair Mattresses, Linen Sheeting, etc. The Furniture and Table Ware all new, of the latest style and most costly material. The Table is furnished with every luxury the Market affords. The Bars with Liquors equal to any used in private families, and the comforts and pleasures of a home, so far as possible, guaranteed to its Guests.

The House itself may be said to be entirely new and fresh. The undersigned will spare neither labor or expense to merit a continuance of the liberal support with which he has thus far been honored.

n3 1y CHAS. E. SMEDES.

AUSTIN & GOODWYN,

Wholesale Dealers and Manufacturers of

TINWARE,

Also,

COOKING AND HEATING STOVES

Of all kinds, for sale.

25 Peters, formerly Front Levee,

Corner Customhouse street,

oct20 1y NEW ORLEANS.

PAUL J. CHRISTIAN, Formerly of H. G. Stetson & Co. JOHN W. MARDEN,

P. J. CHRISTIAN & CO.,

General Mercantile Stationers,

AND

JOB PRINTERS,

BLANK BOOK MANUFACTURERS,

No. 73 Camp Street.

We beg to inform our friends and the public that we have established a complete BOOK BINDERY in connection with our business, and will hereafter be enabled to execute all orders with promptitude and dispatch.

We have secured the services of one of the most thorough workmen of this city, and our patrons can rely upon having their orders immediately and efficiently executed. o20 3m

D. H. HOLMES,

Direct Importation of

FANCY AND STAPLE DRY GOODS,

AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL.

No. 155 Canal Street,

sep1 6m NEW ORLEANS.

PHILIP WERLEIN,

82.....Baronne Street,.....82

Successor of the well known music houses of PH. P. WERLEIN and P. P. WERLEIN & HALEY,

Dealer in

PIANO FORTES, MELODEONS,

GUITARS, VIOLINS,

And other musical Instruments. Also, Music and Instruction Books, Music Folios, Note Paper —in fact everything belonging to music trade.

The repairing and tuning of Pianos will be attended to, arrangements having been made with that well known Piano Maker, M. HURCHARDT, who will take charge of that department—charges will be reasonable and satisfactory.

Parties wishing can have their Pianos stored, sold on commission, boxed, or shipped to order.

Findings for repairing Pianos, such as Wire, Felt, Cloth, etc., constantly for sale.

Piano Stools, Covers of elegant patterns, etc., on hand.

Any information on musical matters cheerfully given. Teachers recommended.

Music neatly bound.

P.S.—P. P. WERLEIN will be found at times at the above place, and will aid in making selections. He recommends his son PHILIP WERLEIN to his former friends and customers, and solicits their patronage for him. oc20 6m

STOVES, GRATES, TIN WARE,

AND

HOUSEFURNISHING GOODS.

The undersigned offer for sale an assortment of COOKING STOVES, embracing among the lot the well known Charter Oak, the Brilliant, the Peerless, the American Home, and others of the latest improvement.

Also, a large lot of HEATING and PARLOR STOVES, a large variety of GRATES, and of COUNTRY HOLLOW WARE, etc.

We manufacture all our own Tin Ware, and sell cheap.

CAMPMAN & CO.,

p10 6m 115 Poydras st, bet. Camp & Magazine

CULINARY COLLEGE,

Jackson, Louisiana,

was established by the State of Louisiana in 1859, and transferred to the Methodist Episcopal South in 1862. It is now under the control of the Mississippi and Louisiana Conferences.

The College exercises were necessarily suspended during the war; but were regularly resumed after reorganization, on the first Monday in October, 1865. The approaching session will open on the first Monday of October next.

Tuition, $75 per annum, payable semi-annually, in advance.

Boarding can be obtained at from $20 to $25 per month

The Buildings, Libraries, Apparatus, Laboratory and Society Halls, the location in point of beauty, health, ease of access and good society, are all unsurpassed by those of any institution in the Southern States.

The past history of the College is the pledge of its future prosperity.

The Board and Faculty promise the public that nothing shall be wanting on their part to secure the thorough education of the young men committed to their care, in both Preparatory and Collegiate Departments.

The old students, alumni, and friends of the institution, are requested to give publicity to the full reorganization and opening of the College, as stated above,

W. H. WATKINS, President.

SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY,

GREENSBORO, ALA.

The exercises of this institution will be resumed on the first Wednesday in October next. Instruction will be given in the Schools of Ancient and Modern Languages, Mathematics, Mental and Moral Philosophy, Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, and Biblical Literature. Civil Engineering and Analytical Chemistry will also be taught

TERMS:

Tuition fees per term.....$40 00
Contingent fee..... 5 00

Board can be obtained at $20 to $25 per month

aug4ft W M WIGHTMAN, Chancellor

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AT BATON ROUGE.

The ninth session of this school will begin on Wednesday, 3d October, 1866.

The object of the school has ever been to afford a good classical and practical education, or a complete preparation for any stage of a College or University course.

TERMS: Tuition and Board, per month, $40.—Payable $200 in advance; balance on the 1st of March.

Every student who enters the school is expected to remain to the close of the session in study, and will be held liable for the bills in all cases, unless protracted illness shall compel his removal.

Pupils are required to furnish their own bed clothing, towels, wash-basin, mosquito-bar, etc.

Circulars can be obtained by addressing me at Baton Rouge, or Rev. J. C. Keener, D.D., New Orleans, La.

As the number of students is limited, it is earnestly requested that application be made as soon as possible.

W. H. N. MAGRUDER,
Baton Rouge, La., August 2st, 1866.

MANSFIELD FEMALE COLLEGE

FACULTY:—Rev. Charles B. Stuart, A. M., President; Dr. W. S. Donaldson; Mr. Robert C. Martin, jun.; Mrs. Lizzie Lee Stuart; Miss Hattie G. Gilmer; Miss Jemima Constantine.

The Fall Session of this institution will open on the 26th day of September next.

This institution, owned by the Louisiana Conference, situated in a healthy and delightful section of the State, and possessed of extensive buildings and grounds, presents at least all the usual facilities for systematic and thorough female education. It has recently been supplied with new mattresses and pillows; and all the furniture, though plain, will be found to be fresh and substantial. The Boarding department will be managed by Mrs. John W. Stuart, while the President and his lady will reside in the buildings and have an immediate and constant supervision of the young ladies. All pupils boarding in the establishment will be required to attend Sabbath School and Church.

The terms are very moderate; indeed it is believed that there is no institution of equal grade and reputation in the Southern country at which an education can be obtained at prices more reasonable.

TERMS:

For a session of four and a half months, payable one-half in advance, and the remainder at the middle of the session—

Board, including Washing, Fuel, and Room Rent, payable in gold or its equivalent in greenbacks,	$67 50
Regular Tuition,	25 00
Incidental Fee,	2 00
Music on Piano or Guitar, with use of Instrument	37 50
French or Spanish,	15 00

Ornamental branches at usual prices.

☞ All fees for tuition payable in currency at par.

The daughters of traveling preachers belonging to the Louisiana Conference, will be charged no regular tuition.

After entrance no reduction will be made in either board or tuition, except in cases of protracted sickness. Each pupil desiring to board in the institution will furnish a pair of pillow slips, a pair of sheets, a pair of blankets, and a bed spread, and her own towels and lights; and will have every article of clothing distinctly marked with her name.

For other information address

CHARLES B. STUART, President,
Mansfield, La.

aug4ft

PORT GIBSON, MISS., COLLEGIATE ACADEMY—A College for Young Ladies, with a Preparatory and a Primary School.

Officers.	Departments.
A. J. Wright, A.M.,	President, Natural Science and Belles Lettres.
Mrs A. A. Wright,	Principal.
Rev. J. A. B. Jones,	Mathematics and Mental Science.
Rev. Corydon Chamberlin,	Classical Literature and Elocution.
Mrs. M. M. Dwight,	Music, French, Drawing.
Miss Anna M. Ross,	Preceptress of Primary School.
Miss Marie S. Maxwell,	Music and Elementary Branches.
To be announced,	Matron.

The course of study, successful completion of which secures a diploma, is a very full one; but daily exercises are continued throughout the whole in Orthography, Elocution, Penmanship Arithmetic, Grammar and Rhetoric.

Boarders are under special charge of the Lady Principal. They should furnish their own bedclothing.

Board, with English Tuition, at $35 per quarter.

The next session commences 10th September. Transportation from Grand Gulf is easy and regular. Apply to A. J. WRIGHT.

D. G. HUMPHREYS, Pres. Board of Trustees.

jy14 6m

GUSTAVE VOM HOFE,

Manufacturer of Upright Pianos,

807 MAGAZINE ST., NEW ORLEANS.

Pianos sold at moderate prices, with five years guarantee.

One of these Pianos has just been awarded a Medal at the recent Louisiana State Fair, for superior richness of tone and great durability.

dec1 6m

COAL OIL AND LAMPS.

HILL & VEAZIE,

Having removed from No 31 Chartres street to No 74 Camp street, have received large additions to their former stock, making their assortment of Coal Oil Lamps, and all the articles needful to use with them, very extensive; together with COAL OIL CHANDELIERS from two to six lights, suitable for lighting Churches, large Halls, Parlors, etc; and every variety of Lanterns from the small hand to the large Station. FISH'S PATENT COOKING LAMPS for coal oil and gas, very useful and economical; also EDDIE'S COOKING STOVES, assorted sizes, heated by coal oil; with many other useful and convenient articles.

Always on hand the best Kerosene and Coal Oil manufactured.

Call and examine.

HILL & VEAZIE,
No 74 Camp street,
n1y Between Natchez street and Times Office

SOUTH-WESTERN BIBLE SOCIETY.

Where is it located? Its Depository and Bible-House is at its own building, No. 162 Camp street, New Orleans.

When was it established? 1860.

Who is its General Agent to whom correspondence on its business should be addressed? Rev W H Baylis.

Where is the Society's field of labor? All of Louisiana, and all of Mississippi, south of the 33rd parallel of North latitude.

What is the object of the Society? To explore and supply (gratuitously where needed) the destitution of the Holy Scriptures.

What are the resources and whence the income of the Society? From the annual contributions of its members. Collections of Churches within its field, collections at public meetings and anniversaries. Appropriations of the surplus funds of its auxiliaries, the donations of generous individuals, testamentary bequests, and the annual donation in Books of the American Bible Society.

What is the Society's method of work? By cultivating its own local work in the city and district of New Orleans: then through Auxiliary Societies established or to be established in every Parish and County in the field, and the employment by them of such means as will accomplish the object of the Society.

What are the terms of membership?

The payment of $30 at one time constitutes a life member.

The payment of $150 at one time, constitutes a life Director.

The payment of $1000 at one time, constitutes a life Patron.

The payment of $3 annually, constitutes a member.

The taking up of a collection by a church constitutes the Pastor an honorary member.

Having thus briefly stated the main features of the Society's work, income and expenditure, the Board of Directors for the current year confidently ask the aid of all lovers of the Bible, whether professors of religion or not: to strengthen the hands of the S. W. B. S. by founding or reviving Auxiliaries, by donating and urging donations, by exploring and reporting the destitution of the Scriptures, by commencing or renewing memberships of all grades and by establishing connections with the Society as the Lord has prospered them: according to that Scripture which says: "Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust doth corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through and steal." To ministers and professing Christians of every Orthodox Protestant Church, the Board of Directors, representing in its body all such within our bounds, appeals with confidence to aid them by judicious effort, a prompt performance of duty and a prayerful commendation of the Society to the blessing of Almighty God, for except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it, except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain.

Our last thought is the heart-cry of the Great Reformation. No forbidding of the Word: no tampering with the text: no man's note or comment: God's Word: Christ's Word: the Holy Spirit's Word: Free: Free: Free. a25 1y.

SQUIER'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE and Telegraph Institute, 60 Camp corner Natchez—open day and evening.

This is a full course Commercial or Business College, in all its departments perfect. Banks and stores are connected, goods actually bought and sold, the books regularly kept, and all the attendant duties of the clerk, Book-keeper, correspondent and merchant are practically performed by the student.

For catalogues containing full information, call at the office, or address

f3 1y GEO. SOULE.

J. W. BLACKMAN'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, New Orleans, corner of Canal and Carondelet streets, entrance on Carondelet. This institution is mainly devoted to qualifying young men as Clerks or Book-keepers in mercantile and other pursuits. It is open the entire year, both day and evening. Penmanship, Book-keeping, Mathematics, English, French, Spanish and German are practically taught by experienced professors. Persons from 12 to 50 years of age attend. The instruction is private to each student. A separate apartment for ladies. Young persons who have neglected their education, can here speedily perfect themselves in any branch they may wish. The Principal has been a practical teacher in New Orleans since 1851. For further particulars call at the College office, room No. 14, or address

f3-1y J. W. BLACKMAN, Principal.

TURNER & COHEN,

Photograph and Fine Art Gallery,

NO. 57 CAMP STREET.

Trusting that the liberal patronage of our friends and the public will continue, we have engaged the services of Mr. E M HOWELL, an operator who cannot be surpassed for skillful and artistic ability. Our artist, Mr. REICHMAN, is second to none in the country.

These gentlemen, with many others for our business, have lately arrived from New York, and we are now prepared to make pictures from the smallest miniature on your watch dial to full-life size portraits.

The public are invited to call and make a critical examination for themselves of the many specimens we have of well known citizens of this city. o13 1y

S. ANDERSON, PHOTOGRAPHER

And PHOTOGRAPHIC STOCK DEALER,

61 Camp street, New Orleans.

Cartes de Visite,

Hallotypes, Ambrotypes,

Pictures on Porcelain,

And every description of Pictures known to the Art.

All kinds of Photographic Materials at the lowest price for cash. sep1 1y

THOS. B. BODLEY & CO.,

No. 9 Perdido Street, New Orleans,

Dealers in all descriptions of

MILL AND PLANTATION MACHINERY,

AND AGRICULTURAL INSTRUMENTS.

Sole Agents in the Southwest for the celebrated Wood & Mann Steam Engines, 4 to 35 horse power; Coleman's Corn and Wheat Mills; Strahn's Corn and Wheat Mills, Smut Machines, Bolting Cloth; Todd's Circular Saw Mills; Wool Carding Machines, Flowary Machines; Stafford Sulky Cultivators; Stanley Gang Plows; Plows, Wheelbarrows, Belting, Saws, etc.

Send for descriptive circulars and price lists.

oct13 6m

GEO. W. RACE. W. H. FOSTER. E. T. MERRICK, La's Chief Justice La.

RACE, FOSTER & E. T. MERRICK,

Attorneys at Law,

CORNER OF CAMP STREET & COMMERCIAL PLACE,

sep15 1y New Orleans.

P. P. WERLEIN resumes teaching music, both Vocal and Instrumental; and is ready to take a limited number of pupils, either at his home, 85 Jackson street, or at the residence of pupils.

Apply at music store, 82 Baronne street, or at his residence. n17 1m

McCUTCHON & HUBBELL,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC HARDWARE,

Hoes, Axes, Nails, etc.,

NO 74 GRAVIER STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

n3 6

THE CHILD'S CORNER.

For the N. O. Christian Advocate.

LITTLE HALLIE.

Little children, do you love the child's corner? Do you not find some sweet word in it every week written especially for you? Do you know that God requires you to remember those sweet words and profit by them? That it is He who puts it into the hearts of the grown up people not to forget the little children, and that he who says "suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not," means for you to be a christian now? Are you a christian, my child? If the lightning from Heaven were to strike that tender frame and bring you into God's presence in a moment, would you be ready? or if the warm bright fire upon your mother's hearth should accidentally catch your clothes and burn you so badly that you would have to die, would you know how to trust Jesus? Or is your mind so filled with fine dressing, and dancing parties, and the fussy things the clown said and did at the circus that you have never taken time to think of your sins and learn how sweet it is to believe? Dear children, God is angry with the wicked every day and has said, "if he turn not he will whet his sword." And he is speaking to you my child, for he says "remember now thy creator in the days of thy youth," but you are saying "wait till I get big"—"till I am 16 or 21." All of this is wicked and sinful, and he might strike you down all unprepared while you are saying "wait." My dear children, let me tell you of a sad incident that happened at this once happy home. Darling little Hallie was a bright and joyous little girl, her eyes beaming with life and love, her cheek blooming with roses. Her mother had just kissed and embraced her, and commended her for her faithfulness and industry, and in ten short minutes she heard her screams, and ran to her rescue; but all in vain, the angry flames were roaring and curling all over her precious body, and she heeded not her frantic mother's screams to stop: stop my darling child! how did she cease to run until her clothes were almost entirely consumed — the very buttons being burned to a powder. When the flames were extinguished, she exclaimed, "mamma, I am dying." Her mother asked her if she could not pray, she then said with much fervency and composure "Oh Lord, bless my poor soul, because Christ died for my sins." Her mother said to her, "Hallie, you know Jesus says suffer the little children to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven," can you trust Jesus my darling?" With much emphasis she said, "yes, mamma, I can." Oh children, dear children, tongue cannot portray that scene nor the anguish of that mother's heart. Her child lay upon the naked ground without one particle of cloth: lay upon her tender, lovely frame, almost parched to a cinder. But her face was untouched, and her lovely countenance beaming with love and resignation. She first called for her sister who was away at school, and begged that she might be sent for; then called for her little sister and brother, and kissed them and told them how she loved them, and told them to meet her in heaven. She called for her other two little brothers who had just left home, for her aunt, little cousins, and friends. She was then carried into the house and laid upon the bed. In reply to her mother's question, "Can you trust Jesus, my darling?" she said, "Mamma, I know how to trust Jesus, you have read me so many good books; don't grieve after me, you need not do anything for me—go get my burying clothes ready; tell all my friends to meet me in heaven." Until now cold water had in some degree palliated her sufferings, but after this they became intense; but thanks be to God she had some moments of comparative ease, and then she would tell us how it happened, and call again for her brothers and sisters, and little friends. She called for her aunt, for whom she was named, again and again, and when she came, she said, "aunt Hallie, kiss me, I would hug you but my arms are too stiff," being parched to a crisp as were her bowels and other portions of her body. When her oldest brother came in, she kissed him and said, "may the Lord help you." She was wonderfully filled with love, and would say, "mamma, kiss me, kiss me in the mouth; hug me, mamma. I would hug you, but my arms are too stiff." Her tender hearted physician gave her morphene, and after this her mind was wandering, but when roused would say she had been dreaming, would again be filled with love, and express when questioned a perfect willingness to die. In a few short hours her spirit took its everlasting flight to the glory land. Do you know dear children, why she is in the glory land? because she knew how to trust Jesus. Do you think you would know how to trust him if you were just in from a dancing party, or from a circus, or disobedience to your mother? Take care, dear children! God says "at an hour ye think not ye may be called," Christ says "what I say unto one, I say unto all, 'Watch!'" B.

What a Child May Be.

Ella early loved the Saviour. In her every-day life she was an example to all, gentle and loving, at home and abroad, in work or in play, truthful and conscientious in doing what she believed to be right, seeming ever to remember those four words "Thou God seest me." Her Bible and her private devotions were never neglected; not a single morning or evening was permitted to pass without communion with her Saviour. Before twelve years of age she publicly professed her faith in Christ, and in all the varied circumstances of her brief life honored the Saviour she loved.

She is no longer in her accustomed seat by our hearthstone fire—no longer at her desk at school, where love and duty made study a pleasure. No longer do we see her upturned face at the Sabbath school, drinking in, as it were, the words of Jesus as they fell from her teacher's lips. No longer is her sweet voice heard in hymns of praise on earth. The Saviour, in whose word she had read, "I go to prepare a place for you; and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you to myself, that where I am, there ye may be also," has called for her.

When, in her thirteenth year, she was attacked by fatal disease, and inquiry was made of her feelings and hopes, she replied that she expected Jesus would be with her. Her simple faith in Christ never wavered. As friends were watching her fast fleeting breath, one repeated, "The Lord is my Shepherd." "Yes; yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me — yes, yes." Her weeping mother whispered in her ear, "Jesus is with you?" "Yes, and many more," she said; then gently her patient spirit passed from earth to dwell for ever with its Saviour.

Her chair is vacant, but one more place at Christ's right hand is filled, and heaven is brought very near to earth, as we look up and by faith catch the strains of sweeter melody of praise to Him who has washed us and redeemed us in his blood, which her glorified soul pours forth as she stands before the throne of the Lamb.

A large circle of friends and schoolmates assembled to drop the tear of affection, listen to an address from her pastor upon the importance of early seeking the Saviour, sing those beautiful lines, "Asleep in Jesus," and lay our Ella where the violets bloom, until the resurrection day.—Child's Paper

NEW ORLEANS MARKETS.

From the N. O. Price Current.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

Since our last publication there has been little movement. Sugar and Molasses have been quiet at declining prices, and Western Produce has evinced only moderate vitality, attended with further weakness in Flour, Corn and Pork; while operations in our leading staple have been of a restricted character and factors, to realize, have been obliged to submit to additional concessions.

COTTON.—After a limited business on Friday, the market closed weak. Since which little has been done, the market closing weak at our quotations.

Low	— to —
Ordinary	26 to 27
Good Ordinary	28 to 29
Low Middling	30 to 31
Middling	32 to —

TOBACCO—There are several buyers on foreign account in the market, but very little business is doing. Factors are very firm in their views and refuse to make the concessions sought for by buyers.

	Light.	Heavy.
Low Refused	3½ to —	— to —	Currency.
Good do	4½ to —	— to 4½
Common Leaf	5½ to —	— to 6½
Fair	10 to —	— to 12
Good	12½ to —	— to 14
Fine	13 to —	— to 15
Choice Selec'n	15 to —	— to 20

SUGAR—The receipts are small but quite sufficient for the demand which is moderate, and the market has been quiet but steady. The sales on Saturday and Monday embraced about 900 hogsheads at 7¾ to 8c for Inferior, 8¼ to 8¾c for Common, 9¼ to 9¾c for Fair, 9¾ to 10c for Good Fair, 10¼ to 10¾c for Fully Fair, 10¾ to 11c for Prime, 11¼ to 11¾c for Choice, 10¾c for Secouds, and 12 to 12¼c for Yellow clarified.

MOLASSES—Has been in good demand, receipts have sold readily and prices have advanced 4 to 6c per gallon. The sales on Saturday and Monday embraced 1900 barrels at 40 to 45c for Inferior, 50 to 55c for Common, 55 to 60c for Good, 60 to 63 for Prime, 65c for Strictly Prime, and 66 to 68 per gallon for Choice, the inside prices ruling mostly on Saturday.

FLOUR—The stock on hand is small. Fine and Superfine, the grades most in request, are scarce and prices have ruled in favor of sellers. There were sales on Saturday and Monday of about 5000 barrels, mostly in small lots at $9 for Common, $11 to $11 25 for Superfine, $11 40 for Single Extra, $12 25 to $12 50 for Double Extra and $14 25 to $14 50 for Choice Extra.

PORK—Is in small supply. It is in good demand, but only in a small way. The sales have been confined to small lots to dealers at $23 50 per bbl for Mess.

BACON—Only a small retail business is doing, the demand being confined to dealers who have been supplied at 13c for Shoulders, 13½c for Ribbed Sides and 15½c for Clear Sides.

LARD—The market is quiet, with a fair demand for small or retail lots only, at 12¾c for tierces, and 12½c for kegs.

CORN—Is in fair supply and in good demand at full prices. About 10,000 sacks were sold on Saturday and Monday at $1 05 for Mixed, and $1 10 per bushel for Yellow and White.

OATS.—With a bare market, small receipts and an active demand, prices have advanced 5c per bushel. There were sales on Saturday and Monday of 6000 sacks at 80 to 82 and 85c per bushel.

BRAN—Is scarce and in good demand, and prices have advanced 15c per 100 lbs. The sales on Saturday and Monday comprised 3500 sacks at $1 45 to $1 50 and $1 60 per 100 lbs.

HAY—Is in good supply, but the demand is very limited and only in a small way at $25 to $26 per ton for Ordinary, $26 50 to $27 for Prime and $28 for Choice Ohio River and St. Louis.

BALE ROPE—The business is confined to dealers, who are doing a very small business at 12c per lb.

IRON COTTON TIES—Command 11 to 12c per lb.

INDIA BAGGING—The market is extremely dull. The demand for the country has been pretty much supplied, and only a few and small retail sales are making at 24 to 25c per yard in rolls, and 25 to 26c in bales.

GUNNY BAGS—They are selling slowly at 28½c a piece.

BUTTER—Northern is in good demand at 40 to 46c per lb as is in quality. Western is in fair demand at 20 to 25c for Common, and 30 to 35c for Choice.

CHEESE—Western is in good supply and in fair demand, and is selling at 16 per lb in lots, and retailing at 17c. Northern is in fair demand and is selling in lots at 15c for Skim, 21 to 22c for Cream, and 20 to 23c for English Dairy.

RICE—The stock of Louisiana is small. The demand is good, especially for the better description. It commands 9 to 11c per lb, as in quality. Carolina is scarce, and is held at 12c. India is quoted at 9 to 10c.

COFFEE—The stock in the city is light, and the demand is quite active in a retail way, at 25½ to 27c per lb, currency, for Fair Prime.

NAVAL STORES.—The market is well supplied, but is dull. Spirits Turpentine is selling in small quantities at 62½c per gallon. Rosin is held at $7 for No. 1, $5 to $5 50, No. 2, and $3 50 to $4 for No 3.

STAR CANDLES.—The trade is being supplied with the very best brands at — to 10c for 12 oz, — to 20c for 13 oz, and — to 23c for full weight.

WOOL.—Is in moderate supply and in fair demand. It is held at 12½ to 17c for burry, as in quality, 17 to 25c for that free of burs, and 30 to 35c for washed.

HOPS—There is a very good demand for the new crop at 65 to 70c. Bavarian is scarce at 80c per lb.

HIDES—Have not been much in demand, and prices have been drooping. The butchers are asking 9 to 9½c for Green, and Dry are selling at 12½ to 14c per lb, as in quality and quantity.

ESCULENTS.—Potatoes are selling at $2 75 to $3 00 per bbl; Onions at $2 75 to $3 25; Green Apples at $4 to $7 per bbl; and Cabbages at $15 to $25 per crate.

EGGS.—Sell on the landing at $40 to $44 per bbl.

POULTRY—Chickens sell on the landing at $6 to $9 per dozen, Geese at $10 to $12, and Turkeys at $22 to $24.

MONETARY.

The movement in Coin market has been of a restricted character, and rates have continued comparatively steady. Gold opened on Saturday at 133¾, and after the transaction of a moderate business, closed weak at 133¼ to 133½, and yesterday it closed heavy at 133

Cattle Market.

JEFFERSON CITY,
Wednesday evening, Dec. 25, 1866.

Western Beef, choice per lb net	— to 12¼
Western Beef, 2d quality, per lb net	8 to 10
Texas Cattle Choice per head	$35 to 45
Texas Cattle 2d qual, per head	$20 to 35
Texas Cattle 3d qual, per head	$7 50 to 20
Hogs per lb gross	7 to 9
Sheep in lots per head	$3 25 to $4 25
Creole Sheep, per head	— to —
Texas Sheep, per head	$1 50 to $3 50
Choice Sheep, per head	— to $9
Milch Cows, choice per head	$100 to $150
Milch Cows, per head	$50 to $80
Texas Cows, with Calves	$12 to $25
Yearlings, per head	$ 5 to $12
Calves per head	$7 00 to $12

HORSE AND MULE MARKET.

Saddle and light harness Horses	$250 to $400
Heavy draft Horses	200 to 400
Common do	60 to 125
Mules, 1st quality, broke	250 to 300
Do 2d do do	175 to 220
Do 1st do unbroke	200 to 245
Do 2d do do	150 to 180
Mexican Mules	40 to 80

DOLBEAR COMMERCIAL COLLEGE,

On the corner of Camp and Common sts.,

(In the Spacious and Elegant Story Building,)

Is constantly in session under able Professors. It was founded in 1832, and is chartered by the State. Its former students may be found as Principals or Book-keepers in a large portion of the old houses of this city and over the Southern States. Ladies or gentlemen can attend the COMMERCIAL COURSE; or Book-keeping, Penmanship, Mathematics, English, French or Spanish, separately. A business education, that enables one to earn $1000, $2000, or $3,000 annually, is the best fortune parents can give their sons. A DIPLOMA from this College is a passport in all Commercial communities. Ladies and Gentlemen are invited to call. We have ample arrangements for 1000 students the present year. Liberal arrangements made for Clergymen or their sons and crippled soldiers. Catalogues sent to all who desire them.

RUFUS DOLBEAR,
nov 17 1y President.

HOMŒPATHIC PHARMACY.

RICHARD ANGELL,

156 Julia street, bet. Camp and St Charles

PURE AND FRESH MEDICINES,

Cases, Books, Cerates, &c.

Cbill Drops, the best curative known for Agne, Bilious Fever, &c.; Hardotto's Worm Drops, and other approved Remedies for domestic practice

DR. JOHN G. ANGELL,

(Graduate of the Philadelphia Dental College,)

Has established himself at No 109 Conondolet street, near Poydras, where he will perform all Dental Operations in a skillful and satisfactory manner. Teeth inserted upon Gold or Vulcanite base. Being familiar with all Anæsthetics, he will extract teeth without pain, by the use of such as best suits the case. Particular attention given to the medical and surgical treatment of diseases of the mouth and teeth. oc27 1y

ALEX. P. STEWART, Of Lobanon, Tenn — CHAS. S. STEWART, Of New Orleans, La

STEWART & BROTHER,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors,

General Commission, Receiving and Forwarding Merchants,

NO. 124 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.
o27 1y

J. R. POWELL,

COTTON FACTOR,

AND

COMMISSION MERCHANT,

190 Common Street,

W. R. STUART, Late Stuart & James. NEW ORLEANS

☞ Represented by CAPT. J. A. BINFORD, Duck Hill, Miss. oc20 1y

J. O. ELLIS. — W. O. CHAMBERLIN

ELLIS & CHAMBERLIN,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

42 UNION STREET, NEW ORLEANS,

Are prepared to make cash advances on Cotton, Sugars and other Produce consigned to them, and solicit the patronage of their friends and the public. jun20 1y

SPEED, SUMMERS & CO.,

46 Carondelet street, New Orleans,

COTTON AND TOBACCO FACTORS,

General Commission Merchants,

And COMMERCIAL AGENTS. aug25 1y

J. H. CARTER,

Wholesale Grocer,

Nos. 8 and 10 Tchoupitoulas Street,

And 8 and 10 New Levee,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

A. E. BLACKMAR,

MUSIC PUBLISHER,

Importer of Musical Merchandise, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in the "Knabe," "Nunns," "Guild" and "Raven & Bacon" Pianos, "Prince" Organs and Melodeons, &c

oc27 6m 167 CANAL STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

R. M. DENMAN. — D. M. HOLLINGSWORTH

R. MARSH DENMAN & CO.,

CARRIAGE REPOSITORY,

Corner of Carondelet and Gravier Streets,

f3 1y NEW ORLEANS.

R. K. WALKER. — THOS. M'KNIGHT. — J. P JOHNSON.

R. K. WALKER & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

75 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

an20 1y

PEET, SIMMS, & CO.,

Importers and Wholesale Dealers in

DRY GOODS,

Nos. 23 & 25 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS

E PEET—S WILLIAMSON
P SIMMS—J HOWLISO } aug25 1y

BOOTH & CO., ARCADE HAT STORE, 32 Magazine street, corner of Gravier, New Orleans, the oldest Wholesale Hat House in the city—established in 1839.

HATS, CAPS, STRAW GOODS, UMBRELLAS, &c.

Manufactured expressly for the Mexican and Southern trade.

Shipping Furs and Wool bought. Ian20-1y

W. G. COYLE & CO.,

COAL MERCHANTS,

Office: 142 Gravier street.

Yard: Corner Magazine & Girod.

Pittsburg, Anthracite, and English Cannel Coal delivered at the lowest market rates to families, hotels, cotton presses, foundries, and steamboats. oc27 6m

A. HENDERSON PEALE & CO.

Successors to Thos. Henderson & Peale,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

No. 190 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

aug18 6m

J. W. CARROLL. — JOS. HOY. — CHAS. HARDENBERGH

CARROLL, HOY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No. 36 Perdido Street, New Orleans,

aug18 1y

C. L. WALMSLEY & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 31 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 1y

JOHN G. PARHAM, Of New Orleans. — BEVERLY BLUNT, Of Hinds Co., Miss.

PARHAM & BLUNT,

COTTON FACTORS,

Forwarding and Commission Merchants and Purchasing Agents,

No. 75 Carondelet street, New Orleans

aug11 1y

S. H. KENNEDY & CO.,

General Commission Merchants and

COTTON FACTORS,

57 Poydras street.

Cotton Office—192 Common street—in charge of RICHARD J. NUGENT. aug1f

SAM'L. BARRETT. — CHS. LESASSIER.

BARRETT & LESASSIER,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

118 CARONDELET STREET,

aug18 1y NEW ORLEANS.

JOHN A. STEVENSON. — A. H. MAY

STEVENSON & MAY,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 40 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

P. H. FOLEY,

Of the Firm of FOLEY, AVERY & Co.

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

No. 32 Perdido Street, New Orleans.

aug 18 6m

HARLOW J. PHELPS, Of New Orleans. — S. B. BUCKNER, Of Kentucky.

HARLOW J. PHELPS & CO.,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

No 142 Gravier Street, New Orleans.

aug18 6m

W. C. TOMPKINS. — B. R. ALSOBROOK.

WM. C. TOMPKINS & CO.,

WHOLESALE DRY GOODS,

No. 2 Magazine st., corner Canal, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of goods constantly on hand for the country trade. n18 6m

PAYNE, HUNTINGTON & CO.,

Cotton Factors,

No. 32 Union Street,

NEW ORLEANS.

J. U. PAYNE, — G. W. HUNTINGTON,
W. C. H. DAMERON, — H. M. PAYNE.
je23-1y

TOM HENDERSON, Late of Henderson, Terry & Co. — SAM HENDERSON, Late of Violett, Black & Co.

TOM & SAM HENDERSON,

COTTON FACTORS

AND

General Commission Merchants,

53 CARONDELET STREET,

je9 1y New Orleans

J. C. M'ALLISTER — E. M'NAIR

M'ALLISTER & M'NAIR,

WHOLESALE GROCERS,

No. 74 Common Street,

ap7 1y NEW ORLEANS.

CARY W. BUTT. — WM. FLASH. — THOS. T. A. LYON

BUTT, FLASH & LYON,

Cotton Factors, General Commission and Forwarding Merchants, corner Caroudelet and Union streets, New Orleans.

Orders for all descriptions of merchandise will meet prompt attention.

Liberal advances made on consignments of Cotton and Produce to our care. ap14-6m

J. P. HARRISON & SONS,

COTTON FACTORS,

And General Commission Merchants,

61 UNION STREET,—UP STAIRS,

New Orleans.

J. P. Harrison, (formerly of Payne & Harrison)
Edward Harrison,
J. P. Harrison, jun.,
Sidney Harrison,
John N. Harrison. july7 1y

WATTS, GIVEN & CO., Paducah, Ky. — WATTS, CRANE & CO. New York.
W. C. WATTS & CO., Liverpool, England.

GIVEN, WATTS & CO., COTTON Factors & General Commission Merchants, No. 103 Poydras street, New Orleans. Parties shipping their Cotton to us, can make their election, and have their choice of this, the New York or Liverpool markets. Advances made on consignments to our houses, Watts, Crane & Co New York, and W. C. Watts & Co. Liverpool. feb3-1y

W. A. GELL, — FRED'K N. OGDEN, — H. E. WITHERSPOON

WM. A. BELL & CO.,

General Commission Merchants,

And dealers in Bagging, Rope, Iron Ties, Gunny Bags, Coffee and Western Produce,

41 NATCHEZ STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Particular attention given to the filling of orders for Factors, for Country Merchants and for Planters. je30-1y

J. J. WARREN — T. W. CRAWFORD — F. H. FLEITAS

WARREN, CRAWFORD & CO.,

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

45 CARONDELET STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

sep22 6m

THOS. A. HAMILTON, Memphis, Tenn. — JOHN L. DUNNICA, New Orleans, La.

HAMILTON & DUNNICA,

Cotton and Tobacco Factors, and

GENERAL COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

42 Union street, New Orleans.

sep22 1y

ROBERT L. WALKER,

Cotton Factor and Commission Merchant

100 COMMON STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

STAFFORD & WILSON,

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,

No. 66, Magazine Street,

oc27 1y NEW ORLEANS.

F. G. BARRIERE — G. W. BADGOCK

F. G. BARIERE & CO.,

Importers and Dealers in

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

No. 135 Canal Street, New Orleans.

n10 6m

NORTH, BRUSH & MASON,

Wholesale Dealers in

Fancy Goods,

STATIONERY, PERFUMERY, CUTLERY,

HOSIERY,

Furnishing Goods, etc.,

35 MAGAZINE STREET,

Opposite the St. James Hotel, New Orleans, La

aug25 1y

CHAS. H. CHURCHILL.

GUNS.

HARDWARE.

PETER G. TAYLOR. — TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, (Opposite St. James Hotel,) NEW ORLEANS, LA.

41 MAGAZINE STREET, and 20 BANK PLACE,

DIRECT IMPORTERS,

We have in stock, and are constantly receiving some choice patterns of English and American Table and Pocket Cutlery, to which we invite the attention particularly of country merchants. Also, a large stock of Trace, Ox and Log Chains, English and American Hoes, Anvils, Vices and Bellows; Scales, manufactured by the Chains, Files, Rasps, Etc., Established by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, in 1852.

English and American.

COTTON AND WOOL CARDS, NOVA SCOTIA GRINDSTONES, PLOWS.

Hall & Speer's Peacock Plows, Nos. 1, 2 and 3; Hall & Speer's Cast Valley Plows, Nos. 1 & 2; King Cary (wood mould board) Plows.

GUNS, NAILS, TIN WARE, AXES, HOLLOW WARE, SAWS.

Of all patterns and brands. All the above is offered for sale at the lowest market quotations. Orders from the country are respectfully solicited by TAYLOR & CHURCHILL, 41 Magazine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St. James Hotel. Established in 1852.

zine street, and 20 Bank Place, opposite St. James Hotel. Established in New Orleans without intermission, by the present senior member of the firm, in 1852. aug25 1y

W. H. HENNING & CO.,

Grocers and Commission Merchants,

95 and 97, CAMP STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

Offers to Families, Planters and Traders a full stock of Fancy and Staple Goods, consisting in part of

CHAMPAGNE,

BRANDIES,

WHISKIES,

CLARET,

CORDIALS, Etc.

Also, a large lot of Coffee, Sugar, Molasses, Tobacco, Pork, Beef, Bacon, Salt, suitable for Plantation supplies,—all of which will be offered at the

Most reasonable Rates.

☞ Country orders will receive the most careful and prompt attention.

W H HENNING & CO,
a25 6m 95 & 97 Camp street, New Orleans.

WALLACE & CO.,

Importers and Jobbers of

FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC DRY GOODS,

BOOTS, SHOES, HATS, CAPS, and

PLANTATION CLOTHING,

No. 74 CANAL STREET, AND 91, 93 AND 95 COMMON STREET, (SLOCUMB BUILDING), NEW ORLEANS

☞ Sales guaranteed at New York prices. a18 1y

A. B GRISWOLD. — W. M. GOODNICH

A. B. GRISWOLD & CO.,

Corner of Canal and Royal streets,

[Late HYDE & GOODNICH],

Established in New Orleans Fifty Years!

MANUFACTURERS OF JEWELRY & SILVER WARE;

Importers of Watches, Diamonds, Clocks, Bronzes, Porcelain, Plated Ware, Cutlery, Fancy Goods, Guns and Pistols.

The largest assortment in the South always on hand. aug25 6m

JAMES SYME,

Wholesale Druggist,

139 CANAL STREET, (Toro Building,)

NEW ORLEANS.

Importer and Dealer in Fine

DRUGS, MEDICINES, CHEMICALS,

DRUGGISTS' SUNDRIES,

Fancy Goods an Perfumery.

Surgical Instruments,

French, English, and American, of every variety

Also—

Medicine Chests and Medical Saddle-bags.

aug25 1y

A. D. GRIEFF, Wholesale Grocer,

COMMISSION MERCHANT, AND DEALER IN SOUTHERN AND WESTERN PRODUCE,

48, 56 and 52 Old Levee st., corner Bienville st.,

aug25 6m NEW ORLEANS.

CATE'S SHOE FACTORY,

HAMMOND STATION, ON JACKSON RAILROAD

Established, August, 1861

Destroyed, May, 1863.

Re-established, January, 1866.

SALES ROOMS,

C. E. CATE & CO.,

18 CAMP STREET, 18

Under the City Hotel.

We respectfully call the attention of all parties desirous of encouraging HOME MANUFACTURES to the various styles of

LADIES' SUPERIOR CALF WALKING SHOES AND DRESS BOOTEES, MISSES' HEAVY SCHOOL SHOES, CHILDRENS' STRONG SHOES AND MEN'S AND BOYS' CALF, AND KIP BROGANS,

Which we are now daily receiving from our Factory. These goods are made here, of Louisiana Tanned Leather, and we flatter ourselves fully demonstrate that manufacturing in the South is no longer an experiment, but with the proper encouragement from all who are interested in such enterprises, we promise better stock, more faithful workmanship and superior goods every way, to any Eastern goods, and for the same class of work at as low prices.

We aim to manufacture all the goods we sell, and to that end we are turning out new styles every week.

A trial for this work is cordially solicited from Merchants, Planters, and all persons requiring good Shoes.

C. E. CATE & CO.
feb17 18 Camp st., N. O.

W. C SHEPARD. — A. L. AUSOTT. — ROBT C HUTCHINSON

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,

No. 55 Camp street, New Orleans,

Nearly opposite Picayune Office,

CROCKERY AND GLASS WARE,

PLATED WARE,

House Furnishing Goods,

AND KITCHEN WARE.

We beg leave to inform our friends and the public in general, that we have on hand a large and well selected stock of the above goods, and are constantly receiving them directly from the manufactories in France, England, and the United States; and we flatter ourselves that we can sell our goods as low as any house in the city.—For variety in the house-furnishing line, our stock is unequalled in the South.

Call in and see for yourself before purchasing elsewhere.

SHEPARD, ABBOTT & CO.,
sep22 1y 55 Camp street, New Orleans.

BELLS! BELLS!! BELLS!!!

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY

Established in 1837.

VANDUZEN & TIFT,

Of the late Firm and Successors to G. W. COFFIN & CO.,

102 & 104 East Second street,

Cincinnati, Ohio,

Manufacturers of BELLS for Churches, Academies, Plantations, etc.

Made of Genuine Bell Metal, and mounted with our improved Rotary Yoke.

All Bells warranted to prove satisfactory, or subject to be returned.

Illustrated Catalogue and Price List sent free upon application. je16

E. L. PIERSON & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

CLOTHING,

AND

GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS,

No. 37 Magazine Street,

Corner of Gravier street,

sep22 6m NEW ORLEANS.

J. A. BRASELMAN & CO.,

Wholesale and Retail Dealers in

FOREIGN & DOMESTIC DRY GOODS

Possess great facilities for buying goods cheap which enables them to sell below market prices

☞ Special attention given to orders.

Nos. 586 and 588 Magazine Street,

Corner of St. Andrew Street,

oct6 1y NEW ORLEANS.

BROWN & FINNEGAN,

Successors to D. Genella,

112 Camp Street—Ground Floor,

Dealers in

CROCKERY, CHINA & GLASS WARE,

Tin, Planished & Japanned Ware,

PLATED AND FANCY GOODS.

Families wishing supplies are invited to call and examine goods and prices. oc6 3m

MAGIC PRESS.

J. P. WILSON,

BOOK AND JOB PRINTER,

77 Magazine Street,

oct6 6m NEW ORLEANS.

[Established in 1828.]

EVANS' FASHIONABLE RETAIL

Hat Emporium,

No 62 CAMP STREET,

Next door to the Picayune Office, New Orleans.

A complete assortment of the Latest Styles by every steamer, at Moderate Prices. n18 6m

SOUTHERN SHOE MANUFACTORY.

DRAKE & MARKHAM,

Manufacturers of

Men's, Boys', Ladies', Misses' & Childrens'

BOOTS AND SHOES,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL,

No. 56 Camp Street, New Orleans, La.

We call the attention of the public to our extensive stock of fine custom-made Creole Boots and Shoes, for Gents, Boys, Youths, Ladies, Misses and Children, made of the best imported stock, by skillful workmen.

We design furnishing goods that combine elegance with durability, at no less price than common goods are usually sold for in this city.

OUR LAST-FOR-EVER BOOTS!

Every man in this State should have a pair of our Last-for-ever Boots. They are warranted waterproof, and to last one year, or the money returned.

Our stock of Family and Plantation Shoes are the best that can be made.

One pair will outwear any three pairs bought at auction. Country Merchants will do well to make a note of this.

We have better goods and sell them lower than any house in Louisiana.

Orders filled at ten per cent. on the original cost of manufacture.

All goods warranted to satisfy, or they may be returned. Planters will instruct their Commission Merchants to buy their shoes of

DRAKE & MARKHAM, 56 CAMP-STREET.
aug18 1y.

A GOOD COOKING STOVE

Is one of the most necessary and desirable articles of household economy, and if properly managed, will promote the health, comfort, and happiness of every member of the family.

Time, money, and extreme vexation, by delays of your daily meals, may be saved by using the

CHARTER OAK COOKING STOVE.

Over 10,000 of these celebrated cooking stoves are in daily use throughout the city of New Orleans. Every one of them has been sold under a full guarantee, and we offer them as a reference wherever found.

The Improved Charter Oak Stove with Extension Top

has but one damper, and is so simple in its construction that a child can manage it. The ovens are larger, bake more uniform, and the stove heavier than any cooking stove of corresponding size ever made.

The Hot Water Reservoir Boiler furnishes a constant supply of hot water at all hours of the day, and for hours after the fire has been extinguished, without additional cost for fuel, a practical illustration of the economy in using the Charter Oak.

The Reflector Gridiron, original with the Charter Oak, and used on no other stove—the most perfect manner to broil meats and poultry, whereby the offensive odors arising from meats during the process of broiling are carried up the pipe, and juices of the meats preserved.

The Hot Closet, in which meats and pastry are kept warm for hours when there has been delay at meals, besides enabling the cook to furnish the greatest variety of dishes and desserts, and place them hot upon the table.

The Charter Oak Stove will do one-third more baking in a given time, and use 25 per cent less wood than any other stove now made.

Importers and Dealers in Hardware, Nails, Castings, Guns, Carpenters and Coopers' Edge Tools, etc.

RICE BROS. & CO., Sole Agents,
93 and 95 Camp street, near Poydras, and 565 Magazine street, near Megazine Market.
sep1 1y

A NEW THING UNDER THE SUN

PRICE'S

Patent Texas Tonic,

PURELY VEGETABLE.

It is a certain antidote against Constipation of the Bowels, Torpor of the Liver, Palpitation of the Heart, Determination of Blood to the Brain, Indigestion, Pain in the Head and Vertigo; also a remedy for

CHILLS AND FEVERS.

For particulars, see accompanying Envelope with each bottle.

For sale at 59 Camp street, New Orleans,

THOS. K. PRICE, Vendor.

Read the following opinions of some of our old and well known citizens of

PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC,

Or, Vegetable Medicine.

T. K. PRICE, Esq., Vendor of "Price's Patent Texas Tonic," or Vegetable Medicine:

DEAR SIR—After a fair and deliberate and end experiment of your Vegetable Medicine, known as PRICE'S PATENT TEXAS TONIC, we give it as our decided opinion, that it is the best recipe that we have ever known, for Indigestion, Torpor of the Liver, Constipation of the Bowels and Dyspepsia. We consider your Vegetables Medicine worthy of all commendation, and therefore feel no hesitation in recommending its use to all our friends, as well as the public at large, and that in doing so we are contributing to all the afflicted. Many of us have been suffering from these evils from ten to fifteen years, and have been greatly benefited.

Wishing you great success in introducing this valuable medicine,

We remain yours truly,
J. J. MULLEN, Pastor St. Patrick's Church.
J. H. CALDWELL, of Gas Works, City N. O.
SAM'L. SUMNER, of Home Insurance Co.
T. GREENFIELD, of house of Fellows & Co.
LEWIS ELKIN, Merchant, New Orleans.
GEO. W. HYNSON, Ship Agent.
JACOB BARKER, Bank of Commerce.

New Orleans, June, 1863.

TERMS:

4 oz Bottles	$2 00
6 " "	2 50
8 " "	3 00
12 " "	5 00

Sold to Druggists by the dozen bottles or more at 33⅓ per cent discount off retail price.

All orders will meet with prompt attention.
sep22 1y THOS. K. PRICE.

GEO. H. VINTEN,

PAPER WAREHOUSE,

No. 110 Poydras street, between Camp and St Charles streets, New Orleans.

Newspaper of the following sizes: 22 by 32, 24 by 36, 26 by 38, 27 by 43, 32 by 44, and 36 by 48.

Agent for the sale of R. Hoe & Co's Printing Presses; the "Liberty" Job Presses; Adams Cottage Presses; and Jas. Conners & Sons Type. sp1-1

J. H. JENNINGS. — J. W. WICKS. — M. J. WICKS.

JENNINGS, WICKS & BRO.

Cotton Factors & Commission Merchants,

aly 39 PERDIDO STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

G HORTER, Late of Magee & Knouse, N.O. — T K PETERSON, Late of Goff & Peterson, Philadelphia. — E C FENNER, New York.

HORTER, PETERSON & FENNER,

(Sign of the Black Horse,)

MANUFACTURERS OF SADDLES, HARNESS, AND TRUNKS.

Importers of Saddlery & Coach Hardware

7 MAGAZINE STREET, NEW ORLEANS.

s22 1y

CARPET WAREHOUSE,

17 Chartres Street,

Lately received Carpeting of all kinds and qualities; Floor Oil Cloth of all qualities, which we cut to suit rooms; Curtain Materials, Lace Curtains, Cornices and Bands in great variety, Window Shades, Hair Cloth, Crumb Cloths, Table and Piano Covers, China and Cocoa Mattings of all widths.

oct3 1y A. BROUSSEAU & CO.